Hi,

Thanks for reaching out-- I also have a plug-in vehicle (I love mine!), so I can easily imagine your problem. I'm going to forward your email to our Sustainability office and see if there are any ideas about where the city can play a role. In other areas of the city, we find ways to create more plug-ins for cars, like in the downtown area I know the DDA has paid for more. I agree with you that it's consistent with city goals and city values to encourage this and make it more convenient. It's the right thing to do.

Which complex do you live in, if you don't mind me asking? I think I've heard of someone successfully getting installation of an EV charger at Pittsfield Village. I'm sure every housing association is different, but it seems like the city should have a way to encourage this with incentives.

Happy new year!

I recently purchased an Electric Vehicle and have been researching getting an EV charger installed. I live in. CoOp and knew going in I would have challenged with charging but doing something that I felt was good for the Environment was more important. Ann Arbor and Michigan as a whole has no incentives for people, multi family complex, or Businesses, as far as I can tell, to help with installing chargers. With more places to charge I feel the range anxiety people have may lessen and more people will switch over to Electric. The challenge I am having now is getting the Board to approve chargers for the complex. The cost falls on to them but with help I feel they and others would more easily move forward with installing them. I love Ann Arbor and feel we have made great strides to be more Eco conscious and this would be another great step in that direction. Thanks

Yes Arrowwood would be a challenge because of the ownership structure one cannot make big changes or even do repairs without going through the board. It would be nice if they had used their name for one thing, but I will look into this. How are they charging now I wonder, with a giant extension cord, Arrowwood-style?

I hung out with Jack and Kathy last night at the Whitmer inauguration—Jack suggested that maybe this would be a good candidate for those mini-grants that Missy Stults has available to pass out. I actually forwarded this guy's original email to Missy (with the general question of if her department had an ideas or programs for a situation like his), she hasn't responded to me yet.

I think this would be an excellent test of how available those grants are to the community, generally, as opposed to say, folks who are already city insiders... The guy seems to think Arrowwood would go along with it if the cost was shared.

If the 3 chargers we purchased were 5K each a mini-grant would cover 1 or 2 at Arrowwood, but they would have to be installed in a commons area like near the clubhouse, otherwise I suspect they would not qualify as a public good, nor as a public example of electrification. I think this would have support of Energy Commission tho, electrification is a goal.

Dear Councilmembers Hayner and Griswold,

Congratulations on your appointment to the City's Brownfield Review Committee. The BRC has historically reviewed proposed Brownfield Plans and made recommendations to City Council on brownfield projects. I am the County Brownfield Authority coordinator, and Derek Delacourt and I would like to schedule an orientation session with you on brownfield redevelopment. Below are links to some materials for your review in advance of an orientation meeting, which we would like to try to schedule the end of next week, or the week of January 7th.

Here are available times for an hour orientation session:

Thurs. Dec. 27th in the morning

Fri. Dec. 28th in the morning

Wed. Jan. 9th between 9 and 11 a.m.

Thurs. Jan. 10th between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Fri. Jan. 11th between 9 a.m. and 2:30 (Except at 11 a.m.)

Dear Mr. Lazarus and Ms. Allen,

As I mentioned to Mr. Lazarus a few weeks back, I wish to be notified of any city planning or construction activities, or any private planning and construction activities as soon as they come to the attention of the city, that are happening in Ward 1. Please automatically copy myself and CM Bannister of any public notices sent in full or in part to Ward 1 recipients. This would include notices sent to both residential and commercial property owners.

I suspect others on council would like the same notification, the better to serve our constituents. Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,

Jeff Hayner

RE: Sidewalk installation on Longshore Drive, Ottawa, and Amherst

Dear Jane E. Allen, P.E.,

We are writing to provide input on the proposed sidewalk project in our neighborhood. The residents of Longshore Drive met on 12/10/2018 to discuss the project. We unanimously agree that the sidewalks are unnecessary and are strongly opposed to the proposed project. As a street, we are against the project for many reasons including the cost to property owners, the severe destruction of mature landscaping, the need for continual maintenance and, most importantly, the superfluous nature of the project. Our street, Longshore Drive, is not paved and its primary use is as a pedestrian thoroughfare. If sidewalks are mandated they are extremely unlikely to be utilized by the high volume of pedestrian traffic. We feel, that if anything, the addition of sidewalks into our neighborhood would encourage the traffic to increase in speed thereby decreasing safety.

In sum, we, as a neighborhood are strongly opposed to the proposed sidewalk project because we feel that it is a solution to a problem that does not exist. Please do not hesitate to contact any of us if you have additional questions. We appreciate you reaching out to us prior to reaching a final decision regarding the placement of sidewalks in our neighborhood. Representatives from the neighborhood plan to be in attendance on the 10th.

We always look at DWRF and SRF for water and sewer projects respectively. The last pumping upgrades at the Water Plant and transmission mains were done with DWRF funding. Most of the replacement and upgrades just completed at the Wastewater plant were done with SRF financing. If we have projects that fit the criteria and the financials make sense we apply for the loans.

MDEQ announces a “second call” for projects Over $60 million available in drinking water infrastructure loans

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) is soliciting for more Drinking Water Revolving Fund (DWRF) projects to receive below market rate loan financing in the present fiscal year (FY) 2019. There is substantially more DWRF loan funding available than the currently demonstrated $53 million demand for FY 2019 drinking water infrastructure projects. Fund resources could support over $60 million in additional drinking water project loans for a combined total in excess of $113 million inside FY 2019.

Eligible drinking water infrastructure projects for this “second call” of DWRF loan applicants are those that will address an identified public health threat, such as lead, per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS), or other contaminants.

An Intent-to-Apply form for this “second call” is due no later than January 14, 2019, and the final DWRF project plans are due no later than March 15, 2019. Following receipt and review of the final DWRF project plans, the MDEQ will amend the FY 2019 Intended Use Plan (IUP) and make it available to the public before issuing the final document.

Some principal forgiveness is expected to be allocated to disadvantaged communities, as in the September 2018 IUP, and potentially to projects addressing contamination. The MDEQ’s final determination will be made once additional projects and cost estimates are known. Projects on the September 2018 IUP will not see a decrease in their principal forgiveness amount. Some projects may be offered new/additional principal forgiveness.

The DWRF provides low-interest loan financing for necessary public drinking water facility improvements to enhance water quality and protect public health. The 21st Century Infrastructure Commission reported an $800 million annual gap in funding water-related infrastructure needs. The DWRF is an opportunity to help narrow that gap through interest rates below those otherwise available on the open market and opportunities to receive principal loan forgiveness. Participation in the DWRF loan program also allows communities to pass the savings along to their system

The DWRP was established in 1997 and has since provided below market rate loan financing totaling $980 million for drinking water infrastructure projects. A portion of the DWRP is provided by the United States Environmental Protection Agency through capitalization grants. The MDEQ is working on proposals to improve the DWRP based upon recommendations of the 21st Century Infrastructure Commission, as well as stakeholder feedback, in order to enhance opportunities for communities to access capital funds necessary to improve Michigan's water-related infrastructure.

The MDEQ has developed educational videos to help communities that are interested in obtaining funding from the DWRP prepare a quality final project plan.

Good morning Mayor,
Council Members,

Yesterday night, FAAWN members protested in front of former Councilman Kunselman's residence in Ann Arbor, Ward 3. A sharpshooter was already in the residence. His Ford Pickup truck with Kentucky license plate out front. We peacefully demonstrated against the cull, with several motorists stopping and asking what we were doing. Some never heard of the cull, others who live nearby stated never had received a letter informing about the cull at Kunselman's house.

At some point around 8:30pm, we heard gunshots. Shortly after the shooter emerged from the house, backed up his vehicle into the driveway and loaded something onto the vehicle bed. Then he left with tires screeching. The police and a security person (Mitch) who had come as well, left all at the same time as well. By the way, the security person was not able to ID himself.

I want to express my deep concern about the killing in Ann Arbor parks and neighborhoods. It is disgusting, cowardly, deeply shocking and unnessesary. Taxpayers money is wasted. There are more pressing topics to handle than this in our city, e.g. clean, safe drinking water.

I also want to express my doubts that a sharpshooter is able to kill a deer with one shot. We heard of reports where shooters killed the deer by putting a plastic bag over their heads after failing to place a fatal shot. We also saw blood traces indicating that injured deer had tried to run. This is cruel and just outrageous. How can peaceful citizens tolerate something like this? How can the Council approve it? It is against all values we have as modern human beings.

PLEASE STOP THIS KILLING NOW!

Thank you.

I have tentatively reserved a conference room on the 6th floor at the Fleming Building for both 2:00 and 3:00 PM on January 25th. If either of those times and the location are convenient, we can finalize the meeting schedule after everyone has the opportunity to respond.

However, I too am open for a different meeting location.

Thanks for your response and for your kind words of congratulations.

I could meet on the afternoon of Friday, January 25th, however the 18th will not work. I have reached out to all of the City Council representatives as well as Mayor Taylor to try and set up introductory meetings. I would welcome individual or group meetings, whatever is most convenient as I realize how busy everyone's schedule is.

Thanks for your response and I look forward to our meeting, perhaps on January 25th. Take care.

Greetings First Ward Councilmembers,

The City had an issue with the water main near the new construction site at 503 N Ashley St. During the episode, a large amount of sand washed into the street. Some of the sand near the storm drain at Felch was cleaned up, but our gutters remain sand-filled. The next rain event will flush all the sand into storm sewer system.

Please request that the City take immediate action to resolve this issue.

Hi Anne and Happy New Year!

I'm reaching out about our project, the Garnet, at 325 E. Summit. As you know, we have officially begun moving the plans through review with city staff. We are responding to initial comments this week. The main reason for my email is to see if you would be willing to reach out to other City Council members, Elizabeth Nelson, Jeff Hayner, or Jack Eaton, to talk to them about the project and get their perspectives ...and hopefully support. I'd be happy to meet with you and any one of them, individually or as a group. Please let me know your thoughts.

Thanks very much Anne.

Hi Again Anne,

I thought you might benefit from a bit more background on our project and what I'm hoping meeting with you can help with.

Here is some background.

Members of our project team began reaching out to city officials (mostly planning) back in January. After months individual conversations and emails trying to navigate how to move forward with the city (including a meeting with Derek on March 16) to figure out how to pursue using an adjacent alley to our property at 325 E. Summit, on April 13 we submitted a request for the city to vacate the alley; specifically the portion adjacent to our property. On June 14, more than three months later, we finally heard from planning staff that the city is unwilling to vacate only our half the alley. If we had known that up front, we would have asked for the city to vacate the entire alley (and saved ourselves $3500). Instead, we are left with a "no" and not much else but guessing what our next options might be. The email further states that the city might be able to narrow the alley, but the email is vague and offers no clear process or certainty of conditions under which this can occur.

We are proposing an 11-unit residential building in a downtown that offers many benefits to the city. We must achieve a specific Floor to Area Ratio (FAR) required by the city that we need in order to build the 11-unit building we propose. Building fewer units is not financially viable. The three key issues tripping up our team and causing time, money and frustration are:

1. the alley
2. the conflicting land use buffer (CLUB)
3. the locust tree

Here is a bit more detail on each issue.

1. The Alley

We are proposing a relatively small redevelopment (11 units) in Kerrytown. We don't need the alley to build on; in fact we are willing to commit to maintain it as a pedestrian access (nicer than the city is currently doing) and still allow the city and all other adjacent land owners to access it for ingress/egress. We only need the alley area (and only half of it) 'virtually' it in order to use it to meet the City's FAR requirements for our proposed 11 unit building. There is a public water main under the alley but public works department has noted that they intend to eventually abandon that line. Until such time, nothing we do to the alley would prevent anyone from using it because all we intend to do is resurface it so it's not a trip hazard and make it nicer!

2. The CLUB

We are proposing a multi-residential land use next to existing commercial and multi-residential land uses. Our engineer has been informed by city planning staff that there is a "conflicting land use" between our proposed redevelopment and the adjacent "barn" which is also a multi-unit residential building which requires us to create a relatively large buffer area between the two, which also impedes our ability to meet our FAR.

3. Honey Locust Tree

There is a honey locust tree that is greater than 12 inches in diameter on the property. This species of tree grows fast and is considered relatively short-lived. Also, this species is not threatened or endangered. As a nature lover, I always want to protect trees. Removing the tree to obtain the area needed for our FAR would be another option. We would be willing to plant other trees elsewhere in the city to offset this loss if this option is pursued.

Our team knows that affordability is a great concern for the City of Ann Arbor and we are sensitive to that, but with only 11 units proposed we cannot afford to dedicate a certain percentage of units as affordable and still make the project viable for the investors.

We also know that affordability is not the only thing that is important to the city. Here are some other great things about our project.

It's very close to public transportation (and walkable to downtown, the train station and nearby places of employment (e.g., the hospital). From a practical standpoint, it is downtown, depending on your definition. Nearby transit and walkability also means fewer cars and fewer emissions thus supporting the city's climate action plan. Three A2 transit lines stop within two blocks of the property (lines 21, 22, and 65; stops 173, 1885 and 1950). Notably, all three buses stop at stop 173 (Beakes and Summit).

- We propose a higher density urban design on the property in an area where more compact urban development is desired as stated in the City's Sustainability Framework.
- The project is a brownfields redevelopment: remediation undertaken by the project will allow a downtown property to be more fully and safely used--supporting the city's brownfields goals.
- We will be using a local (and woman-owned) building company for the construction.
- We will have state of the art heating and cooling for the building and hope to have a partial green roof also to minimize the carbon footprint and stormwater runoff.
- Our commitment to maintaining the alley for all current and, importantly, future pedestrian use supports recommendations regarding pedestrian access as outlined in the 2013 North Main Street/Huron River Corridor Vision for the Future Report

We are requesting an meeting to consider the all the issues and options holistically in context so that we can hopefully get a timely, clear and mutually-agreeable path forward that includes pursuing this project.

Thanks again in advance for your thoughtful attention and time to this project.

Sincerely,

Victoria Pebbles

Hi Anne and Jeff, happy new year.

I am trying to get a meeting together about the sidewalks to figure out where we are at, and to see if there is a desire to take further action. Some people are out of town or are still visiting with family. We initially scheduled a meeting time for today at 10 am, but more people could make tomorrow (Sunday) at 1 pm so some of us will meet at that time.

One desire of the meeting is to figure out if there is a way to make the two sidewalks plan work for everyone. The problem is that the current sidewalk plan removes almost all street parking for the 1600 block which is a significant problem for a handful of the residents. Other folks who hated the sidewalks in the easements, and prefer the sidewalks in the street, are less resistant. All are put off by the high assessments.

We will FOIA the City to get the e-mails about the sidewalk gap plan. We will review this information and formulate a plan. We could choose to sue the City, perhaps only for the assessments, or maybe to challenge the no parking plan. Only time will tell if there is sufficient commitment to take such action.

Dear Ms. Higgins,

While the SRTS resolution is not officially on tonight's agenda, it could be if an 8 vote requirement is needed to vacate the road for the sidewalk, as the current plan entails.

Could this question of whether 8 votes are required be added to the Agenda Questions?

While the final vote to apply the assessments is when the 8 vote majority applies for special assessments, an 8 vote supermajority may apply with these early votes since the City Council is essentially voting to vacate street parking.

Is a second vote necessary because Council likely was not aware that they were vacating street parking (they likely were just voting to approve sidewalks) and vacating street parking is a much more significant vote which requires a supermajority? (See also #5 below).

Thanks,
Anne

Dear Council Colleagues,

At tonight's Council meeting, please bring back and reconsider your "yes" vote on Resolution 18-1749, "Resolution 2 - Northside STEAM Safe Routes to School Sidewalk Gap Project -- Sidewalk Special Assessment."

While the impacted homeowners would like to put the $400,000 in grant funding to good use in multiple alternative safety ways, the current plan is deeply flawed and is not ready to move forward.

This sample list of concerns could be applied to Sidewalk Gap projects in established neighborhoods throughout the city (see attached map of Sidewalk Gaps):

SAFETY: The current plan is not effective in addressing the most dangerous pedestrian and bicycle safety issues at Northside STEAM and is not the best use of limited funding.

Crash data and traffic volumes for the school area have not been collected, but common sense indicates that the greatest risks to pedestrians and cyclists are due to dangerous and inconsistent crosswalks in the area, lack of illumination and pedestrian activated signals, low sight lines and signage, lack of traffic calming measures and police enforcement, and pavement hazards for cyclists in the road.

- b. On 12/17/2018 City Council passed Resolution 18-2117 to Address Crosswalk Improvements and Maintenance, which will provide valuable information in the weeks ahead about priority danger areas that need limited funding dollars immediately.
- c. AAPS could improve their instructions to families about how to safely pick-up and drop-off students.
- d. Best practices about pedestrian and bike corridors and safety from peer cities have not been fully explored.

PUBLIC PROCESS and AFFORDABILITY: Council is urged to “put our foot down” and require that the voices of the impacted homeowners be included in these planning processes from the beginning, so that there's time for their valuable ideas to be incorporated.

- a. The grant funders require a public resolution of support and the City is instead using a Council vote from 10/2/2017 on Resolution 17-0377 as proof of this support (see attached Agenda Responses, page 6). This is unfair because the neighbors have strongly opposed the project, including by signing two petitions, one in November and another again today.
- b. Homeowners are being instructed to pay special assessments for the sidewalks, incur the future costs for snow removal, sign grading easements, and potentially pay higher property taxes and homeowners insurance rates. They are also in some cases losing trees that provide shade and help conserve energy costs. They deserve to participate from the beginning of the planning process, and Council should protect their right to do so.
- c. We ask that city staff begin discussions with the grant funders about multiple alternatives plans and amendments to the grant proposal, including a sidewalk in the road on only one side of Traver, and continued parking. The grant funders have expressed interest in seeing SRTS projects be welcomed as a success in the neighborhoods that accept their funding, and have offered that amendment is possible on the issue of sidewalks on only one side of the road.
- d. See the attached infographic showing the complex interconnected points to consider in SRTS projects.

TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION and TRANSPARENCY: At the 12/19/2018 meeting, two commissioners raised questions about the SRTS project, including about snow removal and special assessments, but information was not shared with them about the challenges the project is experiencing (see video at 1:19 and 1:37 hours). Greater transparency is needed, so that the commissioners' advice can be incorporated into Council decision-making.

CLIMATE ACTION and PUBLIC BENEFIT: As Ann Arbor moves forward with our closing sidewalk gaps around the City, we also would like to balance our other master plans, including the Climate Action Plan and The Urban Forest. Numerous articles have been written about the increasing value of mature trees to property values and quality of life.

The City of Ann Arbor's own Urban Forestry Coordinator, Kerry Gray, is quoted in an MLIVE article dated 11/14/2018, as saying, "Tree canopies provide important environmental and ecological functions for the community, including helping with stormwater runoff, improving air quality, reducing energy usage, providing wildlife habitat and ameliorating summer temperatures."

Mistakes the City may have made in the past include the removal of truckloads of mature trees in 2016 along Geddes Avenue, to install a sidewalk and bike path. We ask that feedback be gathered from residents about whether trade-offs like this are worth it in hindsight.

8 VOTE SUPERMAJORITY: Confusion and uncertainty persists about the fairness and transparency of how the City determines the special assessments across various sidewalk projects. We also believe that an 8 vote requirement should be required on this project and site these code sections:

a.

Ann Arbor, MI Code of Ordinances. Chapter 13 Special Assessments. 1:290 - Objections to roll: Any person aggrieved by the special assessment roll or the necessity of the improvement may file objections to the roll in writing with the Clerk prior to the close of the hearing. The written objections shall specify in what respect the person believes him or herself aggrieved. No original assessment roll shall be confirmed except by the affirmative vote of 8 members of the Council if prior to the confirmation written objections to the proposed improvement have been filed by the owners of the property which will be required to bear over 50% of the amount of the special assessment.

City Charter, Section 4.4. G: The affirmative vote of at least six members of the Council, or of such greater number as may be required by this charter, or other provisions of law, Ann Arbor, Michigan City Charter 16 shall be required for the adoption or passage of any resolution or ordinance, or the taking of any official Council action. No office may be created or abolished, nor any street, alley, or public ground vacated, nor private property taken for public use, unless by a concurring vote of at least eight members of the Council. (Explanation: The City is proposing to vacate a portion of the City street, which is used by City residents parking, for other purposes such as a sidewalk. When the City proposes to vacate a portion of the City street, a super-majority would be required.)

Thank you for considering the impact of these issues on residents as Council makes

SUBJECT: Council Agenda Responses

DATE: December 17, 2018

AC - Communications from the City Administrator

Question: I request that Mr. Lazarus elaborate with thoroughness on the Memorandums on PFAS and STEAM SRTS. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The memoranda provide updates to Council on matter of interest. The City Administrator will most certainly respond to questions pertaining to any specific elements, and requests that these questions be submitted in accordance with the Guidelines for Council Communications with Staff.

CA – 3 - Resolution to Accept a Sanitary Sewer Easement at 1939 Jackson Avenue and 312 Glendale Drive from GSB Holdings LLC and Glendale Orchard LLC (8 Votes Required)

CA – 4 - Resolution to Accept a Water Main Easement at 1939 Jackson Avenue and 312 Glendale Drive from GSB Holdings LLC and Glendale Orchard LLC (8 Votes Required)

Question: Is there a simple staff response to the implications those easements will have on adjacent property owners? (Councilmember Ramlawi)

Response: The easements cover existing water main on 1939 Jackson and to-be constructed sanitary sewer on 312 Glendale. Granting of these easements was required by Council resolution R-17-105 (<https://tinyurl.com/y9877fpq>) approving the Hillside Memory Care site plan. The water main easement will also result in a publicly-owned water main loop, which is a beneficial system redundancy. The sanitary sewer main is required to be public as it will connect multiple leads from the development at 312 Glendale. These easements have no impact on storm or flood water and no immediately apparent implications for adjacent property owners or the area.

CA – 7 - Resolution to Accept and Appropriate Additional Federal Grant Funds and Approve Amendments #1-4 of the Sub-Contract with the Regents of the University of Michigan for the Ann Arbor Test Environment Project ($75,010.00) (8 Votes Required)

Question: Regarding CA-7, the cover memo indicates the city's support provided to the project ($154K) is fully-reimbursed by the federal grant. Is that $154K a direct cash contribution or staff time and if a direct cash contribution, is the City also reimbursed for the staff costs incurred? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: This is a full reimbursement for costs incurred.

CA-8 - Resolution to Petition the Washtenaw County Water Resources Commissioner to Create a new Drainage District and Undertake a Project to Design and Construct Stormwater Management Control Measures for the Pepper Pike section of Millers Creek (Total Project Cost: $1,500,000.00)

Question: Regarding CA-8, my recollection is that in some cases involving SRF funding, there is actually some loan forgiveness. Is that possible with this $1.5M project? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Yes. The project may have a principle loan forgiveness of up to $50,000. This number is not finalized, as the application has not been made to the MDEQ. The application is made to the MDEQ after the petition is approved from the City to move forward with the project.

CA-9 - Resolution to Add a Full-Time Equivalent for a Staff Liaison to Support the Independent Community Police Oversight Commission and Human Rights Commission

Question: This person will reside in the office of the City Administrator and report to him. There is concern that there could be a conflict of interest if that person, who supports the efforts of ICPOC, reports to the City Administrator. There may be a problem with transparency. How can this be addressed? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Chapter 8, Section 1:219(2) of the City Code requires, “The city shall also provide the Commission with the services of an administrative liaison consistent with other city boards and commissions.” The request to amend the budget complies with this requirement. Typically, all staff liaisons are provided from within the service unit associated with the board or commission’s purpose. However, in this case the liaison is placed in the City Administrator’s Office to avoid the perceived (although not actual) influence of the Ann Arbor Police Department. Transparency is maintained through the posting of all materials and meetings of the ICPOC in accordance with the Open Meetings Act, City Council adopted police subsequent to OMA, and the availability of information through the Freedom of Information Act.

Question: Q1. Can you please provide a bit more information on the position description including the salary range and qualifications we’re looking for? Also, its noted the position will be in the Administrator’s Office – who will the position report to? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The position title we are using is Management Assistant, which carries with it a salary of range from $48,000 to $62,500. The draft position description, which I have provided to the Human Rights Commission Chair for review and input, is as follows:

This position is responsible for providing administrative and logistical support to the City’s Independent Community Police Oversight Commission and the Human Rights Commission. The liaison will provide interfaces among the commission members, council liaisons, city staff from the City Administrator’s Office, the City Attorney’s Office, Human Resources, Communications, the City Clerk, and the Police Department. The liaison will schedule meetings of and coordinate meeting locations for the two commissions and support their subcommittee activities, attend the meetings - including their regularly scheduled evening meetings (estimated at two per month) - produce action minutes, prepare meeting agendas and packages, and maintain all commission files. The liaison will be responsible for managing any contracts issued in support of the commissions. The individual will ensure compliance with all applicable rules, regulations, laws, and policies and will be able to use the City’s computer systems. The liaison may also perform other duties as required, and will report to the City Administrator or the Administrator’s designee.

Our current plan is to have the liaison report to the Assistant City Administrator.

Question: Q2. As you know, hiring a permanent city employee represents a long-term commitment so can you please expand on the rationale provided in the cover memo for why you’ve concluded a permanent city employee is the better approach than contracted services? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The ICPOC is a permanent commission that Council has established by ordinance, so the requirement to provide support will also be ongoing and long term. A permanent liaison provides continuity of support and retention of institutional knowledge over a contracted position where continual turnover can be anticipated.

Q3. Can you please elaborate a bit on the additional support that will be provided by this liaison to the HRC? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The HRC has similar functionality to the ICPOC, including the requirement to receive and review complaints; investigate and hold hearings; and provide education programs. The additional support will enable better maintenance of records, establishment of an intake point for concerns, improvement in administrative and logistical support, and attendance at meetings and producing minutes.

Question: Q4, Recognizing that at this point we don't know for sure, do you anticipate this new full-time liaison will be fully occupied with the ICPOC and HRC, and if not, what other duties how else might the position be utilized? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: We anticipate that the new full-time liaison will be fully occupied with the ICPOC and the HRC. However, the job description does provide for performance of other duties as required under the direction of the City Administrator or designee.

Question: Please provide an updated list of new employees and job titles added in the last five years. (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: This list will take some time to prepare and to ensure accuracy staff will respond separately.

C – 1 - An Ordinance to Amend Sections 2:63 and 2:64 of Chapter 29 (Change Water, Sewer, and Stormwater Rates) of Title II of the Code of the City of Ann Arbor

Question: Q1. The cover memo states that “In July 1, 2018, a new rate structure was put into place based on a Cost of Service Study to align rates with the cost to serve each customer class. To give customers an opportunity to adjust to the new structure, rate increases were postponed until January 2019.” While the water rate changes in July may not have resulted in a net increase in revenue, sewer rates were increased on July 1st by 13.3% (from $4.58 per 100 cubic feet of water flow to $5.19 per 100 cubic feet of water flow) and stormwater rates were increased by 14.0% (from $595.45 an impervious acre to $678.81 an impervious acre) and unless I'm missing something, both of those increases should be revenue generating. Can you please confirm if that's correct? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The new rate structure involved changes to both the volumetric and fixed charges. The changes resulted in the Water and Sanitary Sewer funds being held revenue neutral. Effective July 1, 2018, the stormwater rates were increased in accordance with the level-of-service rate plan and are not currently being adjusted with this ordinance change.

Question: Q2. Assuming I am correct about the sewer rates being increased effective July 1, 2018, this proposed sewer rate increase effective January 1, 2019 (from $5.19 per 100 cubic feet of water flow to $5.55 per 100 cubic feet of water flow) results in a combined increase this fiscal year of 21.2%. Is that accurate, and if so, how much has the annualized sewer revenue (at constant volume) increased from the rates in effect for FY18 compared with the rates proposed to be in effect as of January 1, 2019? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: No this is not accurate. No revenue increase resulted with the rate structure changes effective July 1, 2018 for water and sewer. The net revenue increase proposed with this change is 6% for water and 7% for sanitary sewer.

Question: Q3. The cover memo also states that “the impact of these increases on the average single-family residential customer’s utility bill is $10.05 per quarter or $40.20 per year, an effective rate increase of 5.15% if consumption remains the same.” I’m assuming those average increase numbers reflect just the water and sewer increases contemplated here, and do not include the impact of the sewer and stormwater increases effective July 1st or the water rate restructuring impact effective July 1st. Can you please provide these average single-family increases (dollars per quarter and per year as well as percentage) for two scenarios (1) this proposal plus the sewer and stormwater increases in July, but excluding the water rate re-structuring in July and (2) this proposal plus the sewer and stormwater increases in July plus the water rate re-structuring impact in July? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Correct, this statement reflects the average increase from the current typical residential bill to the proposed residential bill.

Question: Q4. Assuming these January 1, 2019 increases are adopted, is the plan still to propose increases of 6% for water, 7% for sewer, and 13% for stormwater effective July 1, 2019? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Yes, that is our current rate plan.

Question: Q5. Over the last five years or so, how much have water, sewer, and stormwater rates increased for Ann Arbor customers and how much have the rates increased over the same period for the townships we supply water to? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: More time is requested to pull the appropriate records and to complete the requested calculations. Please keep in mind, the City does not maintain the distribution collection systems for any of the Townships.

C – 2 - An Ordinance to Amend Chapter 55 (Unified Development Code), Rezoning of two adjacent lots totaling 1.6 Acres from R1C (Single-Family Dwelling District) to R2A (Two-Family District) 3786 & 3802 Platt Road Rezoning (CPC Recommendation: Approval - 8 Yeas and 0 Nays)

Question: Regarding C-2, the staff report indicates that there had not been any objections or concerns raised at that point. Have any issues or concerns been raised to city staff since the Planning Commission meeting last month? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: No.

DC – 4 - Resolution Directing the City Administrator to Develop and Present to Council by February 28, 2019 a List of Feasible Alternatives to Revise the Recently-Adopted Water Rate Re-structuring Ordinance to Mitigate the Adverse Impacts of the Ordinance on Single-Family Residential Customers

Question: Please add me as a co-sponsor. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Added.

Question: Please fix typo on the bottom of page 2 to be November 2017 (not 2018). (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The typo was in item DC-3; it has been corrected.

DS – 1 - Resolution No. 2 - Northside STEAM Safe Routes to School Sidewalk Gap Project - Sidewalk Special Assessment

Question: Q1. Is it accurate that MDOT-TAP has a new grant requirement for a Public Resolution of Support? How could a Resolution of Support be included in our current SRTS proposal? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The Safe Routes to School Grant Program has always had such a requirement; however, it was recently expanded to include all TAP grant programs. A Resolution of Support was already included in the process for the current project. City Council voted unanimously to approve such a resolution at the City Council meeting on October 2, 2017 (R-17-377).

Question: Q2. What are some feasible, innovative solutions that our peer cities are considering for their urban bikeway and pedestrian corridors? What are some 2019 forward-thinking alternatives to old-fashioned concrete sidewalks? Residents are looking for more than one option, beyond sidewalks, to consider. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: While some communities have looked at pedestrian walkways within existing streets, this is generally considered a poor substitution to a traditional separated sidewalk behind the curb. Traditional sidewalks are the safest alternative for pedestrian mobility.

Question: Q3. What are alternatives to sidewalks on Traver Road, notably traffic calming and traffic controls, as well as marked pedestrian walkways on the existing road? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: See the response to question #2 above. If residents on Traver Road are interested in participating in the Traffic Calming Program, they can learn more about how to do so at the City's Traffic Calming Program website here. While Traver did not qualify for the Traffic Calming Program previously, modifications were recently made to the program that may make it easier for a street to qualify, and a new petition can be submitted at any time. Any traffic calming measures installed on the street would be supplemental to the placement of the sidewalk, not in lieu of.

Question: Q4. Concerns have been raised about visibility / low sight lines at the intersections at Traver and John A Woods, and the crosswalk by the Barton Drive entrance. For example, is there a concern with the constant illumination that lighting will impact resident bedrooms in the evening? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff designed further safety improvements to the intersection of John A Woods and Traver utilizing bump-outs, geometric changes that allow for a more perpendicular intersection, and relocation of the crosswalk for better sight distance. Staff believes that these changes will adequately address safety concerns at this intersection. The mid-block crossing of Barton Drive at the school entrance is outside the limits of the current project, however it can be evaluated and discussed further with Ann Arbor Public Schools. It should also be noted that the crossing at the school entrance from Barton is controlled during peak periods by a crossing guard.

Question: How are lighting improvements at crosswalks handled and what is the process, such as adding either the flashing lights that are triggered when you hit a button or constant lights illuminating the entire path? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Uncontrolled crosswalks around elementary schools have been evaluated by the City's Street Light Asset Management (SLAM) team. The SLAM team has ranked all of the streetlight gaps adjacent to these school facilities and developed design solutions for locations requiring improvement. The locations have been added to the City's prioritized list for improvements. The pedestrian activated warning lights referenced above, known as RRFBs, are typically installed at mid-block crossing locations on major streets. This type of treatment would not be appropriate for locations within the limits of this project.

Question: What would be the process to gather resident feedback on lighting improvements? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The City receives lighting requests from a variety of communication sources. The most common, and most efficient, way for residents to make a lighting request is to submit the request through the City's A2 Fix It application. Requests are evaluated according to City procedures and prioritized for implementation.

Question: For example, is there a concern with the constant illumination that lighting will impact resident bedrooms in the evening? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The City chooses to install fixtures that have a lighting distribution designed to illuminate only the roadway, crosswalk, and immediately adjacent sidewalk. These fixtures are selected to minimize lighting pollution to adjacent areas. When fixtures are owned by DTE, the City makes these preferences known.

Question: Q5. What progress and plans have been made for the following traffic safety designs, which are urgently needed?

--A Three-way Stop at the Intersection of Traver Road and John Woods Drive: An engineering study of this location has been performed to determine if the location meets the thresholds established in the Michigan Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices for the installation of multi-way STOP control. It was determined that none of the criteria are met, and therefore a STOP sign cannot be placed at this location. See also the answer to question #4 above.

--A Speed Bump in the center of the 1600 block of Traver Speed humps are considered as part of the City's Traffic Calming Program: See response to #3 above.

--Communications to the School urging them to stop using the neighborhood as a parking lot, including encouraging drivers to park on Traver Road, and provide designated parking areas for parents: Northside STEAM, like most AAPS elementary and K-8 schools, was designed as a neighborhood school. Hallmarks of neighborhood schools include close integration into the surrounding residential land uses and limited facilities for driving onto the school property. The school's SRTS committee communicates to the school community regarding the availability of remote parking/drop-off locations in the Northside Baptist Church parking lot and the Bethel AME parking lot. While the school's SRTS committee has provided information regarding legal, on-street public parking surrounding the school, these locations are not being actively advertised as remote locations.

Question: Q6. With regard to protection of retaining walls during installation of a sidewalk, what assurances can the City provide that the retaining walls won't be damaged by the contractor and result in the hillside behind the wall collapsing into the road along, along with the trees, with also damage the property beyond the right-of-way? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Retaining walls and other items constructed in the public right-of-way are subject to removal by the City if there is a need to do so. That said, provisions will be included in the contract for the contractor to protect the retaining walls. The City does not dictate means and methods to the contractor, either in terms how they remove the curb or in how they protect the retaining walls. However, methods that are typically used for this kind of work do not create vibrations that would be likely to damage the walls. The City intends to make sure that the retaining walls are protected during construction, and does not plan on removing them at this time.

Question: Q7. How does SRTS correlate and integrate with the specific elements of our master plans and resource documents? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Safe Routes to School infrastructure and encouragement activities fully align and integrate with the City's Master Plan and design procedures. The City's non-motorized plan, last updated in 2013, was accepted by City Council into the City's master plan. The non-motorized plan identifies 5 key factors for pedestrian quality (p.19), ranked in order of statistical significance. Number one is presence of a sidewalk. Number two is the amount of lateral separation between pedestrians and motor vehicles. The non-motorized plan has a limited number of specific improvements called out for local streets; however, the plan does specifically identify Traver Road as an important alternative to Plymouth Road and calls for sidewalks on both sides of the street.

Question: Q8. How does SRTS integrate with tools and benefits described on our Urban Forest webpage, including "Cool" National Tree Benefit Calculator, iTree Eco Analysis, and lower energy costs and higher property values? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: With the recent changes to the project plans, minimal tree removal will occur, therefore having minimal impact on, and minimal integration with, the referenced items. Engineering staff has coordinated with the City's forestry planner throughout the project.

Question: Q9. What is the feasible range of property tax implications for the specific SRTS impacted properties? We've identified the Special Assessments and estimated snow removal costs, and would like data on the property tax implications of removing mature trees and adding sidewalks. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The Assessor's view, based on discussions with staff, is that public infrastructure improvements like sidewalks (and curbs and gutters, paved roads, etc.) generally enhance accessibility to a property receiving them and therefore enhance desirability and marketability, and therefore value, of the property. As an example, when properties within a neighborhood receive public improvements, generally we see an increase in property sales prices in the neighborhood that exceeds those in neighborhoods not receiving improvements. Our discussion with the assessor on this subject is continuing as this process moves along.

Question: Q10. What other streets and roads in established neighborhoods throughout the City are without bikeways and pedestrian corridors? Could we have a map and a tree schedule for these properties, and an estimate of their Special Assessments and Ward? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: A map showing locations City-wide that lack sidewalks is attached. City staff has not done detailed analysis on most of these locations, therefore tree schedules and estimates of their special assessments for any future sidewalk gap projects are not available.

Question: Q11. Why is the short block of Brookside Drive in the SRTS project when there are no sidewalks on the west side, it is not close to the school, and Northside Ave., one street south, is closer to the school and has no sidewalks? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The short block of Brookside Drive is a short gap that the SRTS committee felt would be easy to accomplish as part of this project. The SRTS committee's prioritization was based on student population and observed walking patterns.

Question: Q12. Where has the need for sidewalks on the 1600 block of Traver been established, in light of the data showing there are shorter and safer ways for children to walk to school? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The 1600 block of Traver Road contains frontage of the Northside STEAM School property. The school's SRTS team determined that it was very important to them to fill the sidewalk gaps directly adjacent to the school property. The importance of this portion of the project was identified in the team's ranking it as the number one desired location for sidewalk installation for this project.

Question: If need is determined, what are simpler and less costly alternatives to sidewalks? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: See response to question #2 above.

Question: Q. 13. Conflicting information has been found related to two sidewalks versus one, between the National SRTS standards and the Michigan Fitness Foundation. Will further research be done to confirm this discrepancy, before a decision is made to proceed with Resolution 2 for our project in Ann Arbor? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff has not received any conflicting information from the Michigan Fitness Foundation, the City's SRTS Grant Coordinator. The SRTS grant funding for Michigan follows a complete streets policy. Sidewalks on both sides of the road are a requirement for urban residential streets, which is the classification of the streets within the limits of this project. There are some industrial or agricultural zoned areas in past SRTS applications that proposed sidewalks on just one side, however that is not applicable to this project.

Question: Q.14. What is the feasible range of cost allocation and sharing between City funds and property owners for the Special Assessments? This question needs to be addressed before approval of Resolution 2. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The $16/foot figure cited was from a single project. Staff re-examined the numbers from this project and found that a calculation error was made. The actual figure should have been approximately $31/foot, which is similar to most other recent sidewalk gap projects. Reducing the assessment for the current project to $16/foot is not feasible.

Question: SRTS sidewalks provide benefits for children from across the city, which raises the question of whether placing the burden on the property owners is fair and equitable. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: With respect to the burden on the private property owners, only $97,000 of the total estimated project cost of $1,073,000 is proposed to be borne by these property owners. That's just over 9% of the total. The other nearly 90% of the total cost is being borne by the public through a combination of a grant and millage funds.

Question: How can we get to the $16/foot range? What are our options? What is the maximum amount of time that payments on a Special Assessment can be extended? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The special assessment ordinance provides that “[u]pon confirmation of any special assessment roll, the Council shall determine the number of installments in which the assessments may be paid and shall determine the rate of interest to be charged on installments ...” Therefore, as a general matter, it's Council's decision on whether to extend the time for payment and what interest to charge for doing so. Installments are due annually on the first day of July. Although the ordinance sets no maximum number of installments, if Council elects to allow installments, it would be prudent to require payment in full over a period shorter than the life of the sidewalk. Where Council opts not to specify the number of installments, Chapter 12, Section 1:275(2) provides a default number of installments. For example, for an assessment of up to $6,000.00, that section provides for 6 installments.

Question: Q.15. How are the project costs and Special Assessments impacted by the most recent design changes? Do these plans call for the same or different amount of concrete, and how does this impact the Special Assessments? If there is a reduction in removal of trees, what does this reduce the projected costs? The sidewalks appear to largely be in what is currently the road, which may already have a significant base to it. Does the presence of this base reduce the Special Assessment (which includes base + concrete)? Does this new location of the sidewalks impact the overall excavation costs, with less dirt to move, less curb and asphalt removal, any storm drain work, etc? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The most recent design changes had almost no appreciable impacts to the Special Assessment costs, which are still estimated to be approximately $43/ft. The total estimated project cost went from $1,012,560 to $1,010,330. While the need for much of the tree removals, new tree plantings, retaining walls, and embankment was eliminated, this was offset by the increased curb and gutter replacements, pavement removal, and increased sidewalk width throughout much of Traver. None of those items were being assessed to property owners in the first place, so the changes had no effect on the special assessment amounts. The new location of the sidewalks still requires excavation, removal of existing curbs and asphalt, and the relocation of storm inlet structures to the new curb line. While the new design (on Traver specifically) will have a larger amount of concrete, this will be placed mostly in the location that was previously the paved roadway. Therefore, there will not be a significant net increase in impervious surface.

Question: Q16. What precautionary plans are needed for the mid-block crossing at the intersection of Traver and John A. Woods, at the steep hill that crests at this intersection? Cars speeding down the hill from the northeast (Barton Drive) do not have good sight lines for pedestrians, and children cross mid-block a couple houses southwest of that intersection because the intersection is unsafe. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff designed further safety improvements to the intersection of John A Woods and Traver utilizing bump-outs, geometric changes that allow for a more perpendicular intersection, and relocation of the crosswalk for better sight distance. Staff believes that these changes will adequately address safety concerns at this intersection.

Question: Q17. Also, there's vacant land 168 feet wide at the southeast side that has been split into four lots, with a center drive being created for all four new houses. How has the builder been engaged in the new sidewalk process? The builder has expressed interest in helping design a safer intersection, including possible impacts on his property. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: This property owner has been sent all the same communications as the other residents in the project limits, however staff has not yet heard from the owner of this property. Staff will reach out to this owner specifically to discuss their proposed development, and coordinate their work with that of the project.

Question: Q18. Why is there one sidewalk on Easy Street, leading up to Allen Elementary School? How did they get to have only one sidewalk? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The sidewalk was constructed along Easy St. when the street was reconstructed in 2005/06. It was at the direction of City Council that the sidewalk was constructed only on one side of the street, and that the project was funded locally with no state or federal monies and the accompanying requirements.

Question: Regarding DS-1, the Administrator's memo (AC-2) indicates that a letter describing the most recent design changes was sent to impacted property owners on December 11th. Have we heard back from neighbors, and if so, what was the reaction?

(Councilmember Lumm)

Response: In general, residents from whom staff has heard back that have commented on the revised design seem to indicate that they feel the revisions made to the plans represent an improvement.

Question: Also on DS-1, the discussion at the December 3rd meeting about being penalized with the loss of future federal grants wasn't clear as to the likelihood of that happening. Have we learned anything since that would clarify that issue?
(Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The most recent response from the Michigan Fitness Foundation (MFF) indicated that the ability to obtain future grants may be impacted by the failure to advance the current grant. Staff has received no further clarification on this point, although MFF staff did indicate that such a situation appears to not have a precedent.

Thanks very much, Joanna and Jennifer.

Appreciate that someone notified the City, and crews cleared the blockage in a timely way. Our notices usually state that the sewage ultimately flows to the Huron River. Since Malletts is a tributary of the Huron, wouldn't this sewage ultimately also flow to and contaminate the River? Or, b/c the sewage may be diluted in the Creek, is that, technically, the last point of the overflow?

Thank for any clarification and for this notice. Of course, very sorry to see another overflow caused by a blockage.

Jane

Sanitary Sewer Overflow Notification

ANN ARBOR, Michigan, Jan. 7, 2019 — At approximately 4:40 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 5, 2019, the City of Ann Arbor was notified of a manhole in Buhr Park with water leaking from it. Upon further investigation, city public works crews identified this as a sanitary sewer overflow. City public works crews immediately mobilized to unblock the sewer and clear debris from the sanitary sewer pipe. The blockage was due to tree roots.

An estimated 675 gallons of sewage discharged into a grassy area in Buhr Park, then draining into a stormwater system inlet, ultimately flowing to Malletts Creek. The affected area in Buhr Park has been cordoned off, with signs posted. In addition, lime has been applied to the affected area to neutralize any bacteria.

In accordance with regulatory protocols, City of Ann Arbor staff has notified the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

MDEQ announces a “second call” for projects Over $60 million available in drinking water infrastructure loans

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) is soliciting for more Drinking Water Revolving Fund (DWRf) projects to receive below market rate loan financing in the present fiscal year (FY) 2019. There is substantially more DWRf loan funding available than the currently demonstrated $53 million demand for FY 2019 drinking water infrastructure projects. Fund resources could support over $60 million in additional drinking water project loans for a combined total in excess of $113 million inside FY 2019.

Eligible drinking water infrastructure projects for this “second call” of DWRf loan applicants are those that will address an identified public health threat, such as lead, per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS), or other contaminants.

An Intent-to-Apply form for this “second call” is due no later than January 14, 2019, and the final DWRf project plans are due no later than March 15, 2019. Following receipt and review of the final DWRf project plans, the MDEQ will amend the FY 2019 Intended Use Plan (IUP) and make it available to the public before issuing the final document.

Some principal forgiveness is expected to be allocated to disadvantaged communities, as in the September 2018 IUP, and potentially to projects addressing contamination. The MDEQ’s final determination will be made once additional projects and cost estimates are known. Projects on the September 2018 IUP will not see a decrease in their principal forgiveness amount. Some projects may be offered new/additional principal forgiveness.

The DWRf provides low-interest loan financing for necessary public drinking water facility improvements to enhance water quality and protect public health. The 21st Century Infrastructure Commission reported an $800 million annual gap in funding water-related infrastructure needs.

The DWRf is an opportunity to help narrow that gap through interest rates below those otherwise available on the open market and opportunities to receive principal loan forgiveness. Participation in the DWRf loan program also allows communities to pass the savings along to their system customer base.

The DWRf was established in 1997 and has since provided below market rate loan financing totaling $980 million for drinking water infrastructure projects. A portion of the DWRf is provided by the United States Environmental Protection Agency through capitalization grants. The MDEQ is working on proposals to improve the DWRf based upon recommendations of the 21st Century Infrastructure Commission, as well as stakeholder feedback, in order to enhance opportunities for communities to access capital funds necessary to improve Michigan’s water-related infrastructure. The MDEQ has developed educational videos to help communities that are interested in obtaining funding from the DWRf prepare a quality final project plan.

AC – 6 - Communications from the City Administrator – Changing Driver Behavior Report 2018

Question: The report is dated August 31, 2018. Why the delay in receiving the report? (Councilmember Griswold)

Response: While the report is dated August 31, 2018, minor corrections were made to the report by the authors up until November. The report was presented to the Transportation Commission on November 14, 2018. At the December 17, 2018 City Council meeting, the City Administrator mentioned that the Study was complete.

Question: The enforcement efforts were limited to daytime hours, non-winter months and "suitable" roadways. This does not reflect all of the conditions our pedestrians face when crossing the roadway. What are the next steps for a comprehensive measure of pedestrian safety in Ann Arbor? (Councilmember Griswold)

Response: Staff recognizes there are improvements to be made to enhance pedestrian safety in Ann Arbor and this work is ongoing. Per Council's direction, staff will report on significant pedestrian safety improvements by January 31, 2019.

Question: Section 2.3.2 on page 7, describes what triggers a pedestrian establishing right of way in a crosswalk. This description is consistent with the Gainesville study but is not consistent with our crosswalk ordinance. The media reported that drivers were ticketed who failed to stop for the pedestrian decoy who was two or more feet away from the curb and who was not facing the crosswalk. Can you explain this discrepancy? (Councilmember Griswold)

Response: To clarify, section 2.3.2. of the study describes the methodology by which the researchers scored driver behavior. Staff was unable to find the media report 'that drivers were ticketed who failed to stop for the pedestrian decoy who was two or more feet away from the curb and who was not facing the crosswalk.'

Question: Can you provide the Ann Arbor pedestrian-vehicle crash data for 2008-2016 and give us an estimate of when the crash data will be released for 2017 and for 2018? (Councilmember Griswold)

Response: Data for crashes involving pedestrians from 2008 to 2017 is attached. State validated data for 2018 is expected to be available in the summer of 2019.

CA – 1 - Resolution to Approve an Interagency Agreement for Collaborative Technology and Services Schedule 29 with Washtenaw County and Appropriate $248,000.00 from the Information Technology Fund Balance ($538,633.05) (8 Votes Required)

Question: Q1. The cover memo mentions that Sch. 27 was never fully executed by Washtenaw County and that there was a settlement agreement where the County received $567K. Can you please elaborate on what happened with schedule 27, and why – given that the city pays half of these costs - the City received only $248K from the settlement rather than half of the $567K? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The backup and recovery system is utilized by both the City and County, and the original purchase was split 50/50. The County purchased the original backup and recovery system from Dell, and the City executed an Interagency Agreement with the County and was invoiced by the County for our portion of the purchase. The backup and recovery system did not perform or meet our needs and as a result Dell provided a settlement agreement in the amount of $567,000 that was split evenly by the City and the County. Some of the $567K was credited by Dell towards our original purchase, and the remaining $496K was evenly split by the City and County ($248K each). Per Schedule 27, the County was supposed to take the settlement agreement funds, pay Dell directly, and invoice the City for our portion. The County instead, and contrary to Schedule 27, decided to refund the City $248K. The County Finance department, for accounting purposes, needed to keep each lease separate and decided to refund us the money. As a result, the $248K was placed in the IT Fund Balance until the new resolution and Schedule 29 could rectify the changes. In the end the $567K settlement agreement was evenly split by the City and the County.

Question: Q2. What is this IT fund balance before and after this purchase and what other major IT-related purchases are on the near-term horizon? Also, what is the implicit interest rate in the 3 year lease/payment agreement? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: As of June 30, 2018, the audited IT Fund balance totaled $4,307,537. This amount is comprised of: $588,403 invested in capital assets, $2,289,567 reserved for asset replacements, and $1,429,565 in unassigned reserves (approx.. 20%). After the referenced $248,000 is utilized the unassigned reserves would be reduced to $1,181,565 (approx. 17% of operating expenditures).

There are no major non-budgeted IT purchases planned at this time.

The interest rate for the lease is 2%.

Question: Q3. The backup and recovery system being replaced is just 4-5 years old. Is it typical to replace major enterprise backup systems like this in that relatively short time frame? Also, what makes this new system the “far superior product”? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: It is typical to plan for the replacement of our backup and recovery systems every 4 to 5 years. Evolving technologies and the vendor you purchase the system from have a major impact on how long you are able to effectively utilize a system. The City constantly evaluates the health, supportability, and viability of its systems and replace them as needed. In the case of this backup and recovery system, the City may need to add some additional storage or do some minor upgrades (lower cost items) but anticipates the major components of the system will be viable for at least 5 – 8 years.

The original storage and recovery system the City purchased was a Dell brand. Since that time Dell purchase a company called EMC which was one of the premier backup and storage solutions in the industry and the one the City currently utilizes. This new system allows the City to reduce the number of applications required to manage its backup and recovery environment, is expandable to meet future needs, has a large client base, fixed some technical issues the City was having, and provides the City a much more stable environment. In addition, IT staff spend less time administering the backup and recovery environment.

B-1 - An Ordinance to Amend Sections 2:63 and 2:64 of Chapter 29 (Change Water, Sewer, and Stormwater Rates) of Title II of the Code of the City of Ann Arbor (Ordinance No. ORD-18-33)

Question: What action would it take to restore to previous water rates while the study is undertaken to minimize the impact of these needed rate increases? (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: To undo the restructuring that was done with the prior amendments to Section 2:63 would require a new ordinance to be introduced to amend Section 2:63 to remove the prior amendments.

Question: Q1. At first reading I asked how much water, sewer, and stormwater rates had increased for Ann Arbor customers over the last five years and how much the rates increased over the same period for the townships we supply water to. The response was that ‘more time is requested to pull the appropriate records and to complete the requested calculations.’ Now that you’ve had the additional time, can you please provide the data? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response:

	FY15	FY19
Townships			Change	% Change
Water	$ 3.77	$ 4.66	0.91	24%
Sewer	$ 4.19	$ 5.29	1.32	32%
The City does not maintain the Township distribution or infrastructure collection systems or provide Customer Service or billing functions
City Residential - without customer charge
Water	$ 42.36	$ 41.40	-0.96	-2%
Sewer	$ 69.30	$ 93.42	24.12	26%
City Residential - with customer charge
Water	$ 53.61	$ 62.29	$ 8.68	16%
Sewer	$ 80.55	$ 106.51	$ 25.96	32%
City Residential based on 18ccf

Question: Q2. Another question I asked at first reading December 17th that was not answered related to the average increase for a single-family residential customer for not just this proposed increase (which is covered in the memo), but also including the July 1, 2018 rate actions. Please provide a comparison of the average single-family residential customer bill (18 units per quarter, 2nd tier for stormwater, and 10% discount) for rates in effect June 2018 vs. the rates in effect assuming B-1 is passed? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The bill calculation is as follows (Residential customer, 18 units per quarter, 2nd tier for stormwater, and 10% discount)

June 2018: $175.85

January 2019 (assuming B-1 is passed): $205.19

From June 2018 to proposed January 2019:
Dollar change: $29.34
Percentage change: 16.68%

Question: Q3. A third follow-up question from first reading relates to sewer revenues before and after the July 1, 2018 rate actions. The response to my question December 17th was that sewer revenue was not increased by the July 1 rate actions. That is hard to understand since the sewer commodity/volumetric charge was increased by 13.3% (from $4.58 per 100 cubic feet of water flow to $5.19 per 100 cubic feet of water flow) on July 1st. I do recognize that the sewer customer/fixed charge for larger meters was reduced, but for small meters the charge was increased and I would think the increased revenue from the sewer commodity increases would be a much larger revenue impact than from the fixed charge changes. Can you please provide the data on sewer revenues before and after the July 1 rate actions that demonstrates the changes were in fact revenue neutral? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Typically, bills are generated quarterly and are on a rotating district basis; therefore, we have not yet collected a sufficient data set to respond to this question in detail. Revenue assumptions were based on an annual basis and as indicated on page 29 of the Stantec Cost of Service Study, “the recommended rate structure presented in the following section of this report does not include the identified rate revenue adjustment for mid-year FY 2019. The recommended rates presented herein are “revenue neutral”, and only reflect the distribution of revenue necessary to bring revenue by rate class into alignment with the cost to serve each class.”

Question: Q4. Yesterday, I sent a follow-up email regarding the State’s “Second call for drinking water infrastructure projects”. I recognize the city typically applies for state funding on our water-related projects, but it is not often the state signals there is additional funding availability and we shouldn’t miss an opportunity like this, so I’d appreciate an answer to the specific question of whether the city will be making an application for this specific funding opportunity? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The City intends to make application for the Water Treatment Plant Interim UV Disinfection Project.

Question: Q5. CM Ramlawi/I discussed the possibility of “dividing the question” and separating the water and sewer increases into separate votes. I’m assuming that would be as simple as voting for the sections separately (2:63 for water and 2:64 for sewer), but please advise if anything else would be necessary beyond that? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Because the ordinance was approved at first reading to go forward as drafted, it can only be divided by amendment to the ordinance at the Council meeting.

A councilmember could move to amend the ordinance to split it into two ordinances—one amending just Sec. 2:63 (water rates) and one amending just 2:64 (sewer rates). Although unusual, it appears to be a valid as a matter of parliamentary procedure.

If the ordinance is split in two (one for water and one for sewer), unless both pass, the change from amending both water and sewer rates to amending just one of them would be a significant change that would take whichever ordinance passes back to first reading.

An alternative would be to move to amend to remove the amendments to one of the two sections—Sec. 2:63 (water rates) or Sec. 2:64 (sewer rates). If that procedure is followed, the Council would need to be aware that the section (water or sewer) removed by the amendment would be removed from further consideration or vote at the meeting. Staff, however, could bring the amendments in the removed section back—with or without revisions—as a new ordinance.

If the ordinance is split in two (one for water and one for sewer), unless both pass, the change from amending both water and sewer rates to amending just one of them would be a significant change that would take whichever ordinance passes back to first reading. If the ordinance is amended to remove one of the two sections proposed for amendment, the amendment would result in the same significant change that would take the amended ordinance back to first reading.

Question: Q6. The Administrator’s memo (AC-7) provided information regarding the debt coverage ratio for the water and sewer bonds and resulting impact on bond ratings. A couple of questions on that: Can you please provide data on these coverage ratios (water, sewer and stormwater) for the last ten years? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response:

Debt Coverage Ratio History	2018	2017	2016	2015	2014	2013	2012	2011	2010	2009
Sewer	1.7	2.1	2.1	2.3	3.4	2.4	2.5	2.7	2.3	3.6

Question: Regarding water, the memo states that (without this 6% increase) the coverage ratio would drop to 1.27 in the later years of the financial plan”. What does “later years” mean - - when specifically? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: FY2029, assuming 6% rate increase each year (not including this proposed rate increase of 6%, Jan 2019)

Question: Regarding sewer, the memo states that (without the 7% increase) the “coverage ratio is projected to be 1:21, which is below the floor set by the bond prospectus”. Is that 1.21 ratio projection for 2019 or for a later year? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: That is the projection for FY2019

Question: The memo suggests that at the coverage ratios for both funds (without the planned increases) the bond rating would be lowered or be in jeopardy of being lowered. Have the rating agencies indicated this or is this staff's judgment? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: A specific conversation with the rating agencies has not been held on this topic, and they typically do not speculate on ratings. The rating and rating outlook can be affected by whether specific financial requirements (e.g. debt-coverage ratios, liquidity, etc.) are met along with more subjective criteria. Rating agencies look beyond the current financial results to evaluate the direction of the financial health of the utility.

C – 1 - An Ordinance to Amend Sections 7:605 and 7:607 of Chapter 96 (Medical Marijuana Facilities) of Title VII of the Code of the City of Ann Arbor

Question: Regarding C-1, one of the changes to the ordinance proposed here is to eliminate the requirement to show proof of insurance. While I understand that applicants still need to demonstrate that security measures are in place, it's not clear to me why we'd eliminate the proof of insurance requirements. Can you please elaborate on the rationale for the change as well as what we were trying to accomplish with the proof of insurance requirement in the first place and why that's no longer necessary or appropriate? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Proof of insurance is generally required for vendors or applicants who are doing business with the City, not typically for private businesses applying for permits that the City is not otherwise a party to the private business activity. For example, proof of insurance is required for a banner permit due to the applicant's use of the City's right-of-way. Proof of insurance is not required for permits that the City is not involved in the business otherwise, such as liquor licenses. This amendment will simplify that process for medical marijuana permitted businesses. To obtain a City permit requires proof that a state license has been issued to the permit applicant. Under state law, the applicant must meet the requirements for insurance under state law. Thus, the City's requirements are redundant.

Question: Also on C-1, how many of the applicants receiving temporary permits have returned with the state documentation to this point and what is the deadline before the temporary permit expires? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Five applicants have returned with their proof of State license and are ready for a final City permit. The temporary City permits are good for one year and the final permit will expire concurrent with the State license.

DB-1 – Resolution to Approve the 715 Heather Way Annexation, 0.52 Acres, (CPC Recommendation: Approval - 8 Yeas and 0 Nays)

Question: Were there any concerns or issues raised by residents about this annexation? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: No.

DB – 2 - Resolution to Approve Revised Bylaws of the Environmental Commission

Question: This is described as being consistent with Council Resolution R-08-496. That resolution is from 2008-- what other Commission Bylaws have been revised in the last ten years, specifically in accordance with that resolution? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: An initial review finds the following bylaws were either created or revised:

Independent Community Police Oversight Commission
Transportation Commission
Housing Board of Appeals
Human Rights Commission
Design Review Board
Commission on Disability Issues
Planning Commission
Elizabeth Dean Fund Committee
Historic District Commission
Public Art Commission
Park Advisory Commission
Housing and Human Services Advisory Board
Cable Communications Commission
Public Market Advisory Commission
Zoning Board of Appeals

Question: 4.1 (Membership)

Are there plans for other commissions to limit their public appointments to those “nominated by the City Council members currently serving on the Commission”? How is this an improvement on the phrase “nominated and approved by City Council”? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: This language reflects requirements of the enabling ordinance: City Code section1:237(2)(a).

Question: Same section: Why aren't the appointments from Planning, PAC, and Energy subject to approval from city council? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: This language reflects requirements of the enabling ordinance: City Code section 1:237(2)(a).

Question: 4.4 (Membership)

Are there plans for other commissions to remove a requirement that each member of the Commission "shall have been a registered elector in the City of Ann Arbor for at least one year immediately preceding the time of appointment"? Do commissions generally find one-year-residency to be a burdensome requirement for membership? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: This language reflects the revised language in the 2014 amendment to Charter section 12.2(a).

Question: 7.2 (Meetings)

Are there plans for other commissions to allow special meetings by the written concurrence of only three voting members? Do commissions generally find the standard of "majority of voting members" to be a burdensome requirement for calling special meetings? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: Three is the standard number to avoid potential issues of deliberation by a quorum.

Question: Same section: in a special meeting called by only three voting members, business can be conducted beyond the purpose stated in the public notice "by unanimous consent of the voting members present." If a special meeting called by only three members was attended by only three members, could those three people effectively vote to expand the purpose of a meeting and conduct business beyond the public notice? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: No. A quorum would still be required to conduct any business at a special meeting.

Question: 7.8 (Meetings)

Would the quorum requirement prevent three commission members from calling a special meeting (7.2) and then conducting commission business such as collaborating with other city commissions or committees, holding public hearings, or meeting with City personnel? If not, are there plans for other commissions to meet and function with only three members? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: A quorum would still be required to conduct any business at a special meeting. Three members would not constitute a quorum and therefore could not conduct business.

Question: Has the Environmental Commission ever call a special meeting?
(Councilmember Eaton)

Response: Yes, in the past the Environmental Commission has held special meetings on topics such as Phosphorus, the Huron River Watershed Plan and the other topics of special interest to the Commission. Special joint meetings between the Energy and Environmental Commissions, including the one held on September 5th of 2018, are also technically special meetings.

Question: What circumstances led to the proposal to change the number of commission members needed to call a special meeting? (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: Three is the standard number to avoid potential issues of deliberation by a quorum.

Question: Regarding DB-2, in reading through the track changes it does not seem there are substantive changes to the Commission's purpose, scope, membership etc, but I may have missed it. If there are substantive changes, can you please summarize them? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: These changes are primarily to comport with the current standard bylaws provisions. The Commission's purpose, scope, and membership are governed by the enabling ordinance. Some changes in the bylaws reflect substantive changes in the ordinance made on July 21, 2014 (including nomination of members by City Council members serving on the Commission and appointment of designates from other City boards without Council approval-see bylaws section 4.1) and the 2014 Charter amendment requiring that members must be registered electors in the City at the time of appointment – see bylaws section 4.2.

Question: Also on DB-2, a new section (9.5) is added related to consulting city staff on creating subcommittees. That practice makes a lot of sense and I'm wondering if that language is in other Board & Commission bylaws? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: This provision is part of the current standard bylaws provisions and will be incorporated into existing bylaws as they come through the bylaws amendment process.

DB – 3 - Resolution to Approve the Purchase of a Conservation Easement on the Lepkowski Property in Northfield Township and to Appropriate $478,867 (8 Votes Required)

Question: Q1. Does Northfield Township have any type of farmland or open space protection program and if so, why is that program not contributing any funding to this purchase? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The Northfield Township Board of Trustees established a Land Preservation Committee to address land use concerns and promote land preservation in the township, however there are no township funds for PDR at this time. The only townships within the Greenbelt District that have dedicated land preservation funds are Webster, Scio, Ann Arbor and Augusta Townships. The Greenbelt consistently partners with those townships on projects to maximize our leverage.

Question: Q2. Was the County asked to participate in the funding for this PDR? If not, why not, and if so, why did they decline? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission was asked to participate in this project. The County has established its own project ranking criteria, and commits its available funding for PDRs to the few top ranking candidates based on its own criteria. Since the County has limited funding to apply to projects across the entire county, the County's funding was committed to higher-scoring projects and there was not available funding to contribute to this PDR. Each land preservation organization/program has established its own criteria, and what is a priority for one partner is not always reflected in the priorities developed by another partner.

Question: The cover memo indicates the federal grant was submitted under the Huron River Initiative Regional Conservation Partnership Project (Huron River RCPP) and that the City joined the partnership in 2016. Who are the other members of the partnership and why isn't the partnership itself (or any of the other members) contributing to the funding of this PDR? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The other members of the Huron River RCPP include Legacy Land Conservancy, Six Rivers Land Conservancy, Huron River Watershed Council, Ducks Unlimited and the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission, along with NRCS. NRCS is a contributing partner to this project, funding 50% of the value of the PDR and matching the Greenbelt funds 1:1. Within the Huron River RCPP (and all RCPPs), each organization brings its priority projects into the partnership, and NRCS provides match funding. Four partners have brought Agricultural Land Easement projects into the Huron River RCPP: Legacy Land Conservancy, Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission, Six Rivers Land Conservancy and the City of Ann Arbor Greenbelt. Six Rivers Land Conservancy's service area does not include Washtenaw County, and therefore they are not able to be a contributing partner to any Greenbelt PDRs. Both Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission and Legacy Land Conservancy have committed their available funding under the Huron River RCPP to other projects within the RCPP area.

The Greenbelt has a strong record of leveraging partnerships. Recently, the City of Ann Arbor led and completed a project in Ann Arbor Township where Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission provided 50% the PDR funding. Additionally, Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission has committed funds to two City-led projects targeted for closing by March 31, 2019 – one of which the County is committing 20% of the PDR funds and NRCS is providing 49%, and another where the County is contributing 15.5% of the funds and NRCS is providing 49%. In those cases, the properties scored as high priorities under both the Greenbelt and the County's ranking criteria.

Northside STEAM SRTS Sidewalk Gap Project

Question: While the SRTS resolution is not officially on tonight's agenda, it could be if an 8 vote requirement is needed to vacate the road for the sidewalk, as the current plan entails. Could this question of whether 8 votes are required be added to the Agenda Questions? While the final vote to apply the assessments is when the 8 vote majority applies for special assessments, an 8 vote supermajority may apply with these early votes since the City Council is essentially voting to vacate street parking. Is a second vote necessary because Council likely was not aware that they were vacating street parking (they likely were just voting to approve sidewalks) and vacating street parking is a much more significant vote which requires a supermajority? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: This project does not involve vacation a City right of way, or any other feature that would trigger an 8-vote supermajority requirement.

Dear Anne & Jeff,

I'm a member (and board member) of Arrowwood Hills Cooperative. I'm working on our next newsletter and am writing to ask if there is any Ward 1 news/changes/issues that you think would be particularly relevant to the Arrowwood community.

If so, could you send me details (or a link to details) for consideration in the newsletter? We probably have space for one or two items with brief descriptions.

Thanks very much,

Dear Ms. Higgins,

Please accept these agenda questions:

- [REDACTED]
- [REDACTED]
- [REDACTED]
- DB-1, 18-2000 Resolution to Approve the 715 Heather Way Annexation. Were there any concerns or issues raised by residents about this annexation?
- C-2, 19-0021 Ordinance to Amend Sections 1:240D... of Chapter 9: The amendments proposed don't change anything under Sections 1:240A through C. Quoting from the (unamended) Section 1:240C(2),

The city seal may be used by city employees and elected or appointed city officials in connection with the performance of official city business or city sanctioned events, including but not limited to, placement of the city seal on city vehicles, equipment, stationery, the city flag, city websites, handouts for city training sessions, city brochures, city presentations, city uniforms, and city issued articles of clothing, city news releases, programs and bulletins, city-sponsored events, and city memorabilia used to promote the city.

Under this standard, would an appointee to a city commission be permitted to use the city seal on a Facebook page in the context of that commission's work on community outreach and public engagement?

Under the standard of Section 1:240C(2), would an elected council member be permitted to use the city seal on a Twitter account that promotes political candidates and political campaigns?

Amended Section 1:240E(1) prohibits use of the city flag or city seal for the purpose of obtaining anything of value. What situations does the city anticipate would fall under this category?

Did any past or current city council member(s) request any city employee to participate in the drafting of the original version of this ordinance?

What problem was solved by approving this ordinance on July 2, 2018? What is the difference between how that problem would have been addressed before July 2, 2018 and what new solutions became available to the city starting on July 2, 2018?

Thank you,

Safety update: Ergonomics resources Attention office-based employees ... Did you know ergonomic resources are available to you? Ergonomics, the study of people at work, aims to reduce unnecessary stress and fatigue on the body and to prevent musculoskeletal disorders (MSD) in the workplace. MSD affects the muscles, nerves and tendons; and studies show that proper ergonomics in an office setting will help reduce MSD and possibly even increase productivity.

Since 2017, the safety unit has contracted with VelocityEHS to provide resources to employees to resolve ergonomic issues. VelocityEHS offers a simple, user-friendly interface that will guide participants through modular training, evaluation and issue resolution in order to improve office workstations. Solutions could include fitting workstation layouts and furniture more comfortably to the employee.

When you complete an evaluation via the VelocityEHS portal, the safety unit will have the ability to generate a report and assist you with corrective actions. For access to this resource, please contact the safety unit via email, safety@a2gov.org.

This information is brought to you by the city's safety unit, which oversees the city's occupational safety and health program, i.e., planning, implementing and evaluating city occupational safety and health-related educational programs and activities. If you have any questions, comments, concerns, or would like more information regarding safety issues, please reach out to: Safety Manager Doug Forsyth at dforsyth@a2gov.org or ext. 43115 | Senior Safety Compliance Specialist John Tyler at jtyler@a2gov.org or ext. 43110 | or Safety Specialist Emily Fuller at efuller@a2gov.org or ext. 43117.

Your information station: Community engagement toolkit Thank you to all who shared feedback on the city employees communication survey last fall. In response to some common themes that emerged from survey replies, “your information station” (YIS) was launched, as a recurring feature, in the Dec. 11 A2 News Notes.

The inaugural YIS introduced/reintroduced you to the city’s subscription-based email notification system, GovDelivery. This latest YIS installation will now highlight a guide that exists on A2 Central for all city staff who need to reach out to the public with important information, announcements about a project, implementation of a policy, etc. (could that be you?). It’s the community engagement toolkit!

While GovDelivery is one of the many tools we use to reach out to the public, the community engagement toolkit is an all-inclusive resource that helps you plan your entire outreach approach — from identifying whom you should work with and/or engage (including staff and other community stakeholders), to defining your project, selecting your outreach tools, developing an action plan, and, ultimately, recording the outcomes of your efforts.

Outreach may seem like an intimidating task for many, but the community engagement toolkit can ease your apprehension by breaking it down into a four-step process. If you haven’t lately (because it continues to evolve with staff feedback), check out the community engagement toolkit, and discover how it can transform you into an outreach enthusiast.

Hi,

Thanks for reaching out. The water rate restructuring was an issue I campaigned on this summer. I am concerned about how the rates have changed (particularly the severe tiers now in place for single family home owners). CM Eaton expressed similar concerns about the water rates before I showed up, so we are both looking for solutions.

Council recently directed staff to report back to us with alternative fee structures that comply with the law. I am hopeful that once we have this report, we will be able to adjust the fee structure to something more reasonable and appropriate.

Thanks again for your email!

Subject: Water Bill

Jack and Elizabeth

I just got my water bill for the last quarter and am very concerned at the rate of increase in the rate I pay per CCF of water I consume. In December of 2015, I paid $7.90 per CCF and this last bill increased to $10.56 per CCF.(these numbers include storm and sewer charges) That is a 34% increase in 3 years. Over the past two years, it has increased over 26%. This constant increase in the rate has been ongoing over several years predating December 2015.

Also, the pricing schedule is very family unfriendly The first increment of usage is currently priced at $1.77 /CCF while the next is $2.83/CCF. So if you have a family with children (more dishes to wash, more laundry etc.) you are penalized with a higher average rate just because you are a larger family. Most organizations give a discount for more usage (think Costco) the city penalizes citizens even though the incremental cost surely go down. (same infrastructure but only increased chemicals and pumping costs).

I would like your comments on what you can do to address these two issues.

MDEQ announces a “second call” for projects Over $60 million available in drinking water infrastructure loans

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) is soliciting for more Drinking Water

Revolving Fund (DWRF) projects to receive below market rate loan financing in the present fiscal year (FY) 2019. There is substantially more DWRF loan funding available than the currently demonstrated $53 million demand for FY 2019 drinking water infrastructure projects. Fund resources could support over $60 million in additional drinking water project loans for a combined total in excess of $113 million inside FY 2019.

Eligible drinking water infrastructure projects for this “second call” of DWRF loan applicants are those that will address an identified public health threat, such as lead, per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS), or other contaminants.

An Intent-to-Apply form for this “second call” is due no later than January 14, 2019, and the final DWRF project plans are due no later than March 15, 2019. Following receipt and review of the final DWRF project plans, the MDEQ will amend the FY 2019 Intended Use Plan (IUP) and make it available to the public before issuing the final document.

Some principal forgiveness is expected to be allocated to disadvantaged communities, as in the September 2018 IUP, and potentially to projects addressing contamination. The MDEQ’s final determination will be made once additional projects and cost estimates are known. Projects on the September 2018 IUP will not see a decrease in their principal forgiveness amount. Some projects may be offered new/additional principal forgiveness.

The DWRF provides low-interest loan financing for necessary public drinking water facility improvements to enhance water quality and protect public health. The 21st Century Infrastructure Commission reported an $800 million annual gap in funding water-related infrastructure needs. The DWRF is an opportunity to help narrow that gap through interest rates below those otherwise available on the open market and opportunities to receive principal loan forgiveness. Participation in the DWRF loan program also allows communities to pass the savings along to their system customer base.

The DWRF was established in 1997 and has since provided below market rate loan financing totaling $980 million for drinking water infrastructure projects. A portion of the DWRF is provided by the United States Environmental Protection Agency through capitalization grants. The MDEQ is working on proposals to improve the DWRF based upon recommendations of the 21st Century Infrastructure Commission, as well as stakeholder feedback, in order to enhance opportunities for communities to access capital funds necessary to improve Michigan’s water-related infrastructure.

The MDEQ has developed educational videos to help communities that are interested in obtaining funding from the DWRF prepare a quality final project plan.

Hi Stephanie! I'm on DC and might not get to the links I had wanted to send you about the deer and the ICPOC, Jeff and my Contact information etc. Is there any chance I can get back to you on Friday morning?

Rebecca Errands and James Daniel are planning an event around Valentines Day. Are you in touch with them? That would be good to include.

Thanks so much for offering this newsletter idea and I'm sorry I'm too busy at work! When do you send another edition? — Anne

Dear Anne & Jeff,

I'm a member (and board member) of Arrowwood Hills Cooperative. I'm working on our next newsletter and am writing to ask if there is any Ward 1 news/changes/issues that you think would be particularly relevant to the Arrowwood community.

If so, could you send me details (or a link to details) for consideration in the newsletter?
We probably have space for one or two items with brief descriptions.

This note is a reminder to please confirm your ability to attend one of the two briefings on the Y-Lot projects for Peter's graduate Business and Urban Design course. The first one is January 11, and the second one is January 18th. Both are at the Ross Business School, room 0320, in the area immediately under the Starbucks at Ross. They go from 11:00 – 12:30pm, and a light lunch will be provided.

The objectives for the briefings to City Council are to:

- 1) Provide Council Members an opportunity to review Y-lot projects defined by the students last semester that address affordability, transportation, and climate challenges facing the City.
- 2) Obtain feedback on the structure of the projects based on the proposed building's mass, uses, timing, design elements, and cost and revenue projections.

3) Secure guidance and recommendations on the specific stakeholders Council would expect to be involved in any development on the Y-lot.

4) Define key junctures during the semester for follow-up participation by Council, including mid-term and final projects reviews, and a charrette / design workshop in early May.

Mayor Taylor and Howard Lazarus have already agreed to join the meetings, with Mayor Taylor on January 11th and the Howard Lazarus on the 18th. City Hall staff including Derek Delacourt, Jennifer Hall, Missy Stults, and Susan Polly have also been invited.

As I previously stated, this graduate course in real estate could easily serve as a first, very inexpensive step towards a City-wide Task Force on Affordability and Climate to formalize a public engagement process similar to the 2005 Calthorpe Strategy Initiative. That initiative started with a Downtown Residential Task Force in 2003. Given the current dynamics regarding development of City owned land, the student teams could serve as a cogent sounding board for Ann Arbor stakeholders, while considering options and direction for just such a new City-wide Task Force.

Please confirm if you can attend either the January 11th or the January 18th briefings. We'll need a head-count for the lunch order.

Thank you, again, for your consideration. We hope to see you there!

There should be at least one Council member, probably Anne, and at least one, but more likely two Traver people - one from each side of the street. We should consider having a City person, such as the City engineer, at the meeting. We should meet with the Safe Routes to School coordinator (Bryan Armstrong), and with someone with the Michigan Fitness Foundation, (probably Katie Alexander). I will talk with my neighbor from across the pond who works at MDOT to see if there is anyone else we need to meet with - it may be someone else that Bryan who is the decision-maker who can waive the two sidewalk requirement.

It is my understanding that this meeting On the 17th, actually was set up by staff to discuss assessment with those impacted. Mr Eaton said it would be an opportunity to bring up citizen issues but he will be there himself and he intends to make the staff aware of the complaints he has received. I've spoken to Mr Nering who constructed the design and he too agreed there is much disapproval from many people who use it.

The staff has agreed to meet with residents but Mr Eaton has not set a time or place yet for that. At that time it will be the time for the neighborhood to air their issues.

I agree that it is difficult To get the word out. Had the meetings prior to the construction been more specific in newspaper reports, as to how our entrance to the subdivision, and specifically the over extension of the curbing been in that information, I believe more residents would have attended. Also it took place downtown, a difficult place to park and be at night. I read the minutes and saw the signatures of those in attendance. I believe those directly involved on Scio Church most likely made up the few that were in attendance. I don't recall discussion of that curbing in those minutes. Also, once they closed the intersection, no one could see what they were doing, which would have been the time to stop it.

This is a serious issue to the residents here. There should be a major attempt to let everyone aware once Mr Eaton had set the next meeting and I hope it is in Lawton where everyone can get to and park.

Thank you

Hi,

Thanks for reaching out—I'm aware of the odd changes that have been made to that intersection. I had a meeting with our transportation staff about it last month. CM Eaton was more proactive than I was and has, in fact, scheduled a meeting for the neighborhood to express concerns to staff.

Details are below:

THURSDAY, January 17th

7 p.m. – City Hall (basement conference room)

301 E. Huron Street

Please share details of this meeting with any neighbors. CM Eaton announced it at the last council meeting and I have it on my website (a2ELNEL.com), but it's a challenge to get the word out. We've received a number of complaints about this intersection and on our end it can sometimes be a task to search through our email to reconnect with the people who reached out to us before. I know that CM Eaton arranged this meeting specifically for the benefit of you and your neighbors, so please come! Your email has been a good reminder for ME that I should search my messages and specifically invite everyone who has complained to me about this intersection.

Several new members of council (including myself) are very concerned about how decisions like this are made without consultation and conversation with impacted neighbors. We are also concerned about how the city actually communicates to engage the public and let them know about meetings such as the one next week. The city has additional resources that we as council members do not have (e.g. email lists, mailing lists), and we need to make better use of them, clearly.

Thanks for taking the time to reach out. Thanks, especially, for the observations about the light cycles. Details like that need to be shared and our transportation staff needs to hear them directly from impacted residents. I hope to see you on January 17th.

Subject: The over- extension of the curbs and narrowing of Seventh street at Scio Church

Ms Nelson,

I live in Lansdown on Morehead Ct. Once the redesigned intersection opened for traffic at Seventh and Scio and I sat thru 5 lights trying to make a right hand turn out of my subdivision, I immediately talked with on of the engineers on the project who was responsible for constructing it. He said he had no input into the design.

I expressed my frustration and opposition to what appears as a poorly thought out design for a major thorough fare. He admitted that there were many like myself that objected to how the project was designed. He suggested talking with Mr Eaton who was going to put together a meeting to discuss it with the residents. I have talked with Mr Eaton.

You should be aware, and possibly are, of the dissatisfaction that exists with this oddly designed intersection with its way over extended curbs and now with the placement of what appears to be Cheap PVC pipes and a Share the Road sign. This is a subdivision that homes sell for 1/2 million dollars. One recently listed for $100,000 over that. The design of the street and the curbing devalues our subdivision, impedes traffic flow by not allowing more than one car at the light and is dangerous when driving east on Sci Church and discovering the right turn lane abruptly ends at a curb thus forcing drivers into and often in front of other drivers in the next lane. The Seventh street design forces drivers on 7th now to make right turns from the center lane on due to extra paths for bikers is also more dangerous. These are but a few of the issues.

I don't believe the city has a right to devalue our subdivision monetarily and aesthetically with what's been done to the entrance. I'm expecting firstly for the city to be prepared to change the design or at the very least landscape and maintain these hideous, dangerous new curbs. I would question the data that indicated what was done was necessary for "safety". We accepted reluctantly the bumped out curbs by Lawton school but what they have done at Scio Church and Seventh is a huge mistake in design. I am awaiting a meeting time and place from Mr. Eaton.

Thank you,
Gail Light

Mr Eaton,

I have left you a message and have not received a reply. I spoke with Nick Nearing a few days ago about the objectionable over extension of the curbing at the intersection which impedes right hand turning for cars leaving the subdivision. I also directed my disappointment at the way things were left... should they be permanent... with those white pvc pipe looking posts which they have placed there to mark the overextensions. I understand there are many unhappy with what's been constructed there. Right now I'm concerned too about the aesthetic look of the entrance in an area of homes that sell for a 1/2 million dollars. One just posted for $100,000 over that. There is no reason the bike sign need be present other than it's just one more objectionable added look. I would like to have a conversation about how better those curbs could be landscaped, or moved back by the city to provide a less distasteful entrance to our homes. I feel this project has devalued our homes here.

Thank you,

Dear Mayor Taylor, Council Members for Ward 1 and 5, and Dean Tuzinsky (CHS),

At 7:40am this morning, I dropped my Community High School student daughter at the crosswalk at the intersection of Detroit and N. 5th Avenue.

A southbound bus had stopped at the adjacent crosswalk on 5th Avenue, and several students were just crossing in front of the bus when a car on the outer lane (closest to CHS) sped by.

It would have been impossible for a driver in that lane to see through the bus to know that students were crossing. It would have been impossible for the students to see through the bus to see the oncoming car. It was pitch black out at 7:40am this morning. There was no crossing guard.

If the car had come a few seconds later, this would have been a serious accident.

5th Avenue, on the stretch between Kingsley and Catherine, should NOT be two lanes. As this was being constructed, we thought that one lane was meant for cars and one for bicycles. It's negligent to have two lanes when students cross back and forth between CHS and the Kerrytown area so frequently.

We appreciate your addressing this problem and keeping students, and all pedestrians, safe.

all the best,
Rebekah

The bus (assuming AAATA) should be stopping beyond the crosswalk so the students can walk behind the bus where they are visible to oncoming traffic. However, with so many (DDA) crosswalks in the area, that may not be possible.

I do not have any advice. I argued against this design, but the DDA staff disagreed.

Dear Ms. Witter,

I share your concerns and have heard similar stories from other parks in other neighborhoods. I agree our leash laws should be properly noticed and enforced. The city provides 2 off-leash facilities in Ward 1 and while I am not a dog owner I know they are welcomed and used.

I have some business before Parks Advisory this month so I will pass on your concerns, perhaps a survey/evaluation of park entrances is in order. I have been told by another northside neighbor that there is missing signage in places.

Thank you,

Subject: Recently my dog (on leash) was attacked by another dog (off leash),Please post more visible signs KEEP DOGS ON LEASH in parks

Reasonable Control (Leash Laws)

Dogs must be secured by a leash held by the owner or the owner's agent when walking, and dogs must be secured by a leash which is attached to a stationary object and attended by the owner or the owner's agent when on premises or confined in a vehicle. Sidewalks and lawn extensions are public. Dogs should not be left tied outside stores and restaurants while the owners are inside. All animal control regulations (leash laws) also apply to parks.

Dear Mayor Taylor and Council Members,

I live in Ward One, at [REDACTED]. Recently, I was walking my beagle (on leash) through Onder Nature Area when another dog (off leash) attacked him. We had just turned around to go back where we entered the nature area, when I saw two dogs off leash followed by one adult and a child. We had met the adult and one of the dogs before. I made a mistake and stopped on the trail instead of turning around and walking away. When the new dog got close to my dog, my dog growled. The new dog was off leash and grabbed my dog by his neck and held on until the adult could put a leash on it. Fortunately, my dog was wearing a fleece with a high collar which protected him. I took him to the Ann Arbor Animal Hospital. My dog didn't have any puncture wounds.

This dangerous incident wouldn't have happened if the other person would have been walking both dogs on leash. Ann Arbor has a LEASH LAW. It seems that many dog owners like to walk their dogs off leash in public parks. Walking dogs off leash on public property is dangerous for other dogs and humans. Ann Arbor dog leash laws need to be enforced more effectively. Public parks need more visible signs that remind dog walkers to keep dogs on leashes. I talked with the Natural Area Preservation office about putting these sign at entrances of trails.

Today, 01/11/19. I drove to Olson Park to walk my dog there. I thought the visibility on the trails would be better and there is an enclosure for dogs to be off leash at this park for people who wanted their dogs to be off leash. We didn't see any dogs when we first got there and enjoyed a relaxing walk. As we were walking to the parking lot, two people and a dog off leash were heading toward us. I took my dog off the trail and into the brush so that the other dog (off leash) wouldn't see us. After they had past us, I shouted at the people to put their dog on a leash and that my dog had been attacked recently. They kept on walking away from us but finally put their dog on a leash at least until they were out of sight. I walked my dog to my car and drove home.

Please strengthen the city's dog leash laws by posting more visible signs in parks and trails in nature areas. There are a lot of dogs off leash on public property in Ann Arbor. This is very dangerous for all dogs and people.

Thanks for your consideration.'

Good afternoon Jeff,

Hope your New Year is starting out well. I belong to a local community group, Washtenaw Solidarity with Farmworkers, has prepared a petition for the UofM Board of Regents regarding the implementation of a Fair Food Program for humane labor conditions for farmworkers providing produce to university food vendors and restaurateurs. Furthermore, Elizabeth Nelson has been good enough to begin drafting a resolution for city council to support these efforts. At a time of your convenience, we'd love to discuss this petition with you, its context, and our positive communications with the university to-date. Thank-you for your time.

Hi Jeff and Anne:

My wife and I were troubled to read of the police recently threatening to arrest protesters against the deer cull. Judging by the reporting from MLive, it seems like there may be an effort to intimidate these folks out of exercising their right to free speech and free assembly.

Given that sharpshooters have managed to kill hundreds of deer, interference doesn't seem like the issue. It's certainly unacceptable to threaten people with arrest because of a dislike of their political or social message.

Can I ask the two of you to help ensure these folks are free to exercise their constitutionally protected rights in our city?

Thank you,
Patrick Sullivan

Dear Ms. Carter,

Thank you for your kind words, and I share many of your concerns about the quality of life issues Ann Arbor and the Northside in particular face. I live on Pontiac Trail south of Barton- I feel your pain. I am reaching out to new colleagues in the county and townships to keep this program on track. I am also looking into the Greenbelt program to make sure that we are active (right now) in acquiring lands inside the freeway ring, as well.

Sincerely,

Subject: Lepkowski farm

Dear Council Representative Hayner:

Thank you for voting to purchase the development rights to the Lepkowski farm as part of the green belt program. I think the green belt should be expanded as rapidly as possible. I'm sorry to say that I no longer enjoy living in Ann Arbor, but my husband and I are stuck at this point. The traffic and parking situations are awful. You can't get there from here. We never go downtown anymore. The city is filling up with tall, ugly buildings. People insist upon killing deer to protect their "plantings." People routinely speed and run stop signs and red lights with no consideration at all of the people in the neighborhood. Drive time is a nightmare on Barton and Pontiac Trail. Barton and Pontiac Trail are simply not large enough to carry the amount of traffic they do. (No more roundabouts, please. People here don't know how to use them.) And the situation is being made far worse with all the new "development" in our area. Pretty soon we won't even be able to get out of our driveway. The entrance/exits to M-14 from Barton and Whitmore Lake roads are highly dangerous and should be closed. We hear emergency vehicles going to M-14 and US-23 almost every day.

Sincerely,

Jeanine Center

Once I hear back, I'll work with the City to set up the first meeting.

Everyone,

I have not heard back from everyone, but based on the feedback so far, it's looking like Monday mornings at 9 a.m. may be best, and even better on Council days (so, 1st or 3rd Mondays of the month?). Wednesdays will not be the best.

If everyone agrees we could make Council Mondays work, I would propose scheduling our first meeting for Monday, Feb. 4th at 9 a.m.

Please confirm and we will schedule the first meeting for 2/4, thank you!

Subject: Brownfield Committee Orientation Follow-Up Items

Dear Councilmembers Hayner, Griswold, Eaton and Smith,

Derek and I met with the two new Brownfield Review Committee members, councilmembers Griswold and Hayner, yesterday to provide a general orientation to brownfields. Here's a link to all of the materials that were handed out at the meeting:

<https://drive.google.com/drive/folders/1k6mtTcirDcVs3lsAgXjD0Zcj-fiuHHkx?usp=sharing>

Here's a link to a neat GIS-based project mapping page that we just launched:

<https://gisappsecure.ewashtenaw.org/public/brownfieldprojects/>

There were several items of follow-up from the meeting:

Local Brownfield Revolving Fund (LBRF): This grant/loan fund was established in 2017 by the County Brownfield Authority, and is used to support brownfield redevelopment projects in the region. The fund is capitalized from additional capture from all brownfield projects in the County, usually at the end of the developer reimbursement period, but annually for a few projects. The first approximate $1.5 million in seed funding was deposited from the Toyota Technical Center brownfield TIF capture in York Township. Additional funds will be added in the future as projects are fully paid off and expire. Attached is the LBRF policy adopted by the County Brownfield Authority. Two LBRF awards have been made so far: $600,000 to the Ann Arbor Housing Commission to support eligible demolition and infrastructure brownfield activities as part of the redevelopment of 32 affordable housing units at the White/State/Henry site, and $240,000 to the City of Ypsilanti to complete soil remediation activities along the Border to Border trail through the Water Street brownfield redevelopment site. Note that the LBRF policy includes review criteria regarding the extent to which a project supports stated affordable housing goals within the 2015 Housing Affordability and Economic Equity Analysis.

Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC) Brownfield TIF Support Policy:

The MEDC (more specifically, the Michigan Strategic Fund) approves that capture of school taxes to finance non-environmental eligible brownfield activities permitted by Act 381. These include demolition, innovative urban stormwater management improvements, such as rain gardens, green roofs, underground detention storage, public or private parking decks, public infrastructure, including water, sewer, streetscape and similar public improvements, and site preparation activities, such as grading/fill, etc. For more information on specific non-environmental activities that are eligible under MEDC Policy, go to Page 25 of this link:

<https://www.miplace.org/globalassets/media-documents/brownfield-tif/act-381-work-plan-guidance.pdf> . The ability to utilize the Brownfield Plan process and Act 381 to achieve non-environmental infrastructure improvements to benefit the broader neighborhood, and potential to advance other community goals (such as affordable housing), were discussed at length in yesterday's meeting.

Brownfield Committee Meeting Scheduling: Previously, the Committee meetings were scheduled for Monday evenings at 5:30, prior to Council. This time was sometimes difficult and limited time for the committee to take care of business. We discussed with Councilmembers Griswold and Hayner in changing the meeting times to on a Mon, Tues. or Wed. morning at 9 a.m., instead. While we will schedule these meetings monthly, it is likely the Committee would only have to meet several times per year, depending on the number of Brownfield applications submitted. Please advise your availability to meet any or all Mon/Tues/or Wed. mornings at 9 a.m. We would like to schedule the first Committee meeting sometime in the next 3 to 4 weeks.

Thank you for serving on the Brownfield Review Committee. We look forward to working with all of you to ensure the continued success of the County/City Brownfield program!

Interests & Experiences

Please describe your interest in protecting and enhancing the well-being of the environment and public health of the community.

I've always been very interested in protecting the well-being of the environment. As a young child, I would gravitate towards projects that focused on environmental concerns -- oil spills, endangered species, deforestation, etc. Further, growing up on Lake Michigan has given me a great appreciation for Michigan's lakes, rivers, and watersheds. As an undergrad, I studied Economics and Program in the Environment (PITE) at the University of Michigan. We've recently moved back to Ann Arbor and have finally become homeowners in this amazing community so I would like to provide support by volunteering with the Environmental Commission.

Why are you interested in serving on a board or commission?

I enjoy being an active member of the community. It allows me to feel more connected to my neighbors as well as assist in important decisions that need to be made for our community. I enjoy leading as well as learning from others and believe my background in analytics will play an important role while serving on a board or commission. In recent years, I've participated in the following: - Co-found Club25, an IT group focusing on representing under-represented persons within IT - Served as Campaign Manager for my father's city council campaign - Served as a Board Member at Paws Chicago I look forward to discussing with you further how I can contribute on the Environmental Commission. Thank you for your time and thoughtful consideration.

Dear Ann Arbor City Councilmembers,

I hereby submit my application to serve on the City of Ann Arbor Environmental Commission.

I currently serve on the Washtenaw County Food Policy Council representing the Waste Management sector, and have served as Chair of the 'Food & Food Packaging Waste' Policy Action Team of the Washtenaw County Food Policy Council since January 2014.

In 2014, I worked to successfully amend Washtenaw County's Environmentally Preferable Purchasing (EPP) policy to include language to promote procurement of products that yield minimum end-of-life waste, with unique and progressive language that focuses on food service ware and waste diversion through compost. Along with the Washtenaw County Office of Community and Economic Development, I played a role in developing Washtenaw County's Local Vendor Preference (LVP) policy to include language to promote local food, goods and services. In 2016, Washtenaw County adopted Michigan's first local policy to address plastic bag waste management, a project I led in furtherance of Washtenaw County's progressive environmental policy goals. In these roles, I have served as an expert, author and advocate to further various local environmental policy efforts in continuance of the goals and objectives of Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, many of which are directly supported by and through Ann Arbor city policy and programs.

Professionally, I serve as a Solid Waste Program Specialist for Washtenaw County, in the Department of Public Works - Water Resources Commissioner's Office. In 2017 Washtenaw County amended its Solid Waste Management Plan, a project I played an active role to facilitate. One program I played a pertinent role to spearhead is Zero Waste Washtenaw, which offers recycling and compost collection at Washtenaw County-based events, and assists event leadership and vendors in environmentally low-impact and sustainable practices.

Efficient solid waste and material management is an important part of the overall sustainable environment, with direct ties to our local community image and quality of life. I believe that my unique policy and program experience, along with my overall passion to improve our environment through well-written, practical and cooperative policy, qualify me to serve on the City of Ann Arbor Environmental Commission.

Thank you kindly for your time and consideration.

Regards,
Noelle Bowman

Interests & Experiences

Please describe your interest in protecting and enhancing the well-being of the environment and public health of the community.

As a long-term Ann Arbor resident, I am concerned with our water and air quality, and the need to move quickly to reduce our overall carbon footprint in order to address the effects of climate change. I want to be more directly involved with developing policies that will support implementation of alternative energy sources, addressing the clean up requirements for the underground dioxane plume that is flowing toward Ann Arbor's primary drinking water resource, the Huron River, and with developing community actions to directly support the sustainability goals set for the city.

Why are you interested in serving on a board or commission?

The environment is a consistent part of my community volunteer and recreational activities. I have been involved with city workgroups and task forces. I am ready to use my skills and experience to analyze issues and propose policies to address climate change, and to reduce pollution from toxic chemicals applied by the city and residents, in order to support a cleaner environment for Ann Arbor and our immediate region.

Please describe your interest in protecting and enhancing the well-being of the environment and public health of the community.

I have had an interest in the environment dating back to my childhood. Good Afternoon Councilmember Bannister,

To answer your question about communication with the general public:
The vacant seat is posted online at on the Boards and Commissions module. If you'd like a link to share the best address to give out is:

 <http://a2gov.granicus.com/boards/w/fe6c5e22e6f4a331/vacancies>

This link lists all vacant seats, not just the Environmental Commission and includes a button to apply.

As for the process of filling this seat:

I'd be happy to send out weekly updates of new applications received to both you and Councilmember Smith.

Once an applicant is selected to move forward in the process, either you or Councilmember Smith can let me know and I will get the nomination added as a resolution to an upcoming City Council agenda.

Sincerely,
Kelly Beattie | Boards and Commissions Coordinator

Thanks, Kelly! I see 7 applicants on your attached list, including John Mirsky, who actually already serves on the Environmental Commission (and maybe Energy, too). His name could be removed.

What happens next?

Is there a communication plan where the City sends out a reminder to the general public about this vacancy? If so, I'd be happy to forward it on social media and email, etc.

Good Morning,

Subsequent to Council's decision not to move forward with the Lepkowski conservation easement staff discussed the history and possible ramifications related to this specific purchase and the program. To that end the attached memo was crafted in hopes of better describing the impacts of the decision. There is no obligation on the part of Council to approve any recommended purchase however, staff and the Lepkowski family negotiated this purchase in good faith based on the City's previous decisions, approvals and established criteria.

I thought it important to share this information in hopes of everyone involved having a more complete understanding of the situation and program.

Thank you in advance for your review and consideration. Please contact me if you have any additional questions.

Date: Tuesday, January 15, 2019 3:51:00 PM

Dear Max,

Thanks for reaching out. Don't worry about your frustration— I get all kinds of messages as you can imagine. Happy to talk to you about this more. Our building, housing, and rental codes - along with local and state fire codes -spell most of this out, and as you can guess it's a lot, as our local codes refer to & adopt state and/or national code standards. I feel your pain, I've experienced the tenant's side of this for many years, including the combustible storage + cords issues (living in a band house for ex.). Much of this springs from a city's obligations to public safety, and I have to say as a person who works in building trades I recognize the value of these rules esp. to fire safety—which is weighed heavily towards preventive measures.

I've been having good conversations at City Hall about the city's process for commercial and rental inspections and will share your concerns in our discussions. Some of this can be solved with better communication between all parties. As you point out, making the lives of landlord and tenant easier is a good goal.

I would be remiss if I did not include a link to tenant resources:

Subject: Ann Arbor Rental Housing Code

Hi Anne and Jeff,

I'm writing you both as a resident of Ann Arbor's first ward- I've lived in Ann Arbor since 2008 and in Ward 1 since 2016, always in rental properties. Every few years I happen to be living in a property that's due for an inspection by the city and I find the Housing Code to be unduly disruptive for tenants. The purpose of the code should be legislate the landlord's responsibility to provide a safe and compliant property for their tenants, but the code goes into needlessly granular detail about how a tenant arranges their furniture and belongings. This is especially bothersome considering how unenforceable these rules are- tenants have ample notice about upcoming inspections and will temporarily re-arrange their homes at their landlord's request, but are unlikely to permanently re-arrange furniture to satisfy a one-day inspection.

There are two items in the code that I've personally had to deal with and find particularly nit-picky and inconsequential:

- 8:509 \(8\) \(a\)
 - This states that I'm not allowed to store "combustable" storage within 5 feet of a water heater. The definition of combustable vs non-combustable is nowhere to be found which makes preparing for this feel especially arbitrary. At the end of the day, my water heater is in my storage room and that's where I'm going to keep paper towels and toilet paper even if it's within 5 feet. There's absolutely no reason for a rental property to be deemed out of code because a tenant refused to rearrange their storage for one day in a 30-month window. It has nothing to do with the dwelling itself.

- 8:505 \(5\)
 - This legislates how I run cords through my apartment, which is absolutely baffling to me. I like to have a lamp in between the two sofas in my living room, so I'll generally run an extension cord underneath one of them. At my last rental property the home failed inspection due to this- my landlord offered to install another electrical outlet in the middle of the floor if I was willing to pay for it. Why on Earth would I spend hundreds for that when I can just unplug the extension cord for the next inspection and then go back to ignoring a poorly written and unenforceable ordinance? Why would the landlord make that investment of their own volition when the next tenant might find it useless?

In my opinion, this code should be used to make sure that landlords provide a rental property that is safe and livable for tenants. If landlords want to further enforce how tenants live in their property I think that is a separate issue, but inspectors should really not be focused on the ephemera of tenant storage and interior design. It would be interesting to know how many inspections fail due to tenant choices vs. landlord delinquency and to know how much money that we could be spending on roads and parks that we instead spend on inspector labor and transportation because an extension cord was "improperly" used.

Thanks for reading my message- I'm a little frustrated right now so I apologize if my tone is a little snarky. I hope that this might lead into some discussion on a revamping of these city ordinances and perhaps we can make the lives of landlords and tenants a little simpler and easier to follow.

Subject: Climate Change, Affordability and Urban Density

Greetings

I understand there is to be a meeting on Tuesday, Jan 15th, among some members of council and a developer here in Ann Arbor pitching density as a solution for climate change.

For your consideration, I offer the following article which is a deep dive into the literature and statistics, and offers this conclusion: "... on a per-person basis, Wood and Du found that high-rise residents actually consumed about 27 percent more energy."

<https://www.citylab.com/design/2017/12/when-density-isnt-greener/548384/>

So be careful not to be pulled in by deceptively attractive economics.

And as far as high rise development as a solution to affordable housing is concerned, there are already cities that have tried that and it has failed:

<https://www.salon.com/2018/11/04/despite-thorough-debunking-neoliberal-housing-politics-prevail-in-the-bay-area/>

It is so easy and comforting to be lulled by the attractions of cash flow. After all, it's what we've been trained for. But new studies are showing the cracks in the foundation of what we have taken as received wisdom.

These are really important issues. I hope that you use your positions and your curiosity to find solutions that promote better forms of density that benefit our community and our environment, now and in the future.

Respectfully,

Julie Ritter

Could you provide an update on the status of the Northside STEAM sidewalk gap project? After reading the article in Sunday's Ann Arbor News, it seems the project is going forward. I agree with what you said. "This is a million dollar project and to focus on Traver Rd and Brookside does not address the safety issues that we set out to do."

We recently received a temporary grading permit from the City to sign and return. If we do this, does it mean we agree with the project? We still believe our short block of Brookside Dr should be dropped from this project.

I understand more than 51% of the homeowners involved are against this project.

Greetings, Mayor Taylor and City Council Members,

The Washtenaw Housing Alliance is a coalition of over 25 non-profit and government entities working together to end homelessness in Washtenaw County. The solution to ending homelessness is quite simple: we must make sure everyone in our community has a safe, stable and affordable home.

WHA understands that City Council will soon be asked to consider the PUD Zoning and Site Plan for the Lockwood of Ann Arbor Development, located at 3365 Jackson Avenue. WHA strongly encourages you to approve this development, as it will provide 38 new units of senior affordable housing, targeted to very low-income seniors in our community, for a 99-year affordability term. Attached is a letter which shares more details about why our organization and its Board of Directors, and our member agencies that serve people who are homeless or at-risk of homelessness, support this development.

We appreciate your consideration of this letter – and our position – as you debate the merits of this development. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me if you have any questions, concerns, or would like to discuss homelessness and affordable housing in Ann Arbor and the county.

Thank you,

Dear Ann Arbor Mayor and City Council Members:

The Washtenaw Housing Alliance (WHA) is a coalition of over 25 non-profit and government entities working to end homelessness in Washtenaw County. WHA knows that the solution to ending homelessness is quite simple: we must make sure everyone in our community has a safe, stable and affordable home. WHA strongly encourages City Council approval of the PUD Zoning and Site Plan for the Lockwood of Ann Arbor Development, located at 3365 Jackson Avenue. As described below, the proposed development will add 38 units to the city's affordable housing stock, and will provide additional housing options for Ann Arbor's rapidly aging population.

The proposed Lockwood of Ann Arbor development is for a three-story building with 95 independent senior apartments (studio, one-bedroom, and two-bedroom units). The developer has committed that 40% (38 units) of the total units will be affordable housing, for a term of 99 years, for households earning approximately $32,000 or less (incomes at 50% of the Area Median Income (AMI) or lower). These affordable housing units will truly be affordable for low-income seniors in our community – for three generations; the 99-year term for affordable housing is commendable.

This development supports the goals outlined in Washtenaw County's 2015 Affordable Housing and Economic Equity Analysis Report, which the City adopted, to add 140 units of affordable housing annually for 20 years. It will also provide new types of housing opportunities for a growing population of seniors in the community at all income levels, and especially those with the lowest incomes. The 2010 U.S. census found 53,000 adults age 60+ in Washtenaw County; and, by 2040, this number will more than double, to 110,000. Many of the WHA's member agencies, including the Shelter Association of Washtenaw County, which operates the Delonis Center, report that they are experiencing an increasing number of seniors with insecure housing, because of rising rents, and no way for seniors to increase their income.

Lastly, in light of the recent loss of 800+ affordable housing units throughout the county in the last 18 months, 200 of which were affordable units for seniors, we support both the addition of affordable units, but also that this developer is exceeding ordinance requirements to provide additional senior affordable housing units.

We enthusiastically endorse the Lockwood of Ann Arbor development, and hope you will too. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to me at carlislea@washtenaw.org or (734) 222-3575.

Sincerely,

Amanda Carlisle

I am writing to you as a resident of your ward about the ongoing discussions to improve the facilities at the Farmers Market. I am keenly interested in the topic (you may have seen the article in the November issue of the Observer), and I do think I have a way to move the project forward.

A project was approved by the Council in August 2016, but the construction bids came in high and the total cost of the project would have been almost $1.4 million, or $500,000 over budget. It was reported in the last Public Market Advisory Commission that the Parks Department plans to rebid the project in the Spring, apparently with no design changes. I don't understand why it might have become cheaper in the last three years, but that is why I am writing to you. The Council approved the project, and I am assuming any change would need to come from the Council (e.g., rescind approval and then address any new proposals).

Compare with the approved plan, I believe my alternative is:

- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->Simpler and less expensive (significantly less expensive, I think),
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->More robust in that it is more flexible, scalable, and adaptable,
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->More shopper friendly, and, perhaps most important,
- <!--[if !supportLists]-->• <!--[endif]-->More responsive to the operational and logistical needs of the vendors.

I have reviewed the plan with Peter Woolf, a member of the Public Market Advisory Commission, who told me that people have presented him with a lot of alternative proposals, but opined in our meeting that this is the best that he has seen.

I would be willing to review the proposal with you and your Council colleagues, if you desire. I think only 10 minutes would be required for the review, since the proposal is simple and, to be frank, self-evident.

Please let me know if this interests you.

Thank you.

Dear Emma,

I'm so sorry for this accident and we will continue to try and prioritize public safety. If you'd like to speak before a Council meeting, there's one on Tuesday, January 22 at 7 pm at City Hall. There are 10 public speaking spots and people need to call the City Clerk at 8 am to reserve one of them.

Here's more information: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/city-council/Pages/CityCouncilMeetings.aspx>

Dear Mr. Mayor & Ward 1 Representative,

I am emailing to tell you I witnessed the most disturbing accident last night at the crosswalk on Huron St. by North Quadrangle. A pedestrian was walking across at the crosswalk and the driver in front of me struck him without breaking. The victim laid yards away from where he was struck, his backpack and shoes in the street. The victim was bleeding profusely and was unconscious, but still breathing. Myself, the driver and another bystander waited until police and ambulance came to give our reports.

Here is the official article by mlive: <https://www.mlive.com/news/ann-arbor/2019/01/university-of-michigan-student-critical-after-being-struck-in-crosswalk.html>

I am so deeply disturbed and saddened by what I saw last night. There needs to be flashing lights at this crosswalk. As a student myself, I have almost gotten hit at the same spot numerous times because there are no lights to warn drivers to yield here. If you care about the safety of our campus and community, please do everything in your power to acquire lights at this crosswalk just like they have on North Campus and other places in Ann Arbor.

I don't know who else to speak to about this, but if there's a community town hall where I can address my concerns, I will go and speak up. This was an absolute tragedy.

Hello all,

I have been thinking about the affordable housing issues in the city of Ann Arbor, and I realized an excellent opportunity that may provide an excellent route to quickly gain more than 500 housing units for people in the area including low-income students and potentially even more if houses are renovated or have outside units on their lots. The Inter-Cooperative Council has been a student-run organization for many years, however based on my experience, the coops have been misused in recent times due to the fact that many affluent students live in the coops. Currently non-students face very strict entry into the coops, which to me is an unfortunate fact.

My idea is for the city of Ann Arbor to buy out every coop house in the city, and run it in an ethically and organized manner. I was violently beaten in a coop two years ago and never had any recourse (due to student leadership being extremely biased because of who their friends were), and similar issues have been ongoing in these houses including sexual assaults and worse. The city would do so much good if the coops were subsidized affordable housing based on income and not student status. Wealthy students ought to live in high rises or other forms of housing because the original intent of the cooperative system was to provide an affordable option to actual low-income people -both students and non-students.

Please don't hesitate to reach out if this idea may be interesting to any of you, I believe this may be a great and affordable route to change the face of Ann Arbor. Thank you for your time in reading this email, and I hope to hear back from you soon.

Subject: RE: Gun Control Policy
Date: Wednesday, January 16, 2019 10:11:55 AM

All,

Thanks for your concern and attention to this matter. Automatic weapons are highly regulated by the Federal National Firearms Act among other Federal and State statutes. The vast majority of “AR’s” in private ownership are semi-automatic firearms, and fall under their own sets of regulations that apply to all “long guns”. The city regulations specifically defer to State law, in section 9:262 (1) “Possession of weapons or firearms in public places shall be governed by state law.” Our local laws go on to more specifically spell out lawful firearm sale, transfer, possession and use, but again, these are reliant on state and federal laws.

As you may know, state laws have been somewhat weakened in recent years, especially as it pertains to the process for obtaining a CPL or Concealed Pistol License. The oversight of the County Gun Boards and the local Police has largely been removed from this transaction. Still, we require record-keeping for all local firearm transactions, which no doubt includes a good number of semi-automatic firearms, both long guns and handguns. The AR and it’s variants is by many measures the most popular sporting arm in the United States today, and as you point out, it is a very effective and dangerous weapon.

None of this is to say that stricter gun control measures are not desired, or possible. But the right to lawfully acquire and lawfully use firearms rests largely with the state and federal governments. Of course, this is backed by the 2nd Amendment, which itself is controversial. As a city we are prohibited by the state from enacting many laws that would be considered stricter than the state – plastic bag bans come to mind, a specific prohibition exists for these. I suspect an attempt to ban AR-style or other types of automatic or semi-automatic firearms would be prevented or challenged for similar reasons. I have a regular Thursday weekly meeting with our city’s fine legal staff, and I am happy to ask this question for you.

There have been recent successes in prohibiting firearm possession at our local schools. The city wrote an amicus brief to the Michigan Supreme Court essentially asking for clarification on the role of local governments in banning possession of firearms on public property, and in support of the schools desire to ban firearm possession on school property. The court affirmed that School Boards like AAPS could prohibit both concealed and open carry on their properties. The question of whether cities could do the same was not part of the question, but in my reading the court did draw a clear distinction between the Schools and local units of government in their ability to limit firearm possession using local law.

Some more info, the city’s Human Resources policies prohibit possession of a firearm or “dangerous weapon” on city property for all employees, vendors, or others with municipal business, that prohibition does not extend to the general public while on city property. Likely this is again because such a prohibition would be viewed as unlawful by the state. So while I agree with your concerns, and your call for Ann Arbor to take a leadership role in issues of public importance such as this, I'm not sure this is something we can do. I will send a follow-up to you all after my City Attorney meeting tomorrow and let you know what they think about this idea; no doubt you could find a sympathetic council member to champion this if it shows any promise of meeting the substantial legal hurdles I suspect it would face. It would not be the first time City Council has enacted ordinances in violation of state law to secure the public good, look at Tobacco 21 doings of a few years back, which I believe were subsequently ruled unenforceable by the State Attorney General.

Thank you for reaching out, talk to you soon,

Sincerely,

Dear Ann Arbor City Council Members and Mayor Christopher Taylor,

Guns are a very big problem in the United States. We as middle school students want to be in a safe community with no guns. Particularly AR's and automatic weapons. Ann Arbor is one of the most educated cities in the United States so that's why Ann Arbor should be leaders in the topic of guns. AR's and automatic weapons have been the main leaders in shootings. These two types of guns have no reason to be used in public, the only people that would need these weapons would have to be the military.

Ann Arbor's ORDINANCE NO. ORD-16-22 WEAPONS AND EXPLOSIVES says nothing about AR's and automatic guns. So this would mean that you can buy or sell an AR or automatic weapon in the city of Ann Arbor. Ann Arbor needs to be a leader in this topic because these types of guns bring nothing but harm in the world. We need to create a policy to ban AR's and automatic weapons in the Ann Arbor city limits.

CM Bannister, staff shares a final response for your review.

Final plans and specifications are scheduled to be submitted to MDOT before the end of January 2019. Before the funding can be obligated, and the SRTS Grant awarded, the City must possess all necessary easements and temporary grading permits (TGP) necessary to do the work described in the plans. There are no permanent easements required for this project, as all sidewalks will be installed in the public right-of-way. However, four (4) properties remain in the project limits where the sidewalk will be close to the property line. At these locations, requests for temporary grading permits were made to provide the best results to the adjacent home owners with regard to transitioning the grade of the sidewalk to their yards and driveways. If the TGPs are not returned to the City prior to our deadline to secure the funding, we will revise the plans to stop all grading at the right-of-way line before we submit to MDOT, but the grading transition will not be as smooth as it could had TGP been granted.

Could you provide an update on the status of the Northside STEAM sidewalk gap project? After reading the article in Sunday's Ann Arbor News, it seems the project is going forward. I agree with what you said. "This is a million dollar project and to focus on Traver Rd and Brookside does not address the safety issues that we set out to do."

We recently received a temporary grading permit from the City to sign and return. If we do this, does it mean we agree with the project? We still believe our short block of Brookside Dr should be dropped from this project.

I understand more than 51% of the homeowners involved are against this project.

Council Members:

This note is a reminder to please confirm your ability to attend one of the two briefings on the Y-Lot projects for Peter's graduate Business and Urban Design course. The first one is January 11, and the second one is January 18th. Both are at the Ross Business School, room 0320, in the area immediately under the Starbucks at Ross. They go from 11:00 – 12:30pm, and a light lunch will be provided.

The objectives for the briefings to City Council are to:

- 1) Provide Council Members an opportunity to review Y-lot projects defined by the students last semester that address affordability, transportation, and climate challenges facing the City.
- 2) Obtain feedback on the structure of the projects based on the proposed building's mass, uses, timing, design elements, and cost and revenue projections.
- 3) Secure guidance and recommendations on the specific stakeholders Council would expect to be involved in any development on the Y-lot.
- 4) Define key junctures during the semester for follow-up participation by Council, including mid-term and final projects reviews, and a charrette / design workshop in early May.

Mayor Taylor and Howard Lazarus have already agreed to join the meetings, with Mayor Taylor on January 11th and the Howard Lazarus on the 18th. City Hall staff including Derek Delacourt, Jennifer Hall, Missy Stults, and Susan Polly have also been invited.

As I previously stated, this graduate course in real estate could easily serve as a first, very inexpensive step towards a City-wide Task Force on Affordability and Climate to formalize a public engagement process similar to the 2005 Calthorpe Strategy Initiative. That initiative started with a Downtown Residential Task Force in 2003. Given the current dynamics regarding development of City owned land, the student teams could serve as a cogent sounding board for Ann Arbor stakeholders, while considering options and direction for just such a new City-wide Task Force.

Please confirm if you can attend either the January 11th or the January 18th briefings. We'll need a head-count for the lunch order.

Thank you, again, for your consideration. We hope to see you there!

Julie,

I've communicated with the appropriate staff here in the Public Services Area with regard to your question of January 14, 2019 concerning street lighting along Scio Church Road between S. Seventh Street and S. Main Street.

Staff has previously reviewed the proposed installation of street lights along Scio Church between S. Seventh Street and S. Main Street, but when placed in our prioritization model and compared with the other City-wide priorities, this location was not ranked high enough to warrant performing the project at this time. Currently, we have three other locations prioritized above this locations. Also, new street lighting does not have a dedicated, ongoing, funding source, so funds for the installation of the street lights at this time are not available. This location will stay on our list of potential projects for future consideration in upcoming Capital Improvement Plans.

We appreciate your inquiry and follow-up regarding this topic and should you have any additional questions please let us know.

Thank you.

Hi Mike.

I'm the Treasurer of The Meadows neighborhood association (The Meadows is located on Marra Drive - very close to the intersection of Main Street and Scio Church Road). Last year I was informed that adding streetlights (where there are none today) was not included in the budget for the Scio Church road repairs & sidewalk addition. At that time, I was told it would be submitted as part of the 2019 budget. Can you please provide an update on this — was it approved and if so, when will the added streetlights be installed?

[Jack — I'm including you on this email since I contacted you last summer regarding this issue. As a reminder, there presently are no streetlights from Scio Church/Marra Drive intersection to Scio Church/Main Street intersection. Now there will be a new sidewalk (where there was no sidewalk before) on the north side of Scio Church from S. 7th to Main Street (along Pioneer Prairie). The addition of streetlights is needed along this sidewalk for pedestrian safety.]

Thank you,
Julie Fritz

MEMORANDUM

TO: City Council
FROM: Howard S. Lazarus, City Administrator
DATE: January 16, 2019
SUBJECT: Lower Town Area Mobility Study – Proposed Resolution with Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment, Inc., (OHM)

On November 19, 2018, City Council was presented with a proposed Resolution to Authorize a Professional Services Agreement with Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment, Inc. (OHM) for the Lower Town Area Mobility Study. City Council passed a motion to postpone action until January 22, 2019. Prior to this item returning, Council requested that staff determine if a renegotiation is possible or if the lower bid is acceptable. It was also requested that staff consider if a new bid is needed. The current version of Legistar file 18-1331 includes the revised cost information referenced in the responses below and the updated contract has been added as an attachment to the file.

Question: Is a renegotiation possible?

Response: Following direction from City Council, staff negotiated with OHM to reduce the consultant fee while minimizing the impact to the study deliverables. The consultant cost proposal was reduced from $662,992 to $579,478. This reduction came from two task areas: Task 1 Public Engagement; and Task 13 Meetings.

In Task 1, the number of public meetings was adjusted from five (5) meetings to four (4) meetings. In the new proposal, Public Meeting 1 'Introduction and Kickoff' and Public Meeting 2 'Existing Conditions Findings' are combined into one meeting.

In Task 13, in-person meetings between the consultant team and City staff were adjusted to reduce the consultant cost for attending City hosted meetings. The updated proposal includes increased conference calls and OHM hosted meetings.

Question: Is the lower bid acceptable?

Response: Staff recommends proceeding with the OHM proposal. The responses to RFP No. 18-21 were evaluated on four different criteria: Cost (10%); Professional Qualifications (20%); Past Involvement with Similar Projects (30%); and Proposed Work Plan (40%).

Professional qualifications of the OHM team were considered to be a better fit, as they recently successfully completed corridor and intersection studies in the City, as well as traffic circulation evaluations for Ann Arbor Public Schools. The OHM team includes another firm WSP as a sub-consultant to assist with a road safety audit and multimodal traffic modeling in this study. Key team members of their team are located in southeast Michigan.

The share of effort/cost between the prime firm and the sub-consultants was also evaluated. The team with greater involvement of the prime firm is considered favorable to the study. OHM accounts for 55% of overall effort of its team. Whereas, the other proposer, HRC, accounts for 39% of the overall effort of the team.

The level of effort on public engagement was another differentiator. The OHM team estimated 20% of overall project cost is necessary for public engagement. The estimate of the HRC team is 11%.

The OHM team also included a road safety audit in their work plan. This task will look for traffic crash risk factors in the entire study area. The HRC team does not have this task in their proposed work plan.

Question: Is a new bid needed?

Response: The scope and requirement of the study did not change. The market and major consulting firms which specialize in transportation in this region did not see major change. Therefore, a new bid will likely generate same/similar responses to the last Request for Proposals process.

As always, please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of further assistance on this matter.

Hi Rita,

You do not need to submit your application again. The Mayor has opened the process up to Council members and we are now able to review everyone who's applied for Boards and Commissions. You are on that list as seeking a position on the Environmental Commission. If you are interested in any other commissions, you would need to update your application.

There are many others on the list whose applications are much older than your. That doesn't seem to be a problem.

Good Afternoon Councilmember Bannister,

To answer your question about communication with the general public:
The vacant seat is posted online at on the Boards and Commissions module. If you'd like a link to share the best address to give out is:

<http://a2gov.granicus.com/boards/w/fe6c5e22e6f4a331/vacancies>

This link lists all vacant seats, not just the Environmental Commission and includes a button to apply.

As for the process of filling this seat:

I'd be happy to send out weekly updates of new applications received to both you and Councilmember Smith.

Once an applicant is selected to move forward in the process, either you or Councilmember Smith can let me know and I will get the nomination added as a resolution to an upcoming City Council agenda.

Sincerely,

Kelly Beattie | Boards and Commissions Coordinator

Thanks, Kelly! I see 7 applicants on your attached list, including John Mirsky, who actually already serves on the Environmental Commission (and maybe Energy, too). His name could be removed.

What happens next?

Is there a communication plan where the City sends out a reminder to the general public about this vacancy? If so, I'd be happy to forward it on social media and email, etc.

Josh Rego resigned from the Environmental Commission effective January 21, 2019. Mr. Rego's resignation will be filed as a Clerk's Report as part of the January 22 City Council agenda.

Councilmember Eaton:

I am writing in response to concerns I have resulting from Mondays' Council Planning Session. I've taken a few days to weigh whether or not I should bring these to your attention, and in the best interest of working relationships and staff morale I think it prudent to do so.

During the discussions that took place, which were very beneficial, there were several comments about our staff that I and others have found to be a bit demeaning to our administrative and non-union workforce. While I am sure your intentions were not to be hurtful, the words used do matter and I hope you can clarify your intent as we go through the budget process.

The use of the term "administrative staff" in a manner that implies these members of the City team do not do "real work" can (and is) perceived as mean-spirited. We have many exceptional administrators throughout the City, including staff that provide critical customer service, planning and permitting, financial management, legal, judicial, engineering, communications, clerical, technological, and utilities operation functions.

Factually, we have not added many positions to the City staff over the past five years. I laid out the hiring history to you in a December 18th memo to you. Out of the 51.75 FTEs added, 28 (54%) are employees of the Ann Arbor Housing Commission that were made City staff by Council resolution, and 9.5 (18%) are enterprise funded and are not carried within the General Fund. Of the 14.25 (28%) of the new positions within the General Fund, the largest gain was in AAPD (5). A total of three (3.25) FTE are the result of part-time to full time status. Of the remaining six (6) FTE, five (5) of these positions support planning, human resources, information technology, and boards and commissions. The remaining FTE is the Assistant City Administrator, whose actions to date more than justify the need for this position. The tracking of these positions can be a bit complicated, and I can go through these with you at your convenience.

In the end, the culture of being a lean, efficient, and high-performing team is well established throughout our City staff. Everyone plays an important role, and their work is valued. I am available to discuss the above concerns with you, and I appreciate your support going forward.

Ms. Eaton,

I share your concerns about the crosswalk at Stadium and Edgewood. I am copying Council Member Kathy Griswold and City Administrator Howard Lazarus to make them aware of your concerns.

Council Member Griswold is a long-time pedestrian safety advocate, with whom I am working to address poorly designed crosswalks. Ms. Griswold and I have been working with Ward 4 resident Eric Lipson to get improvements at this particular site. Ms. Griswold also is the Council representative to the School Transportation Safety Committee, a body composed of school and City staff to address safety, including problems such as this.

City Administrator Lazarus shares our concerns about pedestrian safety and has made the commitment that the City will make necessary improvements and will not allow cost to interfere with making needed changes.

I am confident that working together we will respond to neighborhood concerns about the Stadium-Edgewood crosswalk. The safety of all residents and especially our school-aged children must be foremost in our actions.

Best wishes,
Jack

Hello, my name is Kristina Eaton and I live on Edgewood Ave.

I have a concern regarding the cross walk at the corner of Edgewood Ave and Stadium. I have witnessed over the past few months, 3 car accidents. There may have been more that I am unaware of. Also, countless near misses to pedestrians. This includes my own child while crossing to attend Pioneer high school, WITH the lights flashing.

I would like to recommend an actual traffic signal be placed here. A signal that flashes yellow and red, one that is only functional during school hours or during events held at the high school.

I would hate for another sentinel event to take place at this location before something is done.

I have also sent this letter to credinger@a2gov.org.

I am uncertain to whom would be the most appropriate person to help with this situation.

Kind Regards,
Kristina Eaton

Dear Mr. Dunlop,

Thanks for your message. I have indeed installed filter systems rated as capable of providing purified water to NSF standards 42,53,58,401, P473 (PFAS/PFOS) The system was one recommended by a someone who works at NSF, it was AO Smith's AO-US-RO-4000. The system cost was around $200 and the installation takes about 1 ½ - 2 hours plus materials. Filter media is replaced according to usage levels but basically it's around every year, and around $100 each time.

Here is the MDEQ overview of filters:

https://www.michigan.gov/pfasresponse/0,9038,7-365-86510_87156-469641--,00.html

There is a lot of good information on PFAS and only emerging toxins available on the following sites, excuse my cut and paste I have been sharing this with a lot of folks:

The City of Ann Arbor Water Quality Reports and PFAS page:

<https://www.a2gov.org/departments/water-treatment/Pages/PFAS-Information.aspx>

The Sierra Club Toxins page:

<https://www.sierraclub.org/michigan/toxics>

note also the links to PFAS including the EPA's overview halfway down the page.

The Huron River Watershed Council PFAS information page:

<https://www.hrwc.org/our-watershed/threats/pfas-and-the-huron-river/>

The slideshow from their public seminar is interesting, and as I attended that event I could answer any remaining questions you might have.

I should point out that the City of Ann Arbor is leading the way in proactively detecting and treating for emerging toxins including the PFAS/PFOS families of chemicals; I have faith in our water department and the quality of our water, but certainly understand individuals concerns. As you surmised I don't install these on demand as part of my constituent services, but as I said I have done this for neighbors and friends. This system uses a pre-treatment water take-off inlet that is a threaded fitting, it is my understanding that this installation does not require a licensed plumber, which I am not. I would say it requires some experience with plumbing and hand tools, if you consider yourself handy you could probably install one of these yourself. This particular system has a few one-push connectors that are one-time use, so follow instructions carefully! It also requires a mounting hole in the counter for the dispenser faucet, in one instance I replaced a soap dispenser, in another I drilled a new hole in the stainless sink, so that's something to consider when planning.

Hope this helps,

Hello,

A recent Ann Arbor News article reported that you have "installed a handful of four-and five-stage filter systems for [your] neighbors and others". Could you point me to an information source about these types of filters? I am interested in both the products and qualified installers.

I assume that you don't personally install these devices for homeowners upon request!

Thank you.

Dear Senator Irwin,

Thank you for the attached letter and I look forward to hearing from your staff member! I've copied CMs Griswold, Eaton and Hayner.

We will be back in touch later about the issue I mentioned Wednesday night at the Ward 3 and 4 meeting, about pedestrian and cyclist safety, and the Safe Routes to School (SRTS) grant from Michigan Fitness Foundation and MDOT. A small delegation of residents from Ward 1 and CM Griswold and I, are organizing to try and meet with the related people in Lansing, to describe the situation in Ward 1 with the Northside STEAM SRTS sidewalk grant, and other pedestrian safety matters.

Thanks for all you do for constituents!!

Hi Anne,

The survey looks good. I like that it gave some background information, it is short and to the point, that some terms such as public safety is defined and that it is being mailed with a stamped envelop. Plus, it is asking that the person with the nearest birthday who is 18 fill it out to get a best demographic of those who only communicate by text. I suspect that the folks who believe a portion the money was already designated for climate action by city council may have a problem that this is not stated but to put it in the survey I believe would be confusing.

Thanks for sharing this with Glenn and me.

Anne,

I have one important correction. In the background statement the percent given back to communities with their own police force is 24%. The 38% is the portion going to each of the Sheriff's Department and Washtenaw County Community Mental Health.

I have one strong opinion for purposes of ease of completion and thus accuracy. The problem is that the order of the issues on the second page is ALMOST identical to that on the first page but has one exception. The typical respondent completing this survey quickly while looking forward to moving on to something else is likely to remember his or her responses on the first page as they complete the second page, that is, be thinking something like "the first, third and fifth issues are most important to me" and then give the first, third, and fifth issues high percentages on page 2 -- which would of course be a mis-representation of their view. I strongly recommend either 1) use the same order on the second page as the first or 2) completely scramble the order on the second page relative to the first. The former makes it easy for the respondent to be consistent. The latter forces the respondent to rethink his or her responses because the order is obviously scrambled. I prefer #1. The only change needed is to move the current third issue on the second page (mental health) to be the first issue while leaving all other issues in the same order as they are now.

Thank you for this opportunity to give you suggestions you may wish to feed into the review process.

Mayor and Council,

The City contracted with the National Research Center (NRC) to perform the closed survey of residents on the use of the rebated funds from the county's Mental Health and Public Safety millage. NRC is the same organization that performs the National Citizens Survey every couple of years for the city.

After providing the background information regarding this topic which included the ballot language and all council resolutions, the survey specialist drafted the attached survey. As indicated during council discussion on this topic, the draft is being shared with Council prior to finalization. If council members have comments about the survey, please email me directly. A final review to ensure the survey is unbiased is planned for early next week, so if any Council comments could be sent to me by 8 a.m. Monday, it would be appreciated.

Councilmember Eaton:

I am writing in response to concerns I have resulting from Mondays' Council Planning Session. I've taken a few days to weigh whether or not I should bring these to your attention, and in the best interest of working relationships and staff morale I think it prudent to do so.

During the discussions that took place, which were very beneficial, there were several comments about our staff that I and others have found to be a bit demeaning to our administrative and non-union workforce. While I am sure your intentions were not to be hurtful, the words used do matter and I hope you can clarify your intent as we go through the budget process.

The use of the term "administrative staff" in a manner that implies these members of the City team do not do "real work" can (and is) perceived as mean-spirited. We have many exceptional administrators throughout the City, including staff that provide critical customer service, planning and permitting, financial management, legal, judicial, engineering, communications, clerical, technological, and utilities operation functions.

Factually, we have not added many positions to the City staff over the past five years. I laid out the hiring history to you in a December 18th memo to you. Out of the 51.75 FTEs added, 28 (54%) are employees of the Ann Arbor Housing Commission that were made City staff by Council resolution, and 9.5 (18%) are enterprise funded and are not carried within the General Fund. Of the 14.25 (28%) of the new positions within the General Fund, the largest gain was in AAPD (5). A total of three (3.25) FTE are the result of part-time to full time status. Of the remaining six (6) FTE, five (5) of these positions support planning, human resources, information technology, and boards and commissions. The remaining FTE is the Assistant City Administrator, whose actions to date more than justify the need for this position. The tracking of these positions can be a bit complicated, and I can go through these with you at your convenience.

In the end, the culture of being a lean, efficient, and high-performing team is well established throughout our City staff. Everyone plays an important role, and their work is valued. I am available to discuss the above concerns with you, and I appreciate your support going forward.

Subject: Comments from the Council Planning Session

Councilmember Eaton:

I am writing in response to concerns I have resulting from Mondays' Council Planning Session. I've taken a few days to weigh whether or not I should bring these to your attention, and in the best interest of working relationships and staff morale I think it prudent to do so.

During the discussions that took place, which were very beneficial, there were several comments about our staff that I and others have found to be a bit demeaning to our administrative and non-union workforce. While I am sure your intentions were not to be hurtful, the words used do matter and I hope you can clarify your intent as we go through the budget process.

The use of the term "administrative staff" in a manner that implies these members of the City team do not do "real work" can (and is) perceived as mean-spirited. We have many exceptional administrators throughout the City, including staff that provide critical customer service, planning and permitting, financial management, legal, judicial, engineering, communications, clerical, technological, and utilities operation functions.

Factually, we have not added many positions to the City staff over the past five years. I laid out the hiring history to you in a December 18th memo to you. Out of the 51.75 FTEs added, 28 (54%) are employees of the Ann Arbor Housing Commission that were made City staff by Council resolution, and 9.5 (18%) are enterprise funded and are not carried within the General Fund. Of the 14.25 (28%) of the new positions within the General Fund, the largest gain was in AAPD (5). A total of three (3.25) FTE are the result of part-time to full time status. Of the remaining six (6) FTE, five (5) of these positions support planning, human resources, information technology, and boards and commissions. The remaining FTE is the Assistant City Administrator, whose actions to date more than justify the need for this position. The tracking of these positions can be a bit complicated, and I can go through these with you at your convenience.

In the end, the culture of being a lean, efficient, and high-performing team is well established throughout our City staff. Everyone plays an important role, and their work is valued. I am available to discuss the above concerns with you, and I appreciate your support going forward.

That's been floating around in there for years now, I agree it's time to put this idea to rest. If the AAPS calls a special election for a millage vote, I will move to add approval of this project to the ballot, as the original resolution calls for. Or we could just move to strike it from the CIP entirely. All,

I voted in favor of this purchase, and have been working to convince my colleagues to bring this back on Tuesday. I am hopeful that I can convince them to do so, and I am also on guard against the re-purposing of Greenbelt dollars for “alternative” projects, which is something I have heard floated around. Importance: High

Dear Councilmembers:

Northfield Township has established a land preservation committee and has been taking steps to identify properties within the Township worthy of preserving. We realize the value of being able to provide locally sourced food in addition to natural areas for the protection of water and wildlife. While we don't currently have funds to contribute to individual projects, we are expending $3000 for identification work and information sharing meetings with landowners. The Lepkowski parcel is one of those parcels identified.

At your last council meeting, greenbelt funding for its preservation was denied. In the meantime, we and others have been exploring options to make this application successful and respectfully request that a council member bring back this item to the next agenda for tabling until negotiations with the applicant and interested parties and/or a revised package can be prepared for your consideration.

We appreciate the preservation of the many parcels within the township that have come before you.

Thank you in advance for a positive response to our request to bring this back for reconsideration.
Please call Marlene at [REDACTED] if you would like any more information.

I am distributing a summary from last Friday's briefing attended by Mayor Taylor and CM's Lumm, Eaton and Hayner, in advance of tomorrow's 11 am briefing at Ross (room 0320).

For tomorrow's briefing we have confirmed CM's Smith, Griswold, and Bannister, and City Administrator Lazarus. Please let us know if others anticipate attending, as we need to stay under quorum.

I understand that City Administrator Lazarus and Peter Allen have extended invitations to various City Department leaders and other key stakeholders, also on copy. A light lunch will be served.

The objectives for this briefing remain the same:

- 1) Provide Council Members an opportunity to review Y-lot projects defined by the students last semester that address affordability, transportation, and climate challenges facing the City.
- 2) Obtain feedback on the structure of the projects based on the proposed building's mass, uses, timing, design elements, and cost and revenue projections.
- 3) Secure guidance and recommendations on the specific stakeholders Council would expect to be involved in any development on the Y-lot.
- 4) Define key junctures during the semester for follow-up participation by Council and stakeholders, including mid-term and final projects reviews, and a charrette / design workshop in early May.

We are looking forward to your continued guidance.

They go from 11:00 – 12:30pm, and a light lunch will be provided.

Mayor Taylor and Howard Lazarus have already agreed to join the meetings, with Mayor Taylor on January 11th and the Howard Lazarus on the 18th. City Hall staff including Derek Delacourt, Jennifer Hall, Missy Stults, and Susan Polly have also been invited.

As I previously stated, this graduate course in real estate could easily serve as a first, very inexpensive step towards a City-wide Task Force on Affordability and Climate to formalize a public engagement process similar to the 2005 Calthorpe Strategy Initiative. That initiative started with a Downtown Residential Task Force in 2003. Given the current dynamics regarding development of City owned land, the student teams could serve as a cogent sounding board for Ann Arbor stakeholders, while considering options and direction for just such a new City-wide Task Force.

Please confirm if you can attend either the January 11th or the January 18th briefings. We'll need a head-count for the lunch order.

Thank you, again, for your consideration. We hope to see you there!

Hi Tish,

Happy to have you as a constituent!

The Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) is, by state law, prepared and adopted by the City's Planning Commission. It reflects the "wish list" of those participating in its formation. The City Council has no role in adopting or approving the CIP.

Conversely, the City Council has authority over the City budget. While the CIP is meant to advise the Council, the Council can and has disregarded the projects and priorities in the CIP. I'm am pretty confident that Council will not approve $14 million MORE dollars for train station planning. Similarly, before anything in the CIP advances, it must first be approved as part of the Council's Capital Improvement Budget.

Hope that answers your questions and concerns.

Best wishes,
Jack

1. Why is the train station still on the table? $14.5 million seems fiscally negligent to me.
2. Is the intersection at Hill/State on the list to be repaired? I take Hill all the way to Geddes every day for work and it is a mess from Packard all the way to Tappan with the aforementioned intersection being the absolute worst.
3. Is the airport also funded by Pittsfield Twp.? Isn't this where it is located?

Thanks for your time and your service to our community.

Dear Mayor and Members of the City Council,

I am deeply saddened to learn of the proposed trespassing ordinance. I am a resident of Ward 3 (Pittsfield Village Condos) and am troubled that this policy is being put forth by my representative.

I am saddened because I had sincerely hoped that by this point we would all understand that responding to human struggles by criminalizing people does not work and in fact harms everything we love and care about.

I am saddened because I returned to my birthplace of Ann Arbor four years ago after watching the beautiful San Francisco Bay Area lose its soul to corporate-driven development, push out families with children, and devastate the diverse communities that made it the special place that it was.

I am saddened because policing, rather than community investment, is such a tragic failure of values and imagination.

Folks, we can do better than this. We really can.

Please vote no on this ordinance, or better yet just yank it from consideration.

Let's not choose to criminalize -- to put people who are struggling in a worse situation -- when we can do something else. Here's a program that Eugene, Oregon is doing that we could choose to do here.

I share your opinion that the Greenbelt program has been a success and is valuable on many levels. I hope the limited funds could also be considered for high value projects within the City, such as Lockwood off Wagner Rd, the forested site off Packard Rd, the chimney swifts and Treeline Trail at 415 W Washington, to the library block in the center of the city.

One thing the Sierra Club has unequivocally stood for since its inception in 2003—and that is the passage of the Ann Arbor Greenbelt millage. We fought hard for its passage. We believe the Greenbelt is the greatest environmental success story for our community in the past 20 years.

Given that, I was quite surprised to hear that each of you turned down the Kepkowski farm Greenbelt application, on the basis for lack of matching funds at your last meeting. I think this decision really warrants your reconsideration. As I understand it, If the denial stands, the farmer has said he'll be forced to close down operations.

Below is a letter by my good friend, Dave Gordon, a former Northfield Township planning commissioner. He is with us on key issues, and has been my friend for many years. He is a fellow traveler and has shared the school of hard knocks with me on dealing with developer interests. I know he had contacted you on this matter, but I stand behind his statement. Under the circumstances, and knowing Dave, I strongly believe you should reconsider your vote, and vote for its passage, or at the very least, a postponement so that the farmer can apply for other matching grants.

The Greenbelt is one of better investments for climate change and sustainability, not to mention quality of life for Ann Arbor's residents, so it is incumbent on ourselves to keep forward with the Greenbelt's mission.

I'd be more than happy to pursue for you to set up a meeting with Dave if you like.

As always, I'd be happy to talk to you about this, and other environmental issues if you have any questions.

Thanks and best,

Hello Council Members:

I was extremely disappointed that seven of you voted to deny a Greenbelt recommendation to preserve the Kepkowski farm in Northfield Township.

Some of us Northfield Township residents have been working to preserve land here and to get Board of Trustees to act on a millage request. The current Township administration created a Land Preservation Committee two years ago and it is making progress. (slowly but surely)

I urge you to re-consider your "denial".

A “postponement” will allow this small family farmer to keep their hopes alive and not force them to start the application process from scratch. Also, a denial will have a negative impact on our efforts to move preservation forward within our community.

We understand that having community buy-in is crucial. Please help us achieve that part of the puzzle.

Thank you for your consideration.

Subject: Art Commission reception this Sunday: 3-5pm

Hi Jack,

I am writing to invite you to a reception for the Ann Arbor Public Art Commission this Sunday, January 27, at my home from 3-5pm.

You are welcome to bring a guest and meet our art commissioners: Connie Brown, Jonah Copi, Colleen Crawley, David Esau, Mary Thiefels, David Zinn, Deb Mexicotte, Allison Buck, and myself. Our new Council liaison, Ali Ramlawi, will also be there. Allison and Deb are our new chair and vice chair, respectively.

As you know, I have served for six years on the Art Commission with the last three as chair. Our bylaws prevent the chair from serving more than three years and I am thrilled to serve now as a commissioner following the leadership of Allison and Deb.

I am also pleased with what the art commission has achieved in the last three years.

Because the City budget does not provide for a full time dedicated staff, the art commission has transitioned from a group that administered the selection of artwork to a group that provides strategic advice. This has actually benefited Ann Arbor's broader creative community by leveraging their expertise and their network of supporters to help the city instead of the art commission administer the selection process.

Recommendations to Staff and Council

Art Selection Process

We have advised staff that there are art projects that can be handle in-house, like the award-winning repainting of the Manchester Water Tower. Other projects, like wrapping traffic signal electrical boxes in vinyl artwork, are best outsourced to local arts organizations who have dedicated staff like the Art Alliance. Selecting public art is more than just picking the art. It involves building stakeholders for the project and promoting it. There is no better way to do that than to activate our creative community by contracting for their expertise.

The art commission can offer oversight to identify best practices and provide important feedback on what went right and how it could be done better.

CIP Potential

We have also developed criteria to identify potential in municipal construction. As we build our physical infrastructure, we should also build our cultural infrastructure. The most cost-effective way we show the world that we are the creative capitol of our region, is to leverage the materials we use in constructing our buildings, bridges, walls, and roads. Creative design can mean we design a water tower other than the typical mushroom shape or it can mean we use a mural for wayfinding. The art commission has carefully developed measurable criteria and a process to identify those infrastructure projects that have the most potential for creative design. It has used that data to identify several construction projects (see report link below). It is now up to the individual project managers, and the artists they enlist, to take advantage of this potential.

Public Art as Public Asset

Ann Arbor's public art is a valuable public asset worth more than $2M. Prudent management requires that it be treated as other municipal assets. The art commission has recommended that city staff develop an inventory of all public art, listing a description, location, value, and maintenance schedule. This is necessary to keep our cultural assets in as good a condition as our infrastructure. This inventory will also allow for maps, walking tours, and other promotional information so that residents and visitors can fully appreciate our unique culture.

Private Donations

Our wealthier citizens need an opportunity to leave their mark on our City. They could do this through a cash donation for public art. Additionally, some artists would welcome an opportunity to donate artwork to a city with our demographic profile. Both of these initiatives are in the planning stage and I trust our new leadership will develop them.

Student Involvement

Finally, the art commission strongly believes that building a shared public art collection demands inclusion. We want Ann Arbor's young, creative, energetic citizens - our students - to join in our effort. Connie Brown, Deb Mexicotte, Jonah Copi, and Mary Thiefels are leading that initiative.

Jack, Anne, and Elizabeth,

I am writing in support of the request from Dave Gordon of Northfield Neighbors for Council to reconsider and postpone (rather than deny) its recent vote denying the proposed use of Greenbelt funds for the conservation easement at the Kepkowski farm (see below).

Northfield Neighbors have been working for a long time in support of land preservation in Northfield Township. Two years ago the township administration finally created a Land Preservation Committee, with the next step of trying to establish a millage to help fund their work. A postponement, rather than an outright denial, of a Greenbelt funding decision could provide some impetus for the township to move forward on this.

I hope you will give some thought to reconsidering the denial in favor of a postponement.

The Ann Arbor City Council earlier this month denied a Greenbelt recommendation to save a 75-acre farm in Northfield Township. (mlive story link below)

If the Council reconsiders on THIS TUESDAY's meeting and changes their position from "denial" to "postpone", it will keep the process alive. If the denial stands, the farmer has said he'll be forced to close down operations.

Please email the Ann Arbor City Council today (link below).

I've also attached the email I sent them if you'd like to use it as a template.

We have a Land Preservation Committee in our township now and they're working to get matching funds for all our farmers. This Ann Arbor Council denial will not help.

Please act today and thanks!

Hello Council Members:

I was extremely disappointed that seven of you voted to deny a Greenbelt recommendation to preserve the Kepkowski farm in Northfield Township.

Some of us Northfield Township residents have been working to preserve land here and to get Board of Trustees to act on a millage request. The current Township administration created a Land Preservation Committee two years ago and it is making progress. (slowly but surely)

I urge you to re-consider your "denial".

A "postponement" will allow this small family farmer to keep their hopes alive and not force them to start the application process from scratch. Also, a denial will have a negative impact on our efforts to move preservation forward within our community.

We understand that having community buy-in is crucial. Please help us achieve that part of the puzzle.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

A Northfield Township citizen -- www.NorthfieldNeighbors.today

Dear Ms. Higgins,

DS- 1, 18-0331 Resolution to Authorize a Professional Services Agreement with Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment (OHM) for the Lower Town Area Mobility Study ($579,478.00):

1. What specific solutions does staff intend to receive from this study?
2. Which of these solutions would staff consider implementing? Please include the range of cost estimates and timeline.
3. What thoughts does staff already have about the known traffic problems in the area?
4. How many new pedestrians, bicycles, and automobiles are expected from the developments in the area, including 1140 Broadway, Broadway Park (DTE), Cottages at Barton Green (Trinitas), The Glen Hotel, the new UM parking structure, and Northsky, the 70 new condos, and the large vacant lot, etc.? Please break it down by peak rush hours in the mornings and afternoons.
5. Given that 1140 Broadway is adding 1000 new residents with only 550 parking spaces and basically no commercial for them to shop, where does staff anticipate the new people will park?
6. For the traffic flows on Swift and Broadway, and then to downtown or back around to Wall and Maiden Lane and to the Med Center, how much traffic gridlock is anticipated and what grade level might this be?
7. Will the ingress/egress onto Maiden Lane from 1140 Broadway and the McKinley apartment complex, encourage heavy cut through traffic up the residential Broadway hill?
8. Will the 1140 Broadway roundabout encourage cut through traffic up the Broadway hill? What can be done to minimize this?

Attachments: Agenda Responses 1-22-19 Final.pdf

Hi Tom, Mary, and Laura,

The staff Responses to our questions about the Lower Town study are on pages 13 - 15 of the attached memo, and cut & pasted here:

DS – 1- Resolution to Authorize a Professional Services Agreements with Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment, Inc. (OHM) for the Lower Town Area Mobility Study (RFP No. 18- 21) ($579,478.00) and Appropriate Funding from the Major Street Fund Balance ($649,478.00) (8 Votes Required)

Question: What specific solutions does staff intend to receive from this study?
(Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff is unable to identify specific solutions prior to the findings of the study being complete. The study process, including technical analysis and public engagement, will identify solutions and test their feasibility. Generally speaking, the study is meant to conduct a comprehensive mobility study centered in the City's Lower Town Area. The study must address the mobility needs for users of all means of transportation, including pedestrians, bicyclists, transit riders, and drivers and passengers of motorized vehicles.

Question: Which of these solutions would staff consider implementing? Please include the range of cost estimates and timeline. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff is unable to identify specific solutions, including their cost or timeline, prior to the findings of the study being complete.

Question: What thoughts does staff already have about the known traffic problems in the area? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff's understanding of the transportation issues are identified in the scope of services as follows: "Development in the northern areas of the City can reasonably be expected to add demand to the City's mobility network. The confluence of Pontiac Trail, Broadway, Plymouth Road, Moore Street, Wall Street, and Maiden Lane (also known as Lower Town) has the potential to become a mobility chokepoint. City Council desires to mitigate the potential impacts of development on the City's quality of life. In December 2017, City Council passed a resolution requesting City Staff to review and update of previous studies of vehicular, transit, bicycle, and pedestrian movements leading to, and traveling through, the Lower Town area."

Question: How many new pedestrians, bicycles, and automobiles are expected from the developments in the area, including 1140 Broadway, Broadway Park (DTE), Cottages at Barton Green (Trinitas), The Glen Hotel, the new UM parking structure, and Northsky, the 70 new condos, and the large vacant lot, etc.? Please break it down by peak rush hours in the mornings and afternoons. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response:

AM Peak Hour	Pedestrian Trips	Bicyclist Trips	Trips by Transit	Vehicular Trips
1140 Broadway	55	20	40	239
Roxbury Broadway Park (under review/revision)				125
Cottages at Barton Green	2	6	62	149
UM Parking Structure	Similar amount to vehicular trips			354
Glen Hotel				155
North Sky				144
Bristol Ridge				34
PM Peak Hour	Pedestrian Trips	Bicyclist Trips	Trips by Transit	Vehicular Trips
1140 Broadway	76	28	56	309
Roxbury Broadway Park (under review/revision)				143
Cottages at Barton Green	3	11	93	212
UM Parking Structure	Similar amount to vehicular trips			325
Glen Hotel				185
North Sky				184
Bristol Ridge				42

Data from traffic impact studies will be inputs into the analysis performed by the consultant

Question: Given that 1140 Broadway is adding 1000 new residents with only 550 parking spaces and basically no commercial for them to shop, where does staff anticipate the new people will park? (Councilmember Bannister)

14 Agenda Response Memo– January 22, 2019

Response: This study will not address the parking availability of the 1140 Broadway project. It will consider the transportation demands based on the uses at this location and others in the area.

Question: For the traffic flows on Swift and Broadway, and then to downtown or back around to Wall and Maiden Lane and to the Med Center, how much traffic gridlock is anticipated and what grade level might this be? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Based on the analysis tools available to us today, this area is expected to perform at LOS (level of service) C or D during the morning commute peak, and LOS E or F during the afternoon peak.

Question: Will the ingress/egress onto Maiden Lane from 1140 Broadway and the McKinley apartment complex, encourage heavy cut through traffic up the residential Broadway hill? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The purpose of the study is to perform a sub-area analysis of transportation challenges and strategies to address them for the Lower Town area. The intent of the study is not to analyze site specific improvements that are part of a development approved by the Planning Commission and City Council.

Question: Will the 1140 Broadway roundabout encourage cut through traffic up the Broadway hill? What can be done to minimize this? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The purpose of the study is to perform a sub-area analysis of transportation challenges and strategies to address them for the Lower Town area. The intent of the study is not to analyze site specific improvements that are part of a development approved by the Planning Commission and City Council.

SUBJECT: Council Agenda Responses

CA-8 – Resolution to Approve Distributions from the City’s Police and Firemen’s Relief Fund ($100,000.00)

Question: Regarding CA-8, what implications/additional restrictions are there (if any) by changing the designation from a special revenue fund to a private purpose trust fund? Also, assuming these dollars are invested, does the interest/investment income accrue to this fund? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: There are no additional restrictions. The funds can only be expended for items related to the purpose of the fund which is the way it has been handled in recent decades. A budget for the fund won’t legally be required, but the city will still include it at budget adoption for consistency. All interest and investment income remains within the fund to be utilized for the purpose of the fund.

CA-9 – Resolution to Approve the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the City of Ann Arbor and Local 693 of the International Association of Fire Fighters (Ann Arbor Firefighters Union) effective January 1, 2017 - December 31, 2019

Question: Q1. How does the 2.5% annual pay increases here (for 2017, 2018 and 2019) compare with the increases for the other large bargaining units (AFSCME, Police etc.) and for non-union employees? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Please see the attached file for an overview of the annual pay increase across all City groups for 2017, 2018 and 2019.

Question: Q2. Similarly, did other city employees have their annual health care reimbursement contributions from the city increase during the 2017-2019 period, and if so, were the increases a similar $1,000 (to $3,500)? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Per the attached pdf file, the increase in RHRA follows the increase given to other unions and the non-union employees.

Question: Q3. Since there has not been a new contract since 2016, I'm assuming the Firefighters are not on the City's hybrid pension plan for new hires. If that's accurate and given there's no mention of the change in the cover memo, I'm also assuming the Firefighters will not be on the new plan in this contract either. If that's also accurate, did the City attempt to negotiate the change? If not, why not? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The City has had several discussions with the Fire union regarding the hybrid plan. This is not a negotiation proposal that they are willing to accept at this time, especially in light of the recent AAPOA 312 Arbitration decision regarding the City's hybrid plan.

Question: Q4. The cover memo indicates that while the costs for the contract exceed what was budgeted in FY19, the "Fire Department has the ability to contain the added costs within their budget." Can you please elaborate on that -- how much do the costs for the contract exceed the FY19 budget by and what are the specific underrun areas? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: It's an estimated $33,000 additional for the regular wages and $42,000 for the retro on the overtime wages that were not part of the contingency that we have held for the Fire Department in anticipation of the contract settling. The Fire department currently has two open vacancies due to retirements that were not filled. This has provided the savings needed.

CA-10 - Resolution to Approve an Agreement for Occupational Health Services with Michigan Urgent Care, PC

Question: Regarding CA-10, was there a contract/preferred vendor providing these testing services previously? If so, how do the fees under this contract compare with the prior contract? If not, were departments essentially on their own to contract for the services and are there any objections from departments with the new requirement that Michigan Urgent Care must be used? Also, roughly how much do we spend annually on these Occupational Health Services? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Yes, these services have always been centralized to a City approved vendor. The previous vendor was Concentra. Part of the impetus for this change was negative feedback received from departments, such as Police and Fire who do a lot of hiring and were not satisfied with the current vendor.

In addition, occupational health services are part of the hiring and workers compensation processes, which are managed by Human Resources. Most City managers are not involved in the execution of these processes and thus, would not necessarily be concerned about a change in vendor.

As you can see from the attached file, the fees are comparable, with some services being slightly higher and some being slightly lower. All of these services listed in the file are requested on a regular basis and include services for pre-employment testing, workers comp, random breath alcohol test, and safety department post-employment medical surveillance testing (i.e., such as audiograms).

Annual Expenses
2018 $27,373.50

CA-11 – Resolution to Approve the Renewal of the City’s Contract with Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan to Provide Administrative Claims Processing Services and Stop-Loss Coverage for the City’s Health Care Plan on Behalf of Employees and Retirees and their Dependents, and to Authorize the City Administrator to Execute the Necessary Documentation ($1,905,892.00)

Question: Q1. The cover memo indicates that the claims processing and stop-loss costs are increasing, but not by how much. How much is the year-to-year increase and what is the stop-loss level we are protected above? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: From 2018 to 2019, administrative fees charged directly by BCBSM for claims administration, network management, reporting, etc., increased by +3% or $32,646 annually. This is an adjustment typical of the market at large. Stoploss insurance premiums increased by +14% or $73,960 annually. The stoploss specific deductible is set at $350,000, and covers medical claims only. MMA markets stop loss coverage each year to ensure competitive pricing. For 2019, medical only and combined medical + Rx proposals were solicited from the commercial marketplace. No competitive offers were submitted, citing mainly the large retiree claims exposure. As well, BCBSM will not issue a stoploss policy on the carved out Rx program administered through Express Scripts. Hence, the BCBSM stoploss insurance policy for 2019 encompasses only medical claims, with City liability capped at $350,000 per subscriber.

Question: Q2. The cover memo indicates the benefit levels themselves are not changing. When was the last time the benefit levels (including deductibles, co-pays etc) were changed and what were the major changes? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: In 2010, the City began changing from a single medical plan offering ($250 single / $500 family deductible) to offering two medical plans (HIGH Plan: $300/$600 In-network deductible & LOW Plan: $1,000 / $2,000 in-network deductible). Since 2010, we've been making minor changes to the current active and retiree plans per the Affordable Care Act mandates (a variety of modifications applicable to 'non-grandfathered' plans, with changes including 100% preventative care benefits, increased mental health care benefits, indexing of out of pocket maximums, etc.). Of course, contribution impact changes have been implemented in accordance with negotiated labor agreements and PA152.

Question: Q3. Also, when was the last time we benchmarked our employee health care plan, its cost, and the cost sharing (employer/employee) to other cities and other employers in SE Michigan and what did that benchmarking tell us? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The City benchmarks our health plans annually with the help of March & McLennan Agency (MMA). Benchmark comparators include Michigan Government as well as national Government. The City plans are deemed 'median' or better than market, in the context of both plan design, member cost-sharing, and the level of premium contribution required by members, as the City cost performance in recent years has been relatively favorable, with City 'net' cost below the statutory PA152 Hard Cap level. Thus, members have also benefitted directly through lower premium contributions than might otherwise have been applicable had City costs increased at a rate more in line with secular/normative trends in the general market, and more specifically within the public sector.

CA-13 - Resolution to Authorize Additional Payments to Unum Life Insurance Company of America for Associated Group Term Life, Accident, and Disability Insurance Policies for City Employees and their Eligible Dependents ($93,312.15) (8 Votes Required)

Question: Q1. The CA-13 cover memo indicates that the life insurance benefit amount was increased from $5,000 to $10,000 due to higher average funeral costs. While that isn't unreasonable or a huge cost to the City, it raises questions in terms of who makes the decisions on when employee benefit levels are changed. Can you please clarify the policy/practice in terms of the authority and decision making for changing employee benefit levels? Also, what other employee (or retiree) benefit levels (if any) have been revised in the last couple of years beyond those identified when Council approved union contracts? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: For large benefit changes (those with significant monetary impact), the proposed plans are brought to the City's Labor Committee for review. When we moved to the current two plan medical benefit offering back in 2010, the plan design and financial implications were reviewed with the Labor Committee, including presentations by our benefits broker. Benefit changes that are smaller in monetary impact are reviewed with our benefits broker and the City Administrator.

The only other benefit levels that have changed recently include increasing the amount of the RHRA (please see response to CA-9 for detail), and an increase in employee voluntary life insurance, both of which were included in the resolutions that went to Council for approval.

Question: Q2. The CA-13 cover memo also indicates the $93K supplement is necessary due to (1) the increased benefit level (2) benefit audit-related adjustments and (3) administrative billing audit. How much did each contribute to the $93K overrun and can you please provide more detail on (2) and (3)? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The increased funding is necessary due to the following factors:

- 1) Increased retiree life insurance benefit level: $30,000. To clarify, the life insurance benefit for retirees was only changed for a few unions, as most of the unions already had a $10,000 benefit level.
- 2) Benefit audit-related adjustments: $10,000. The City recently discovered gaps in the Unum contracts as they relate to the life and disability benefits outlined in the CBA's. In order to comply with union contracts, minor changes to UNUM benefits had to be made with some union groups. These included eligibility period and benefit level updates. Despite the added eligibility/coverage and back due premium, Unum did re-rate or retro charge the City. There was no cost charged by MMA to complete the benefit audit and Unum held current rates for the remainder of 2018 for any changes that occurred. In order to ensure future compliance, all benefits and unions are now listed individually in each contract.
- 3) Administrative billing audit: $53,000
A UNUM billing audit was completed. During this audit, it was discovered that the City had been underpaying UNUM for the benefits being offered. It should be noted that shortages in payments to Unum over several years were not recouped on a retrospective basis. The City was successful in negotiating away any under-reported volumes/premium. The City and its' benefit broker have developed a more effective and efficient way to track and administer UNUM benefits.

Question: Q3. Per the CA-13 cover memos, the 2018 original contract was $440K and is being supplemented to $533K. The whereas clauses in CA-14 indicated the premiums are either flat or decreasing yet the CA-14 cover memo states the cost of the benefit is $609K annually (much higher than 2018). What am I missing - can you please explain? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Because of the above 3 items listed in CA-13 Q2, overall costs going forward will increase for UNUM. These changes were made mid-year in 2018, therefore, to account for a full calendar year, the overall cost for CY 2019 has increased as well.

CA-14 - Resolution to Authorize Payments to Unum Life Insurance Company of America and to Renew Associated Group Term Life, Accident, and Disability Insurance Policies for City Employees and their Eligible Dependents, and to Authorize the City Administrator to Execute the Necessary Documentation ($1,340,685.00)

Question: The cover memo for CA-14 indicates the current contract with Unum is through 12/31/2020, but the second whereas clause in CA-14 indicates the contract is up for renewal on January 1, 2019. Can you please clarify? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The prior agreement with Unum expired on 12/31/18. MMA was successful in negotiating the renewal with Unum in the fall of 2018, for the 2019 benefit year. The policy renewed with a multi-year rating guarantee from Unum which commits Unum through 12/31/2020. However, the policy itself is an annually renewable group contract under which the City has the unilateral discretion to re-negotiate terms, or terminate without negative financial recourse should circumstances dictate a change in insurer is necessary. Thus, as a point of clarity, the contract itself is a one year contract. The rates are guaranteed to renew at 1/1/20 without change from current rate levels. The City/MMA plan to revisit the active marketing of this program for 2020.

CA – 16 - Resolution to Approve Amendment No. 4 to the Hosted Human Resources and Payroll System Agreement with Ultimate Software Group, Inc., ($25,000.00)

Question: Regarding CA-16, how much was the City paying the vendor previously for providing these 1095C services? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The City was paying the previous vendor approximately $12,000 annually, but experienced significant data integrity issues with the previous vendor, which led to the issuance of over 80 incorrect 1095C forms. In addition, the change of vendors will significantly decrease the amount of hours needed to transfer and audit the data (approximately 215 man-hours annually) since the data is now housed in the same UltiPro database as our other HR and payroll related data.

CA-19 – Resolution to Approve Change Order No. 3 with Strawser Construction, Inc. for the 2017 Street Surface Treatment Project (ITB No. 4478; $43,029.76)

Question: The resolution notes that the contractor is in compliance with the requirements of the City’s Non-Discrimination and Living Wage Ordinances. Does the City also require compliance with the City’s prevailing wage ordinance for road projects? (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: The resolution notes that the contractor is in compliance with the requirements of the City’s Non-Discrimination and Living Wage. The City does require compliance with the City’s prevailing wage ordinance for road projects; Strawser Construction is in compliance.

CA-23 - Resolution to Approve a Progressive Design-Build Agreement for Professional Services with J. Ranck Electric, Inc. for Phase 1 of the Water Treatment Plant SCADA System Modernization Project ($210,198.00)

Question: Regarding CA-23, can you please elaborate on the pros and cons for using this “progressive design build” approach (as opposed to completely separating the design and construction phases) and why the approach is being used for this project and not others? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The progressive design-build model combines the Design Engineer and Contractor into one single team. The main advantage of this approach is to utilize the expertise of the Contractor during the design phase, ideally saving time and money and avoiding conflicts throughout the project. Separating the design and construction phases can take longer because the design must be 100 percent complete before the job is bid and construction can commence. Construction can commence before design details are finalized in the progressive design-build approach. Progressive design-build will also allow the City to leverage the expertise of the design-build team to develop cost-effective solutions. When separated the designer and contractor are typically at odds, each protecting their own specific interests, and the City may not achieve an optimized final product. A disadvantage of progressive design-build is that the final construction amount is not known until later in the project after the Design-Build Team obtains bids. However, throughout the design phase, the Contractor is providing up-to-date pricing estimates to the City to show how the decisions made impact the final pricing.

Progressive design-build, as well as other design-build project delivery methods, are increasingly becoming more prevalent. This approach mitigates performance/operational risks in project delivery. The City will be using this project as a model and intends to add this project delivery method to its repertoire of contract types for future use. It is a particularly useful project delivery method for large and complex construction projects.

Question: Also on CA-23, the bid scoring summary indicates that J. Rank received less points (12 vs 17) on fees than the other bidder. I’m assuming that means their bid was higher so what was the difference in the fee proposals between the two firms?

(Councilmember Lumm)

Response: That is correct, J. Ranck did provide a higher fee. The difference price between the two fee proposals was $35,198.

B – 1- An Ordinance to Amend Section 2:64 of Chapter 29 (Change Sewer Rates) of Title II of the Code of the City of Ann Arbor (Ordinance No. ORD-18-33)

Question: Regarding B-1, how much additional annual revenue will this proposed increase generate for the sewer system? Also, roughly how much of the incremental revenue is necessary to pay for operating cost increases and how much is available to support new capital investment? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The proposed 7% rate increase will generate $1,773,984 in additional revenue. The increase is necessary for debt coverage requirements, which includes the debt service payment and depreciation for the WWTP Facilitates Renovation Project. This is for previously constructed capital.

Question: Also on B-1, can you please revise the cover memo (beyond just the one sentence at the end) to reflect that this is just sewer rates? The reason I ask is that leaving the memo text the same with the water rate references may be confusing for folks (especially the references to the average single-family customer impacts). (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: The memo has been updated as requested.

B-5 – An Ordinance to Amend Sections 1:240D, 1:240E and 1:240F of Chapter 9 (City Seal and Flag) of Title I of the Code of the City of Ann Arbor

Question: Please include the questions and answers about the seal from Assistant City Attorney Matthew Rechten that he did not subject to privilege in the publicly accessible agenda question document for this meeting. (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: Attached.

C – 1 - An Ordinance to Amend Chapter 108 (Disorderly Conduct) of Title IX of the Code of the City of Ann Arbor to Add a New Section 9:69 (Trespass)

Question: Do we have any statistics about how many of these citations are written on a regular basis? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: These are not currently written as citations but are submitted for warrants. The city ordinance would give officers that option. There were 268 Trespass Calls for Service in 2018 with 20 arrests for Trespass (thru 8/09/18). One individual accounted for 6 of those arrests. Please note AAPD handles approximately 60,000 calls for service a year.

Question: I understand that these citations are complaint-driven, do we have a statistics or numbers re: how many citations are requested by what kind of property owners (e.g. housing organizations, public businesses, regular property owners/residents)? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: Staff would need more time to do a more in-depth breakdown as the information is not stored nor searchable this way. This would have to be determined by reviewing each incident. When a call comes in to the 911 Center, the call takers list the address, the caller's name, when provided, but not necessarily an affiliation. The officer generally determines this upon arrival.

I looked at the 268 Trespass Calls for Service addresses for 2018 (thru August 9th). There is a wide variety of names and addresses. I separated out locations with more than two trespassing calls for service and broke them down below. I believe this provides a reasonable representation of common locations.

Location types with more than 2 trespassing calls in 2018:

- 56 (21%) at Housing locations (727 Miller, 701 Miller, Carrot Way, N/S Maple, 312 W. Huron, 1500 Pauline, 1440 Pear, 106 Packard, Arbordale, 100 S. Fourth).
- 30 (11%) at Party stores.
- 24 (8%) at libraries - 16 downtown library, 5 Westgate library, 3 at Mallet's Creek.
- 13 (5%) at the BTC.
- 7 at Briarwood Mall.
- 4 at 216 N. Fourth (People's Food Coop).

Question: Under the current system, does the county prosecutor exercise any discretion in processing (or not processing) to move citations forward? (Councilmember Nelson)

Response: If a warrant is submitted to the County prosecutor, and all of the elements of the crime are present, it would be unlikely to not result in a warrant.

Under the current system, after an incident of trespass, officers generate a police report. That report is attached to a "warrant request" which is a term used to request formal charges be brought forth against an individual by the State of Michigan. This process requires that the report and corresponding internal forms be sent over to the Washtenaw County Prosecutor's Office (WCPO) for review. An Assistant Prosecuting Attorney will review the documentation, decided whether or not to authorize formal charges. The prosecutor has broad discretion in deciding which of several applicable statutes to charge in any set of circumstances, but should be limited when they believe the actions of law enforcement are unconstitutional or otherwise illegal. If the charges are denied, WCPO will notify the police department in writing. If charges are authorized, a complaint will be typed and submitted to the Ann Arbor Police Department. The complaint will then be presented to the Magistrate at the 15th District Court for processing and attestation by the Ann Arbor Police Court Officer. The 15th District Court will then send a notice to the last known address of the defendant notifying them of a court date to appear for an arraignment. This process may take up to several months depending on the ebb and flow of warrant requests to the WCPO from every law enforcement agency in Washtenaw County and those returning to Ann Arbor Police for processing. Typically, warrant requests are prioritized by handling cases that pose risk to vulnerable populations as a priority, such as crimes against children, domestic violence and sexual assault.

In the current system of processing these cases under state law, those who do not have a stable residence are unlikely to receive a notice 3 or 4 months after the incident and will inevitably miss their court date, resulting in an order to show cause by the court (along with a $30 fee assessed by the court); when they don't receive that notice that is usually sent to the same address, a bench warrant is issued (with a $60 fee assessed by the court). It is not until the defendant has police contact again, that they are arrested and lodged at the jail until the next arraignment date before a 15th District Court Judge or Magistrate. At the time of their custodial arraignment, they have jail credit of the day of the initial arrest coupled with any day(s) spent in jail until their arraignment following their arrest on a bench warrant. After a finding of guilt (most commonly a plea), the court will most often assess a term of incarceration of 30 days, credit for the days already spent in custody (usually 2 or 3), suspend the remaining days and the fines and costs and close the case.

Question: Regarding C-1, this ordinance change certainly seems to make sense and I'm wondering what triggered the proposed change? Also, where do the violation penalties (imprisonment of up to 30 days, or fine of not more than $250, or both) come from – are those state mandated? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: In review of the District Court dockets, City legal staff has seen countless in-custody defendants brought over from the jail for arraignment on Trespass charges following the issuance of a bench warrant after their failure to appear. The cases are usually closed on that day with a credit for time served jail sentence, leaving the defendant in the same or worse off position. Additional information about this process was provided in CM Nelson's question about prosecutorial discretion.

The maximum penalty mirrors the state law of a possible 30 days in jail and/or a fine of $250. $125 is the minimum fine assessed by the State of Michigan. That fine is collected by the court and transferred to the State.

Question: Why is this needed when there is already a state law that covers this subject? (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: The proposed City Ordinance could be issued on a Code Citation (or ticket). The Citation would be provided to the accused at the time of the incident. Code Citations are turned in at the end of the officer's shift, providing quicker processing. Recipients are given information by the issuing Officers on how to contact the 15th District Court to address their ticket. Hopefully, the expedited time between incident and notice of citation (contemporaneous) and ability to inquire within 48 hours should translate into access to court system in a more efficient way. It should also provide quicker access to counsel or indigent counsel should the recipient qualify for court appointed counsel. Defendants are advised at the time of arraignment that they are entitled to legal counsel and that the court will appoint legal counsel should they not be financially able to do so on their own.

Other benefits in having a City Ordinance would be the ability to prevent jail bed days for those charged with Trespass. Incarceration is a deterrent for recidivism but for crimes such as Trespass, jail should not be customarily part of the sentence. Probationary sentences that include defendant scaffolding and amends to the community are generally ideal for those convicted of Trespass without other contemporaneous. The purpose of probation is to craft a community program that is individually tailored for each defendant to provide services and support that will assist that person in not reoffending and promoting stability and personal growth. This is different for everyone. Services may include housing assistance, literacy tutoring, job placement, substance abuse/use services, or mental health programming. Depending on the defendant's financial circumstances, the court may consider ordering community service to help offset fines and costs associated with community supervision. Specialty treatment courts, like the Mental Health Court is not a mandatory court placement. Defendants can choose to participate in regular probation or the Mental Health Court probation. MHC provides true wrap around services with consistent community partners from Community Mental Health, Avalon Housing, Dawn Farm and many others to provide more intensive supports to the participants. Willingness to participate in mental health treatment is a component of this court, however, a defendant will not be jailed for simply not wanting to participate in treatment; however, they would be transferred to a general probation caseload. In the current system, a defendant's case is less likely to end in a probationary sentence, but a short jail sentence that leaves the defendant in the same or worse position.

Question: Please provide recent examples of incidents that illustrate a need to have a local ordinance that addresses issues already covered by state statute. (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: Please see above.

DB-1 - Resolution to Approve the 3786 & 3802 Platt Road Area Plan (CPC Recommendation: Approval - 8 Yeas and 0 Nays)

Question: Regarding DB-1, have there been any neighbor objections raised to the plan (2 duplexes) or the re-zoning since this appeared on the radar screen? If so, can you please summarize the issue? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: No.

DB-2 – Resolution to Approve the Ganger Annexation, .52 Acre, 2660 Apple Way (CPC Recommendation: Approval - 7 Yeas and 0 Nays)

Question: Why is this annexation a single property where many other lots in the same neighborhood are also township properties? (Councilmember Eaton)

Response: This property owner has submitted a petition for annexation, and the adjacent property owners have not. It is possible that the City could consider this area for future City-initiated annexation activities, but the area has not been identified to date.

DB-3 – Resolution to Approve ITC Phoenix Utility Substation Planned Project Site Plan, at 2001 Dhu Varren Road (CPC Recommendation: Approval - 8 Yeas and 0 Nays)

Question: Q1. The staff report mentions a new sidewalk along DhuVarren, but that’s not mentioned in the cover memo or resolution. Is that still the plan? If so, I’m assuming ITC is being assessed for the cost – correct? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: Yes, ITC will fund and install a new sidewalk as presented on the site plan.

Question: Q2. Does DTE or ITC have other sites in Ann Arbor with 100 foot monopoles? If so, where are they, and if not, why is it necessary to go with 100 feet in this location. (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: From ITC: “The monopole height standard for electric transmission projects ranges from 80 to 120 feet. The height is the standard for the 120 kV voltage level throughout the transmission industry to ensure safe clearances between the lines and other equipment or other potential obstructions. The Apex Substation to Phoenix Substation is ITC’s first new transmission project in the City of Ann Arbor. ITC has other transmission lines in Washtenaw County including Ann Arbor Township. “

Question: Q3. There were no objections raised at the initial (July 24) Citizen Participation Meeting, but there were just 3 attendees. Has the City (or ITC) received any comments or objections over the last 6 months or so from neighbors or area residents? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: City Staff and ITC staff have not received any comments objecting to the proposed project. One Foxfire resident attended the November 20, 2018 Planning Commission meeting and asked questions about the visual impact of the proposed towers. Between the substation and the Foxfire neighborhood north of the site is Foxfire West Park which is heavily wooded and provides a visual screen for homes that abut the park. For Foxfire residents to the east of the substation, the existing landscaping buffer is proposed to be supplemented with additional trees. Residents to the east would be approximately 800 feet from the proposed monopole.

Question: Q4. I may be wrong, but I believe ITC indicated there would not be any traffic control measures/road closures necessary for the construction here in this project and also indicated there were no more required for the transmission line project – is that correct? (Councilmember Lumm)

Response: ITC is currently working with the City on a lane closure permit on Dhu Varren to lay mats for vegetation removal. The lane closure is expected to last for 1-2 days.

DS – 1- Resolution to Authorize a Professional Services Agreements with Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment, Inc. (OHM) for the Lower Town Area Mobility Study (RFP No. 18-21) ($579,478.00) and Appropriate Funding from the Major Street Fund Balance ($649,478.00) (8 Votes Required)

Question: What specific solutions does staff intend to receive from this study? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff is unable to identify specific solutions prior to the findings of the study being complete. The study process, including technical analysis and public engagement, will identify solutions and test their feasibility. Generally speaking, the study is meant to conduct a comprehensive mobility study centered in the City’s Lower Town Area. The study must address the mobility needs for users of all means of transportation, including pedestrians, bicyclists, transit riders, and drivers and passengers of motorized vehicles.

Question: Which of these solutions would staff consider implementing? Please include the range of cost estimates and timeline. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff is unable to identify specific solutions, including their cost or timeline, prior to the findings of the study being complete.

Question: What thoughts does staff already have about the known traffic problems in the area? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Staff’s understanding of the transportation issues are identified in the scope of services as follows: “Development in the northern areas of the City can reasonably be expected to add demand to the City’s mobility network. The confluence of Pontiac Trail, Broadway, Plymouth Road, Moore Street, Wall Street, and Maiden Lane (also known as Lower Town) has the potential to become a mobility chokepoint. City Council desires to mitigate the potential impacts of development on the City’s quality of life. In December 2017, City Council passed a resolution requesting City Staff to review and update of previous studies of vehicular, transit, bicycle, and pedestrian movements leading to, and traveling through, the Lower Town area.”

Question: How many new pedestrians, bicycles, and automobiles are expected from the developments in the area, including 1140 Broadway, Broadway Park (DTE), Cottages at Barton Green (Trinitas), The Glen Hotel, the new UM parking structure, and Northsky, the 70 new condos, and the large vacant lot, etc.? Please break it down by peak rush hours in the mornings and afternoons. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response:

AM Peak Hour	Pedestrian Trips	Bicyclist Trips	Trips by Transit	Vehicular Trips
1140 Broadway	55	20	40	239
Roxbury Broadway Park (under review/revision)				125
Cottages at Barton Green	2	6	62	149
UM Parking Structure	Similar amount to vehicular trips			354
Glen Hotel				155
North Sky				144
Bristol Ridge				34

PM Peak Hour	Pedestrian Trips	Bicyclist Trips	Trips by Transit	Vehicular Trips
1140 Broadway	76	28	56	309
Roxbury Broadway Park (under review/revision)				143
Cottages at Barton Green	3	11	93	212
UM Parking Structure	Similar amount to vehicular trips			325
Glen Hotel				185
North Sky				184
Bristol Ridge				42

Data from traffic impact studies will be inputs into the analysis performed by the consultant

Question: Given that 1140 Broadway is adding 1000 new residents with only 550 parking spaces and basically no commercial for them to shop, where does staff anticipate the new people will park? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: This study will not address the parking availability of the 1140 Broadway project. It will consider the transportation demands based on the uses at this location and others in the area.

Question: For the traffic flows on Swift and Broadway, and then to downtown or back around to Wall and Maiden Lane and to the Med Center, how much traffic gridlock is anticipated and what grade level might this be? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Based on the analysis tools available to us today, this area is expected to perform at LOS (level of service) C or D during the morning commute peak, and LOS E or F during the afternoon peak.

Question: Will the ingress/egress onto Maiden Lane from 1140 Broadway and the McKinley apartment complex, encourage heavy cut through traffic up the residential Broadway hill? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The purpose of the study is to perform a sub-area analysis of transportation challenges and strategies to address them for the Lower Town area. The intent of the study is not to analyze site specific improvements that are part of a development approved by the Planning Commission and City Council.

Question: Will the 1140 Broadway roundabout encourage cut through traffic up the Broadway hill? What can be done to minimize this? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The purpose of the study is to perform a sub-area analysis of transportation challenges and strategies to address them for the Lower Town area. The intent of the study is not to analyze site specific improvements that are part of a development approved by the Planning Commission and City Council.

Mayor and Councilmembers --

[REDACTED]

If you have any other questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to ask.

Q. In June, staff replied to a Council agenda question about whether other Cities have an ordinance like this one by suggesting that other cities lack sophistication. In light of the ACLU challenge to our ordinance, can you provide an explanation why Ann Arbor needs this ordinance that other cities have found unnecessary?

A. The statement that not all cities have such an ordinance was not meant to imply those cities have found such an ordinance “unnecessary.” We would only be able to speculate as to why various cities have not adopted such an ordinance. However, one possible reason is that some cities simply haven’t encountered unauthorized use of their seals; that’s what “sophistication” referred to. In contrast, the City has encountered unauthorized use, presumably because it is valuable.

Q. Did any past or current city council member(s) request any city employee to participate in the drafting of the original version of this ordinance?

A. No.

Q. What were the specific examples of misuse of the City’s Seal and/or Flag, what were the dates, and how did the city handle the misuse?

A. Specific examples the City Attorney’s Office is aware of include:

- A vendor sold t-shirts with City seals on them during the Art Fair. In response, the City sent a cease and desist letter to the vendor.
- A vendor asked permission to make and sell brass bells decorated with the City seal. The City denied the request.
- The City repeatedly received responses to its requests for proposal onto which vendors have added the City seal. As this practice increased, the City was asking that the seal be removed.
- The City has been asked by vendors to use the City’s seal on advertising materials touting City projects as successes. The City has generally declined those requests.
- The City received reports from consultants marked with the City’s seal. The City has generally asked that the seal be removed.

Q. In passing an ordinance like this, is it standard practice to reference the name and title of a chapter in the municipal code that has long been repealed?

A. Council Rule 11 directs agenda item titles not to exceed 20 words if legally possible, but the Council Rules do not address specifically ordinance titles. Parentheticals in ordinance titles may have been requested by the Administrator around the same time as the 20-word limit on titles was implemented. A staff person in the Clerk's Office familiar with Council agendas had the same impression.

We advise that although City Code Sec. 1:2, prescribing ordinance format, does not include a narrative identification or description of the chapter or section (parenthetical or otherwise) as part of the format for an ordinance title, identifications or descriptions have been used for many, many years. From September 24, 2007, to date, for example, a 130-page list of ordinance titles (save for rare exceptions) has narrative identifications or descriptions of the sections or chapters being amended, repealed or enacted. In earlier years, ordinances did not identify by name, with or without parentheses, either a new chapter being enacted or the chapter it replaced (if that was the case). Not identifying by name a chapter being replaced risks possible error or confusion, as happened when Chapter 60 (Wetlands Preservation Ordinance) was enacted December 5, 1994. The ordinance title did not refer to the previously repealed Chapter 60 (Building Setback Lines), resulting in a longstanding footnote in the published City Code that said, incorrectly, the ordinance adopted in 1994 "repealed Ch. 60 in its entirety, which pertained to wetlands and watercourses preservation ordinance (sic)."

The Ethics Ordinance did not give the name of the previously repealed chapter it replaced, but did provide the title of the new chapter. We advise that not identifying the name of the previously repealed chapter seems to be the exception to the usual and current practice, which is that whenever chapters are repealed and replaced in full, both the title of the chapter being repealed and the title of the new chapter are provided. This happens for chapters that are rewritten, so the repealed and new chapters are identified with the same title.

The City Attorney's Office can provide the 130-page list or any other additional information upon request.

Q. When was "Model Neighborhood Policy Board" repealed and how is its subject matter similar to the city seal/flag ordinance in terms of placement in the same chapter of the municipal code?

A. Its subject matter is not similar. The seal/flag ordinance was placed in the former location of "Model Neighborhood Policy Board" in the City's Code because "Title I – Administration" is, we advise, the most appropriate title in City Code, and Chapter 9 was the only available location in Title I.

Q. How many legal department staff reviewed this ordinance, and for how many hours, before the City Council meeting on June 16, 2018?

A. According to time records, three staff members were involved with the ordinance, and spent around 15 hours on it between November 8, 2017 and its first reading.

As you saw from the communications distributed with last night's City Council agenda, Joshua Rego has moved out of state and therefore resigned his seat on the Environmental Commission.

We will make a general announcement about this at Thursday's commission meeting and encourage interested residents to apply. However, I wanted to take a moment to remind you that we should have an application on file from Noelle Bowman. As a solid waste specialist for Washtenaw County, she would bring valuable insights and perspective. In addition, as a young person and a renter, she could help diversify our membership. I worked with her a bit on the short-lived Zero Waste Subcommittee, and I think she would be a strong addition to our commission.

Thanks for your consideration,

Hi Jack,

I am writing to invite you to a reception for the Ann Arbor Public Art Commission this Sunday, January 27, at my home from 3-5pm.

You are welcome to bring a guest and meet our art commissioners: Connie Brown, Jonah Copi, Colleen Crawley, David Esau, Mary Thiefels, David Zinn, Deb Mexicotte, Allison Buck, and myself. Our new Council liaison, Ali Ramlawi, will also be there. Allison and Deb are our new chair and vice chair, respectively.

As you know, I have served for six years on the Art Commission with the last three as chair. Our bylaws prevent the chair from serving more than three years and I am thrilled to serve now as a commissioner following the leadership of Allison and Deb.

I am also pleased with what the art commission has achieved in the last three years.

Because the City budget does not provide for a full time dedicated staff, the art commission has transitioned from a group that administered the selection of artwork to a group that provides strategic advice. This has actually benefited Ann Arbor's broader creative community by leveraging their expertise and their network of supporters to help the city instead of the art commission administer the selection process.

Recommendations to Staff and Council

Art Selection Process

We have advised staff that there are art projects that can be handle in-house, like the award-winning repainting of the Manchester Water Tower. Other projects, like wrapping traffic signal electrical boxes in vinyl artwork, are best outsourced to local arts organizations who have dedicated staff like the Art Alliance. Selecting public art is more than just picking the art. It involves building stakeholders for the project and promoting it. There is no better way to do that than to activate our creative community by contracting for their expertise.

The art commission can offer oversight to identify best practices and provide important feedback on what went right and how it could be done better.

CIP Potential

We have also developed criteria to identify potential in municipal construction. As we build our physical infrastructure, we should also build our cultural infrastructure. The most cost-effective way we show the world that we are the creative capitol of our region, is to leverage the materials we use in constructing our buildings, bridges, walls, and roads. Creative design can mean we design a water tower other than the typical mushroom shape or it can mean we use a mural for wayfinding. The art commission has carefully developed measurable criteria and a process to identify those infrastructure projects that have the most potential for creative design. It has used that data to identify several construction projects (see report link below). It is now up to the individual project managers, and the artists they enlist, to take advantage of this potential.

Public Art as Public Asset

Ann Arbor's public art is a valuable public asset worth more than $2M. Prudent management requires that it be treated as other municipal assets. The art commission has recommended that city staff develop an inventory of all public art, listing a description, location, value, and maintenance schedule. This is necessary to keep our cultural assets in as good a condition as our infrastructure. This inventory will also allow for maps, walking tours, and other promotional information so that residents and visitors can fully appreciate our unique culture.

Private Donations

Our wealthier citizens need an opportunity to leave their mark on our City. They could do this through a cash donation for public art. Additionally, some artists would welcome an opportunity to donate artwork to a city with our demographic profile. Both of these initiatives are in the planning stage and I trust our new leadership will develop them.

Student Involvement

Finally, the art commission strongly believes that building a shared public art collection demands inclusion. We want Ann Arbor's young, creative, energetic citizens - our students - to join in our effort. Connie Brown, Deb Mexicotte, Jonah Copi, and Mary Thiefels are leading that initiative.

2017-2018 Year-end Report

For more details, please review our most recent year-end report at this link

With all this in mind, I invite you to a reception at my home, Sunday, January 27, from 3-5pm to meet our new public art commission and share ideas.

Subject: Agenda for tomorrow

Dear Mr Lazarus,

Since you requested our meeting tomorrow, please send your agenda for our meeting. I'd like to hear the details about your partner's complaint about me. I'd also like to tour City Hall and discuss locations for Councilmembers to print and meet with constituents. Please prepare a hard copy for me of the current organization chart and salary list for staff. I have Ryan Stanton's article on salaries, but it is over a year old.

I look forward to a productive meeting tomorrow!

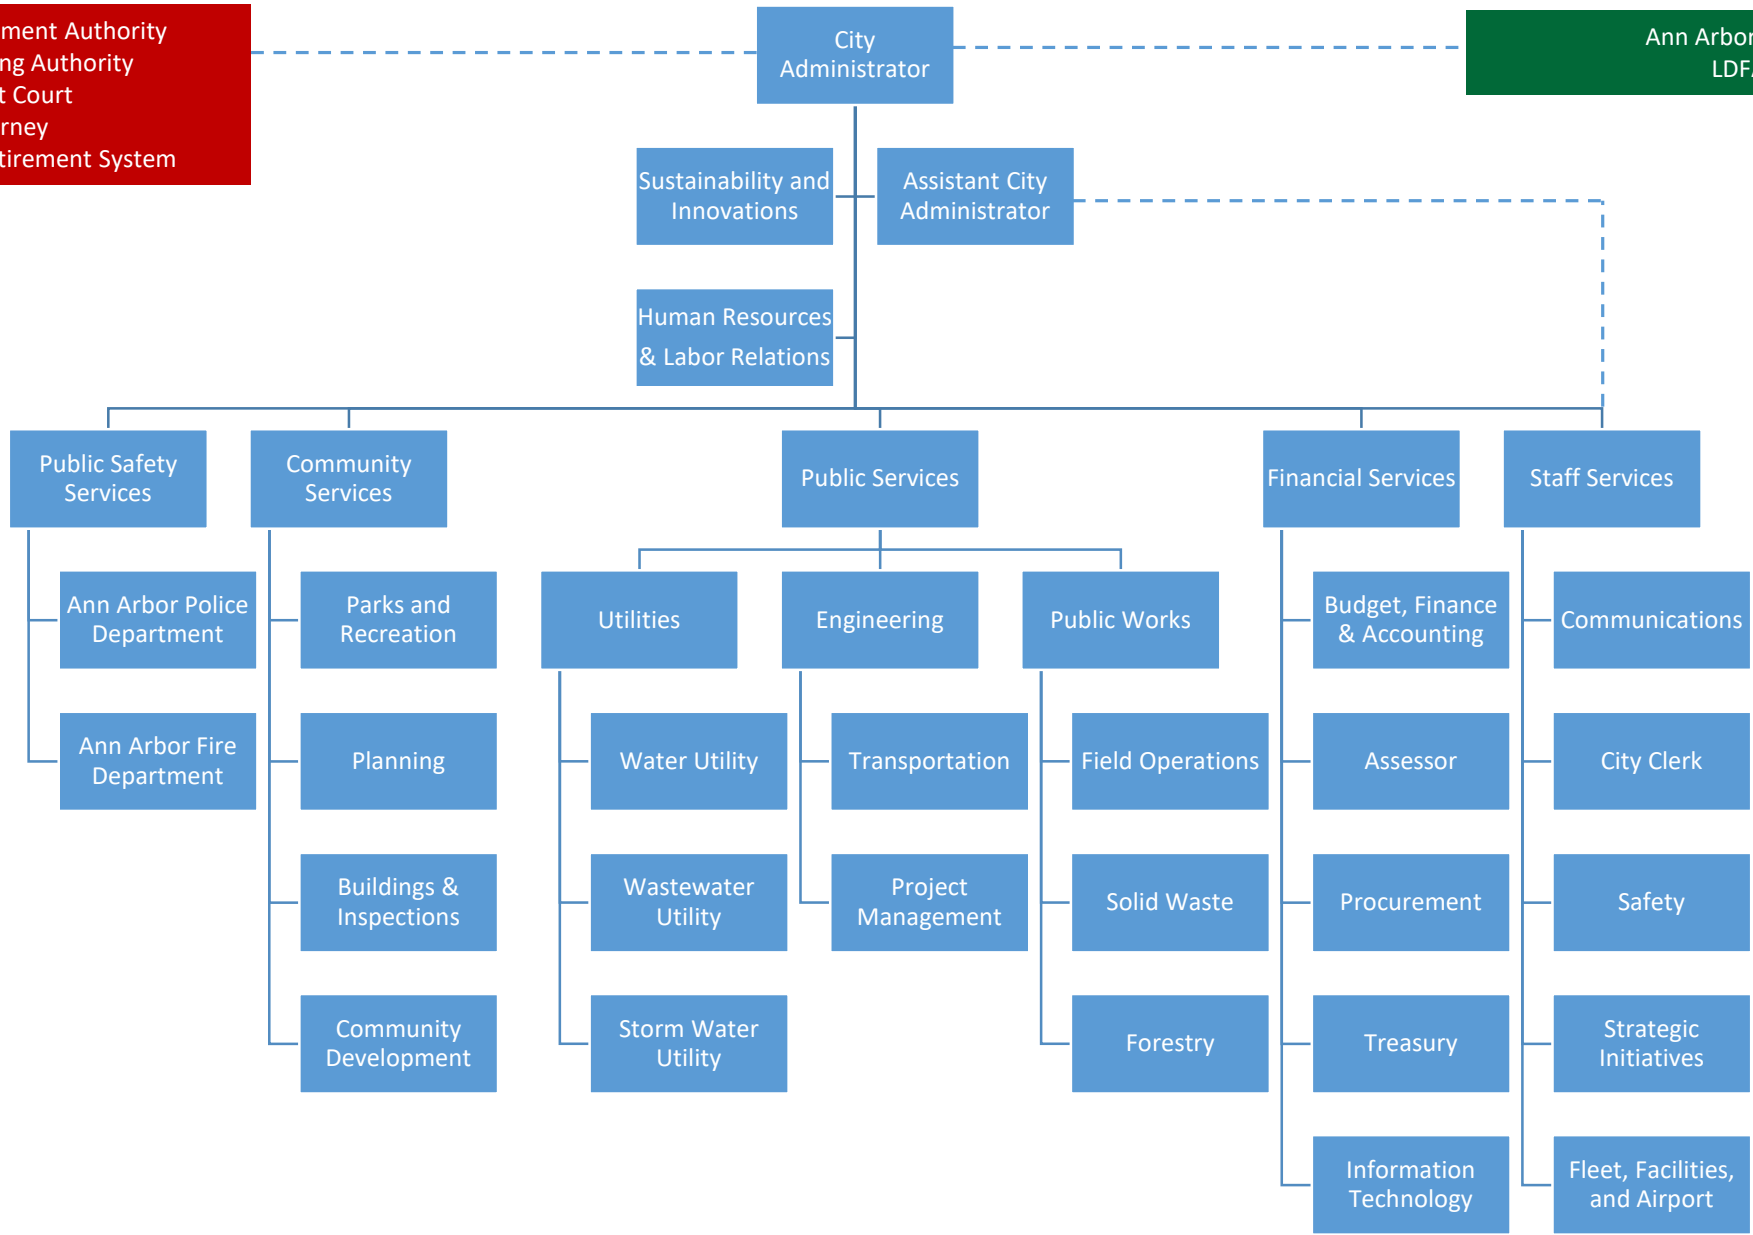

Best,

Anne

Dear Meredith,

I'm just seeing your email below today, and Dr. Stults already ran with the original request and prepared this draft for the Environmental Commission to discuss tonight:

<http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3841207&GUID=9B1C5BEE-C5B0-4428-8C6F-4FEABED9E96A&FullText=1>

Have you heard anything from the Clean Water Action national team yet, about their template?

If you'd like to speak to the Environmental Commission during Public Comment tonight, we meet at 7 pm in Council Chambers on the 2nd floor of City Hall.

By the way, a constituent also sent me this update:

We have a Michigan problem, too, from the Lame Duck session, a bill from now ex-Senator Casperson passed.

Here's the legislative analysis as of 12/6/18:

It has to do with local regulation of wetlands, and reducing the number/size of wetlands that are considered such, and Waters of the US are discussed as well.

Hi all!

Thanks for your willingness! I will let you know that Clean Water Action's national team is currently drafting a resolution template to make it easier for municipalities, and they will have that ready within the next week or 2. If you would like to hold off until we have that, that's fine. I will certainly send it along once it is ready regardless.

Thanks for the update. I had a brief call with CM Kathy Griswold and our "two cents" (although I don't speak for Kathy!) is that we should continue with the plan to reach out to our State Representatives and Senator Jeff Irwin, and that a student drop-off on Traver may not be in compliance with Vision Zero.

I've already described the situation to Jeff Irwin and Yousef Rabhi, and they seemed open to learning more about it and what we'd like them to do.

As Tom mentioned earlier this week, a coordinated communication from the neighborhood would be preferable to piecemeal.

First of all, a big thankyou to Les for exploring the one sidewalk possibility. My sense—just thinking about how bureaucracies work-- is that folks above Bryan Armstrong would be reluctant to interfere with an established policy. Doing that tends to make the higher-ups extremely unpopular!

I think we should discuss how to proceed. My sense is that litigation would be lengthy, expensive, and almost certainly beyond my means, even as a collective effort. I would support accepting the two-sidewalks-in-the-road plan but exploring modification for increased parking for those who feel they need it and also exploring reduction of the assessment. I'm fine with no parking outside my place but recognize that others feel differently. The north-western end of the block—outside the unoccupied and decaying house at Traver and John Woods—there is about 96 ft of frontage. Exploring whether part of that could be used for parking--in addition to the 10 spaces at the northeastern end-- could be part of our approach to the planners.

On the positive side, at least we managed to eliminate the first plan, which would have changed our block dramatically, would have encouraged greater traffic speeds, and made it a more dangerous street. In contrast, putting our block on a "road diet" should generate a quieter and safer street, especially if part of our negotiation is ensuring that the School develops a plan for parents to park in designated places that are not on our block!

Bryan Alexander just returned my call saying that he will not meet with us because MDOT will not consider changing the two sidewalk requirement for any reason, at least any of the reasons I provided to him. I essentially went through the arguments I laid out in my presentation, but he said that as long as it involves the distribution of federal grant money, they require sidewalks on both sides of residential streets, period. I was amazed that when I explained that the SRTS report did not identify closing sidewalk gaps as a priority, and that Traver is not a route for students use to walk to school, he did pause at first and did not have a good answer, but he faithfully went back to his two sidewalk requirement and said that it is between us and the City. In a previous e-mail, he said that if the City wants to pursue a sidewalk solely one side of the street, that the City should have pulled the street from the grant application, and then it could do whatever it wanted to.

We could try speaking with his supervisor, who is Mike Kapp, although I feel that speaking to others at MDOT probably would not make a difference. The next step forward in fighting this could be to get our elected officials to weigh in, as Kathy Griswold has suggested, or maybe meet with the Governor's office, although I sort of doubt that the Governor's office would want to force the MDOT to reverse their position on this. But, getting our elected officials to weigh in would provide more weight behind our concerns.

I did not ask about modifying the latest design that the City came up with to try to provide more street parking. If that is what we want to do, and I suspect that some may want to reduce the no parking problem, then we should do so as it seems more likely that we will be stuck with the no parking plan.

Of course we could sue... But I am a little skeptical that this would work, and would cost $.

If possible, I'd prefer to have the outreach to our State Representatives and State Senator come from the group, in part because of my schedule and also because it may be more powerful to have you all as their constituents reach out for help. Would it be possible for others to take the lead with this outreach to the elected officials?

I'll ask Mr. Lazarus to send us an update on the plan. This is the most current update I have, from January 16 when Janet Holloway from Brookside inquired:

CM Bannister, staff shares a final response for your review.

Final plans and specifications are scheduled to be submitted to MDOT before the end of January 2019. Before the funding can be obligated, and the SRTS Grant awarded, the City must possess all necessary easements and temporary grading permits (TGP) necessary to do the work described in the plans. There are no permanent easements required for this project, as all sidewalks will be installed in the public right-of-way. However, four (4) properties remain in the project limits where the sidewalk will be close to the property line. At these locations, requests for temporary grading permits were made to provide the best results to the adjacent home owners with regard to transitioning the grade of the sidewalk to their yards and driveways. If the TGPs are not returned to the City prior to our deadline to secure the funding, we will revise the plans to stop all grading at the right-of-way line before we submit to MDOT, but the grading transition will not be as smooth as it could had TGP been granted.

Thanks,

Anne, thanks for your and Kathy's queries on our behalf. I agree that it would be great if we can develop a coherent block position, but at the moment, there may be a sense of waiting to see how initiatives like the one you propose turns out. We would likely all agree on a one sidewalk solution if it turned out to be possible—but the prospects for that don't look great at this point.

The question I would have for our State representatives would be whether they would want to try to overrule a) the MDOT position supporting two sidewalks; and b) a decision by their Democratic colleagues on the City Council. Is it possible for you and Kathy to find out?

Meanwhile, what is the status of the SRTS plan in City Hall?

The Vision Zero Initiative sounds like a source of good arguments against parents' using the southeastern end of our block for drop-off/pick-up. Here's a description from MLive:

We most certainly can address this matter when we meet today. It is important to note the City Communications Office does have templates and guidelines available on A2 Central under the Resources tab. I can and will encourage the use of the resources to staff leadership (myself included).

Hi Anne,

When we met the other day you showed me the collection of City communications you had collected and your observation they did not seem to follow any standards. I mentioned I had pointed that out to Howard and had provided an improvement proposal to him a couple of months ago. Here's a copy of my email to him, as you requested. As you can see, I didn't ask for a response nor did I receive one so I don't know what the status is.

Hi Howard,

When we last met, I mentioned I was working on a proposal for the City of Ann Arbor to develop its own visual brand language and style guide. It is attached for your consideration. (I'm sending a .pdf version because the .ppt file is quite large; if you'd like the latter, let me know.)

My Work Plan update will follow later this evening.

A Proposal for Maximizing Administrative Performance and Ann Arbor Quality of Life

John Mirsky,
Ann Arbor Energy and Environmental Commissioner
Executive Policy Advisory for Sustainability, Office of the City Administrator
July 11, 2017 (updated several times since)

Posit

Leading entities operating in all fields – government, business, NGO, etc. – have implemented their own unique and tailored version of a standard “Framework of Excellence” around which they organize and guide their activities;

and

thus, to maximize its residents’ quality of life, the City of Ann Arbor should do the same.

Key Framework Elements

1. Shared Values – establish cultural norms and the foundation for policies
2. Shared Mission Statement – a statement of purpose
3. Shared Vision Statement – a description of future state aspirations
4. Shared Strategic Plan – a high level roadmap to achieve the vision
5. SMART Goals and Targets – metrics used to monitor progress
6. Implementation Using Lean Enterprise and System and Point Continuous Improvement (CI) methods and tools – improves operations to achieve SMART goals and targets and ultimately the vision; ensures continuous learning
7. Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings – a process to drive progress

Framework of Excellence

Begin with the End in Mind:
Achieving the Vision –
Better Quality of Life for Residents

Framework Element Alignment with the Plan-Do-Check-Act/Adjust (PDCA) Approach

- P Shared Values
- P Shared Mission Statement
- P Shared Vision Statement
- P/D Shared Strategic Plan
- P/D SMART Goals and Targets
- D Lean and System and Point CI
- C/A Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings

This cycle is continuously repeated, especially the last four elements; the first three elements are only reviewed and modified occasionally.

1. Shared Values

- Values establish cultural norms; influence behaviors; serve as the foundation for policies, procedures and programs, their interpretation and how they are put into action; drive faster and better decisions; and ensure the strengths of an entity are retained in times of change.
- Values can include things like:
 - Future and Results Focus
 - Responsibility
 - Initiative, Entrepreneurship and Determination
 - Openness and Trust
 - Fairness
 - Reliability, Credibility and Legality
 - Diversity and Inclusion
 - Customer-oriented
- Each value should be explained in writing and used in training and in explaining policies, ordinances, decisions, projects and other initiatives, etc.

2. Shared Mission Statement

- A mission statement is a statement of purpose. It answers the question “Why does the entity exist?”
- An organization and the people comprising it are more successful when they rally around a clear reason for being and sense of direction.
- The more noble the mission, the greater the motivation and the emotional and physical attachment to the cause.

3. Shared Vision Statement

- A vision statement is a description of future state aspirations.
- It, like the mission, serves to inspire the organization.
- Ideally it is expressed in objective, not just abstract, ways; for example a municipal government may include aspects such as:
 - Awards, recognition and improved rankings (for example a happiness / satisfaction index ranking, e.g. Gallup-Healthways' Community Well-Being Rankings); and / or
 - Certifications, e.g., STAR Community 5-star rating by 20XX;

4. Shared Strategic Plan

- A strategic plan is a high level roadmap to achieve the vision.
- Strategic planning is an organizational management activity that is used to set priorities, focus energy and resources, strengthen operations, ensure that employees and other stakeholders are working toward common goals, establish agreement around intended outcomes/results, and assess and adjust the organization's direction in response to a changing environment.
- It is a disciplined effort that produces fundamental decisions and actions that shape and guide what an organization is, who it serves, what it does, and why it does it, with a focus on the future.
- Effective strategic planning articulates not only where an organization is going and the actions needed to make progress, but also how it will know if it is successful [i.e. setting SMART goals and targets (see slide 11)].

4. Strategic Planning Process Steps

Gather Inputs

- From all Stakeholders
- Customer analysis
- Competitor analysis
- Industry analysis
- Environmental
- Company performance
- Company strategies
- Verify assumptions

SWOT Analysis

- External Analysis
 - Opportunities
 - Threats
- Internal Analysis
 - Strengths
 - Weaknesses
- Strategic Questions
- Strategic Issues

Review Inputs

- All Stakeholders
- Review Inputs
- Review SWOT Analysis
- Define 3-4 key statements

Strategic Matrix

- All Stakeholders
- Define Strategies to address SWOT combinations:
 - Opportunities vs Strengths
 - Opportunities vs Weaknesses
 - Threats vs Strengths
 - Threats vs Weaknesses

Define Strategies

- Objectives
- Key Strategies
- Short and Long Term Goals
- Operational Plans and Projects

Final Reviews

- All Stakeholders
- Review Strategies
- Review Goals
- Review Plans
- Adjust as necessary

5. SMART Goals and Targets

- A organization’s strategic plan, including its priorities, is reflected in its goals and targets (“metrics” or “indicators”).
- Good metrics are aligned with “SMART goals” where:
 - S = Specific – defining Who, What, Where, When, Which and Why
 - “Who” is typically a team based on RASIC principles, including:
 - R = Who is Responsible (and empowered and therefore accountable – see points 6. and 7.)
 - A = Who Approves
 - S = Who Supports
 - I = Who is Informed
 - C = Who is Coordinated with
 - M = Measurable – see Back-up slide 22
 - A = Attainable
 - R = Realistic
 - T = Time-bound – due dates for projects and tasks
- Metrics should be a balanced set of leading and lagging indicators.
- SMART metrics are visualized and tracked using trend charts.

6. Lean Enterprise and System and Point CI

- Lean Enterprise and Continuous Improvement (CI) principles, tools and projects improve the efficiency and effectivity of operations, ensures continuous learning and contribute to the achievement of goals and targets, strategic plans and the entity's vision.
- The Pillars of Lean are:
 1. Continuous Improvement, where the super-ordinate principles of CIP include “Process- and Results-Orientation”:
 - Good results are not possible without good processes.
 - Good processes conform with lean principles and are designed and improved utilizing lean tools (see Back-up slides).
 - Good results, based on the proper metrics, validate that processes are working well; poor results signal that processes need improvement.
 2. Respect for People

6. Lean Enterprise and System and Point CI, cont.

- System CI optimizes entire systems and processes
- Point CI focuses on improving individual processes and process steps through standardization, optimization and problem solving
- Each CI project follows the PDCA cycle shown on slide 5
- Successful Lean and CI projects preconditions include:
 - A responsible, empowered and therefore accountable project manager;
 - The necessary team resources (people, budget, training, tools, management access, sponsors, etc.);
 - Sufficiently detailed project plans using the appropriate tools (e.g. MSProject or the equivalent);
 - Regular project reviews with team members, sponsors and other key stakeholders, including other appropriate members of management.

7. Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings

- Reviews of the status of metrics and projects drive progress and results and thus ultimately the achievement of targets, the strategic plan and the vision.
- They:
 - Ensure projects are on target, schedule and budget and are having the intended impact on performance;
 - Allow issues to be escalated and resources to be (re-)allocated; and
 - Serve as a forum to change approaches / processes, including training, leadership, etc..
- Typically there is a hierarchy of review meetings starting at the department level up to and including the overall entity.
 - In municipal government, high-level review meetings should be held publically to demonstrate transparency and promote trust.
- Reviews also include SMART goal setting and then target achievement accountability as significant elements of the performance management and compensation processes.

Key Framework Elements – A2 Status

- ? Shared Values – not published in the public domain
- ✓ Shared Mission Statement – posted in most City Hall offices and on A2’s Facebook Page but not on A2gov.org
- ? Shared Vision Statement – not published in the public domain
- ✓ Shared Strategic Plan – six strategic priorities have been proposed by the City Administrator but an implementation plan is yet to be completed
- ✓ SMART Goals and Targets –Sustainability Framework Dashboard metrics only; spotty updating of metrics and their use
- ? Lean and System and Point CI – little evidence of application of these principles and tools
- ? Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings – not held publically; SMART goal achievement accountability being re-implemented

Implementation of the Framework should be Guided by a Holistic Approach

The Change Wheel* is such an approach and can be used to assist the process of planning and implementing change

Simultaneous and increasingly improved action on all “spokes” of the Change Wheel increases the speed of implementation:

- A wheel with flat spots does not rotate easily; and
- The bigger the Wheel, the more ground it covers with each rotation.

* Developed by Robert Bosch LLC and Rosabeth Moss Kantor (Harvard Business School)

Implementation

- In order to implement a Framework of Excellence, Ann Arbor has access to a number of human resources, including:
 - Experts at the University of Michigan;
 - Consultants such as those at the Lean Enterprise Institute and the Dennison Consulting Group;
 - Pro bono services from local companies, including Bosch;
 - The author and others.
- Just as the City uses commissions and boards to advise it on various matters, the City Administration or Administrator could form an advisory board focused on implementing and continuously improving a Framework of Excellence in its operations.

Conclusions

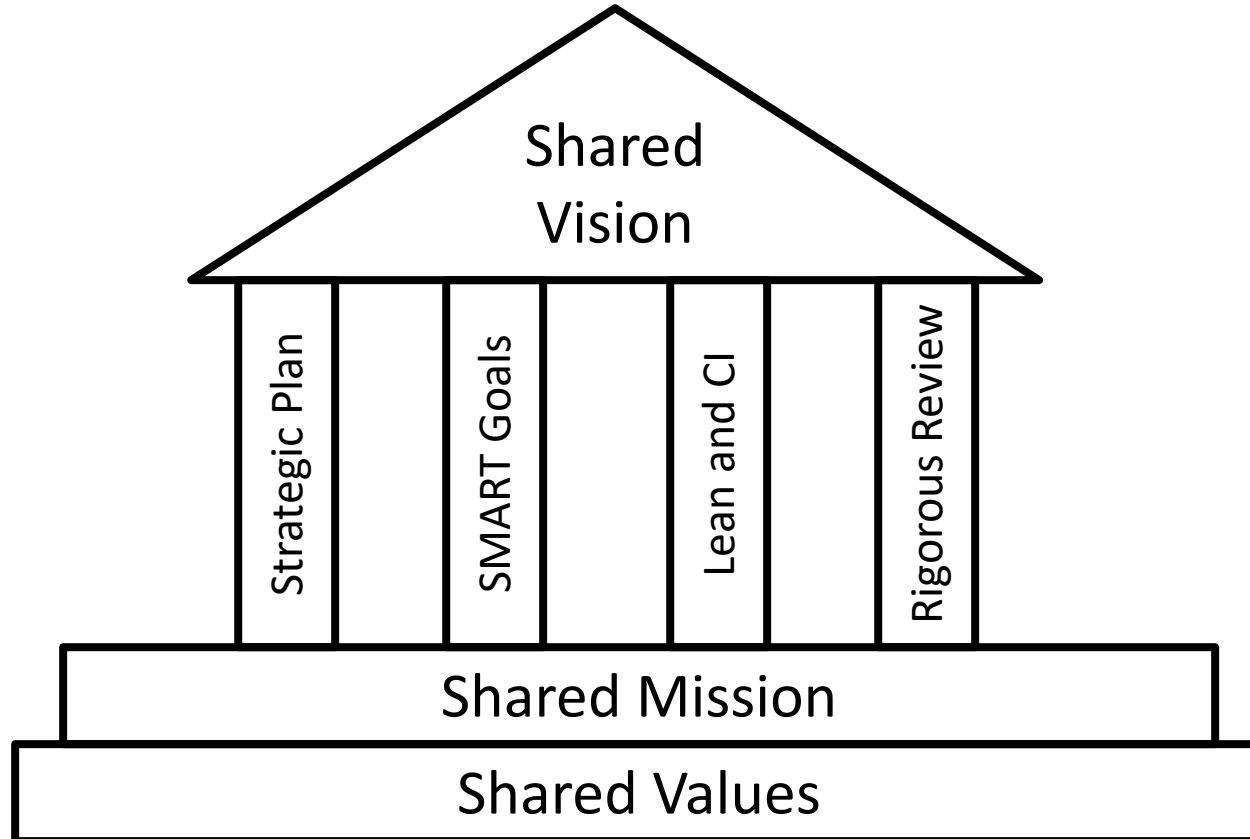

- Implementing a Framework of Excellence will:
 - Improve the quality of life for the residents of Ann Arbor;
 - Drive sustainable economic development;
 - Improve the work satisfaction of City employees; and
 - Make City operations more efficient and effective and thus reduce the total cost of services and/or open up resources for new initiatives.

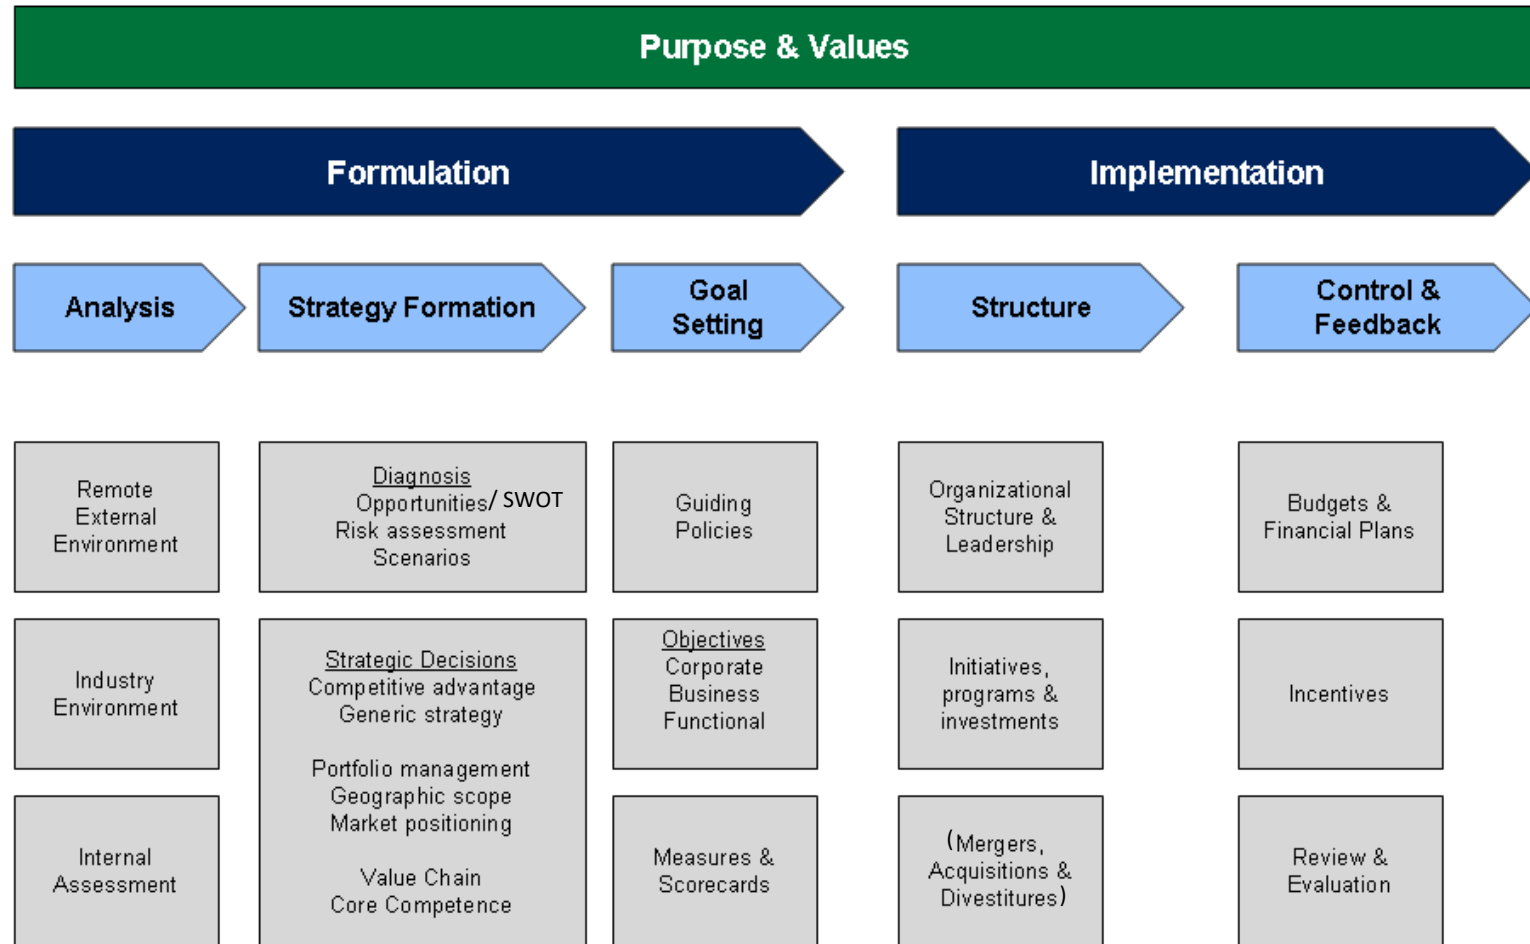

... AND IT REALLY DOES!!

Back-up

Framework of Excellence as a “House of Orientation”

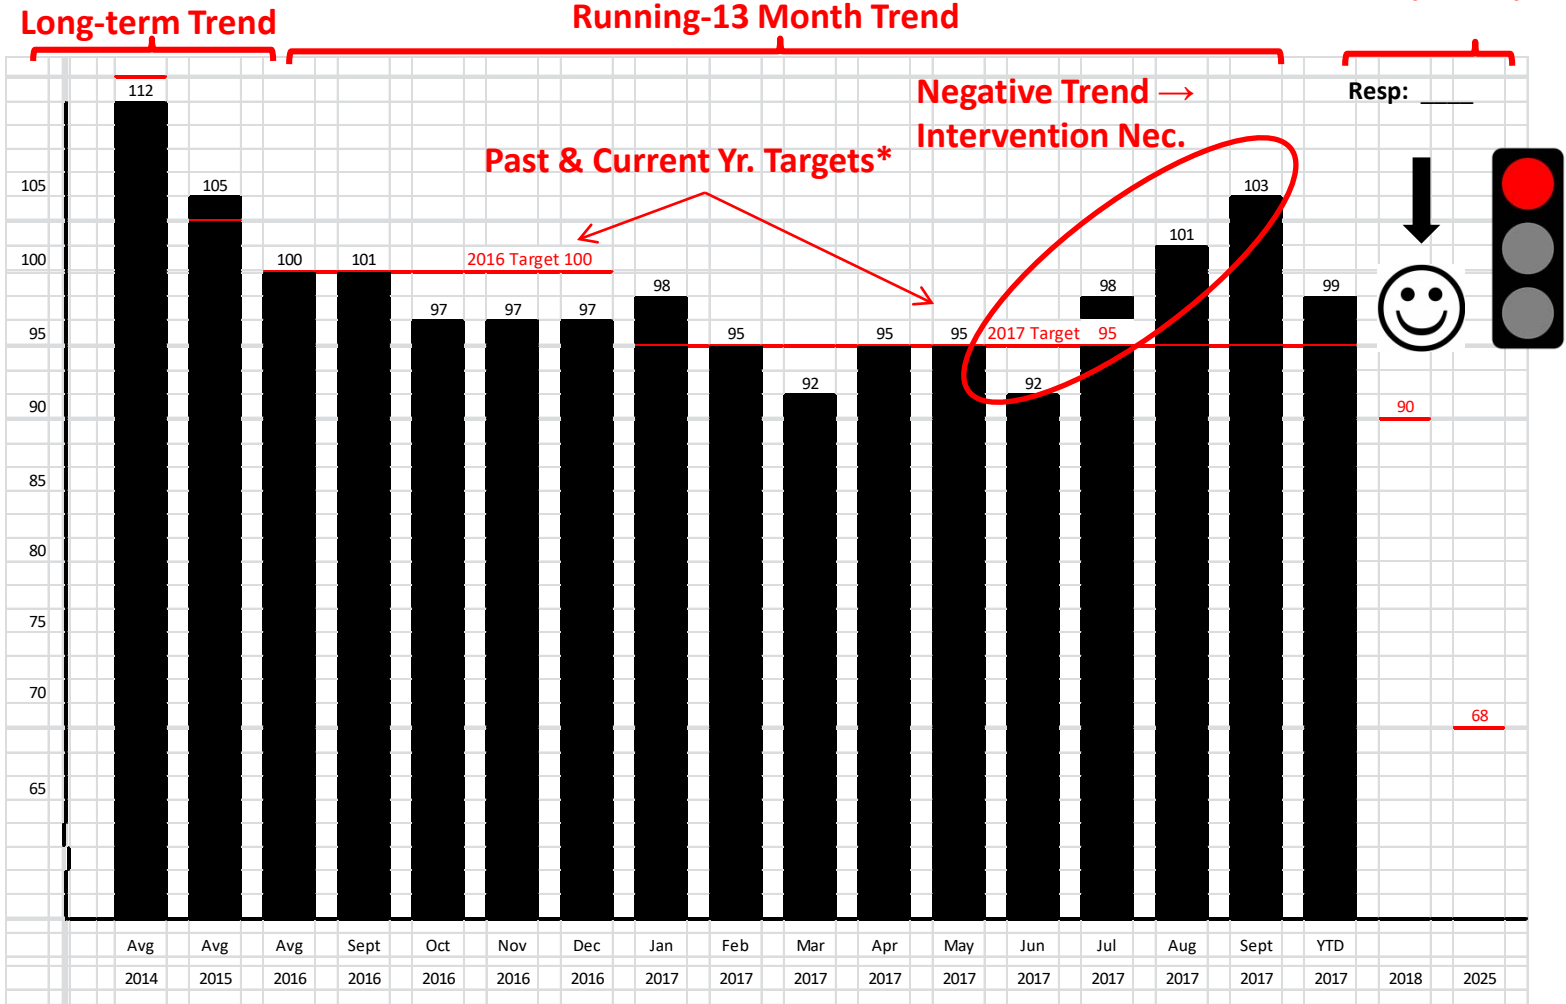

4. Strategic Planning Process Key Elements – Alternative Representation

5. SMART Goals and Targets – Exemplary Generic Trend Chart

Resp. Party,

Positive Trend
& Status
(R/Y/G)

Scale breaks,

appr.

* Aggressiveness of targets reflect strategic priorities;
source identifies strategic document, e.g. CAP

8. Lean Enterprise – Improving Work Processes

- Organizations work in value streams to achieve goals and targets
- Generic enterprise value stream:

6. Lean Enterprise - Improving Work Processes

- Working in a value stream is analogous to runners in a relay race passing a baton (= work) from teammate to teammate / function to function until the finish line is crossed (= service or product delivered)

- A “lean enterprise” quickly delivers things of value to customers and society in shorter and shorter process cycle times, while still achieving the highest quality of its products and services and morale of its employees.*

* Adapted from the “Lean Primer” by C. Larman and B. Vodde

6. Lean Enterprise – Principles

- Principles*
 - Long-term, Total System Focus – Optimize priorities and actions based on long-term and the total system outcomes
 - Perfect Quality – Failure prevention is better than failure detection
 - Non-judgmental, Non-blaming Culture – Encourage people to come forward with issues to create opportunities for improvement: “Problems Welcome!”
 - Process Orientation – Design, control and improve the holistic process
 - Pull Principle – Produce only what the customer wants
 - Flexibility – Adaptability in terms of quantity and service / product variants
 - Standardization – Coordinate repeatable working processes around a current best way in order to make deviations visible and share best practices
 - CI and Waste Elimination – Processes are self-explanatory and deviations are visible; eliminate non value-added activities
 - Transparency – Entity processes and service / product sequences are self-explanatory, deviations from the target state are recognized immediately
 - Associate Development, Involvement and Empowerment – Clear assignment of responsibilities and competencies to involved employees who are working with and on the process
 - Go and See – Go to where work is done and where opportunities for improvement exist to fully understand and grasp the situation

* Adapted from the Bosch Production System , Kaizen Institute of America’s “Kaizen Basics” and the “Lean Primer” by C. Larman and B. Vodde

6. Lean Enterprise – Tools

- Key Sample Tools
 - For known causes and solutions: Implementation of Corrective actions [i.e. use of standard Open Points Lists (OPLs) and regular project reviews to implement solutions to problems].
 - For unknown causes and solutions: Application of structured Problem Solving (PS) and Value Stream Mapping and Design (VSM/VSD).
 - PS drives true root cause identification and verification and the implementation of corrective measures and their effectiveness.
 - VSM/VSD visualizes and documents the current state of processes, including characteristics such as process times, lead-times and total cycle times and defects and rework, and is used to design and implement more efficient and effective future state processes by eliminating waste and streamlining work.

* Adapted from Bosch's CIP Fundamentals

Change Wheel Description

Subject: Update on Northside SRTS
Date: Friday, January 25, 2019 9:52:06 AM

Dear Ms. Allen,

Please send everyone an update on the SRTS project, including the current design, and timeline for modifications to the two-sidewalk plan. We've heard we may have until Feb. 22 before the plans are submitted to MDOT.

The webpage could also be updated: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Pages/Northside-STEAM-Sidewalk-Gap-Project.aspx>

Please respond to these questions:

What are the four property addresses referenced in this January 16 update?

Final plans and specifications are scheduled to be submitted to MDOT before the end of January 2019. Before the funding can be obligated, and the SRTS Grant awarded, the City must possess all necessary easements and temporary grading permits (TGP) necessary to do the work described in the plans. There are no permanent easements required for this project, as all sidewalks will be installed in the public right-of-way. However, four (4) properties remain in the project limits where the sidewalk will be close to the property line. At these locations, requests for temporary grading permits were made to provide the best results to the adjacent home owners with regard to transitioning the grade of the sidewalk to their yards and driveways. If the TGPs are not returned to the City prior to our deadline to secure the funding, we will revise the plans to stop all grading at the right-of-way line before we submit to MDOT, but the grading transition will not be as smooth as it could had TGP been granted.

How is an AAPS student drop-off on Traver Road in compliance with Vision Zero?

Has City staff made any outreach to MDOT, the Michigan Fitness Foundation and our State elected officials to advocate on behalf of the residents for modifications to the two-sidewalk plan?

What are the next steps to bring before Council a proposal to have sidewalk gaps paid through the General Fund and other sources?

Thanks,

Anne

Date: Saturday, January 26, 2019 1:16:38 PM

Dear Mr. Lazarus,

Thank you for suggesting our meeting yesterday.

Are these the correct items you will follow-up on with regard to SRTS?

- You'll reach out to Paul C. Ajegba at MDOT and Debbie Dingell to discuss modifications to the $400,000 grant to improve safety for students at Northside STEAM.
- You'll circle back to the Transportation Commission and provide a more detailed response to the requests from Commissioners Tim Hull and Cyrus Naheedy for more information about Northside STEAM SRTS, special assessments, affordability, and snow removal/Snow Buddy. (12-19-18 video at 1:19 hours: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kQcMVi4Suxc&t=216s>)
- You'll prepare the information Council will need to consider changes to the special assessments, including the payback period and other sources of funding, for the Northside STEAM project and beyond.

Thanks,

Anne

Okay! I'm optimistic that with your help advocating with Paul Ajegba and Debbie Dingell, that we can use the $400,000 for true safety improvements for the students, that are in compliance with Vision Zero and not unduly burdensome on the residents of Traver and Brookside (and other established neighborhoods in the future with sidewalk gaps).

This has the potential to be a big success/breakthrough, and I appreciate you pivoting from "other people's money, other people's rules," to truly advocating on behalf of what's best for safety, the community and affordability!

Please let Kathy, Jack, Jeff and me know if you need our help.

We can do this!

Hi Anne,

I hope you had a productive meeting with Howard.

As to developing a visual brand language and style guide, it's important not just to use standard templates for PowerPoint presentations but also to have standard - colors, font type and sizes, paper type, etc. - developed and apply across all communications mediums: print, online/websites, letterheads, etc. As you undoubtedly noted, the examples I included in my slide deck cover a wide range of City communications; I'm certain that there are others which I've missed.

We most certainly can address this matter when we meet today. It is important to note the City Communications Office does have templates and guidelines available on A2 Central under the Resources tab. I can and will encourage the use of the resources to staff leadership (myself included).

Hi Anne,

When we met the other day you showed me the collection of City communications you had collected and your observation they did not seem to follow any standards. I mentioned I had pointed that out to Howard and had provided an improvement proposal to him a couple of months ago. Here's a copy of my email to him, as you requested. As you can see, I didn't ask for a response nor did I receive one so I don't know what the status is.

Hi Anne,

I am writing to invite you to a reception for the Ann Arbor Public Art Commission this Sunday, January 27, at my home from 3-5pm.

You are welcome to bring a guest and meet our art commissioners: Connie Brown, Jonah Copi, Colleen Crawley, David Esau, Mary Thiefels, David Zinn, Deb Mexicotte, Allison Buck, and myself. Our new Council liaison, Ali Ramlawi, will also be there. Allison and Deb are our new chair and vice chair, respectively.

As you may know, I have served for six years on the Art Commission with the last three as chair. Our bylaws prevent the chair from serving more than three years and I am thrilled to serve now as a commissioner following the leadership of Allison and Deb.

I am also pleased with what the art commission has achieved in the last three years.

Because the City budget does not provide for a full time dedicated staff, the art commission has transitioned from a group that administered the selection of artwork to a group that provides strategic advice. This has actually benefited Ann Arbor's broader creative community by leveraging their expertise and their network of supporters to help the city instead of the art commission administer the selection process.

Recommendations to Staff and Council

Art Selection Process

We have advised staff that there are art projects that can be handle in-house, like the award-winning repainting of the Manchester Water Tower. Other projects, like wrapping traffic signal electrical boxes in vinyl artwork, are best outsourced to local arts organizations who have dedicated staff like the Art Alliance. Selecting public art is more than just picking the art. It involves building stakeholders for the project and promoting it. There is no better way to do that than to activate our creative community by contracting for their expertise.

The art commission can offer oversight to identify best practices and provide important feedback on what went right and how it could be done better.

CIP Potential

We have also developed criteria to identify potential in municipal construction. As we build our physical infrastructure, we should also build our cultural infrastructure. The most cost-effective way we show the world that we are the creative capitol of our region, is to leverage the materials we use in constructing our buildings, bridges, walls, and roads. Creative design can mean we design a water tower other than the typical mushroom shape or it can mean we use a mural for wayfinding. The art commission has carefully developed measurable criteria and a process to identify those infrastructure projects that have the most potential for creative design. It has used that data to identify several construction projects (see report link below). It is now up to the individual project managers, and the artists they enlist, to take advantage of this potential.

Public Art as Public Asset

Ann Arbor's public art is a valuable public asset worth more than $2M. Prudent management requires that it be treated as other municipal assets. The art commission has recommended that city staff develop an inventory of all public art, listing a description, location, value, and maintenance schedule. This is necessary to keep our cultural assets in as good a condition as our infrastructure. This inventory will also allow for maps, walking tours, and other promotional information so that residents and visitors can fully appreciate our unique culture.

Private Donations

Our wealthier citizens need an opportunity to leave their mark on our City. They could do this through a cash donation for public art. Additionally, some artists would welcome an opportunity to donate artwork to a city with our demographic profile. Both of these initiatives are in the planning stage and I trust our new leadership will develop them.

Student Involvement

Finally, the art commission strongly believes that building a shared public art collection demands inclusion. We want Ann Arbor's young, creative, energetic citizens - our students - to join in our effort. Connie Brown, Deb Mexicotte, Jonah Copi, and Mary Thiefels are leading that initiative.

With all this in mind, I invite you to a reception at my home, Sunday, January 27, from 3-5pm to meet our new public art commission and share ideas.

Dear Angela and Charles,

Thank you for writing on behalf of the Bagel Fragel business owner. I, and certain we all, appreciate your reaching out to seek assistance for this business, a business that many appreciate and would like to continue to support, and know we all also sympathize with their situation and this requirement for them to relocate their business. With regard to this, the City has no authority to intervene in a private business transaction, and I am hopeful that Bagel Fragel can negotiate an extension with the new landlord.

I suspect Bagel Fragel's ability to extend their lease with the landlord is dependent on whether or not a new tenant has entered into a lease for the space. It's very unfortunate to see this long-standing business leave this location due to the property owner's decision to rent to another tenant, and I apologize for our inability to affect a private landlord/tenant contract. I do sincerely hope that Bagel Fragel can relocate in a timely way so that their business is not affected in any detrimental way.

Thank you again for reaching out on behalf of Bagel Fragel and for your good wishes for 2019. I extend to you best wishes for the new year as well.

All best, Jane Lumm

Dear Mayor Taylor and members of city council,

I apologize for bothering you right in the middle of the holidays, but this matter is extremely urgent: when I last spoke with the owner of MD Bagel Fragel, they had still not heard whether one of the properties they are considering as a new location is workable for them. And they are due to be out of their present store on Dec. 30.

Surely the new owner can be asked to grant an extension?

Thank you, Councilwoman Bannister and Councilman Hayner for your answers to my first letter and your efforts to get some movement on this matter.

We are still hoping that an extension is possible. It is not an unreasonable request, especially if it comes from the Mayor and Council. Thank you for making time to read this and best wishes for 2019.

Sincerely,

Angela and Charles Williams

Thanks for reaching out. I know we do not have any tools as a city to interfere in private leasing transactions, however, I share your concerns and disappointment at the possible loss of this business which I have supported for many years, and am looking into what can be done. The plaza owner may not be aware that the city has reached its limit for retail marijuana dispensary permits, and one may very well not be available for that location. Just something to consider, I do not know how that will work out because there are many factors including the state rules for same.

Dear Councilwoman Bannister and Councilman Hayner,

I am sure you are aware of the terrible treatment of the owners of MD Bagel Fragel by the new owner of the strip mall at 1760 Plymouth Rd.

Not only were the owners of the business given no choice about renewing the lease on their Plymouth Rd. store; they were not even given reasonable notice. They have essentially had to beg for more time, but even that has been a mere two months. How any business person can think that a bagel store can just get up and move in a matter of a few weeks is beyond us.

Do we really want this kind of a business person coming into our city?

Isn't this country - and, by extension, Ann Arbor - supposed to believe in small businesses, and in creating a business climate in which they can thrive? If a family business such as MD Bagel Fragel, which has built up a large and contented band of customers over 25 years, can just be evicted for no apparent reason but that the new owner decides to evict it, how can we expect to encourage other businesses to come here? We keep hearing that Ann Arbor needs to grow and is working on being business-friendly.

What kind of businesses do we want? Maybe only the multi-million condo builders...What hypocrisy.

At the very least (and we would say this is setting a low bar for what should happen), the new owner of the strip mall should be made to give the bagel business an extension beyond the 30th Dec. date by which they are supposed to leave. It is not simple to move a business which has significant equipment, such as, in this case, ovens.

We have lived in Ward 1 since 1963 and have never witnessed such outrageous treatment of a local small business.

We plan to send a copy of this email to the mayor and your fellow council members, but for now we are anxious not to delay further.

Please give this matter your urgent attention.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Angela and Charles Williams

Hi Jeff and Anne,

While I understand that Ward I is quite far away from the Ann Arbor Research Park off State St., I've read that a marijuana farm is likely to find a home there.

<https://www.mlive.com/news/ann-arbor/2018/12/500-plant-marijuana-grow-operation-coming-to-ann-arbor-research-park.html>

I've also recently read about many communities complaining about the awful stench (citizens can't go outside anymore and, if they do, they wear medical grade gas masks) of marijuana farms (please see NYTimes article). I am concerned about the possible growth of marijuana farms in Ann Arbor.

<https://www.nytimes.com/2018/12/19/us/california-marijuana-stink.html>

I thought I would bring these items to your attention in case future votes are planned regarding marijuana farms and/or if there is talk about adding restrictions to the number of marijuana farms allowed in Ann Arbor.

Thank you.
Sincerely,

Tami Stevenson

Hello Major Taylor and City Council,

Many thanks for another safe and effective deer cull in Ann Arbor.

I am so grateful that the City has this program. It has made the difference between night and day for our property near Cedar Bend Park. We see deer only occasionally now. I am even starting to unfence some of the larger oak saplings in the woods behind our house!

As you know, not all does have been sterilized, so they will continue to breed. Please renew this program next year to achieve and maintain a low stable number of deer in Ann Arbor.

I know a handful of folks continue to object to culling, but please don't let them disrupt this valuable and effective program, which I believe a majority of Ann Arbor residents support. I think with time, the vast majority of people will accept culling as good natural areas management, just as everyone now accepts NAP's burn program, which was intimidating for some at first. Also, as we transition to maintenance mode over time, the cost will go down. This program is very much worth my taxpayers dollars to me!

Again, very grateful,

We received some abuse in the process, but I hope it's worth it. I don't envy your position in the middle of these decisions.

Do you think that Council "gets" that deer management will be an ongoing City responsibility, like snow clearing?

With the State taking additional doe sterilization off the table for several years there seems to be no alternative to lethal culls in the deer hotspot areas if the goal is stabilizing the herd at an environmentally and socially sustainable level, and of course to first get to that level. I hope there will also be agreement that the Ann Arbor hotspots, sites with unacceptable deer density, need to be identified and monitored over time by some combination of

- Ecological damage studies (such as done by Dr. Courteau)
- Flyover deer count (by helicopter)
- State and local deer crash report maps
- Lyme-relevant data gathering: Where Ixodes black-legged ticks are being found, and whether the Lyme-disease-causing bacteria Borella Burgdorferi are found in the ticks, as well as the occurrence and location of locally-acquired Lyme disease or other tick-borne illnesses.
- Resident dissatisfaction with deer damage to private landscaping

City ends 4th annual deer cull early, parks reopen

Wednesday, January 23, 2019 - 8:25pm

LEAH GRAHAM
Daily News Editor

Ann Arbor's fourth annual deer cull ended a week ahead of schedule, the city announced Monday, resulting in the reopening of a dozen parks and nature areas. From Jan. 2 to Jan. 20, sharpshooters removed 112 deer, failing to meet the city's goal of bagging up to 150.

In a statement, Lisa Wondrash, communications director of Ann Arbor, said White Buffalo, the contractor hired to carry out the effort, decided to finish the cull early.

"The earlier than anticipated completion date is a result of optimal weather conditions since Jan. 2 that enabled White Buffalo to operate on consecutive days without significant breaks in between and within budget," Wondrash said. "Per the contract, White Buffalo is paid for time and materials, not per deer."

Ann Arbor City Council approved the deer management program — which takes both lethal and nonlethal approaches to reducing the size of the local herd — four years ago in response to complaints from residents about damage to landscaping and deer-vehicle collisions. Ecologists have also pointed out the problems an overabundance of the animals causes to the environment, especially to tree saplings.

A total of 386 deer have been killed and 78 surgically sterilized as a result of the program, which has been the subject of long-running debate in the community and cost the city upwards of half a million dollars.

Bernie Banet, member of Washtenaw Citizens for Ecological Balance, said if the city was able to reduce the deer population to a sustainable level, then only smaller culls would be necessary in the future to maintain a healthy herd size.

"If we have, indeed, reached a level where the population is acceptable according to those measures, then, by virtue of deer biology, further culling will still be needed, probably each year, to keep the population stable," Banet said. "These maintenance culls will be smaller than the more aggressive culls that have been needed to actually reduce a population."

A 2016 report from the city found 54 percent of residents supported the cull while 45 percent were against it.

Banet said residents have generally become more accepting of the deer cull now that it has been around for a while but noted that “passionate opposition from some groups has not gone away.” One of those organizations is Friends of Ann Arbor Wildlife in Nature, which has called the program unethical and ineffective. Since this year’s cull started, protestors have demonstrated near the sharpshooters’ perches around the city, including some on University property.

Disruptions from anti-cull protestors were blamed in part when White Buffalo failed to meet the city’s goal in 2018, killing less than half of the 250 deer quota. Earlier this month, City Council voted down a resolution to take legal action against the demonstrators who interfered with White Buffalo’s sharpshooters. The measure, introduced by Jane Lumm, I-Ward 2, was based on a state statute that makes it illegal for people to interfere with the “lawful taking of animals” such as Ann Arbor’s deer cull.

On Jan. 9, an officer from the Division of Public Safety and Security warned protestors on Hubbard Road about the consequence of disrupting the work of a sharpshooter stationed on University property, a misdemeanor offense that carries a maximum penalty of 93 days in jail and a fine of up to $1000.

Melissa Overton, deputy chief of police at University of Michigan, said the officer did not issue a citation — just a verbal warning. She said a DPSS officer was placed at each of the locations throughout the University where the cull was conducted.

“We have officers assigned to those areas during the deer cull for safety reasons and the specific complaint that we got came from the cull operator,” Overton said. “That was the first time that we had received that complaint that they were actually interfering with that, so that’s when we took action.”

Overton said the warning does not mean anti-cull protestors can no longer demonstrate and that they continued to do so on University property.

“They can, and they have,” Overton said. “One night there were six of them in the Arb, and they did not interfere, so they weren’t screaming into the woods, they weren’t obstructing or interfering in the actual cull. They were standing there, they were chanting, they were all in one area. We had no problem.”

In an email, FAAWN co-founder Lisa Abram said DPSS “threatened to arrest peaceful protestors.”

“The fact that U-M Police threatened peaceful protestors with imprisonment is alarming and a wake up call for everyone who believes in free speech and the right to use our voices for peaceful protests,” Abrams said.

Abrams said FAAWN had reached out to local attorneys in regard to the constitutionality of the law.

“The American Civil Liberties Union and Gayle Rosen, a staff Attorney with U-M Student Legal Services, are looking into our civil rights issues, and whether the Michigan hunter harassment law is a violation of our First Amendment rights to free speech and to peacefully protest,” Abrams said.

In an email to The Daily, Rosen, the co-chair of the Washtenaw County Lawyers Committee of the ACLU, did not confirm or deny that she was working with FAAWN.

“The Lawyers Committee receives many requests for assistance throughout the year,” Rosen said. “It is our practice not to comment on a particular case, or the identity of a person or a group seeking assistance from our committee unless and until we make a decision to take action in the matter.”

This was the final year of the city’s deer management program. In accordance with a research permit from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Ann Arbor has recorded data on the impact and further research will be conducted in coming months, including an assessment of this year’s program from White Buffalo as well as a survey of residents’ opinions conducted by Michigan State University. The city will then compile a final deer management summary report by July.

Dear Council Member Hayner and Council Member Bannister—

Thank you both for your interest in attending Friday's Sustaining Ann Arbor Together award ceremony to A2 STEAM School at Northside. This brief event will take place right inside the main vestibule of the A2 STEAM building. I did just speak with the Principal there, Ms. Megan Fenech, and she confirmed that we do need to bring an ID since they are piloting a new security system at the school.

We have invited the A2 STEAM PTO president, the A2 STEAM principal, as well as the parents that have supported this project to be present for the awarding of the grant. We'll likely have the City Administrator and yourselves present to award the check and mingle. We have also invited the media but it's hard to say who might actually attend. Regardless, we'll have our team onsite to take some photos and do a little press write-up.

In total, I expect the event will take 15 minutes. I believe some students might be present to watch the awarding but that detail isn't finalized quite yet.

I think those are the major logistics. If I've forgotten anything, please let me know. Otherwise, I very much look forward to seeing you both on Friday. All the best,
Missy

Dear Council Members Bannister and Hayner and Mayor Taylor –

First and foremost, I hope this email finds you well! Secondly, I wanted to let you know that we have awarded a Sustaining Ann Arbor Together grant to the A2 STEAM at Northside program for K-8 Solar Curriculum development. We are very excited about this project, including the engagement with youth and the potential for some onsite solar installations at the end of the grant award!

In recognition of this award, we are organizing a press event where we'll be formally "awarding" the grant to the A2 STEAM program, handing them their award check, and giving a few folk the chance to speak about the origins for this project. We'd also love to have the three of you attend, should you be able and interested.

We are still finalizing all the event details but we are aiming for the event to take place on February 8th at 12:15pm. I know your calendars fill up fast so I wanted to give you as much advanced notice as possible. In the next few days we'll send more details about the event but for now, please let me know if you are able and interested in attending.

Thank you all and have a superb rest of your day.

Anne,

Good to hear. I can't believe they would think it was a good idea to put slippery paint in the crosswalk just so it would last longer. Did they consult with the city attorney regarding the cost of injury lawsuits? My worse fear is that it was determined that the lawsuits would be cheaper than buying the proper paint! And I wouldn't be surprised if that was the case.

Dear Jeff and Anne,

Almost every time I go out in the car heading south I think of this, but then, by the time I get home I forget. As you might or might not know, cars heading for downtown along Plymouth Rd are stopped at the light at Maiden Lane....and often pile up as far as the Broadway intersection, especially cars in the turn lane to Maiden Lane. So when the light turns green for the cars waiting on Broadway, they have difficulty making the turn onto Plymouth Road because cars are blocking the intersection in the turn lane for Maiden Lane.

I hope I explained it well enough!

This is a problem sporadically throughout the day, at unpredictable times, not just at rush hour.

There are several solutions. Having a longer turn light so that cars don't pile up in the turn lane on Plymouth Road would help, but since that would have to be timed and the times that are a problem are unpredictable, that might not work.

It might help if there was a sign on Plymouth Road before the intersection with Broadway that said "Do not block the intersection." I'm sure some people would ignore it, but it might alleviate the long lines that block traffic coming out of Broadway.

Can you bring this to the attention of the appropriate department?

Thanks!

I've been trying to get a job with the city of Ann Arbor since when I first applied back in the summer of 2018 for the Solid Waste position.

2nd time I applied I received a very nice phone interview asking me lots of questions everything went very well.

One of things I was told was that I was an excellent fit for the position that I applied for that they would put me down for solid waste position, also how much time did I need to give my employer for leaving.

I said 2 weeks.

Then I was called in for live interview met with Kurt, Rita, Dan, one other person.

I was informed everyone really liked me. So my hopes and expectations were very high.

So I gave my boss my 2 weeks notification with the impression I had the job.

2 weeks later I received a call informing me that they had decided to go with a better candidate.

Fortunately I was able to keep my job.

I have 12 years CDL driving experience along with an excellent driving record .

Also have plenty of experience in alot of other areas.

I know of alot of other people who have been hired no prior experience or even a CDL.

Also found out they were looking for more than one driver and everyone else was told the same thing when they were called...(We decided to go with better candidate).

Then I found out they never hired anyone and they were trying to out source it. (Still no drivers)

This was very discouraging especially since they have reposted the job for solid waste 3 more times since and in fact it is posted now with no response from the city especially when Kurt the person I talked to really wanted to hire me with all my experience.

Why are they reposting the solid waste position and not calling people back and offering them the opportunity for the job when they said they were a perfect candidate for the job.

That's 5 times this job for solid waste has been posted and they are turning people down with lots of experience.

Also I was informed they wanted people that had experience with all the various equipment they run .

I informed them no one has the same equipment and that everyone would have to be trained on whatever equipment they have even if theirs is similar.

Someone needs to investigate who's not giving people a fair shot and messing with their lives jeopardizing their jobs.

Assuming you are aware that City Hall is closed tomorrow and Thursday? We are going to push the agenda out this evening so I will get the title on for the website. The download packet will go out Friday morning when the office is open again. Also, making sure you are aware that as of right now, there is nothing scheduled for a May election, so, if approved, this would require a Special Election for this amendment specifically.

Hope you're warm.

School Board member Jeff Gaynor posted a comment on the mLive article:

“The School Board meeting scheduled for tomorrow, Jan. 30, has been cancelled due to extremely low temperatures, and also due to the agenda being relatively light. It did not include a vote on a bond issue for May.”

This means the school bond issue will not be on the May ballot. According to the article, they are considering putting it on the November ballot.

Thanks again, Jackie, for the information about the school's bond proposal and that if it's not on the May ballot, my non-partisan charter ballot Q would be the only May ballot item. Again, if the AAPS decides to not place a bond proposal Q on the May ballot, I intend to withdraw my resolution as I am not interested in causing/requiring a Special Election for this one Q.

I see the agenda that was released yesterday does not include the title, and sorry for any confusion caused. Because the AAPS will be making their decision tonight (see link to MLive article below), I would like to keep the title (and will send you an updated resln.) on the agenda just in case the AAPS does decide to place the bond proposal before voters in May.

Hope you're staying warm, and thanks so much! Jane

p.s., Would the next election be the August primary?

From the MLive article:

“If trustees want to put a bond proposal on the May ballot, they would need to vote on a resolution to do so at their 7 p.m. meeting Wednesday, Jan. 30, at Forsythe Middle School. Discussion at the study session indicated trustees prefer to wait until the November election so they have more time to weigh options and educate the public.”

Thank you, Jackie. Appreciate your adding the title to the agenda, and if you could confirm that this would be the only item on the ballot and would cause the May election, then I'd rather wait. I'm not interested in requiring a Special Election and all the costs associated with doing so. Understand the AAPS is waffling re: their bond and heard the County might be proposing something for a May ballot, but that's just rumor. Thanks and stay warm! Jane

Assuming you are aware that City Hall is closed tomorrow and Thursday? We are going to push the agenda out this evening so I will get the title on for the website. The download packet will go out Friday morning when the office is open again. Also, making sure you are aware that as of right now, there is nothing scheduled for a May election, so, if approved, this would require a Special Election for this amendment specifically.

Hi Kathy,

It was good to chat briefly at Saturday's recognition event; thanks for showing up.

Attached is the slide deck which I reviewed with Jack and Anne last Friday which I promised to share with you. As we agreed on Saturday, of all of the elements described in the Framework, SMART goals / metrics and reviewing them regularly are the most important if we want to deliver positive outcomes for residents.

I'd welcome the opportunity to go over the slide deck, it's broader implications and possible next steps with you face-to-face whenever you have the time.

A Proposal for Maximizing Administrative Performance and Ann Arbor Quality of Life

John Mirsky,
Ann Arbor Energy and Environmental Commissioner
Executive Policy Advisory for Sustainability, Office of the City Administrator
July 11, 2017 (updated several times since)

Posit

Leading entities operating in all fields – government, business, NGO, etc. – have implemented their own unique and tailored version of a standard “Framework of Excellence” around which they organize and guide their activities;

and

thus, to maximize its residents’ quality of life, the City of Ann Arbor should do the same.

Key Framework Elements

1. Shared Values – establish cultural norms and the foundation for policies
2. Shared Mission Statement – a statement of purpose
3. Shared Vision Statement – a description of future state aspirations
4. Shared Strategic Plan – a high level roadmap to achieve the vision
5. SMART Goals and Targets – metrics used to monitor progress
6. Implementation Using Lean Enterprise and System and Point Continuous Improvement (CI) methods and tools – improves operations to achieve SMART goals and targets and ultimately the vision; ensures continuous learning
7. Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings – a process to drive progress

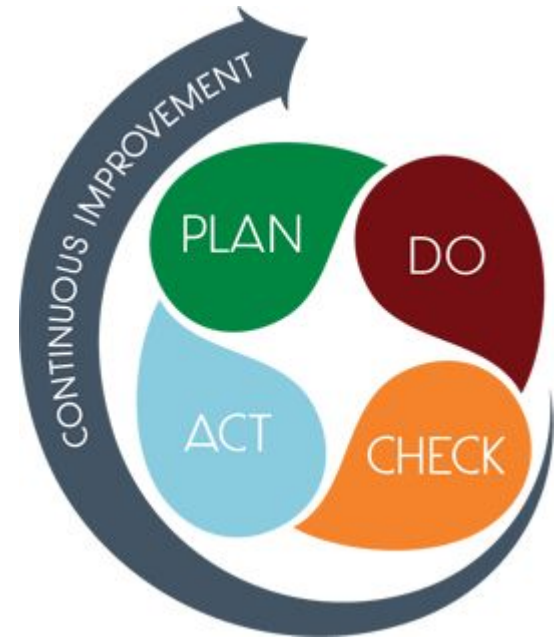

Framework of Excellence

Begin with the End in Mind:
Achieving the Vision –
Better Quality of Life for Residents

Framework Element Alignment with the Plan-Do-Check-Act/Adjust (PDCA) Approach

- P Shared Values
- P Shared Mission Statement
- P Shared Vision Statement
- P/D Shared Strategic Plan
- P/D SMART Goals and Targets
- D Lean and System and Point CI
- C/A Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings

This cycle is continuously repeated, especially the last four elements; the first three elements are only reviewed and modified occasionally.

1. Shared Values

- Values establish cultural norms; influence behaviors; serve as the foundation for policies, procedures and programs, their interpretation and how they are put into action; drive faster and better decisions; and ensure the strengths of an entity are retained in times of change.
- Values can include things like:
 - Future and Results Focus
 - Responsibility
 - Initiative, Entrepreneurship and Determination
 - Openness and Trust
 - Fairness
 - Reliability, Credibility and Legality
 - Diversity and Inclusion
 - Customer-oriented
- Each value should be explained in writing and used in training and in explaining policies, ordinances, decisions, projects and other initiatives, etc.

2. Shared Mission Statement

- A mission statement is a statement of purpose. It answers the question “Why does the entity exist?”
- An organization and the people comprising it are more successful when they rally around a clear reason for being and sense of direction.
- The more noble the mission, the greater the motivation and the emotional and physical attachment to the cause.

3. Shared Vision Statement

- A vision statement is a description of future state aspirations.
- It, like the mission, serves to inspire the organization.
- Ideally it is expressed in objective, not just abstract, ways; for example a municipal government may include aspects such as:
 - Awards, recognition and improved rankings (for example a happiness / satisfaction index ranking, e.g. Gallup-Healthways' Community Well-Being Rankings); and / or
 - Certifications, e.g., STAR Community 5-star rating by 20XX;

4. Shared Strategic Plan

- A strategic plan is a high level roadmap to achieve the vision.
- Strategic planning is an organizational management activity that is used to set priorities, focus energy and resources, strengthen operations, ensure that employees and other stakeholders are working toward common goals, establish agreement around intended outcomes/results, and assess and adjust the organization's direction in response to a changing environment.
- It is a disciplined effort that produces fundamental decisions and actions that shape and guide what an organization is, who it serves, what it does, and why it does it, with a focus on the future.
- Effective strategic planning articulates not only where an organization is going and the actions needed to make progress, but also how it will know if it is successful [i.e. setting SMART goals and targets (see slide 11)].

4. Strategic Planning Process Steps

Gather Inputs

- From all Stakeholders
- Customer analysis
- Competitor analysis
- Industry analysis
- Environmental
- Company performance
- Company strategies
- Verify assumptions

SWOT Analysis

- External Analysis
 - Opportunities
 - Threats
- Internal Analysis
 - Strengths
 - Weaknesses
- Strategic Questions
- Strategic Issues

Review Inputs

- All Stakeholders
- Review Inputs
- Review SWOT Analysis
- Define 3-4 key statements

Strategic Matrix

- All Stakeholders
- Define Strategies to address SWOT combinations:
 - Opportunities vs Strengths
 - Opportunities vs Weaknesses
 - Threats vs Strengths
 - Threats vs Weaknesses

Define Strategies

- Objectives
- Key Strategies
- Short and Long Term Goals
- Operational Plans and Projects

Final Reviews

- All Stakeholders
- Review Strategies
- Review Goals
- Review Plans
- Adjust as necessary

5. SMART Goals and Targets

- A organization’s strategic plan, including its priorities, is reflected in its goals and targets (“metrics” or “indicators”).
- Good metrics are aligned with “SMART goals” where:
 - S = Specific – defining Who, What, Where, When, Which and Why
 - “Who” is typically a team based on RASIC principles, including:
 - R = Who is Responsible (and empowered and therefore accountable – see points 6. and 7.)
 - A = Who Approves
 - S = Who Supports
 - I = Who is Informed
 - C = Who is Coordinated with
 - M = Measurable – see Back-up slide 22
 - A = Attainable
 - R = Realistic
 - T = Time-bound – due dates for projects and tasks
- Metrics should be a balanced set of leading and lagging indicators.
- SMART metrics are visualized and tracked using trend charts.

6. Lean Enterprise and System and Point CI

- Lean Enterprise and Continuous Improvement (CI) principles, tools and projects improve the efficiency and effectivity of operations, ensures continuous learning and contribute to the achievement of goals and targets, strategic plans and the entity's vision.
- The Pillars of Lean are:
 1. Continuous Improvement, where the super-ordinate principles of CIP include “Process- and Results-Orientation”:
 - Good results are not possible without good processes.
 - Good processes conform with lean principles and are designed and improved utilizing lean tools (see Back-up slides).
 - Good results, based on the proper metrics, validate that processes are working well; poor results signal that processes need improvement.
 2. Respect for People

6. Lean Enterprise and System and Point CI, cont.

- System CI optimizes entire systems and processes
- Point CI focuses on improving individual processes and process steps through standardization, optimization and problem solving
- Each CI project follows the PDCA cycle shown on slide 5
- Successful Lean and CI projects preconditions include:
 - A responsible, empowered and therefore accountable project manager;
 - The necessary team resources (people, budget, training, tools, management access, sponsors, etc.);
 - Sufficiently detailed project plans using the appropriate tools (e.g. MSProject or the equivalent);
 - Regular project reviews with team members, sponsors and other key stakeholders, including other appropriate members of management.

7. Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings

- Reviews of the status of metrics and projects drive progress and results and thus ultimately the achievement of targets, the strategic plan and the vision.
- They:
 - Ensure projects are on target, schedule and budget and are having the intended impact on performance;
 - Allow issues to be escalated and resources to be (re-)allocated; and
 - Serve as a forum to change approaches / processes, including training, leadership, etc..
- Typically there is a hierarchy of review meetings starting at the department level up to and including the overall entity.
 - In municipal government, high-level review meetings should be held publically to demonstrate transparency and promote trust.
- Reviews also include SMART goal setting and then target achievement accountability as significant elements of the performance management and compensation processes.

Key Framework Elements – A2 Status

- ? Shared Values – not published in the public domain
- ✓ Shared Mission Statement – posted in most City Hall offices and on A2’s Facebook Page but not on A2gov.org
- ? Shared Vision Statement – not published in the public domain
- ✓ Shared Strategic Plan – six strategic priorities have been proposed by the City Administrator but an implementation plan is yet to be completed
- ✓ SMART Goals and Targets –Sustainability Framework Dashboard metrics only; spotty updating of metrics and their use
- ? Lean and System and Point CI – little evidence of application of these principles and tools
- ? Regular, Rigorous Review Meetings – not held publically; SMART goal achievement accountability being re-implemented

Implementation of the Framework should be Guided by a Holistic Approach

The Change Wheel* is such an approach and can be used to assist the process of planning and implementing change

Simultaneous and increasingly improved action on all “spokes” of the Change Wheel increases the speed of implementation:

- A wheel with flat spots does not rotate easily; and
- The bigger the Wheel, the more ground it covers with each rotation.

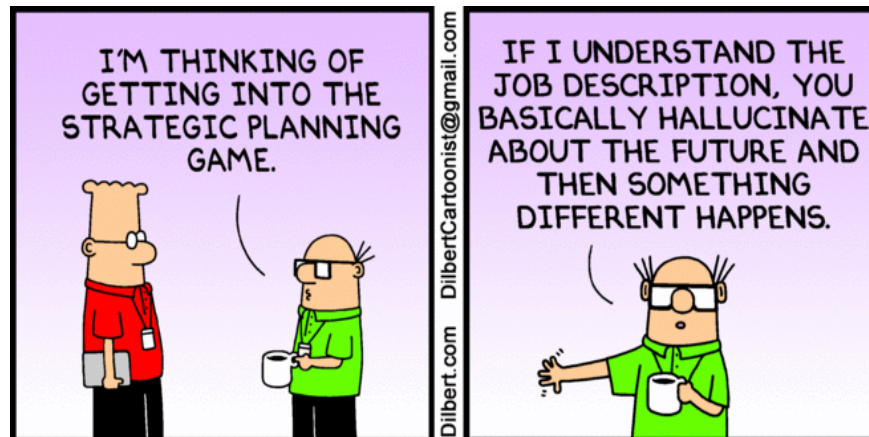

* Developed by Robert Bosch LLC and Rosabeth Moss Kantor (Harvard Business School)

Implementation

- In order to implement a Framework of Excellence, Ann Arbor has access to a number of human resources, including:
 - Experts at the University of Michigan;
 - Consultants such as those at the Lean Enterprise Institute and the Dennison Consulting Group;
 - Pro bono services from local companies, including Bosch;
 - The author and others.
- Just as the City uses commissions and boards to advise it on various matters, the City Administration or Administrator could form an advisory board focused on implementing and continuously improving a Framework of Excellence in its operations.

Conclusions

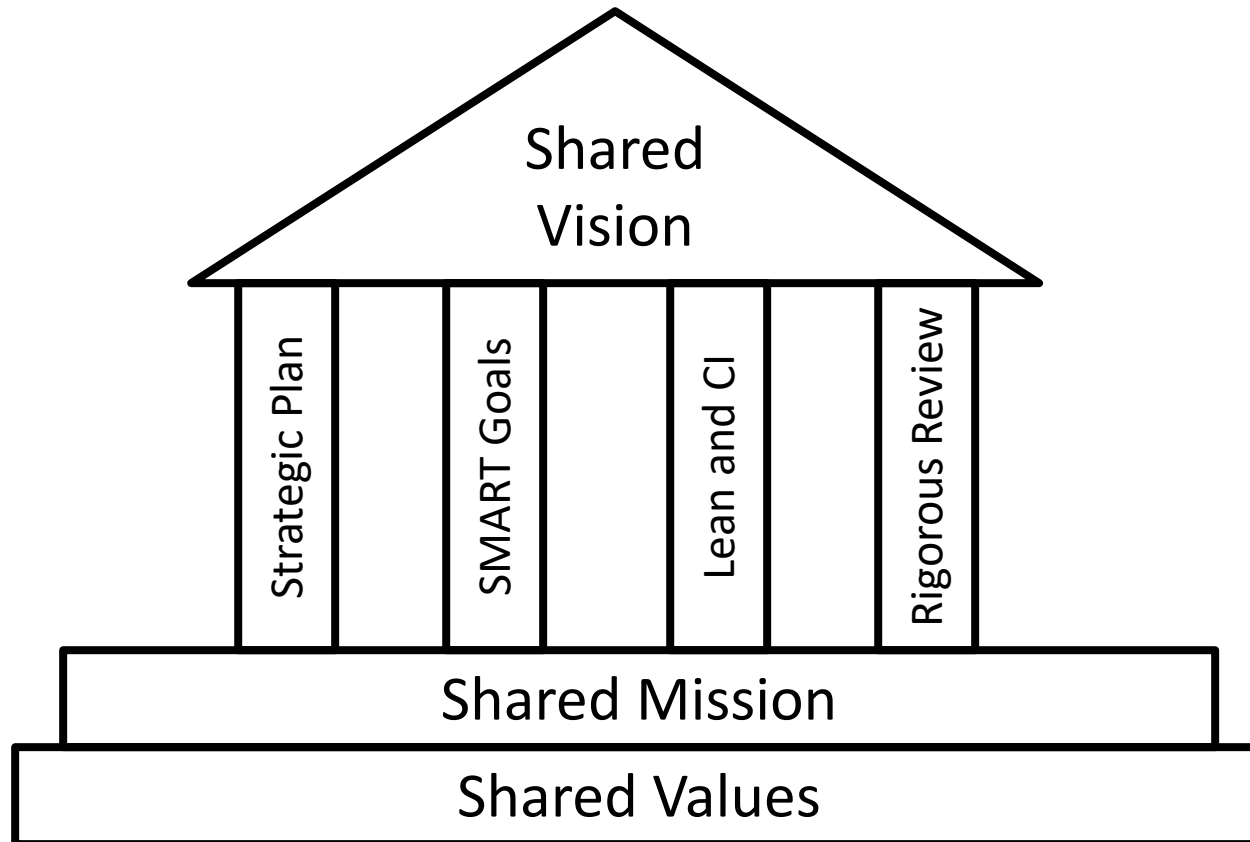

- Implementing a Framework of Excellence will:
 - Improve the quality of life for the residents of Ann Arbor;
 - Drive sustainable economic development;
 - Improve the work satisfaction of City employees; and
 - Make City operations more efficient and effective and thus reduce the total cost of services and/or open up resources for new initiatives.

... AND IT REALLY DOES!!

Back-up

* Aggressiveness of targets reflect strategic priorities;

8. Lean Enterprise – Improving Work Processes

- Organizations work in value streams to achieve goals and targets
- Generic enterprise value stream:

6. Lean Enterprise - Improving Work Processes

- Working in a value stream is analogous to runners in a relay race passing a baton (= work) from teammate to teammate / function to function until the finish line is crossed (= service or product delivered)

- A “lean enterprise” quickly delivers things of value to customers and society in shorter and shorter process cycle times, while still achieving the highest quality of its products and services and morale of its employees.*

* Adapted from the “Lean Primer” by C. Larman and B. Vodde

6. Lean Enterprise – Principles

- Principles*
 - Long-term, Total System Focus – Optimize priorities and actions based on long-term and the total system outcomes
 - Perfect Quality – Failure prevention is better than failure detection
 - Non-judgmental, Non-blaming Culture – Encourage people to come forward with issues to create opportunities for improvement: “Problems Welcome!”
 - Process Orientation – Design, control and improve the holistic process
 - Pull Principle – Produce only what the customer wants
 - Flexibility – Adaptability in terms of quantity and service / product variants
 - Standardization – Coordinate repeatable working processes around a current best way in order to make deviations visible and share best practices
 - CI and Waste Elimination – Processes are self-explanatory and deviations are visible; eliminate non value-added activities
 - Transparency – Entity processes and service / product sequences are self-explanatory, deviations from the target state are recognized immediately
 - Associate Development, Involvement and Empowerment – Clear assignment of responsibilities and competencies to involved employees who are working with and on the process
 - Go and See – Go to where work is done and where opportunities for improvement exist to fully understand and grasp the situation

* Adapted from the Bosch Production System , Kaizen Institute of America’s “Kaizen Basics” and the “Lean Primer” by C. Larman and B. Vodde

6. Lean Enterprise – Tools

- Key Sample Tools
 - For known causes and solutions: Implementation of Corrective actions [i.e. use of standard Open Points Lists (OPLs) and regular project reviews to implement solutions to problems].
 - For unknown causes and solutions: Application of structured Problem Solving (PS) and Value Stream Mapping and Design (VSM/VSD).
 - PS drives true root cause identification and verification and the implementation of corrective measures and their effectiveness.
 - VSM/VSD visualizes and documents the current state of processes, including characteristics such as process times, lead-times and total cycle times and defects and rework, and is used to design and implement more efficient and effective future state processes by eliminating waste and streamlining work.

Subject: Question on Bobcats and Availability of Free Sand/Salt
Date: Wednesday, January 30, 2019 4:46:58 PM

Dear Mr. Hupy,

Please respond to these questions:

- The City offers free sand/salt (scroll down to bottom of page): <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/public-works/street-maintenance/Pages/Snow-Removal.aspx>. But the location by me (721 N. Main) has not had any sand/salt for the last several days. Would the City post an update on when the supplies will be replenished? I realize staff is working overtime to clear the snow and ice, and I'm grateful for your work, and this is just a suggestion/request that the true availability of free sand/salt be provided.
- What is the rule for residents/businesses that have bobcats clearing the snow from the sidewalks of their clients? As I walk around town, I see piles of snow pushed/dumped by bobcats onto adjacent property's sidewalks and driveway aprons. What is the rule on this? What can be done to encourage/enforce bobcat services to keep the snow on the property of their client (and not on the adjacent property)?

Thanks,

Ms. Hinkle-Eaton,

City Administrator Howard Lazarus provided the reply below to the concerns you raised in your email of January 17. It sounds as if the City will be taking some small short-term actions while it considers long-term improvements. The City Administrator did not specifically respond to your suggestion that the intersection of Edgewood and Stadium have a traffic signal. I will follow-up on that to determine what would need to be done to accomplish that.

If you have further questions or concerns about this, feel free to contact me.

I am writing to provide an informal update concerning the crosswalk on Stadium at Edgewood. Our intent is to install an overhead RRFB at this location, and staff is working on expediting this effort. Installing a pedestrian refuge island at this location will require widening the roadway, which would be a significant effort. Engineering staff is looking at the feasibility of syncing the related underground utility projects so that these projects can be moved ahead in the CIP.

Please let me know if you have any additional questions.

Ms. Eaton,

I share your concerns about the crosswalk at Stadium and Edgewood. I am copying Council Member Kathy Griswold and City Administrator Howard Lazarus to make them aware of your concerns.

Council Member Griswold is a long-time pedestrian safety advocate, with whom I am working to address poorly designed crosswalks. Ms. Griswold and I have been working with Ward 4 resident Eric Lipson to get improvements at this particular site. Ms. Griswold also is the Council representative to the School Transportation Safety Committee, a body composed of school and City staff to address safety, including problems such as this.

City Administrator Lazarus shares our concerns about pedestrian safety and has made the commitment that the City will make necessary improvements and will not allow cost to interfere with making needed changes.

I am confident that working together we will respond to neighborhood concerns about the Stadium-Edgewood crosswalk. The safety of all residents and especially our school-aged children must be foremost in our actions.

Best wishes,
Jack

Hello, my name is Kristina Eaton and I live on Edgewood Ave.

I have a concern regarding the cross walk at the corner of Edgewood Ave and Stadium. I have witnessed over the past few months, 3 car accidents. There may have been more that I am unaware of. Also, countless near misses to pedestrians. This includes my own child while crossing to attend Pioneer high school, WITH the lights flashing.

I would like to recommend an actual traffic signal be placed here. A signal that flashes yellow and red, one that is only functional during school hours or during events held at the high school.

I would hate for another sentinel event to take place at this location before something is done.

I have also sent this letter to credinger@a2gov.org.

I am uncertain to whom would be the most appropriate person to help with this situation.

I agree with these assessments of the city's website, a few years back it went through a redesign and in my opinion came out for the worse. I did just check and this issue has made it to the front page. We have the largest PR staff in the history of the city, and communications are not improved in my opinion. We also have a local "newspaper" that does not regularly report on things like this – despite being the recipient of all our Press Releases by default – which inhibits our efforts to get the word out.

For those who like to stay on top of things, I recommend subscribing to our battery of press releases and other information via this page where one can choose any or all topics.

Please share this with anyone you think may be interested. In the meantime I will bring your concerns to the administrator and our PR department, and thank you for bringing this to our attention,

Subject: Communications of Important City Announcements

Mr. Mayor and Councilpersons Smith, Ramlawi, and Griswold:

I found this announcement posted on the Trash, Recycling & Compost page of the City's website:

Alert:

Due to the National Weather Service wind chill warning regarding dangerously low below-zero temperatures all non-essential City of Ann Arbor government buildings, including Parks and Recreation facilities, and the 15th District Court, will be closed from 8 a.m. on Wednesday, January 30 until 8 a.m. Friday, February, 1.

Ann Arbor's trash and recycling collection programs will be delayed two days, which means Wednesday's route will be serviced Friday, Thursday's route on Saturday and Friday's route on Sunday.

An announcement of this significance (an unscheduled, one-time event regarding City services affecting all residents) should be prominently displayed on the home page of the City's website, not buried inside it. I shouldn't have to hunt for information of this level of importance. Instead, I find announcements of secondary importance, like World Wetlands Day 'fluff news' get top billing on the City's website home page.

I respectfully suggest we need to seriously reevaluate the effectiveness of the City's website in disseminating important timely information. Please let me know if I can offer assistance to this end. The current model is unacceptable.

Thank you for the follow-up below. I have made preliminary outreach efforts to Mr. Ajegba and Ms. Dingell's Office. My hope in contacting them is that we gain better clarity on the SRTS program requirements, specifically whether or not we can make material changes to the submitted grant application, will we be hurt on future grants if the Northside STEAM does not go forward, and how much discretion is available on the requirement to have sidewalks on both sides of the street. Firmer direction these matters may help you in your discussions with your constituents. I will continue to pursue these matters on your behalf in good faith.

Okay! I'm optimistic that with your help advocating with Paul Ajegba and Debbie Dingell, that we can use the $400,000 for true safety improvements for the students, that are in compliance with Vision Zero and not unduly burdensome on the residents of Traver and Brookside (and other established neighborhoods in the future with sidewalk gaps).

This has the potential to be a big success/breakthrough, and I appreciate you pivoting from "other people's money, other people's rules," to truly advocating on behalf of what's best for safety, the community and affordability!

Please let Kathy, Jack, Jeff and me know if you need our help.

We can do this!

Are these the correct items you will follow-up on with regard to SRTS?

- You'll reach out to Paul C. Ajegba at MDOT and Debbie Dingell to discuss modifications to the $400,000 grant to improve safety for students at Northside STEAM.
- You'll circle back to the Transportation Commission and provide a more detailed response to the requests from Commissioners Tim Hull and Cyrus Naheedy for more information about Northside STEAM SRTS, special assessments, affordability, and snow removal/Snow Buddy. (12-19-18 video at 1:19 hours: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kQcMVi4Suxc&t=216s>)
- You'll prepare the information Council will need to consider changes to the special assessments, including the payback period and other sources of funding, for the Northside STEAM project and beyond.

Dear Council Member Hayner and Council Member Bannister—

Thank you both for your interest in attending Friday's Sustaining Ann Arbor Together award ceremony to A2 STEAM School at Northside. This brief event will take place right inside the main vestibule of the A2 STEAM building. I did just speak with the Principal there, Ms. Megan Fenech, and she confirmed that we do need to bring an ID since they are piloting a new security system at the school.

We have invited the A2 STEAM PTO president, the A2 STEAM principal, as well as the parents that have supported this project to be present for the awarding of the grant. We'll likely have the City Administrator and yourselves present to award the check and mingle. We have also invited the media but it's hard to say who might actually attend. Regardless, we'll have our team onsite to take some photos and do a little press write-up.

In total, I expect the event will take 15 minutes. I believe some students might be present to watch the awarding but that detail isn't finalized quite yet.

I think those are the major logistics. If I've forgotten anything, please let me know. Otherwise, I very much look forward to seeing you both on Friday. All the best,

Dear Council Members Bannister and Hayner and Mayor Taylor –

First and foremost, I hope this email finds you well! Secondly, I wanted to let you know that we have awarded a Sustaining Ann Arbor Together grant to the A2 STEAM at Northside program for K-8 Solar Curriculum development. We are very excited about this project, including the engagement with youth and the potential for some onsite solar installations at the end of the grant award!

In recognition of this award, we are organizing a press event where we'll be formally "awarding" the grant to the A2 STEAM program, handing them their award check, and giving a few folk the chance to speak about the origins for this project. We'd also love to have the three of you attend, should you be able and interested.

We are still finalizing all the event details but we are aiming for the event to take place on February 8th at 12:15pm. I know your calendars fill up fast so I wanted to give you as much advanced notice as possible. In the next few days we'll send more details about the event but for now, please let me know if you are able and interested in attending.

Thank you all and have a superb rest of your day.

Dear Mr. Hupy,

Please respond to these questions:

- The City offers free sand/salt (scroll down to bottom of page):
<https://www.a2gov.org/departments/public-works/street-maintenance/Pages/Snow-Removal.aspx>.
But the location by me (721 N. Main) has not had any sand/salt for the last several days. Would the City post an update on when the supplies will be replenished? I realize staff is working overtime to clear the snow and ice, and I'm grateful for your work, and this is just a suggestion/request that the true availability of free sand/salt be provided.
- What is the rule for residents/businesses that have bobcats clearing the snow from the sidewalks of their clients? As I walk around town, I see piles of snow pushed/dumped by bobcats onto adjacent property's sidewalks and driveway aprons. What is the rule on this? What can be done to encourage/enforce bobcat services to keep the snow on the property of their client (and not on the adjacent property)?

Thanks Jane and there's actually several examples of information that should be front & center on a2gov.org and related social media and press releases. For example:

- current info on the supply of free Sand/Salt (it's run out, supposedly replenished soon/today maybe)
- who to call if you see a resident outdoors in distress
- who to call if a bobcat or snow plow illegally dumps snow off their client's property (into street or adjacent property)
- delayed trash pick up

In general, Communications needs work/improvement. John Mirsky has a file on these issues, too, and we hope to meet with staff on the ball of wax. — Anne

Again, my thanks for your suggestions on ways to more effectively disseminate important time sensitive information. Do think the decision to not provide these services more/less occurred in conjunction with the late in the day decision to close City Hall (outside a holiday, a very unusual event), and why the announcement may not have been more prominently featured as would have been helpful.

Dear Paul,

Thank you, as well, for bringing your concerns regarding the dissemination of the PR and the lack of prominence it received on the city website. I agree that an announcement of this significance should have been more prominently featured on the City's website, and apologize that it was not disseminated more broadly.

In terms of dissemination of city news/announcements, Jeff is correct that all PR's are provided MLive -- and, as I'm sure you appreciate, there's never any guarantee that the PR is covered, and that's unfortunate. This particular PR was released in concert w/the Administrator's decision to close City Hall on Wed. and Thurs., and the timing of the decision perhaps resulted in the information not being prominently featured on the website --not making excuses, just trying to offer a possible explanation because it's my sense the decision and PR were "last minute", and consequently rushed to be released.

Trash collection information is always posted on the Trash, Recycling and Compost page, and I will also recommend that in the future, when important announcements re: city services are provided, that the City display this information on the front page of the city website.

I will pass along your concerns and helpful recommendations to our Communications and IT staff, and thank you for bringing this to our attention.

All best, Jane

I agree with these assessments of the city's website, a few years back it went through a redesign and in my opinion came out for the worse. I did just check and this issue has made it to the front page. We have the largest PR staff in the history of the city, and communications are not improved in my opinion. We also have a local "newspaper" that does not regularly report on things like this – despite being the recipient of all our Press Releases by default – which inhibits our efforts to get the word out.

For those who like to stay on top of things, I recommend subscribing to our battery of press releases and other information via this page where one can choose any or all topics.

Please share this with anyone you think may be interested. In the meantime I will bring your concerns to the administrator and our PR department, and thank you for bringing this to our attention,

Please see (below) an email that a colleague of mine sent to the Mayor and other Councilpersons. As a resident of the 1st Ward (and Jane I know you personally), I find this very distressing. Something needs to be done regarding this on the City Website. Quite frankly, I find this inexcusable.

Subject: Communications of Important City Announcements

Mr. Mayor and Councilpersons Smith, Ramlawi, and Griswold:

I found this announcement posted on the Trash, Recycling
& Compost page of the City's website:

Alert:

Due to the National Weather Service wind chill warning regarding dangerously low below-zero temperatures all non-essential City of Ann Arbor government buildings, including Parks and Recreation facilities, and the 15th District Court, will be closed from 8 a.m. on Wednesday, January 30 until 8 a.m. Friday, February, 1.

Ann Arbor's trash and recycling collection programs will be delayed two days, which means Wednesday's route will be serviced Friday, Thursday's route on Saturday and Friday's route on Sunday.

An announcement of this significance (an unscheduled, one-time event regarding City services affecting all residents) should be prominently displayed on the home page of the City's website, not buried inside it. I shouldn't have to hunt for information of this level of importance. Instead, I find announcements of secondary importance, like World Wetlands Day 'fluff news' get top billing on the City's website home page.

I respectfully suggest we need to seriously reevaluate the effectiveness of the City's website in disseminating important timely information. Please let me know if I can offer assistance to this end. The current model is unacceptable.

Subject: RE: Update on Northside SRTS

Councilmember Bannister,

An e-mail update on the project will go out today. The web page will be updated either today or Monday, February 4.

Staff shares the final responses for your review.

What are the four property addresses referenced in this January 16 update?

Response- The four addresses are: [REDACTED], [REDACTED], [REDACTED], and [REDACTED].
A TGP has been received from [REDACTED], but not the other three.

How is an AAPS student drop-off on Traver Road in compliance with Vision Zero?

Response - Vision Zero is not a design standard with which one can be "in compliance" with, but rather a design, maintenance, and operations philosophy geared towards reaching the stated goal. The concept of providing sidewalk for pedestrians is consistent with Vision Zero. The parking on Traver near Barton is on-street parking available to all users, not a dedicated student drop-off area, although it may very well be used for that purpose as well. Nothing related to the on-street parking is inconsistent with Vision Zero.

Has City staff made any outreach to MDOT, the Michigan Fitness Foundation and our State elected officials to advocate on behalf of the residents for modifications to the two-sidewalk plan?

Response -Staff has not advocated on behalf of the residents to forgo the requirements of sidewalks on both sides of the street with MDOT, Michigan Fitness Foundation, or State Officials. Sidewalks on both sides of the street is a requirement of the Safe Routes to School Program and it is also consistent with City standards.

What are the next steps to bring before Council a proposal to have sidewalk gaps paid through the General Fund and other sources?

Response- Changes to the method of funding the first time construction of sidewalks will require the Code of Ordinances of the City of Ann Arbor to be amended. Staff could undertake a review of alternative methods and source of funding for sidewalk construction. This would require a significant effort by staff. Before staff undertakes this effort, direction by the full body of City Council is desirable.

Subject: Update on Northside SRTS

Dear Ms. Allen,

Please send everyone an update on the SRTS project, including the current design, and timeline for modifications to the two-sidewalk plan. We've heard we may have until Feb. 22 before the plans are submitted to MDOT.

The webpage could also be updated: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Pages/Northside-STEAM-Sidewalk-Gap-Project.aspx>

Please respond to these questions:

What are the four property addresses referenced in this January 16 update?

Final plans and specifications are scheduled to be submitted to MDOT before the end of January 2019. Before the funding can be obligated, and the SRTS Grant awarded, the City must possess all necessary easements and temporary grading permits (TGP) necessary to do the work described in the plans. There are no permanent easements required for this project, as all sidewalks will be installed in the public right-of-way. However, four (4) properties remain in the project limits where the sidewalk will be close to the property line. At these locations, requests for temporary grading permits were made to provide the best results to the adjacent home owners with regard to transitioning the grade of the sidewalk to their yards and driveways. If the TGPs are not returned to the City prior to our deadline to secure the funding, we will revise the plans to stop all grading at the right-of-way line before we submit to MDOT, but the grading transition will not be as smooth as it could had TGP been granted.

How is an AAPS student drop-off on Traver Road in compliance with Vision Zero?

Has City staff made any outreach to MDOT, the Michigan Fitness Foundation and our State elected officials to advocate on behalf of the residents for modifications to the two-sidewalk plan?

What are the next steps to bring before Council a proposal to have sidewalk gaps paid through the General Fund and other sources?

Thanks,
Anne

Councilmember Bannister,

Regarding your printing request for this Sunday, Feb. 3, IT will make sure the local printer is in the Council Workroom before we close for business today so that it will be available for your use on Sunday night. The driver has already been installed on your device so you should be all set to print.

This is a temporary option for this Sunday, so if others are planning to print, they would need to call the IT HelpDesk 734-794-6000 x.45502 at today and stop by before 4:00 p.m. to have the device installed while staff is here. It takes approximately ½-hour per person to install. Please note that only one person can use the printer at a time. We will continue to work on creating a space in the 2nd floor vestibule outside the City Clerk's Office for future use by City Council, however it is not ready at this time.

Subject: RE: Caucus and Printer Sunday at 7 pm?

Councilmember Bannister,

Regarding your printing request for this Sunday, Feb. 3, IT will make sure the local printer is in the Council Workroom before we close for business today so that it will be available for your use on Sunday night. The driver has already been installed on your device so you should be all set to print.

This is a temporary option for this Sunday, so if others are planning to print, they would need to call the IT HelpDesk 734-794-6000 x.45502 at today and stop by before 4:00 p.m. to have the device installed while staff is here. It takes approximately ½-hour per person to install. Please note that only one person can use the printer at a time. We will continue to work on creating a space in the 2nd floor vestibule outside the City Clerk's Office for future use by City Council, however it is not ready at this time.

Thank you,

Subject: Comcast's monopoly power

I am writing (again) about the monopoly power of Comcast over Ann Arbor residents. Comcast increased my monthly bill, with no increase in service, by 28% a few days ago. (Indeed, I had to subscribe to an additional service I didn't want, since not subscribing to it would have increased my bill still further!) Normally in such a situation I would tell the company that I'll take my business elsewhere. Unfortunately, since Comcast has a monopoly on "high"-speed internet service I had no choice but accept the price they decreed.

I have attached a book review from the January 11 issue of the journal Science titled "The future is fiber". I urge you to read the review, if not the book itself. As the article points out, "...even though the technology is well understood, incumbent telecommunications providers in the United States have so far failed to bring fiber to most homes. This has locked the American people into slow and outdated internet connections that are grossly overpriced, especially outside major urban areas, stifling innovation and economic growth and perpetuating social, economic, and geographic inequalities."

And "To insulate themselves from the forces of competition, [incumbent telecommunications companies] have successfully lobbied federal and state legislatures to maintain innumerable hurdles for would-be fiber competitors."

And "Crawford [the book's author] is at her best when describing the astonishingly innovative organizational setups of community-based fiber initiatives and how they came about, when detailing the machinations of telecom incumbents and their lobbyists to cripple these initiatives".

While the book is strictly about fiber, more generally Comcast has taken advantage of its monopoly power to raise rates while maintaining slow and outdated service. Why can't Ann Arbor set up a community-based fiber (or at least anti-monopoly) initiative to combat the machinations of the telecom incumbent Comcast? As the article says, "It's a shocking reality of our times that in the United States, the cradle of the internet revolution, few have unhindered access to the fruits of that revolution."

Hi Jane,

Hope you're warm.

School Board member Jeff Gaynor posted a comment on the mLive article:

“The School Board meeting scheduled for tomorrow, Jan. 30, has been cancelled due to extremely low temperatures, and also due to the agenda being relatively light. It did not include a vote on a bond issue for May.”

This means the school bond issue will not be on the May ballot. According to the article, they are considering putting it on the November ballot.

Thanks again, Jackie, for the information about the school's bond proposal and that if it's not on the May ballot, my non-partisan charter ballot Q would be the only May ballot item. Again, if the AAPS decides to not place a bond proposal Q on the May ballot, I intend to withdraw my resolution as I am not interested in causing/requiring a Special Election for this one Q.

I see the agenda that was released yesterday does not include the title, and sorry for any confusion caused. Because the AAPS will be making their decision tonight (see link to MLive article below), I would like to keep the title (and will send you an updated resln.) on the agenda just in case the AAPS does decide to place the bond proposal before voters in May.

Hope you're staying warm, and thanks so much! Jane

p.s., Would the next election be the August primary?

From the MLive article:

"If trustees want to put a bond proposal on the May ballot, they would need to vote on a resolution to do so at their 7 p.m. meeting Wednesday, Jan. 30, at Forsythe Middle School. Discussion at the study session indicated trustees prefer to wait until the November election so they have more time to weigh options and educate the public."

Subject: The fund for public art

Dear City Council Members,

Welcome to the new members of City Council! I am writing to all of you with my thoughts about the fund for public art.

As some of you might know, I am a "local artist." For 22 years I was in the Original Art Fair and I am proud to say that I actually made a living, albeit modest, at being an artist. I am now semi-retired and most of my creative energy is in designing and painting sets for the U of M Gilbert and Sullivan Society. You might know my name from Ann Arbor Observer covers. I have done about 50 covers since 1985; the February cover of Traver Creek is mine. Or maybe you know me as a council gadfly; over the years, I have gotten involved in many city and neighborhood issues.

The public art program in Ann Arbor has been controversial from the beginning. Many are disappointed in the quality of the art and many others have questioned the price. Others are disappointed that it is only concerned with outdoor visual art and not other artistic categories. And many are appalled that the artists contracted to do the art were not local.

I live on Broadway Street, and I often, almost daily, cross the Broadway Bridges. Recently, after crossing the bridge I drove past the newest installation of public art on the wall north of the UM golf course on Stadium and then continued across the Stadium bridge over the railroad tracks with its own art. Seeing these three sites in succession made me want to write to you with my observations on them.

The design of the Broadway Bridges is a perfect example of the best of civic art, and I thank my neighbors who advised the city on its design and convinced the planners to spend the extra money on such a lovely and humane structure. In contrast, the bridge on Stadium is not lovely and its walkway is not inviting. Moreover, the glass art panels installed on the bridge do little to elevate the bridge's deficiencies. As for the installation on the golf course wall, it is an embarrassment. Whatever it is (leaves? birds? medieval torture souvenirs?) it was surely not worth the enormous price. A blank wall would have been better. Or better yet: a wall that has architectural style, like the Broadway Bridge has.

Ann Arbor is filled with aesthetic glories and art opportunities and does not need the kind of outdoor public art that has been funded by the commission. If we want to spend public money on making Ann Arbor visually aesthetically richer, it would be better to spend it to upgrade the design of public works than to fund outdoor "art" that will never please everyone. I urge City Council to change the mission of the commission on public art.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Hi Cynthia -- The reason for the postponement was to give more time for City staff to work with other potential funders and partners on the financial aspects of the transaction. For example, perhaps Northville Township and Washtenaw County could contribute to the purchase. I hope the negotiations are successful because I'd like to vote yes on it, but don't want Ann Arbor taxpayers to pay more than need be.

Also, there's a lot of demand for See Click Fix to have categories for dangerous crosswalks and pedestrian safety issues and suggestions. Adding this should not be difficult from a technology standpoint. Do you know if anyone is working on it?

<image001.gif>Councilmember Bannister,

The primary material used for crosswalk markings is thermoplastic. As the thermoplastic is applied, glass beads are applied manually to cover the entire surface with more beads. Other materials that are occasionally used, such as polyuria do not received additional beads because it does not have enough thickness. In some cases, temporary paint markings are applied (such as was done at the intersection of South and East University) due to seasonal constraints. Such locations will be replaced with thermoplastic when the weather is appropriate. While thermoplastic does tend to become slippery in wet conditions, but virtually all available materials have this same quality. The application of the glass beads is done for retro reflectivity and not for traction.

Anne,
Good to hear. I can't believe they would think it was a good idea to put slippery paint in the crosswalk just so it would last longer. Did they consult with the city attorney regarding the cost of injury lawsuits? My worse fear is that it was determined that the lawsuits would be cheaper than buying the proper paint! And I wouldn't be surprised if that was the case.

Dear Anne,

Thanks for reaching out. I have attached the completed template for the resolution. The most substantive edit that we had was to include a line about submitting public comments to the EPA on the proposed rule.

Unfortunately I will most likely be unable to come to the speak tonight, I will do my best to make it but I have a meeting that runs right into that.

Let me know if you need anything else from me right now.

Thanks,
Meredith

Dear Meredith,

I'm just seeing your email below today, and Dr. Stults already ran with the original request and prepared this draft for the Environmental Commission to discuss tonight:

<http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3841207&GUID=9B1C5BEE-C5B0-4428-8C6F-4FEABED9E96A&FullText=1>

Have you heard anything from the Clean Water Action national team yet, about their template?

If you'd like to speak to the Environmental Commission during Public Comment tonight, we meet at 7 pm in Council Chambers on the 2nd floor of City Hall.

By the way, a constituent also sent me this update:

We have a Michigan problem, too, from the Lame Duck session, a bill from now ex-Senator Casperson passed.

<http://www.legislature.mi.gov/documents/2017-2018/publicact/pdf/2018-PA-0631.pdf>

Here's the legislative analysis as of 12/6/18:

It has to do with local regulation of wetlands, and reducing the number/size of wetlands that are considered such, and Waters of the US are discussed as well.

Hi all!

Thanks for your willingness! I will let you know that Clean Water Action's national team is currently drafting a resolution template to make it easier for municipalities, and they will have that ready within the next week or 2. If you would like to hold off until we have that, that's fine. I will certainly send it along once it is ready regardless.

Subject: RE: Northside STEAM SRTS Sidewalk Gap Special Assessment Project Update
Date: Sunday, February 3, 2019 1:42:30 PM

Dear Mr. Lazarus,

While I appreciate the update from Jane Allen below, there appears to be a lack of coordination and consensus with staff and residents working on other aspects of the project. I'm especially concerned about the Feb. 6 deadline, which seems unrealistic given all the loose-ends.

This is a partial list of unresolved issues:

1. Mr. Lazarus wrote on Jan. 30 that, "I will continue to pursue these matters on your behalf in good faith." This was in regard to his outreach to Paul Ajegba, from MDOT, and Debbie Dingell, to advocate on behalf of voicing our concerns and negotiating a better solution.
2. Mr. John Fournier promised a group of neighbors during a meeting on 12/07/18 in the Council Work Room, that the project would not go forward until consensus had been reached.
3. For Resolution 4 in the process, if an 8 vote majority of Council is required to pass the Special Assessments, we need to have achieved consensus by then for the project to survive and move forward.
4. Residents are still actively in process of meeting with state and federal elected officials, including the offices of Debbie Dingell and State Senator Jeff Irwin.
5. On January 30, I sent an email to staff that has not been responded to yet, requesting to know the total project cost of the Northside STEAM SRTS project if the sidewalks on Traver and/or Brookside were dropped from the proposed scope of work. By some calculations, if the total cost is $971,972.59, then the gross cost per foot is $383.72. If you add in the PE and CE, the gross cost per square foot is $425.25. Residents have raised the concerns that city and federal tax dollars are being spent on what is labeled in some circles as "gold plated sidewalks" ($385-$425 per foot) when:
 1. The residents have clearly demonstrated that this is not an effective solution for pedestrian safety (see GPS map showing safer and shorter routes to school).
 2. Other important safety features for Northside STEAM are not being addressed by this project.
 3. The cost for other residents in this special assessment (such as Brookside residents and others) are increased by being grouped into the same pool as the 1600 block of Traver.
 4. The impacted residents object to this project and have offered alternative solutions.
 5. Chasing a grant is forcing this project to meet certain constraints that are marginally effective and drive the cost up perhaps more than the grant.

Subject: Northside STEAM SRTS Sidewalk Gap Special Assessment Project Update

Good afternoon all,

I am writing you today to give you an update on the Northside STEAM SRTS Sidewalk Gap Special Assessment Project. Since the January 7, 2019 City Council meeting in which Resolution 2 for the Special Assessment District was passed, staff has updated the estimate to change the width of sidewalks along Traver Street from 8 feet to 5 feet with a 3 foot grassy extension. Although the City was not assessing the additional 3-feet of concrete to the property owners, removing it lowers the overall project costs and therefore better leverages the Grant funding. Estimated assessment costs went from $43.00/ft to $41.50/ft.

In regards to the timeline and design of the project, staff heard from a property owner on Traver that neighbors were still discussing ways to make the project less burdensome. The property owner was informed that if the residents came up with an alternative that fits with the Grant requirements (sidewalks on both sides of the street) that is a compromise between parking/tree removals/and grading permits, then we could still make a change. Also, all streets in the current project would have to remain as part of the scope. Something would have to be presented to the City ASAP in order to entertain changes.

In addition, certain property owners on Traver have now indicated willingness to grant temporary grading permits in exchange for on-street parking with the knowledge that some trees will have to be removed, but we will plant more trees with the project. I am waiting to see if those grading permits are secured prior to final submittal to MDOT.

Finally, I heard from some out-of-town property owners that did not get their grading permits in time to return them to the City and submit to MDOT in January. Currently, we plan to submit the Final plans to MDOT in mid-February. This will allow for a May bid opening, construction to start after school is out, and the majority of the project nearest the school to be complete by school opening in Fall.

Property owners suggesting changes to the design with a compromise to parking/grading permits/tree removals must do so by Wednesday, February 6, 2019. Otherwise, we plan to submit the most current version of the plans which put the sidewalk along Traver in the current parking lane, with the exception of some parking left at the intersection with Barton. Bump-outs at John A Woods near Pontiac St. and Brookside near Pontiac St. will eliminate the need for tree removals. No changes to Barton/Starwick have taken place since early on, and the residents there are aware of some future intersections changes that will occur with a future utility project. The current estimate will be on the website (www.a2gov.org/STEAM) on Monday. The current plans are already on the website (Traver alternate layout, John A Woods alternate layout, and Brookside alternate layout)

FYI — Mr Lazarus' response:

Dear Councilmember Bannister:

I am writing to follow-up our conversation on Friday while we were in the lobby at Northside STEAM for the presentation of the Sustaining Ann Arbor Together grant. The comments below summarize that discussion and provide my thoughts on where we are and the path forward for the Northside STEAM Safe Routes to School (SRTS) project. I have copied Councilmember Hayner as your co-Ward 1 representative.

- As committed, I spoke to Paul Ajeba at MDOT on Wednesday. The discussion concerned the program requirements for the SRTS program. However, any changes in parameters would not be timely enough to affect the Northside STEAM project.
- Ms. Allen (of our Engineering staff) has provided to me the correspondence from MDOT concerning the requirement that sidewalks be placed on both sides of the street. MDOT staff was clear with the residents of Traver Street that sidewalks are required on both sides, and the applicability of any limited number of exceptions would not apply to the Northside STEAM SRTS. I also want to re-emphasize that I would not recommend placing sidewalks on one side only due to pedestrian safety concerns.
- Without sidewalks on Traver, there is essentially no project. The scope of the project cannot further significantly modified. However, as discussed, staff will separately pursue improvements to the crosswalks at the intersection of Barton Driver and Traver Street, and will consider conduct appropriate review of the crossings along Pontiac Trail.
- Council has given direction that we submit the plans for the Northside STEAM SRTS project. In order to have a contract awarded for construction this year, staff must submit the drawings on or about February 22nd. Absent other direction from Council as a whole, staff will submit the drawings at that time.
- With your assistance I believe that we can provide a design that offers an exceptional solution. As of now, we have agreement from one property owner for a grading easement. My understanding that if we obtain grading easements from two other property owners, we can align the sidewalks in a manner that mitigates tree removal requirements and maintains a reasonable amount of parking on Traver. Grading easements allow us to slope the area around the sidewalks and restore the landscaping. The City has always worked with property owners in the plans for these restorations to achieve resident satisfaction when the project is completed. The narrowing of the roadway to ~19' would have a positive impact on speeding on Traver Street.

- City ordinance requires that the property owners bear the cost of new sidewalks installations, however the Council can determine the terms of the special assessment. If Council extends the repayment period to mitigate the financial impact to property owners at between 20-25 years at a 3.5% interest rate, the average cost of $3,500 (assuming 70' frontage at $50/foot), the annual cost would be between $212.36 and $246.26 ($17.70 - $20.52 per month). If you would like us to proceed in changing the City ordinance, then I am willing to work with you to develop a resolution directing us to proceed in this direction. Changing the ordinance would require a significant amount of work, and I would want to be sure that this would be the direct of Council as a whole. Note this would not be accomplished prior to Council considering the special assessment for the Northside STEAM SRTS.
- You and I discussed the burden of snow removal from the new sidewalks. I am willing to work with you to investigate the feasibility of instituting a program to assist qualifying low-income seniors in addressing the cost and physical burdens of snow removal as part of our age-friendly community initiatives.

I look forward to discussing the above with you at your convenience.

Hello. I am forwarding to you an email I just sent out to Doug Allen, Jessica LeTaw, Heather Seyfarth and Ryan Buck. The five of us met on January 18th. Just wanted you to be aware of it and some of the issues involved. Thank you.

Hello Everyone!

It was great meeting with all of you on Friday the 18th. Nice to meet you, Heather and Ryan. Good to see you again, Douglas and Jessica.

After contemplating our meeting, reviewing what notes I have, and thinking about what was said, I want to share my takeaways from the meeting. I am interested in hearing if you understood the same things.

- 1) There are still a number of uncertainties about which organization or institution is in charge of what part of the process of the reconstruction of North Main Street beyond the work of roadbed and curbs.

2) MDOT will replace the roadbed, the curbs and the driveway aprons. There is a question as to whether or not existing sidewalks are included in this work. There were differing opinions at our meeting.

3) Bandemere Park Access Road: We spent some time on the alternative access from Bandemere Park.

This needs a traffic study in order to determine its feasibility. There have been previous suggestions for this study, but nothing has ever happened.

The idea is to provide an alternate access to the rowing area by extending or re-opening the old road that used to go through the park. Then people could come and go from the Whitmore Lake/Barton Road corner, across the river.

Based on our meeting, it's unclear whether or not this study would be the responsibility of the City or the State.

4) At this time, Douglas is advocating for three pedestrian crossings going across North Main Street at:

- Felch
- Depot
- Lakeshore

The crossing at Felch: This is outside of the portion of North Main that we were meeting to talk about. I am assuming that Douglas will also be including the residents in Water Hill and the Kerrytown neighborhood in any decision making about changes to North Main Street at Felch since it is between their two neighborhoods.

This is not an obvious proposal. People crossing from Water Hill to go to the Farmer's Market, the Food Coop, Kerrytown, etc. now cross at Ann, Catherine, Kingsley and Summit. Those street go all the way through east of Main Street.

There is probably not a crossing at Felch because there is no traffic light, since Felch does not cross Main Street. North Main Park does attract some pedestrian traffic, but it's not clear whether or not it's enough to warrant a crosswalk at that location; a high-traffic bend of the road at the top of a hill with limited line of sight.

The crossing at Depot: This proposal makes a lot of sense, and it should have been done five years ago. There is a lot of pedestrian traffic across Main Street at this intersection, and it can be scary for both drivers and walkers. Since there is already a light there, a marked crosswalk seems like an easy and logical addition to make.

The crossing at Lakeshore: This is the most questionable of the crosswalks proposed. I have never seen anyone ever try crossing Main Street at that location.

Currently on the west side of North Main at Lakeshore is Hawkins Auto surrounded by Bluffs Park. People I know who go to Bluffs Park enter from Sunset (by the Elks Lodge or by the cemetery) or else from Huron View. I will investigate the trail entrance at Hawkins. I have never seen any one use it in the many years I have been in the area.

Douglas made the point that the Hawkins property is proposed to have a change in use. Once that change is made, and the property is redeveloped, it will be easier to measure what kind of demand that makes for a road crossing. If it is a marijuana dispensary I don't think it will get much foot traffic. There are dispensaries in downtown that are a lot easier to get to than trekking up North Main. I could be wrong. As Heather pointed out, there is the possibility to do a crossing in the future.

As we discussed, there is a need for the North Main property owners and Bandemere Park users to be surveyed on these ideas, as well as other users of North Main Street not limited to employees at the Hospital and the University

Douglas, you mentioned at the end of the meeting that your friends "always want to know what is happening on North Main Street". May I respectfully suggest that you answer by informing them that there are a number of interesting and useful activities going on. It is one of the few remaining areas in Ann Arbor where things are both designed and produced, a creative corridor. It may not be apparent from the road, but there are many businesses that contribute to the community and the economic life in Ann Arbor in meaningful ways.

If there is anything that needs correction, or anything else that any of you want to add to this, please let me know. Maybe just reply all to the group?

I hope you are all staying warm!

Best wishes for a good week,

Julie Ritter

PS Sorry this is so late in coming to you. There have been some unexpected delays on my end.

Date: Sunday, February 3, 2019 6:27:00 PM

Hi,

Thank you so much for compiling this information! (I am looking up all the crosswalks I used heavily this summer and it's satisfying for me to see that the city identifies the same problems I noticed.)

I have one request... The charts/tables are very small and difficult to read. I know that the city has large scale printers. Can those charts be printed extra large ahead of Monday's meeting? Ahead of the meeting, there is going to be a reception in the lobby for A2 Safe Transport and that audience in particular would be really interested in seeing the crosswalk tables. This information is publicly available and I believe that printing it large for display would make it much more accessible. (For that matter, I'd be interested in a second large scale copy for Council to retain for reference.)

Thanks in advance for your help. This information is meaningful and important and I look forward to making it available as a resource for public discussion!

Elizabeth

Dear Morgan Barrie,

Thanks for sending this information and I've liked your Facebook page and the national page. I've also copied Councilmember Jeff Hayner, my Ward One colleague, and Bob Needham, Chair of the Environmental Commission (and Ward One resident, too!).

I'm actually booked for individual appointments over the next few weeks, but wanted to invite you to a "meet and greet" coming up on Wednesday, Feb. 13 from 6:30 – 8:30 pm at the Arrowwood clubhouse. Jeff and I will be there to talk about what we're working on and to answer questions. Might you be able to attend this event?

The next Environmental Commission meeting is Feb. 28 from 7 – 9 p.m. in City Hall Council Chambers (second floor). We could also talk then and you could address the commission during public comment and tell us about your work with The Climate Mobilization (generally a 3 minute limit for comments). Would that be of interest to you?

Thanks!

Hello Council Member Bannister

My name is Morgan Barrie. I am a resident of Ward 1 and the lead organizer for the Ann Arbor chapter of a group called The Climate Mobilization (here is our website and our group's national website). This organization advocates for a society-wide shift in the way we tackle the climate crisis and uses our country's mobilization effort during WWII as a model.

First I'd just to thank you for your statements on climate, both as a candidate and council member. It's very important that at this moment in history we have leadership that understands the importance of this issue.

As a bit of background on our group, we were actually founded on a national level by Ann Arbor native Margaret Klein Salomon in 2014. Local chapters of this group aim to push their communities toward urgent climate action. Because of the work of these chapters, cities and counties across the U.S., including Hoboken, NJ, Montgomery County, MD and Berkeley, CA, are passing Declarations of Climate Emergency (here is a story on the Berkeley resolution). These cities are becoming national leaders in the fight to restore a safe climate, as well as advocates for a larger emergency climate mobilization.

Most recently, in December of last year London Mayor Sadiq Kahn joined with the City Assembly in declaring Climate Emergency and accelerating the city's efforts to transform its economy to carbon-neutrality by 2030. The Assembly's statement specifically cited the work of The Climate Mobilization organizers in the U.S. cities of Hoboken and Berkeley. This was so encouraging because it really illustrated the impact that smaller cities can make on this global issue.

I would love to set up a time for a brief in-person meeting to chat about these issues further. Please let me know if there are good days/times for this in the relatively near-future.

Thank you for your service to the city and I look forward to hearing from you!

Best,

Morgan Barrie

Would you agree that it's a good idea for the Communications team to pro-actively make an announcement on the website and social media that bobcats and plow trucks are NOT to dump snow on adjacent property or in the street?

It seems like a clear cost savings to communicate to snow removal companies on the front end, rather than have the police be called in to help with enforcement.

Staff will add more treatments today. Some of the piles were hardened with the extreme cold and staff determined it best to add more when the temperatures started to rise.

The Police Department will enforce the illegal placement of snow in streets or on sidewalks. Residents should report this immediately to Washtenaw Metro Dispatch at 734.994.2911 and an officer will be sent out to handle.

Dear Mr. Hupy,

Please respond to these questions:

- The City offers free sand/salt (scroll down to bottom of page): <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/public-works/street-maintenance/Pages/Snow-Removal.aspx>. But the location by me (721 N. Main) has not had any sand/salt for the last several days. Would the City post an update on when the supplies will be replenished? I realize staff is working overtime to clear the snow and ice, and I'm grateful for your work, and this is just a suggestion/request that the true availability of free sand/salt be provided.
- What is the rule for residents/businesses that have bobcats clearing the snow from the sidewalks of their clients? As I walk around town, I see piles of snow pushed/dumped by bobcats onto adjacent property's sidewalks and driveway aprons. What is the rule on this? What can be done to encourage/enforce bobcat services to keep the snow on the property of their client (and not on the adjacent property)?

I reviewed the A2FixIt submission that was made by Mr. Casey and saw that staff did respond to his original complaint and only thereafter closed the ticket. The staff response indicates that the materials are industry standard and are used for their durability so that they last longer, but that residents should still exercise caution when walking in icy conditions regardless of the marking material. I understand that Mr. Casey disagrees with the answer provided by staff, but that is a different issue. Staff did engage the complaint and respond appropriately.

Regarding the addition of categories to A2FixIt, if you refer to the memo communicated to Council by Howard yesterday this topic is addressed. We are engaged in a full review of the platform to improve data reporting, and adding categories is part of our plan.

The second question was about how See Click Fix closed the issue without addressing it, so the resident had to reopen it and send it via email to Council.

Also, there's a lot of demand for See Click Fix to have categories for dangerous crosswalks and pedestrian safety issues and suggestions. Adding this should not be difficult from a technology standpoint.

Do you know if anyone is working on it?

<image001.gif>Councilmember Bannister,

The primary material used for crosswalk markings is thermoplastic. As the thermoplastic is applied, glass beads are applied manually to cover the entire surface with more beads. Other materials that are occasionally used, such as polyuria do not received additional beads because it does not have enough thickness. In some cases, temporary paint markings are applied (such as was done at the intersection of South and East University) due to seasonal constraints. Such locations will be replaced with thermoplastic when the weather is appropriate. While thermoplastic does tend to become slippery in wet conditions, but virtually all available materials have this same quality. The application of the glass beads is done for retro reflectivity and not for traction.

Anne,

Good to hear. I can't believe they would think it was a good idea to put slippery paint in the crosswalk just so it would last longer. Did they consult with the city attorney regarding the cost of injury lawsuits? My worse fear is that it was determined that the lawsuits would be cheaper then buying the proper paint! And I wouldn't be surprised if that was the case.

AC-2 –

Q. The referred-to ordinance R-18-446 attaches a document titled “Accessory Dwelling Units an ordinance review by Jessica A.S. Letaw”. The resolution says the DDA funded and requested “a series of workshops”. Where did the money come from to pay for this, what was the cost of this, and was this “series of five workshops” a properly noticed public event in keeping with OMA?

Q. Does this document have any official status as a planning document?

Q. Were any members of City Planning Staff participants in this “series of five workshops”?

Q. Can you provide links to the notes or public record of workshop attendance, results, etc.?

AC-3 – CA-8

I will be asking for this to be removed from the consent agenda for discussion.

Q. Can you please attach MCL 211.7u(2) to this notice?

Q. How is the application process for poverty exemption noticed or advertised by the city?

Q. In section 9 it says “If the homestead property assessed value exceeds 159% of the average assessed value of the residential class as determined by the Assessor, the poverty exemption will not be considered.” Can you explain what this means in layman’s terms or give examples of a property that would and would not qualify for the exemptions?

Q. How many households currently are exempted from “public charges”?

Q. What is the total loss to the general fund from the current exemptions?

Q. Are “public charges” the City of Ann Arbor property taxes only, or does this exempt a homeowner from all taxing bodies collection (AAPS, County, etc.)?

Q. Can you provide the previous Federal/A2 guidelines as adopted in 2004?

Q. Can you provide a chart showing what the guidelines would be if the City of Ann Arbor applied it’s maximum adjusted values?

Q. Any idea how many additional households would be eligible for exemptions at the maximum adjusted level?

DB-2

Q. The second-to-last resolved clause states “encourages Washtenaw County to use available existing resources to provide advocacy and implementation support” does this mean we are asking the County to pay for this?

Q. Is it possible that this resolution will result in the City of Ann Arbor paying for this?

Q. If so, what would the estimated cost be for acquiring and storing KI as suggested?

DB-3

Q. Can we attach the current and proposed changed definition of “WOTUS” to this resolution?

Thank you for considering my questions,

Sincerely,

Jeff Hayner

I am totally stunned that Lazarus would refuse to provide the information that the SRTS sidewalks are "gold plated" around $400 a square foot, and more expensive for the few residents who want sidewalks, than if they just paid out of pocket. I'm outraged! Wow.

Dear Mr. Hupy,

I've received a request to know the total project cost of the Northside STEAM SRTS project if the sidewalks on Traver and/or Brookside were dropped from the proposed scope of work.

Any detail you could provide about the project cost with and without these streets would be most useful.

Q. Why is it necessary to appraise a property before setting a lease price for same? For example, the 926 Mary Street parking lease to the University of Michigan. Why would we do an appraisal when we could just compare the per/spot leasing rate to other parking spots in the current parking system?

Q. Is $5/space over UM Parking Pass cost typical for a parking lease?

Q. What do we charge for the Fuller Park lease per/space?

Q. What is the process for raising the lease fee for the 926 Mary Street parking lot?

Q. Is it the consideration of Planning Staff and Parks Staff that leasing the Eberbach Cultural Arts Building to the AAPS for $1/year is the highest and best use of that building?

Q. Has the AAPS kept up with the maintenance of that building? Last time I was over there I saw a hanging gutter and downspout on the parking lot side, and the corner building sign was in disrepair.

R 18-446 on ADUs

How and why has Jessica Letaw's unofficial report become embedded as a resource document for evaluating changes to the ADU ordinance? Please remove it.

Parts of the review are ongoing, so how/why is this unofficial report is giving the appearance of official recognition of the ongoing process?

If an official report is needed to gather interest of the public, then shouldn't that meeting and report be properly held and noticed?

Excellent summary, Jane, and thank you. I also sent an Agenda Question and spoke with Mr. Lazarus in person today in person about this topic. There's been an uproar!

On Mon, Feb 4, 2019 at 1:46 PM -0500, "Lumm, Jane" <JLumm@a2gov.org> wrote:

Messrs. Lenart, Delacourt, Lazarus,

Thank you for providing the status update on council resolution R-18-446.

I am writing to share some community feedback (questions, recommendations, concerns) re: the process now being undertaken by the City and the DDA in its re-evaluation of the ADU Ordinance.

First, the process questions - many of which relate to the process which was undertaken in 2018 and led by the DDA (which funded the ADU workshops conducted by Ms. Jessica Letaw (DDA Bd. Mbr.) and Portland builder Holly Huntley). As stated in former CM Warpehoski's 11/8/18 "Resolution Directing Planning Commission and City Administrator Review of Accessory Dwelling Unit Ordinance Amendments", "these workshops led to a report (viz., "Accessory Dwelling Units, an ordinance review by Jessica A.S. Letaw") identifying recommended changes to the Ann Arbor Accessory Dwelling Unit ordinance and related policies." (Bolded text = mine).

Community concerns/feedback re: the process:

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]--> The workshops were not part of a formal city process. As described, "these meetings were not published as community meetings intended to get input from the public to be the basis for policy and zoning code changes. The report should not serve as the basis for changes to our zoning ordinance because the proper procedures to produce a report for zoning changes were not followed" (i.e., a process led by the Planning Department, Planning Commission, City Council vs. a process led by the DDA which contracted this work out with a DDA Bd. Member).

<!--[if !supportLists]--> <!--[endif]--> From an attendee: "I attended one of Jessica Letaw's meetings on ADU's; her preferences were pretty obvious, but the meeting was purely informational, and attendees who asked questions wanted specific details about current ordinances. The list of suggestions Ms. Letaw subsequently published was outrageous, and had nothing to do with anything presented in the meetings; it certainly did not reflect any preferences by those present.” (Bold text = mine)

I share these process concerns, and, in general, am perplexed as to why the DDA was authorized to fund ADU workshops for neighborhoods outside the DDA District (ADU's impact single-family zoning districts), and why, going forward, the DDA is going to lead community discussions on affordable housing. RE: the latter, this was introduced as a future project at a recent (1/9/19) DDA Partnerships Cte. Mtg. Following the 1/9/19 Partnerships' Mtg., I had a conversation with a DDA Bd. and Partnerships Cte. Mbr. re: my concern re: the appropriateness of the DDA's leadership role in Ann Arbor's affordable housing policy-making and planning. My concern is simple and ties directly to the DDA's mission:

“to strengthen Downtown Ann Arbor”, and, more specifically: “The mission of the Ann Arbor4 Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is to undertake public improvements that have the greatest impact in strengthening the downtown area and attracting new private investments.” (Bold text = mine).

Curiously, in my informal conversation with the DDA bd. mbr. re: the DDA's taking a lead role in conducting city-wide affordable housing workshops/meetings, etc., I was told, the DDA “has no money.” Somehow, the DDA has “no money”, yet can fund consultants to study affordable housing and ADU's in the broader Ann Arbor community? I will also note that the DDA's FY18 revenue is up $957K or 3.4% vs. FY17; the DDA's Gen'l. Fund at FY18 yr. end = $6.46M and, although now capped at 3.5% annual growth, is 20%/$1M higher than FY16, and $2.8M higher than the $3.7M in FY13 which represents a 75% revenue increase over five years. Obviously, the #'s do not support the “no money” point-of-view.

The DDA website lists current and future projects as follows:

- DDA Current Projects:
- People-Friendly Street Progr4m
 - N. Fifth Ave. and Detroit Street
 - Huron Street
 - First and Ashley Street Project
 - William Street Bikeway
 - Ann Ashley Expansion
 - State of the Downtown Report

Upcoming Projects: “The DDA Board has wor4ked to develop a set of priority projects for downtown. Projects were selected based on their transformational potential, financial feasibility, and alignment with the DDA mission.”(bold text = mine)

Nothing regarding the affordable housing initiative that was noted as a DDA future project at the Partnerships meeting is listed on the DDA website. I will also share that I asked Ms. Pollay and others in attendance at the Partnerships Mtg. what the role of the Planning Staff and Commission would be in terms of the DDA's affordable housing initiative, community workshops, planning, etc. Ms. Pollay responded by stating that "the Planning staff/Commission will be updated." All of which is to say, these announcements further substantiated and confirmed my and the community's process concerns noted above. The DDA is not authorized to develop policies vis a vis ADU's for single family residential zoning, or develop recommendations that serve as the basis for policies that impact, to a much greater extent, neighborhoods outside the DDA district. But, somehow, that's where things appear to be headed if Ms. Letaw's report is utilized as the resource document for evaluating changes to the ADU Ordinance.

In my view, changes to our zoning ordinances and affordable housing policies should originate with Planning Staff, Planning Commission, and City Council and be guided by community input – not informational workshops funded by the DDA which are intended to educate people about the benefits of preferred zoning changes.

How is Planning staff and the Planning Commission utilizing Ms. Letaw's report? My concern: This is an unofficial report that seems to now be guiding/informing the process.

And, my overriding and principal concern is what I have articulated publicly and a concern shared by many single family residents -- that the proposed ADU amendments, as recommended by Ms. Letaw and the DDA, will spell the end of single-family zoning. I also want to be clear that I recognize and support the DDA's affordable housing mission – a plan that was developed in the late 1990's to enable investment in affordable housing projects in the DDA district. I will also share that at last week's Audit Cte. meeting I had the opportunity to ask about the $860K assigned for housing in the DDA budget. I asked what this $ is specifically assigned for and Ms. Pollay indicated it's for the Y-lot.

Thank you for listening to my process concerns as they relate to the DDA's role in guiding and setting city-wide affordable housing policy and, with regard to Resolution R-18-446, the potential for Ms. Letaw's report to be utilized as a resource document.

Mr. Lazarus, this issue of what budget for the bookmarks is something we should address when we meet with John Mirsky about Communications.

By the way, would you let the appropriate IT person know that this webpage needs to remove CM Smith and add CM Ramlawi? <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/public-services/Pages/Public-Art.aspx>

There might be other BOC webpages that need updating with the 2019 membership.

Thanks,
Anne

Good afternoon, Councilmember Bannister,
I hope that you're staying safe today during the winter storm. I received a quote of $50 for 200 bookmarks. If that is something that you wish to order, please let me know, as these costs would be charged to the Mayor's Office. The Mayor's Office is already over their printing budget for FY19, however we would be happy to place the order. I'm not sure how many bookmarks you're requesting, so perhaps half of those could be allocated for placement in the Larcom lobby vestibule for the public.

Please let me know.

Thanks,

Sara Higgins, Strategic Planning Coordinator

Dear Ms Higgins — Would it be possible to have a bigger/continuous supply of the book marks from November that had the Councilmember's contact information? I greatly appreciate you pulling the bookmark together last year and it was a success. I've had requests for more bookmarks! Could we leave a supply of them available with the other business cards at City Hall, like on the first floor and at various other "customer service" stations?

Thanks,

Anne

PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release

CONTACT: Remy Long, Open Space and Parkland Preservation Program Manager, rlong@a2gov.org | 734.794.6210 ext. 42798

Over $1 Million Awarded for Farmland Protection in Washtenaw County

ANN ARBOR, Michigan, Feb. 4, 2019 — The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) will provide over $1 million in funding to partners in the Ann Arbor Greenbelt: Saving Michigan Farms Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP). Landowners interested in enrolling their land in a conservation easement are encouraged contact one of the partner organizations. USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Services (NRCS) funding for the purchase of conservation easements is provided through the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program – Agricultural Land Easement (ACEP-ALE). While applications are accepted on a continuous basis, the first 2019 funding cycle will be from Feb. 11-March 18. Partners will then submit applications to NRCS for funds to purchase conservation easements multiple times over the five-year program period.

If you have an interest in this program, visit www.a2gov.org/greenbelt/Pages/ApplicationProcess.aspx, fill out the Greenbelt application and submit it based on the information provided on the form. Any partner within the RCPP can accept an application. If the applicant is not a suitable fit for their program, they may be referred to another partner's program. In most cases, landowners should apply to the Greenbelt (if they are located within the Greenbelt District) or to Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation's Natural Areas Preservation Program.

Located near the struggling Western Lake Erie Basin and southeast Michigan's rapidly growing Ann Arbor/Detroit metropolitan areas, the Ann Arbor Greenbelt: Saving Michigan Farms project provides an opportunity to protect agricultural lands key to food security and the local economies; preserve the agricultural heritage and quality of life of residents; and combat resource concerns of water quality degradation, soil quality degradation and inadequate habitat for fish and wildlife.

The City of Ann Arbor Open Space and Parkland Preservation Program (Greenbelt) is the lead organizer for Ann Arbor Greenbelt: Saving Michigan Farms. The Greenbelt is an innovative land preservation program that has protected over 5,200 acres of farmland and open space surrounding the city of Ann Arbor, and has leveraged over $25 million through grants, landowner donations and other locally funded programs. The Greenbelt's leadership in this RCPP is emblematic of their commitment to strategic partnerships and land preservation in the Ann Arbor area.

"We appreciate NRCS's leadership and the Michigan United States congressional delegation's support for this project and farmland protection in southeast Michigan," said Open Space and Parkland Preservation Program Manager Remy Long, "and we look forward to advancing land protection in the communities we serve."

Other Ann Arbor Greenbelt: Saving Michigan Farms partners include: Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission, Scio Township, Ann Arbor Township, Augusta Township, Legacy Land Conservancy, Southeast Michigan Land Conservancy, The Conservation Fund and the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

Please direct any questions about the Ann Arbor Greenbelt: Saving Michigan Farms to Remy Long (Greenbelt) at 734.794.6210 ext. 42798 or rlong@a2gov.org.

Thank you very much, Christine! I share your concerns and cannot answer your excellent question as to why this is happening.

There was/is no formal public process, just workshops (funded by the DDA) conducted by Jessica Letaw and her Portland design/builder colleague Holly Huntley. I will also just note that Ms. Letaw is the staff person (appears to be a one pd. ee organization) for Building Matters Ann Arbor (www.buildingmattersannarbor.org). I don't know why the DDA is involved in setting ADU policy to begin with or would fund a consultant for Ms. Letaw's workshops which seem inappropriate given her personal business interests, and DDA board membership.

May I share your note with the City Administrator and other CM's? I, too, find the process inappropriate and disturbing on so many levels, and the lack of formally starting with and being guided by community considerations (wch guided council's adoption of the ADU ordinance), makes this undertaking highly suspect in my view.

The ideas promulgated by Jessica Letaw, et al. are straight out of the the Koch Brothers ALEC playbook, and the Koch Brothers CATO institute. They have been waging a war on local regulations for a number of years now. It is astonishing that a single unelected resident should have the power to propose such sudden and sweeping ordinance change without benefit of a thorough public process. While they pretend that such ideas are progressive, they are, in fact, designed to destabilize communities to benefit developers and "investors."

Here are some articles about the "model" legislation which ALEC has promoted, as well as another article about the effect of Air BnBs on housing costs, and the CATO Institute's position on land use planning (zoning). I find it all very unsettling.

AC-2 –

Q. The referred-to ordinance R-18-446 attaches a document titled "Accessory Dwelling Units an ordinance review by Jessica A.S. Letaw". The resolution says the DDA funded and requested "a series of workshops". Where did the money come from to pay for this, what was the cost of this, and was this "series of five workshops" a properly noticed public event in keeping with OMA?

Q. Does this document have any official status as a planning document?

Q. Were any members of City Planning Staff participants in this "series of five workshops"?

Q. Can you provide links to the notes or public record of workshop attendance, results, etc.?

AC-3 – CA-8

I will be asking for this to be removed from the consent agenda for discussion.

Q. Can you please attach MCL 211.7u(2) to this notice?

Q. How is the application process for poverty exemption noticed or advertised by the city?

Q. In section 9 it says "If the homestead property assessed value exceeds 159% of the average assessed value of the residential class as determined by the Assessor, the poverty exemption will not be considered." Can you explain what this means in layman's terms or give examples of a property that would and would not qualify for the exemptions?

Q. How many households currently are exempted from "public charges"?

- Q. What is the total loss to the general fund from the current exemptions?
- Q. Are “public charges” the City of Ann Arbor property taxes only, or does this exempt a homeowner from all taxing bodies collection (AAPS, County, etc.)?
- Q. Can you provide the previous Federal/A2 guidelines as adopted in 2004?
- Q. Can you provide a chart showing what the guidelines would be if the City of Ann Arbor applied it’s maximum adjusted values?
- Q. Any idea how many additional households would be eligible for exemptions at the maximum adjusted level?

DB-2

- Q. The second-to-last resolved clause states “encourages Washtenaw County to use available existing resources to provide advocacy and implementation support” does this mean we are asking the County to pay for this?
- Q. Is it possible that this resolution will result in the City of Ann Arbor paying for this?
- Q. If so, what would the estimated cost be for acquiring and storing KI as suggested?

DB-3

- Q. Can we attach the current and proposed changed definition of “WOTUS” to this resolution?

Thank you for considering my questions,

Sincerely,

Jeff Hayner

Hi,

Thank you so much for compiling this information! (I am looking up all the crosswalks I used heavily this summer and it's satisfying for me to see that the city identifies the same problems I noticed.)

I have one request... The charts/tables are very small and difficult to read. I know that the city has large scale printers. Can those charts be printed extra large ahead of Monday's meeting? Ahead of the meeting, there is going to be a reception in the lobby for A2 Safe Transport and that audience in particular would be really interested in seeing the crosswalk tables. This information is publicly available and I believe that printing it large for display would make it much more accessible. (For that matter, I'd be interested in a second large scale copy for Council to retain for reference.)

Thanks in advance for your help. This information is meaningful and important and I look forward to making it available as a resource for public discussion!

Elizabeth

Thanks to staff for preparing your response below. I've re-included the neighborhood leaders.

Best wishes to staff as they implement the new resolution from last night to vigorously seek coordination with UM and others on funding and in-kind planning expertise for this area. I hope you will include a report on those activities in future communications.

These are some questions I've been hearing from residents:

1. Is spending $1M for the Traver Road sidewalks out of proportion with the $700K Lower Town mobility study, which appears to have a greater impact on more people? The money from both of those projects may be better spent on fixing known problems. Many residents don't think $1M on Traver SRTS sidewalks is a prudent use of limited funding for mobility and safety ("gold plated sidewalks").
2. Would aggregating the existing traffic studies from all of the developments in the area substitute for the modeling in the $700K study, in light of the end result on traffic congestion 2 years from now?
3. What can be said to residents who are reluctant to participate in expensive and time-consuming meetings for the Lower Town study, when their input has been disregarded in the past?

I hope that feedback is helpful.

Councilmember Bannister,

Thank you for sharing thoughts on the operation of the intersection of Maiden and Plymouth. Staff has looked at signal timing in this area and has made tweaks over time and will look at signal optimization at this intersection to see if further refinements can be made. Please keep in mind that adjustments to improve movement in one direction may adversely affect flow in other directions and that staff tries to maximize the system from a network perspective. This area is difficult to manage due to the complexity of travel patterns, the volume of traffic, and the network constraints into and out of the area. It is staff's understanding that this is why Council instructed staff to conduct the Lower Town Area Mobility Study in the hopes of finding solutions that work for the area as a whole.

As for additional signage, staff does not believe that "do not block the intersection" signs will lead to changes in behavior. It should be common knowledge among motorists that blocking the intersection is illegal. Additionally, staff tries to strike a balance of deploying regulatory and warning signs to inform motorists without oversaturating the right-of-way with signs which may distract drivers.

Please let staff know if you need anything further.

Dear Jeff and Anne,

Almost every time I go out in the car heading south I think of this, but then, by the time I get home I forget. As you might or might not know, cars heading for downtown along Plymouth Rd are stopped at the light at Maiden Lane....and often pile up as far as the Broadway intersection, especially cars in the turn lane to Maiden Lane. So when the light turns green for the cars waiting on Broadway, they have difficulty making the turn onto Plymouth Road because cars are blocking the intersection in the turn lane for Maiden Lane.

I hope I explained it well enough!

This is a problem sporadically throughout the day, at unpredictable times, not just at rush hour.

There are several solutions. Having a longer turn light so that cars don't pile up in the turn lane on Plymouth Road would help, but since that would have to be timed and the times that are a problem are unpredictable, that might not work.

It might help if there was a sign on Plymouth Road before the intersection with Broadway that said "Do not block the intersection." I'm sure some people would ignore it, but it might alleviate the long lines that block traffic coming out of Broadway.

Can you bring this to the attention of the appropriate department?

Thanks!

Laura

Dear Anne, Jeff, Jane, Jack, and Elizabeth,

We just received this brochure from our cousin who works with many civic issues in Charleston, S.C., her hometown. Like Ann Arbor, it is a beautiful and desirable community with lots of tourists. And like us they are dealing with the ramifications of housing stock being converted to short-term rentals to the detriment of the locals finding a permanent or long-term home. Charleston has already passed an ordinance. The same is true for other cities where Air BnB and short-term rentals pose a problem by removing houses and apartments from the local, traditional market to make them into what is essentially hotels. There is very likely much we can learn from them. With the need for more housing in Ann Arbor, it's important to approach solutions in a multi-faceted way. Finding out what is happening in Ann Arbor would be a first step. There are multiple agencies advertising online for short-term rentals here. I hope you can take the time to look at this brochure and to read the article from City Lab which is linked within. I appreciate all your hard work.

Thanks so much.

CITY OF CHARLESTON SHORT TERM RENTAL WORKSHOP

Thursday, February 7, 5:30pm - 7:00pm
Charleston Museum at 360 Meeting Street

The City's Short Term Rental (STR) ordinance passed in April 2018, with a requirement for a nine-month review. For this review, the City is hosting a public workshop this Thursday – with a presentation by the City followed by an opportunity for public comment.

ENGAGE // Your voice matters – stand up and protect our neighborhoods and commercial corridors.

ENFORCEMENT IS WORKING

The numbers speak for themselves. According to the City:

- 81 summons issued
- 36 court appearances with 35 prosecutions
- 982 listings removed from STR platforms
- Most importantly, the City is reporting instances of housing stock returning to the market.

WHY IT MATTERS

- STRs have a direct impact on affordability as local housing stock is converted into commercial investment properties. We must prioritize long term residency.
- Residential neighborhoods should not be saturated with mini-hotels and commercial corridors should not become single-use districts catering to visitors.
- A loosening of the ordinance makes it harder to enforce and special exceptions would open the flood gates for thousands of STRs.
- We must remain vigilant in defense of our community.

A MUST READ

Check out this article in CityLab (2/1/19): The Airbnb Effect: It's Not Just Rising Home Prices. A few highlights:

- “Cities need to start treating Airbnb like any other hotel business, and regulate it accordingly.”
- “It becomes a straight conflict between whose interests you care more about: long-term residents of the city, or those that visit it...”
- “By repurposing units that might otherwise be long-term housing, it’s straining an already supply-short market.”
- “Part of what Airbnb is doing, especially at the beginning of its expansion, is it’s displacing regular payroll jobs that are now being done by Airbnb owners...”
- “While Airbnb is said to increase tourism revenue—only 2 to 4 percent of respondents wouldn’t have gone on trips if Airbnbs weren’t available.”

Good afternoon, and that sounds good to me.

Mr. Lazarus, this issue of what budget for the bookmarks is something we should address when we meet with John Mirsky about Communications.

By the way, would you let the appropriate IT person know that this webpage needs to remove CM Smith and add CM Ramlawi? <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/public-services/Pages/Public-Art.aspx>

There might be other BOC webpages that need updating with the 2019 membership.

Good afternoon, Councilmember Bannister,
I hope that you're staying safe today during the winter storm. I received a quote of $50 for 200 bookmarks. If that is something that you wish to order, please let me know, as these costs would be charged to the Mayor's Office. The Mayor's Office is already over their printing budget for FY19, however we would be happy to place the order. I'm not sure how many bookmarks you're requesting, so perhaps half of those could be allocated for placement in the Larcom lobby vestibule for the public.

Please let me know.

Thanks for sending your insights. I had not thought of people stealing them for parts, or foreign governments using them to track residents! All good insights that I will think about.

As we continue to delve deeper into public safety and mobility, these new scooters will continue to be one of our concerns.

Also, thanks for all the extra work you went through to email CM Hayner and me. Hopefully that problem is fixed and behind us (whitelisting, etc).

Ms. Bannister,

From time to time, vehicle sharing companies show up. Sometimes what they are doing makes sense, and sometimes not. There have been several iterations of bicycle sharing, which appear to be all gone now.

The current crop of scooters littering our sidewalks does not make sense. From a business standpoint, they don't have inventory control, which means their investment is asking to be stolen. Those darned things have a lot of nice parts in them, but no I haven't taken one apart. I bet several people in the local hacker community have, though.

I am not a conspiracy theorist in any way shape or form, but it is striking that the only plausible benefit to these things is that the government of China is using them to collect information on US Citizens.

Regardless of politics or economics, I see people being nearly run over by those darned things on city sidewalks.

Does the Ann Arbor City Government's stance on sharable electric scooters?

Thanks,

Ralph Katz

Dear Mr. Katz,

Our administrator is looking into my email woes, thanks for persisting and reaching out. Short answer local & state regulations on micro and shared-mobility are in place and evolving, any input from knowledgeable folks is always welcome.

I share your concerns about speed on sidewalks and when intersecting w/ vehicle traffic. I consider myself a very alert driver and pedestrian - esp. in downtown & campus areas - fortunately so! Like you I've witnessed what I would consider a mix of gross negligence + utter disregard for personal safety (no helmet etc.) by scooter operators. The excessive speed on sidewalks is on City/AAPD radar, for enforcement and education. We are planning for them to become a bigger mix of traffic, as you point out, they are cheap to use and own, there are mods and a $30 "freedom" kit for bird scooters.

A few years back the market in China for bike share grew massively, then collapsed, leaving tens of thousands of bicycles abandoned in cities and the urban countryside. It was pretty interesting to follow:

<https://www.theatlantic.com/photo/2018/03/bike-share-oversupply-in-china-huge-piles-of-abandoned-and-broken-bicycles/556268/>

Subject: Restaurant Delivery Services

I would like to address a serious issue occurring every day in the City of Ann Arbor.

I just received an Unpaid Parking Violation Notice including penalties for a parking ticket I never saw!! Apparently the violation occurred on December 18th!! 2018... today is February 6th!

I, like many others, work for a delivery service to get Ann Arbor restaurant food to Ann Arbor residents... a win-win for all involved.

Problem is that the pay is real low (I get about $10/hr) but since I am a retired senior citizen I don't mind getting a little extra cash. Parking to GET the food is always a challenge. I constantly purchase a parking spot when one is available but at times when one is not, I place my car in the least obstructive location possible so I can take one minute to run in and run out of the restaurant.

I have repeatedly seen Parking Referees targeting my colleagues for this one minute violation because they have signage (like me) and are easy to spot.

I believe this is probably what happened to me since I never saw a ticket but now am requested to pay 8 times more than I make in an hour (a full days pay!).

I urge the city to pressure the Parking Referees to understand that our services are a benefit to Ann Arbor commerce and to stop harassing those of us just trying to make a small buck.

Thanks for considering my request.

Ms. Wilkerson,

Please also extend the availability of the online evaluation form for me, too. I began filling out the form this afternoon and was blocked from going from one page to the next. I will need to restore all of the answers I previously typed and complete those I had not yet completed.

Thank you,

Councilmember Bannister:

I am writing to follow-up on our discussions about cost allocations for special assessment districts for sidewalks. Both Public Services staff and the City Attorney's Office have provided feedback to you that informs you under City code that Council has the ability to set the payment terms for these assessments, and to divide the costs in an "equitable manner," specifically in cases when a "100% of the costs of the improvements will be borne by the owners of properties specially benefitting from them, does not accurately reflect the benefit to the city at large and the private benefit. (Chapter 12, Section 1:274(3) of the City Code of Ordinances)." As a matter of precedent, Council has not waived from the 100% allocation in the past, and the circumstances on Traver Street do not differ from past instances Council has considered. Notwithstanding, you may choose to offer an amendment to the special assessment resolution (Resolution No. 4) when it is presented to Council.

We have also discussed your desire to have staff research other options to fund sidewalk gaps. Doing appropriate research will require an investment of staff time, so I have indicated to you I would like direction from Council as a whole to pursue this path. I've attached a draft resolution for you to consider per our conversation. Kindly review and let me know if you would like to sponsor it for the February 19th Council meeting.

As always, please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of further assistance.

TITLE

Resolution Directing the City Administrator to Develop Options for Financing New Sidewalk Construction.

MEMORANDUM

The City of Ann Arbor has adopted the strategic goals of being a warm, welcoming, and safe community and providing sustainable infrastructure. Consistent with these goals is providing an accessible and connected sidewalk network. However, many gaps exist in this network and the primary means of filling in the gaps under City Code relies on the creation of special assessment districts under which property owners must pay for new sidewalks on their properties. While City staff has done an exceptional job of finding grants and funding opportunities to lessen the cost to homeowners, special assessments may introduce significant financial burdens. This resolution requests that the City Administrator research how peer cities fund new sidewalk construction and provide recommendations to City Council.

BUDGET IMPACT: This resolution requires the dedication of approximately 250 staff hours or the equivalent effort through third party consultants.

APPROVED AND SPONSORED BY: Councilmember Anne Bannister

BODY

Whereas the City of Ann Arbor has adopted the strategic goals of being a warm, welcoming, and safe city and providing sustainable infrastructure

Whereas providing a connected and accessible pedestrian facilities is critical to this goal, and

Whereas the City has numerous gaps in the sidewalk network.

Whereas the current City code requires that new sidewalk construction be funded through special assessment districts that may impose difficult financial burdens on homeowners.

RESOLVED, That the City Council directs the City Administrator to research the means by which peer cities provide financial resources for the construction of new sidewalks and present alternatives and recommendations to Council on or before September 15, 2019.

Thank you for letting me know about this problem. I have had success working with our city administrator and public works to correct similar concerns with city snow removal; since you have provided both an address and a photo, I am passing this on to the right folks to see that this stops. That location information helps a lot. Sometimes it's as simple as letting the crews know what's happening, they might not be aware or have a view of it from their trucks.

As for the replacement of the damaged mailbox and post, I will ask my colleague on the Insurance Board if there is a process in place for requesting compensation for damages. I have cc:d her on this response.

Please let me know if there is anything else I can do to help,

Hello Councilman Hayner,

I'm a constituent of Ward 1 living at [REDACTED] and have been dealing with snow plows damaging our yard and mailbox since we purchased the property in 2013. We replaced the entire post and frame last year only to have it damaged again this year. This frame connecting the mailbox to the post has so badly damaged this year that it snapped into two pieces and is so skewed and the mailbox itself so warped that the mail carrier has great difficulty opening and closing it and often leaves it hanging wide open for anyone to walk by and take our mail.

Here is a link to pictures showing the latest damage:

<https://imgur.com/a/MABcy9c>

What is our recourse? Are we just expected to replace our mailbox and frame every year and allow our yard to be continue to be torn up and just hope that they don't take down the maple tree that they've hit multiple times? This is past the point of ridiculous.

I look forward to hearing back from you,

Janice Loffreda-Wren

Hi Anne and Jeff,

As you've probably heard, the carbon fee and dividend proposal that the City Council resolved to support in 2017 now has been introduced to Congress: HR 763. Being that the council resolved to work towards the passage of this policy, a step in this direction would be to vote for an endorsement of HR 763.

Like all people who are concerned about climate and think hard about potential solutions, you probably have questions about carbon pricing and how it might work. I have been working on an op-ed, and have an idea that might kill two birds with one stone: would you care to read over my essay (below) and give me feedback as to whether it answers some of the questions you may be having?

I would love to hear your thoughts, by email, phone or in person--whatever might be most convenient for you.

Thanks so much for your time and your careful consideration.

Barbara Lucas
[REDACTED]

Let's talk about a carbon tax, now.

By Barbara Lucas

While most climate activists acknowledge that a carbon tax is the biggest tool in the toolbox, many are saying we should back-burner the idea, for now. I'd like to offer that now is, actually, a great time to get the conversation going.

The call for a price on carbon is gaining traction internationally. Canada—our crucially-important trading partner—is instituting a revenue-neutral carbon tax nationwide. Many countries around the world have been using carbon pricing for years, and more are considering it. The International Joint Commission on Climate Change says steep carbon pricing will be required to meet its emission targets.

Meanwhile, in the U.S., there finally is a bill in Congress, the Energy Innovation and Dividends Act. Although it's not getting much media attention, it is the first bipartisan carbon pricing legislation to be introduced in ten years, and is worth examining on those grounds alone.

Carbon pricing is also one of strategies proposed for inclusion in the Democrat's New Green Deal. There was a Republican bill introduced last session. And there's a plan proposed by Conservative elders, not yet introduced, which is backed by both business and environmental groups.

Obviously, it has potential to appeal across the political spectrum. Let's not close our minds to the possibilities. Carbon taxes can take many forms, and bills usually go through innumerable changes before passage. Now is the time to start discussing how we might craft a policy that maximizes effectiveness, fairness and political viability.

For instance, how rapidly can a carbon tax plan reduce emissions to the IPPC target? That all depends on how high the tax is set, and how quickly it ramps up. Addressing the urgency of the situation, while allowing the economy time to adjust, is a balancing act.

Should the methane in natural gas be taxed for its very significant global warming potential? The current bill in Congress does tax methane, while the Conservative proposal does not.

Can it be cost-effective? Forty-five of the world's most esteemed economists, including Nobel Laureates, Federal Reserve Chairs, and U.S. Treasury Secretaries, say: "A carbon tax offers the most cost-effective lever to reduce carbon emissions at the scale and speed that is necessary."

The rioting in France against gas taxes is one of the reasons some say we should forget a carbon tax. How can we make sure a price on carbon wouldn't hurt the poor and middle class?

There's something very important being left out of the discussion regarding the Yellow Vest protests: in France's plan, there was no dividend. There's a huge difference between a straight carbon tax and one that is rebated, dollar for dollar, to the citizenry.

The dividend changes everything. How so?

The esteemed economists above say an equal dividends system (each adult getting one share, and each child a half share) is progressive, not regressive. They say: "The majority of American families, including the most vulnerable, will benefit financially by receiving more in 'carbon dividends' than they pay in increased energy prices."

Data from a 2017 U.S. Treasury report illustrate this concept:

This is because the lower our income, the smaller our carbon footprint. Only twenty percent of a household's carbon impacts result from direct costs like gasoline and home heating. Rather, most of it results from actually producing the goods and products that we buy.

Some point out we could not get a price on carbon through Congress even when Democrats had big majorities. But remember, the policy proposed back then was cap and trade. There was no dividend.

Those who advocate dividends say it's all about the money coming back to the people. Without it, you get riots. With it, you get buy in, a tangible answer to the critical "what's in it for me?" question.

Witness the popularity of the Alaskan dividend, which pays royalties to Alaskan residents from the oil production revenues generated in the state. Mess with that, as the last governor did, and you don't get re-elected.

Are equal dividends the way to go, or should frontline communities (who bear the brunt of fossil fuel pollution), get higher shares than do other citizens?

Proponents of equal dividends point to Australia, where the fee collected was distributed unequally. They say this opened a Pandora's box, which may have contributed to Australia's cancelling its carbon tax in 2014 after just four years.

Some have a problem with dividends in the first place, fearing they'll make us complicit in the extraction of fossil fuels. Does taking tobacco money make us complicit in lung disease? Granted, the cigarette tax isn't the only reason smoking rates are plummeting, but it's certainly been a big part of it.

Can the public support a carbon fee with dividends plan, once they fully appreciate the potential size of the household rebate? We are talking about a large chunk of change, on the order of thousands of dollars a year for the average family. Potential dividend size is often left out of the questions in public opinion surveys, such as those by Yale and the National Surveys on Energy and Environment.

What about jobs? This study says with more money in people's pockets, the health care and service industries would get a big boost. (Importantly, it's an increase in service areas, vs. increased consumption and resource use, which would cause the rise in GNP.) A stimulus check that reduces carbon emissions to boot just may appeal to the public.

But what's the incentive to use less energy, if there's a nice fat dividend coming in? The answer lies in the power of the "price signal": if fossil fuel prices rise, the natural choice becomes the cheaper products—those created without fossil fuels.

What about personal freedoms? Advocates point out that when we let price signals guide behavior (vs. relying solely on command-and-control regulation), the changes individuals make to reduce their carbon footprints are their choice, based on their priorities.

The polarizing question of regulations definitely begs more dialogue. Oversimplified, the left wants them, the right doesn't. But perhaps we can find a sweet spot.

For instance, the Energy Innovation and Dividend Act in Congress regulates the global warming potential of greenhouse gases, including carbon dioxide, methane, and nitrous oxide (reducing emissions faster than the Clean Power Plan and the Paris Agreement).

But it does not touch mileage standards like CAFÉ, or building codes. Nor does it preclude protections against pollutants like NO_x, sulfur, ozone, particulates, and mercury. And if targets aren't hit after 10 years, regulatory authority is restored.

Can one policy do it all, or should complementary policies work together? Most carbon pricing supporters acknowledge a tax on combustion of fossil fuels is not a silver bullet, and can be only part of the puzzle.

For instance, to meet minimum targets, we'll still need to tackle emissions from land use, such as forestry and agriculture, and industrial processes, like cement production.

And we'll still need to consider frontline communities that disproportionately suffer from fossil fuel pollution. The Energy Innovations bill in Congress regulates only the climate warming potential of emissions, allowing other legislation to be drafted to regulate their health impacts. This could be a significant avenue of assisting vulnerable populations.

When conversations get started, lines in the sand can fade. The growing realization of the urgency of the situation may force us to look for solutions that can bridge the divides. A carbon tax just might be worth discussing. Now.

Subject: Please vote NO on the Lockwood rezoning of a single-family neighborhood.

Mayor Taylor, City Council and City Administrator Lazarus- I understand that the rezoning of a single-family neighborhood requested by the Lockwood Company is on the February 19th City Council agenda. I am writing again to encourage you to vote NO on this rezoning. That area is zoned single family and that zoning, and the master plan, should be respected. Also, there are wetland issues and Gelman Plume issues, not to mention traffic issues. But primarily, I don't think it is right that people bought homes in that neighborhood because it was zoned single family and then a developer comes in and asks for the zoning to be changed. It's just not right. Homeowners should be able to trust that the City will keep its promise about the zoning in place that was a factor in their decision to buy a house in a certain area.

There are other plots of land that are already zoned multiple family where Lockwood could put their development. I encourage you to read the information at this website to learn more about the proposed development and the neighborhood:

Thank you! Could you send us the list of impacted residents that you're contacting? The map is great for the overall trimming, but specific addresses would also help.

If a resident calls us with questions (hopefully not in a panic), is there a hotline we should call to reach DTE in a hurry?

If you are unable to reach a resident by phone, do you proceed without their permission?

Thanks again for being proactive on this sensitive work trimming trees.

I am reaching out to you to let you know that DTE will begin contacting customers on upcoming tree trim work around our ARGO substation starting this afternoon. DTE proactively calls customers in the areas in which we will work, providing letters as well. Customers have 3 business days to contact DTE with any issues or concerns they have. The work is scheduled to begin on 2/14 based on availability. This is consistent with the process DTE has had in place over the last year in addressing tree trimming issues in SE Michigan.

I am writing to you to let you know the work is beginning and that the area around ARGO is in both Ward 1 and Ward 5. The phone calls and letters have contact information for the DTE Tree Trimming department on them for customers to access directly, but wanted to let you know that should you get any calls or need any assistance with DTE I am here to help.

I am reattaching the tree trim map for the City which I had previously sent for your reference. ARGO is in the area north of Miller and east and west of State/Pontiac Trail on the map.

Should you have any questions or concerns, please let me know. Just wanted to proactively provide you with the information update now that the work is scheduled to begin.

Would you like to meet at your house or Northside Grill on Monday, Feb. 25 at say 1 p.m.? That day is open for me, plus Feb. 27 and the afternoon of March 1.

We could sneak in a few other climate action topics and current events, but also stay on track with the carbon tax discussion.

WEMU is interviewing me on Feb. 20 about the nuclear emergency preparedness resolution (KI pills), which originated in the Environmental Commission. The City is accepting applications year round for all of the Boards and Commission, with a few vacancies this year.

Hi Anne and Jeff,

As you've probably heard, the carbon fee and dividend proposal that the City Council resolved to support in 2017 now has been introduced to Congress: HR 763. Being that the council resolved to work towards the passage of this policy, a step in this direction would be to vote for an endorsement of HR 763.

Like all people who are concerned about climate and think hard about potential solutions, you probably have questions about carbon pricing and how it might work. I have been working on an op-ed, and have an idea that might kill two birds with one stone: would you care to read over my essay (below) and give me feedback as to whether it answers some of the questions you may be having?

I would love to hear your thoughts, by email, phone or in person--whatever might be most convenient for you.

Thanks so much for your time and your careful consideration.

Let's talk about a carbon tax, now.

By Barbara Lucas

While most climate activists acknowledge that a carbon tax is the biggest tool in the toolbox, many are saying we should back-burner the idea, for now. I'd like to offer that now is, actually, a great time to get the conversation going.

The call for a price on carbon is gaining traction internationally. Canada—our crucially-important trading partner—is instituting a revenue-neutral carbon tax nationwide. Many countries around the world have been using carbon pricing for years, and more are considering it. The International Joint Commission on Climate Change says steep carbon pricing will be required to meet its emission targets.

Meanwhile, in the U.S., there finally is a bill in Congress, the Energy

Innovation and Dividends Act. Although it's not getting much media attention, it is the first bipartisan carbon pricing legislation to be introduced in ten years, and is worth examining on those grounds alone.

Carbon pricing is also one of strategies proposed for inclusion in the Democrat's New Green Deal. There was a Republican bill introduced last session. And there's a plan proposed by Conservative elders, not yet introduced, which is backed by both business and environmental groups.

Obviously, it has potential to appeal across the political spectrum. Let's not close our minds to the possibilities. Carbon taxes can take many forms, and bills usually go through innumerable changes before passage. Now is the time to start discussing how we might craft a policy that maximizes effectiveness, fairness and political viability.

For instance, how rapidly can a carbon tax plan reduce emissions to the IPPC target? That all depends on how high the tax is set, and how quickly it ramps up. Addressing the urgency of the situation, while allowing the economy time to adjust, is a balancing act.

Should the methane in natural gas be taxed for its very significant global warming potential? The current bill in Congress does tax methane, while the Conservative proposal does not.

Can it be cost-effective? Forty-five of the world's most esteemed economists, including Nobel Laureates, Federal Reserve Chairs, and U.S. Treasury Secretaries, say: "A carbon tax offers the most cost-effective lever to reduce carbon emissions at the scale and speed that is necessary."

The rioting in France against gas taxes is one of the reasons some say we should forget a carbon tax. How can we make sure a price on carbon wouldn't hurt the poor and middle class?

There's something very important being left out of the discussion regarding the Yellow Vest protests: in France's plan, there was no dividend. There's a huge difference between a straight carbon tax and one that is rebated, dollar for dollar, to the citizenry.

The dividend changes everything. How so?

The esteemed economists above say an equal dividends system (each adult getting one share, and each child a half share) is progressive, not regressive. They say: "The majority of American families, including the most vulnerable, will benefit financially by receiving more in 'carbon dividends' than they pay in increased energy prices."

Data from a 2017 U.S. Treasury report illustrate this concept:

This is because the lower our income, the smaller our carbon footprint. Only twenty percent of a household's carbon impacts result from direct costs like gasoline and home heating. Rather, most of it results from actually producing the goods and products that we buy.

Some point out we could not get a price on carbon through Congress even when Democrats had big majorities. But remember, the policy proposed back then was cap and trade. There was no dividend.

Those who advocate dividends say it's all about the money coming back to the people. Without it, you get riots. With it, you get buy in, a tangible answer to the critical "what's in it for me?" question.

Witness the popularity of the Alaskan dividend, which pays royalties to Alaskan residents from the oil production revenues generated in the state. Mess with that, as the last governor did, and you don't get re-elected.

Are equal dividends the way to go, or should frontline communities (who bear the brunt of fossil fuel pollution), get higher shares than do other citizens?

Proponents of equal dividends point to Australia, where the fee collected was distributed unequally. They say this opened a Pandora's box, which may have contributed to Australia's cancelling its carbon tax in 2014 after just four years.

Some have a problem with dividends in the first place, fearing they'll make us complicit in the extraction of fossil fuels. Does taking tobacco money make us complicit in lung disease? Granted, the cigarette tax isn't the only reason smoking rates are plummeting, but it's certainly been a big part of it.

Can the public support a carbon fee with dividends plan, once they fully appreciate the potential size of the household rebate? We are talking about a large chunk of change, on the order of thousands of dollars a year for the average family. Potential dividend size is often left out of the questions in public opinion surveys, such as those by Yale and the National Surveys on Energy and Environment.

What about jobs? This study says with more money in people's pockets, the health care and service industries would get a big boost. (Importantly, it's an increase in service areas, vs. increased consumption and resource use, which would cause the rise in GNP.) A stimulus check that reduces carbon emissions to boot just may appeal to the public.

But what's the incentive to use less energy, if there's a nice fat dividend coming in? The answer lies in the power of the "price signal": if fossil fuel prices rise, the natural choice becomes the cheaper products—those created without fossil fuels.

What about personal freedoms? Advocates point out that when we let price signals guide behavior (vs. relying solely on command-and-control regulation), the changes individuals make to reduce their carbon footprints are their choice, based on their priorities.

The polarizing question of regulations definitely begs more dialogue. Oversimplified, the left wants them, the right doesn't. But perhaps we can find a sweet spot.

For instance, the Energy Innovation and Dividend Act in Congress regulates the global warming potential of greenhouse gases, including carbon dioxide, methane, and nitrous oxide (reducing emissions faster than the Clean Power Plan and the Paris Agreement).

But it does not touch mileage standards like CAFÉ, or building codes. Nor does it preclude protections against pollutants like NOx, sulfur, ozone, particulates, and mercury. And if targets aren't hit after 10 years, regulatory authority is restored.

Can one policy do it all, or should complementary policies work together? Most carbon pricing supporters acknowledge a tax on combustion of fossil fuels is not a silver bullet, and can be only part of the puzzle.

For instance, to meet minimum targets, we'll still need to tackle emissions from land use, such as forestry and agriculture, and industrial processes, like cement production.

And we'll still need to consider frontline communities that disproportionately suffer from fossil fuel pollution. The Energy Innovations bill in Congress regulates only the climate warming potential of emissions, allowing other legislation to be drafted to regulate their health impacts. This could be a significant avenue of assisting vulnerable populations.

When conversations get started, lines in the sand can fade. The growing realization of the urgency of the situation may force us to look for solutions that can bridge the divides. A carbon tax just might be worth discussing. Now.

Dear Council Representative Bannister:

As a resident of the north side, I am so NOT thrilled to hear about this from MLIVE:

"ANN ARBOR, MI – An $8.4 million condo development on Ann Arbor's north side is headed to City Council for approval.

"The city's Planning Commission voted this week to recommend approval of the Bristol Ridge project by Norfolk Homes.

"The plans show 69 townhouse-style condos in 11 buildings on seven acres at 2750 Pontiac Trail.

The proposed site is across from two other development sites, including the under-construction North Sky project by Pulte Homes, which includes 139 single-family homes and a four-story, 56-unit condo or apartment building, and the Cottages at Barton Green, a large student apartment project the city rejected and is now the subject of a developer lawsuit against the city."

The traffic situation in this area is already abysmal. Has anyone at all given any thought at all about the enormous negative impact of these "developments" on the traffic and how to mitigate it? Sadly, I have to say that I suspect no one other than the residents here really cares and that any mitigation plans are nominal and wishy-washy at best.

When I moved here, there was no M-14, and Barton Drive west of Brede was dirt. We were able to have our windows open, go to sleep to a cricket chorus, and wake up to the dawn chorus. Now we can no longer open our windows because of the traffic racket, especially from the M-14 bridge, we can barely hear the crickets, and the dawn chorus is a thing of the past. The quality of life on the north side has steadily diminished, thanks to special interests and complete disregard for the wishes of the residents.

I'd like to see my council representatives take action on our behalf.

Some point out we could not get a price on carbon through Congress even when Democrats had big majorities. But remember, the policy proposed back then was cap and trade. There was no dividend.

Those who advocate dividends say it's all about the money coming back to the people. Without it, you get riots. With it, you get buy in, a tangible answer to the critical “what's in it for me?” question.

Witness the popularity of the Alaskan dividend, which pays royalties to Alaskan residents from the oil production revenues generated in the state. Mess with that, as the last governor did, and you don't get re-elected.

Are equal dividends the way to go, or should frontline communities (who bear the brunt of fossil fuel pollution), get higher shares than do other citizens?

Proponents of equal dividends point to Australia, where the fee collected was distributed unequally. They say this opened a Pandora's box, which may have contributed to Australia's cancelling its carbon tax in 2014 after just four years.

Some have a problem with dividends in the first place, fearing they'll make us complicit in the extraction of fossil fuels. Does taking tobacco money make us complicit in lung disease? Granted, the cigarette tax isn't the only reason smoking rates are plummeting, but it's certainly been a big part of it.

Can the public support a carbon fee with dividends plan, once they fully appreciate the potential size of the household rebate? We are talking about a large chunk of change, on the order of thousands of dollars a year for the average family. Potential dividend size is often left out of the questions in public opinion surveys, such as those by Yale and the National Surveys on Energy and Environment.

What about jobs? This study says with more money in people's pockets, the health care and service industries would get a big boost. (Importantly, it's an increase in service areas, vs. increased consumption and resource use, which would cause the rise in GNP.) A stimulus check that reduces carbon emissions to boot just may appeal to the public.

But what's the incentive to use less energy, if there's a nice fat dividend coming in? The answer lies in the power of the "price signal": if fossil fuel prices rise, the natural choice becomes the cheaper products—those created without fossil fuels.

What about personal freedoms? Advocates point out that when we let price signals guide behavior (vs. relying solely on command-and-control regulation), the changes individuals make to reduce their carbon footprints are their choice, based on their priorities.

The polarizing question of regulations definitely begs more dialogue. Oversimplified, the left wants them, the right doesn't. But perhaps we can find a sweet spot.

For instance, the Energy Innovation and Dividend Act in Congress regulates the global warming potential of greenhouse gases, including carbon dioxide, methane, and nitrous oxide (reducing emissions faster than the Clean Power Plan and the Paris Agreement).

But it does not touch mileage standards like CAFÉ, or building codes. Nor does it preclude protections against pollutants like NO_x, sulfur, ozone, particulates, and mercury. And if targets aren't hit after 10 years, regulatory authority is restored.

Can one policy do it all, or should complementary policies work together? Most carbon pricing supporters acknowledge a tax on combustion of fossil fuels is not a silver bullet, and can be only part of the puzzle.

For instance, to meet minimum targets, we'll still need to tackle emissions from land use, such as forestry and agriculture, and industrial processes, like cement production.

And we'll still need to consider frontline communities that disproportionately suffer from fossil fuel pollution. The Energy Innovations bill in Congress regulates only the climate warming potential of emissions, allowing other legislation to be drafted to regulate their health impacts. This could be a significant avenue of assisting vulnerable populations.

When conversations get started, lines in the sand can fade. The growing realization of the urgency of the situation may force us to look for solutions that can bridge the divides. A carbon tax just might be worth discussing. Now.

Thanks for the update, Susan and Lester.

I've received a request from John Williamson from Brookside to be added to our communications. He had been receiving them indirectly and would like to be included.

Susan, with regard to your question about 2x to 3x higher charges for these sidewalks, staff has responded with lengthy emails, such as the "Northside STEAM SRTS" email that I forwarded from Mr. Lazarus last Wednesday, Feb. 6. I might suggest that you email Jane Allen, Project Manager, and Howard Lazarus, directly and ask your concise question. That would be helpful to me and might solicit a more specific answer. jallen2@a2gov.org and hlazarus@a2gov.org.

Tomorrow morning (Saturday, Feb. 9), the Washtenaw Democratic Party is having a big meeting starting from 9:30 a.m. until about noon or 1 p.m. at the Washtenaw County Learning Resource Center (4135 Washtenaw Ave in Ann Arbor.) Everyone is welcome (membership not required) and can drop-in at anytime. These meetings are often attended by Jeff Irwin, Yousef Rabhi, and other state reps and officials. It would be a good time to try and talk with them about this issue in-person. Several days ago it was suggested (by Tom Stulberg) that we not present a variety of piecemeal concerns, but nonetheless, I bring up this opportunity to speak with elected officials and raise awareness... Tom, jump in here if you have advice.

I also spoke with Felicia Brabec, Washtenaw County Commissioner, this week and have raised her awareness about the project.

Thanks,
Anne

Just a quick update. I contacted Rep. Dingell's office last Saturday and since I did not year back, I contacted the office again yesterday. As you likely heard, Rep's Debbie Dingell's husband and long time Congressman, John Dingell passed away yesterday, so there is no chance that we can expect any participation from that office, at least not for Monday.

I did talk with someone with the Institute of Transportation Engineers. They say that their tables are just guidelines, and that MDOT could be using other such tables by FHwy admin, AASHTO etc. She was familiar with SRTS and she said that National SRTS must approve of the project before it can go forward. We can appeal with the National SRTS people to see if they can apply pressure on MDOT.

I invited Janet Holloway from Brookside to attend the meeting as well, so we will be discussing Brookside as well.

It would be good if we can divide the presentation I made among the various attendees in case we will want to go through it, although he has a copy. If he is quite familiar with it, it might only be necessary to go over the major themes. Since Senator Irwin is on a Public safety committee, I think that we should focus most on the issues related to public safety.

For example:

Starting with: The SRTS report found that crosswalks are the largest concern.

However, instead of focusing most on crosswalks, the City has chosen to use the SRTS grant money solely for sidewalks.

The installation of two sidewalks on Traver are particularly expensive >$400/foot considering that it is not a primary route for students commuting to and from school, not allowing for money left over crosswalks (also why was Brookside chosen).

The design created by the City, forced to install two sidewalks by MDOT, is burdensome for the homeowners by either cutting down a lot of trees, or removing almost all street parking, and due to very high assessments.

A single sidewalk on Traver would be a much more cost-effective solution, relieve the burden on homeowners, and free up money to spend on crosswalks.

FHWY Admin has backed off establishing requirements for residential streets, allowing local transportation officials to create the designs, since they can take into account the issues that exist for any particular street. Why is Lansing forcing their unworkable requirements on homeowners when they are not familiar with the issues?

MDOT has refused to meet with the homeowners and City Council members about this issue.

Councilmember Bannister:

I am writing to follow-up on our discussions about cost allocations for special assessment districts for sidewalks. Both Public Services staff and the City Attorney's Office have provided feedback to you that informs you under City code that Council has the ability to set the payment terms for these assessments, and to divide the costs in an "equitable manner," specifically in cases when a "100% of the costs of the improvements will be borne by the owners of properties specially benefitting from them, does not accurately reflect the benefit to the city at large and the private benefit. (Chapter 12, Section 1:274(3) of the City Code of Ordinances)." As a matter of precedent, Council has not waived from the 100% allocation in the past, and the circumstances on Traver Street do not differ from past instances Council has considered. Notwithstanding, you may choose to offer an amendment to the special assessment resolution (Resolution No. 4) when it is presented to Council.

We have also discussed your desire to have staff research other options to fund sidewalk gaps. Doing appropriate research will require an investment of staff time, so I have indicated to you I would like direction from Council as a whole to pursue this path. I've attached a draft resolution for you to consider per our conversation. Kindly review and let me know if you would like to sponsor it for the February 19th Council meeting.

As always, please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of further assistance.

I found this plan for an improvement in the John A Woods crosswalk at Traver, which includes a raised crosswalk that would slow traffic at the top of Traver Rd. Do we know if this is included in the current plan? If not, it would be a strong reason for not requiring a second sidewalk for Traver. If it and other crosswalk improvements in the report are included, it weakens our case.

I attended and Rebekah wasn't there, but I did talk with Jason Morgan and Yousef Rabhi about SRTS, and waved at Jeff Irwin.

Evan Pratt was also there and I'll reach out to him again separately because he previously was receptive to sympathetic to our situation, and he lives in Ward One.

Kathy Griswold was there and learned that there's a Transportation Commission in Lansing.

Our group should reach out to them, too.

RESPONSE: The variance was primarily driven by Ordinance Fines & Costs collected by the District Court coming in $193k lower than anticipated due to fewer tickets being issued by Police. In addition, parking ticket revenue was $174k lower than anticipated due to the parking enforcement staff being down one officer during the entire fiscal year and when there were a lot of ordinance complaints (snow not being cleared on sidewalks, grass too long, trash in the yard, etc.) the enforcement staff is taken away from issuing parking tickets.

This should be required viewing for anyone involved/interested in the Gelman 1,4-dioxane contamination site (legislators, regulatory officials and staffs, lawyers, company decision makers, local government officials & staffs, citizens, reporters, consultants):

Gelman site cleanup - 1995 plan video
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rYF4bL_KUKw

The 90-minute video is of the October 23, 1995, Gelman Sciences/DEQ information meeting at Scio Township Hall and covers the erstwhile 1995 cleanup plan agreed to by the company, the DEQ and the local community... before the plan was reneged on the following spring.

Watch the whole video and pay attention to the commitments made and concerns raised during the meeting especially during the Q&A portions.

This video portends how broken Michigan's environmental cleanup regulations have become since around that time and the challenges facing us as Michigan's new administration tries to reverse the trend and better protect water supplies from pervasive and persistent compounds like dioxane and PFAS.

Dear Anne

I'm sorry I could not attend the whole meeting on Saturday. (I missed the voting part) I agree that the chance to trade notes before and after is of great value.

I did see the Arrowwood event on Facebook and would like to attend but am unfortunately out of town most of this week for the state Drain Commissioner's conference over in Kalamazoo.

Below, please find the info relative to PFAS water filters (and other information) that I provided to Chris Savage this morning for distribution, so you have it before your meeting, as it covers more than filters. Similar to the FAQ/fact sheet format of the linked resources I'm providing, there is also Public Health information on lead at a number of places, with the most robust set of FAQs and links here:

<https://www.michigan.gov/lead/0,5417,7-310-84213---,00.html>

<https://www.washtenaw.org/DocumentCenter/View/5407/June--July-2016---Lead-Poisoning-Prevention-PDF?bidId=>

There are many other resources with more info, but I do want to highlight one excerpt from the link above:

"While water can be a possible source of lead poisoning for children, the primary danger is exposure to lead-based paint and the associated dust."

Case in point, my 3-year backyard neighbors (high-schoolers Cortez and Tyrell and little sister Antoinette) have been moved out of their Avalon property on Broadway due to a second round of lead paint abatement.

And yes it would be great to catch up. I'm usually in the office about 60% of the time, though much of my week is booked up – if you know when you might drop by let me know, or I can offer some times the week of the 18th when I can be sure to be available.

My office is separate from Public Health, but located in the same building, so once you drop off your water sample at the main counter for Public Health, just turn to the right for the window to my team's office.

Best

Dear Chris

I am following up on the question Saturday about PFAS filters and would appreciate if you could share with your mailing list. This may work better as a separate e-blast than embedment in the weekly WCDP update as there are a couple of other questions that I've hear a lot. At the bottom of this email is a link to video of a December, 2018 informational town hall meeting in Washtenaw County that the Huron River Watershed Council and County Health Department sponsored.

Kudos to Rep. Yousef Rabhi and Sen. Jeff Irwin for (re)-introducing a "polluter pay" bill (HB 4123) to help address toxic site clean-ups – they will be having a press release event this Thursday in Lansing. If anyone receiving this email has family or friends who are constituents of an (R) legislator, constituents contacting those legislators would be vital.

I am not an expert on PFAS, but have learned that the MDEQ and Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) have a number of links and/or fact sheets that are recommended by our County Health Department. I do know that it is important to understand that there are other pathways besides drinking water. The following italicized text is an excerpt from this link, which also has information on what is currently known about possible health risks:

https://www.michigan.gov/documents/pfasresponse/pfas_clinician_fact_sheet_508-Updated_May_2018_629231_7.pdf

What are the main sources of exposure to PFAS?

For the general population, ingestion of PFAS is considered the major human exposure pathway. The major types of human exposure sources for PFAS include:

- Drinking contaminated water.
- Ingesting food contaminated with PFAS, such as certain types of fish and shellfish.
- Until recently, eating food packaged in materials containing PFAS (e.g., popcorn bags, fast food containers, and pizza boxes). Using PFAS compounds has been largely phased out of food packaging materials.
- Hand-to-mouth transfer from surfaces treated with PFAS-containing stain protectants, such as carpets, which is thought to be most significant for infants and toddlers.

I had heard that Teflon-type products may also be a source; I bought new pans at home since we had older ones that were pretty scuffed up. I did not see that noted in a quick review of these various links so don't know myself if it's a major issue.

To learn more about filters used to reduce PFOA and PFOS, see the PFAS In-Home Filtration Systems factsheet available at www.michigan.gov/pfasresponse. (Please note that a specific brand is not called out but info is provided for a quick Google search)

For people who may have a well near a known or suspected PFAS source, MDEQ can help with questions about water sampling. Call the MDEQ Environmental Assistance Center at 1-800-662-9278.

The Huron River Watershed Council has also been compiling information for people and has hosted Town Hall type meetings in Washtenaw and Oakland Counties, with video available at this link:

Senator Irwin,

Thank you for spending a good part of the afternoon listening and asking questions to understand our sidewalk issue for Traver and Brookside - it was comforting to hear your intent to reach out to MDOT on our behalf. Our greatest hope is that your negotiation skills will convince MDOT to waive the two sidewalk requirement. If your conversation with MDOT is unable to affect the two sidewalk requirement, then perhaps you can convince MDOT to meet with us to enable us to make our case.

I promised to send you information for contacting MDOT to help enable your communication with them about the sidewalk project. The contact information for Bryan Armstrong, who is the Safe Routes to School (SRTS) coordinator, is summarized below as part his response to my previous e-mail to him. The other person you could communicate with is Michael Kapp, who is Bryan's boss and is more likely the decision-maker about the requirement for two sidewalks:

Office of Economic Development

Michael Kapp, Administrator
517-335-1069

I had a personal conversation with Bryan Armstrong on January 23rd when he returned my phone message requesting a meeting in Lansing - Bryan said right away that he would not meet with us about the sidewalk project. I pushed back making a series of arguments that hopefully would make him see that there is a justification to meet to discuss the need for two sidewalks:

I pointed out that the two sidewalk requirement is not a SRTS requirement, but is a MDOT policy call which can be waived if sidewalks cannot be installed on both sides of the street. Because a sidewalk cannot be installed on one side of the street, and must therefore be installed in the street at a great expense, it would provide a good reason for dismissing the two sidewalk requirement.

I pointed out to him that the argument presented to me for why two sidewalks are required is to prevent school students from having to cross in the middle of the street, but instead cross at the intersection - and he confirmed that. I explained to him that as the only parent of a STEAM student living on the south side of Traver, that in fact crossing mid-block is safer than walking down the street on our side of the street and crossing at the Barton Road intersection. This is because the traffic on Barton is so heavy and because of the many confrontations that occur between the Barton Rd. drivers and those drivers trying to drop off their kids at the Barton-Traver intersection. Both my wife and I would always cross mid-block on a street which has so little traffic. This eliminates the reasoning for the need of two sidewalks.

I also pointed out that the SRTS does not identify Traver as a primary route to school, and that the SRTS report identifies crosswalks as the highest priority for addressing the safety of school kids, so why did the project focus almost exclusively on sidewalks? It seems that once the SRTS report is completed, then the City has met it's SRTS requirement for the report and can then do whatever it wants with the grant money. Also, because so few students would use the sidewalks on Traver, the benefit/cost ratio is very, very poor, and this proposed SRTS project completely ignores prioritizing maximizing the safety of school kids. Why is there not a process to single out the projects which maximize student safety?

The SRTS grant is supposed to require community support for the project. I pointed out that there is overwhelming rejection of the project on the part of the affected homeowners because of the threat of either cutting down of many of the street's trees, or removing almost all of the homeowner's street parking which is needed in the wintertime, so how can the project move forward?

While I was making my counter-arguments to push for a meeting, I could tell that Bryan had no response to some of these arguments. He instead retorted in a frustrated manner, that the requirement is for two sidewalks and this is not negotiable. I then asked how the decision was made for SRTS grants. He said that a group which includes some transportation experts, SRTS people and MDOT management review the grants. I asked who his boss is and he said Michael Kapp.

I believe that I did not make this additional argument, which is that FHWHY Admin. concluded several years ago that they were removing street design requirements for residential streets, to focus solely on higher volume roads (40 mph and higher) because their requirements for residential streets sometimes conflict with more appropriate designs that address a particular issue or issues for a particular residential street that local transportation design engineers can better design for. It seems that FHWHY Admin in Washington DC backed off of requirements for residential streets, to only be replaced by Lansing who is forcing an unworkable plan on homeowners in this case, and that MDOT has not even visited the site, nor spoken to the homeowners.

to Bryan

Hi Bryan, I contacted the National SRTS director who stated that I should be communicating to you. Hopefully, you she forwarded my e-mail to you.

I live on Traver Road which is near to the STEAM school in Ann Arbor. After a thorough review, I am convinced that while Traver's proximity to the STEAM school makes it a candidate for a sidewalk, because of its rural nature (100 to 200 foot wide frontages) and also because it was cut on the side of a hill which causes it to be expensive to install sidewalks for this road, that two sidewalks are unnecessary. Below is a summary I put together which summarizes the situation. While the SRTS report was well intentioned, it misrepresented the need for sidewalks on Traver Rd. and the summary below is a much more rigorous summary of the situation.

I request that SRTS drop the requirement for sidewalks on both sides of the road. Sure a sidewalk on both sides of the road could be done, but why would we??? Homeowners, very few of which have kids on this road, would be asked to pay much higher for sidewalks than any other sidewalks installed in Ann Arbor because of the difficulties for installing sidewalks for this. Almost all of the new sidewalks would not have a single STEAM student walking on them.

There is a need to decide quickly on this because another City Council meeting is Monday and it wants to make a decision. If I don't hear back from you by e-mail, I will call you this afternoon.

Lester

There are some very key points which puts into perspective Traver Road as a safe routes to school street:

- Due to Traver Road's proximity to the STEAM school, the Safe Routes to School Committee identified it as a priority for having sidewalks installed.
- The assumption made by the Safe Routes to School Committee was that streets closest to the school will see the largest number of students commuting to school.
- A thorough review of the students which currently use Traver Road to commute to the STEAM school showed that Traver Road is currently hardly used as street by neighborhood students commuting to the STEAM school.
- Only two STEAM students currently live on Traver Road and both live on the very eastern side of Traver Road, near to the school.
- Both of these students can access sidewalks without having to walk in the road (accessing an existing sidewalk and a driveway adjacent to their home properties).
- However, another potentially higher priority reason for installing sidewalks on Traver Road is to enable safer drop-off of students living outside the neighborhood on Traver Road at the intersection of Barton Road.
- Because of the congestion created at Traver and Barton roads, and the risk to students commuting from Traver Road and along Barton Road, steps are being taken to reduce and perhaps eliminate the drop off of students on Traver Road near Barton Road. If these steps are taken, it would reduce, or perhaps even eliminate, the need for sidewalks for drop-off of students.
- An assumption made by the Safe Routes to School Committee about students commuting down Traver Road from the west of John A. Woods on Traver Road is that they would use Traver Road if it had sidewalks.
- A review of travel distances showed that students commuting down Traver Road from the west of John A. Woods would prefer to access the back of the school by crossing over to Peach Street via John A. Woods - Steam students would choose this route to avoid traveling 50% further and avoid some significant elevation changes.
- The STEAM school would like a safe route for cross country runners who could run a loop around the school to Peach, John A. Woods, Traver, and to Barton.
- Currently, from a Safe Routes to School perspective, installation of sidewalks on Traver Road near to Barton Road would could provide a convenience benefit for the two students living on Traver Road, and provide a benefit to STEAM students being dropped off on Traver Road.
- The only current, school-related reason to install sidewalks the full length of Traver road between John A Wood and Barton Roads would be to provide a safe, alternative cross country training route.
- The number of students commuting to the STEAM school could change if families with children that would attend the STEAM school move into the neighborhood, thus, increasing Traver Road's priority for the installation of sidewalks.
- The low density of homes on Traver Road, and because STEAM students are very unlikely to commute to school from west of John A. Woods, does not trigger the need for sidewalks on both sides of the street (consistent with ITE guidelines).

Armstrong, Bryan (MDOT) <ArmstrongB@michigan.gov>

Dec 14, 2018, 3:53 PM

to Colleen, Katie, me

Hello Lester,

I appreciate the effort you put into researching and describing the situation. But, the Michigan Safe Routes to School (SRTS) program does not fund sidewalk construction, on a road where the land use is residential on both sides, that does not result in sidewalk on both sides.

The logic is simple. Students, especially the youngest elementary ages, are among the most vulnerable users. When the land use is residential on both sides, we do not want to create a situation where students might exit their homes, cross the street mid-block in order to get to the sidewalk on the other side.

You mention that students commuting down Traver Road from the west of John A. Woods would prefer to access the back of the school by crossing over to Peach Street via John A. Woods - Steam students would choose this route to avoid traveling on Traver (pardon my edit to your language). This potential for an alternate route, if agreed to by both the STEAM SRTS team members and Ann Arbor staff/officials, might be possible.

In summary, I am not able to change the Michigan SRTS Program practice of requiring sidewalk on both sides when land use is residential on both sides. If there is opportunity for your desired outcome of no sidewalk on your side of Traver, it lies in deleting Traver from the project and developing an alternate route, agreeable to Ann Arbor STEAM SRTS team members and Ann Arbor staff and officials.

Thank You,

Bryan Armstrong

Afternoon!

The speed limit here is 30mph. When the snow plows come by at 40, they shoot the snow and slush on the side walks that your citizens have spent hours clearing. Last night some of it even hit the buildings.

I can not be held responsible for clearing the sidewalks when City personnel just toss the snow from the streets back on it.

There must be a better way! To begin with, slow down!

The Mayor will present a proclamation in honor of this heroic action at the Feb. 4 Council meeting.

AAFD Responded to Fatal House Fire Jan. 31. While we try our best to be safe in all of our activities, unfortunately injuries do happen. "Our crews took great risk last night with their efforts searching for the resident. The bravery of our crews and the injured firefighter cannot be overstated," said Fire Chief Mike Kennedy. "Our thoughts are with the victim's family during this tragic event." The injured firefighter, who has been with the Ann Arbor Fire Department (AAFD) for 13 years, suffered multiple broken ribs and multiple fractures to the left lower leg that will require surgery. Thank you to Chief Kennedy and all of the AAFD for the brave work.

Hello Jeff:

Four of the Board members elected in 2016 ran on a platform that included land preservation.

One of the Board's first actions was to create a Land Preservation Committee. Recently-elected County Commissioner Susan Shink is the chair.

Barry Lonik recently was hired to identify potential high-value Greenbelt properties and to help create a strategy for passing a millage. We're halfway there.

Progress has been slower than I'd like. I'm very frustrated. The biggest stumbling block is that our entire Board is composed of Republicans and they're terrified to be associated with a tax, even a self-imposed millage.

However, the subject is under discussion and I believe a resolution will soon be adopted to put a millage before the voters.

As far as I'm concerned, a millage isn't rocket science. Other communities have been successful passing one.

All for now.
David

Hello Council Members:

I've been fighting for nearly 20 years to keep Northfield from becoming Southfield.

Our watchdog group, Northfield Neighbors, has been successful so far ... twice turning back developers that tried to transform hundreds of farmland acres into subdivisions.

I'm hoping you reconsider your rejection of the Greenbelt recommendation for inclusion of the Lepkowski farm.

We're making progress on this front and could use this farm to leverage support for a millage.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
David Gordon

Next on my to do list is to work on the Lazarus evaluation. I have his self-evaluation attachments from Nov. 27.

Dear City Council and Mayor Taylor,

This is the last of my long emails to you before we go to the First Reading next Tuesday. I urge you to DENY Lockwood a REZONE or even stop it now before going any further. This is clearly the wrong site for this development for so many reasons, but the disruption of the natural features is a HUGE reason to vote NO. This is Ann Arbor, who should be setting the standard for protecting our natural features. I think the PUD ordinance states this also.

These 3 Sister Lakes are the only glacier made, 15,000 year old lakes in Southern Michigan. They are also referred to as the "kettle lakes." They and the land and wetlands surrounding them are protected lands. Here is the MDEQ map of the site

IMG_6395.JPG \(1.715K\)

In the Tip of the Mitt / MDEQ guide for cities

wetland_ebookfinal.pdf \(3.298K\) recommends 25-35 foot setbacks from wetlands,

Lockwood will be perched up above the wetlands with a 15 foot setback and a steep slope for all the run off (HEAVILY SALTED IN WINTER AND DEBRIS FROM ALL IMPERVIOUS SURFACE IN SUMMER). I inquired to city staff about this and they stated that they want the run off to go down to "recharge" the wetlands. Ignoring all recommendations for the state, and Ann Arbor should be even more stringent.

According to the city on Ann Arbor's Wetlands ordinance 5:204 (3) "a wetland permit is required to "construct, operate, or maintain any use or development in a wetland, including draining or directing water from an upland activity into a wetland". This is being ignored.

There is also a Natural Features Ordinance 5:23.7 for steep slopes that "drainage should be directed to inlet structures and NOT permitted to flow down slopes during and after construction. This is being ignored.

Why would Ann Arbor ignore these important natural features protections?

The city just last year spent $500,000 putting in a rain garden on the other side of the lake for normal street run off. Seniors especially, will have heavily salted and sanded surfaces in the winter. Who will monitor what they are using. How will Lockwood remove all the snow? Where will the extremely large piles go from their very small and congested parking area.? Dolph Nature Area is adjacent to the site on the whole eastern side and half of the southern side. This lot has been vacant and these trees just south of the property are where the Kirtland Warbler was stopping over on it's way north last May to the jack pines to breed. This is a huge stop over each year and Juliet, the staff ornithologist knows this. Why does city have an ornithologist ? I do not understand what that position does? I know she does these birding field trips to Dolph and other birding hotspots. How can she honestly state that this huge development and clear cutting the trees will not effect the warblers and other birds. Dolph Park was donated to the city from a resident, Ray Dolph. The city must try to protect this nature area NOW. Here are just a few articles about saving the lake. I also have information from the 1990's where the Parks recommended purchasing this land to have the whole lake protected.

dolph park 2.png \(1,193K\)

This is the view from the new rain garden area and the observation dock. The arrow is where Lockwood's 4 1/2 story building will be. Nice observation now ??

Here are two more articles about trying to preserve the lake.

Thank you again for your attention to these important matters. This isn't the right fit for this size and type of construction for many many reasons,

City of Ann Arbor Update

Hello, city of Ann Arbor voter. Thank you for your interest in information regarding Elections for City of Ann Arbor, MI. Please note the following NEW online opportunity ...

Did you know with the passage of Proposal 3 in November, voters are no longer required to provide a reason for requesting an absentee ballot?

With this change to the Michigan Constitution, the City of Ann Arbor has simplified the process for enrolling in the City's Permanent Absentee Voter List. Voters on this list automatically receive an application for an absentee ballot in the mail approximately 60 days prior to each election. Once the Clerk's Office receives the completed absentee ballot application, a ballot is mailed out as soon as possible, generally about 30 days before the election and on a daily basis thereafter.

Enrollment in the permanent absentee voter list does not prevent you from voting in person, even if you receive an absentee ballot, as long as you have not returned your ballot. Voting by mail allows you to avoid standing in line on Election Day, vote at your convenience before Election Day, and allows more time to review the ballot.

If you are interested in signing up to be on the Permanent Absentee Voter List, an online request form is available on the City Clerk's Website. You are among the first to know about this convenient online form, and we hope — if you're interested in absentee voting — you will help us ensure it is user friendly before we spread the word. If you would like to add your name to the Permanent Absentee Voter List, please take a moment to sign up on the website before Monday, March 4, 2019, if possible, so we can better gauge the effectiveness of the new online form. You can request to be on the permanent Absentee Voter List year round; the deadline is only to allow for the gathering of information on the effectiveness of this exciting new program by the City Clerk's Office prior to a citywide expansion.

Please direct any questions about this process to the City Clerk's Office.

Thank you,

Councilmember Bannister,

As of today your inquiry has been assigned to me, so I would like to provide a status update. I completed a thorough review of Ms. Margomenous' concerns detailed in her email and determined the best course of action would be to facilitate a meeting with Ms. Margomenou and my Deputy Building Official, Marc Howell. There are several points in her email I feel need personal attention from the rental housing management staff to ease her mind about the inspection process and it's intent. A personal onsite visit from a Building Official will also afford the opportunity to investigate her concerns with the water pressure that was not detected on the routine inspection. I will personally contact Ms. Margomenou via email to ensure she is open to the ideal of a personal visit from our Building Official and schedule a time to meet when it is most convenient. Any of Marc Howell's finding will be immediately discussed with the property manager to determine the best plan of action.

Thank you for the communication and please let me know if you should have any further questions or concerns.

Subject: Re: the water issues in Island Drive Apartments.

Dear Anne,

It was great to meet you last night. I am glad Jeff brought up the issue I face with hot water in Island Drive Apartments (Maiden Lane.) I thought about whether I should write to you at all, after last evening. The reason is that in my experience it will be futile to seek protection through city inspections: these only add to the abuse rather than solve anything. And being abused and intimidated once a year is enough. Then I thought perhaps someone should know about all this: both the issues with this building and the abusive practices of City inspectors. If these are really City inspectors, then someone should know that renters are very much aware of all the abuse and intimidation. If these are not City inspectors but people that management companies “outsource” these inspections to, then the City should know what is happening in your name.

I am an American citizen, who unfortunately has a foreign name. I have lived in Ann Arbor for 19 years both as a graduate student and now as a Lecturer at the University of Michigan. I have always been a renter. The inspection issues I describe below I have only experienced while a renter in Island Drive Apartments (since 2011.)

I live in building [REDACTED] apartment [REDACTED]. I am not the only one in the building facing these issues.

Issue:

The problem pertains to the building [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Specifically:

- a. Hot water pressure is intermittent both in the bathroom and in the kitchen.
- b. Kitchen sink/faucet: hot water pressure can drop radically in a matter of seconds.
- c. The problem is more serious with the shower. The hot water is so intermittent that there is no way to take a hot shower. Mostly cold water comes out.

d. Shower make too much noise, and there is more air than any kind of water coming out of the faucets.

e. When another neighbor takes a shower at the same time, there simply is no hot water at all.

d. I also experience an odor of mold/mustiness in the apartment. This is very serious for reasons that I explain below.

History of the current problem:

The problem with intermittent or no hot water remains unresolved for months. I began complaining in April 2018 but was ignored. I have no record of this because the way the website is designed, when a renter puts in a maintenance request there is neither an electronic record for the renter nor a confirmation email that it was received.

On Jan 11, after talking to some of my neighbors who face the same issues, and since things have become worse, I visited the Leasing office to speak directly to the Manager (Jill Mitchell) with Jeff (Crockett.) Jeff can attest that the manager simply tried to distract the conversation to irrelevant issues, but promised to have it fixed. This is also the moment that I began creating a record since I could now email the manager with updates. I should say, they never communicate with me via email- only on the phone.

On Jan 25, maintenance entered my apartment ([REDACTED]) and they visited the apartment directly above mine (# [REDACTED]). In my apartment they left a note, which says: "we are still working on the water pressure problem" (I have the note as well as a photo of it). I was not in the apartment when they visited but it was clear that they changed the handles of the faucet in the bathroom tub. This (of course) made no difference- the problem has nothing to do with the handles of the faucet. My upstairs neighbor attests the same: they did nothing of any substance, and there was no change.

On Jan 30, Ms. Mitchell called me to inform me that they cannot fix this issue so they have “outsourced” it to “real professionals” who were supposed to come on Wed. Feb 6 at 8:30am. No one has come. I emailed Ms. Mitchell informing her on Feb. 7 but I have not heard anything back. The problem remains unresolved.

Additional information that is pertinent and important:

The apartment I live in (Building [REDACTED]) experienced similar issues since the moment I moved in (2011.) The bathroom wall was cracked since I moved and there was a musty odor in the apartment. I complained but was ignored. Finally, in the summer of 2011, while I was abroad for a month, there was a flood from the apartment above (#105) that destroyed a significant part of my bathroom, the corridor outside that bathroom, and even the laundry area in the basement of the building (it is directly below the bathroom.) I found the apartment reeking, walls, ceiling, and carpeting covered in mold. It took more than two months to make the place even livable and this only after hiring a lawyer and through the intervention of the City of Ann Arbor (one phone call from Sabra Briere!)

A second such event occurred in 2016, and only impacted my bathroom. It was solved faster but it was patchwork again.

I have detailed records of both incidents with photographs.

I should point out that currently my bathroom wall around the tub is cracked (I have photos) and this same thing happened right before both flooding incidents in 2011 and 2016 (I have photos of both with dates). The musty odor also preceded both flooding incidents.

About the so-called “City Inspections:”

This specific apartment is inspected every year. The city inspectors do not care about any of the issues with mold, cracked walls, and water, and ignore them when they are pointed out. I have been present in a number of these inspections, and they are shocking, invasive, and reek of discrimination. The only goal is to intimidate and abuse. The other goal is to find whether we hide “illegals,” (defined either as undocumented immigrants and/or people who are not included in the original contract.)

First, we are told the inspection will happen whether we are in the apartment or not. They give us a month (a month!) within which this is supposed to happen: someone we do not know, will enter our apartment at any time, whether we are in or not, so we'd better... be ready at any moment (I have photos of the posters that are placed outside our doors about this.) On the occasions that I was present during one of those inspections, they banged on the door in the same manner the police do in movies, and then, even before I could get to the door, they unlocked and pushed in shouting "City Inspection!" In other words, this is a raid or made to look like a raid- it is intimidating from the beginning.

The city inspector marched in, on all cases, with the attitude of a police officer. He was threatening. He cared little about all things a city inspector should care about: water issues, mold, fire-alarms. I know the list they should use- I have seen it online. The people who enter our apartments do not care about anything on that list. On one occasion the "inspector" could not tell one plug from another.

What these inspectors do however, is look under the bed (I have a bed; I do not live off a mattress or whatever the stereotype of "renters" is for the City), open closets, and look through clothes, and under the...couch in the living room. That couch by the way, has no "underneath" because it is solid and reaches to the floor- one of these people had the maintenance employee who followed him (and was also intimidated) lift the couch so that he could see if there was something hidden underneath! Another of these inspectors attempted to open the drawers where I keep my personal possessions (like jewelry) and underwear. This furniture is mine (all furniture is mine; perhaps the City will be surprised to know that "renters" own actual furniture?) so I asked him if he had a warrant. This was the only thing that stopped him from rummaging through my underwear the way he had rummaged through the two closets (I do not unfortunately own these closets- these are built-ins.) When I asked him what he was looking for, I was told that "it is none of my business and I should not provoke the City Inspector or I will be fined or given a ticket." It was clear however that he was looking for “illegals.” He made comments about how I could be hiding mattresses under my bed and other furniture, and about how I own too many clothes for one person. I do. I love clothes. I own expensive designer dresses. I was not aware that I have to report to the City about how many dresses or shoes I buy or that there was some kind of limit to people’s wardrobes if they are “renters.” I am also not clear as to how this works: should I report to the City for instance if my cousin from Missouri or my brother from California visits me for a week? Are renters the equivalent of Gulag prisoners?

I would like you to place yourself in our position for a moment, and imagine what it is to know that someone can enter the apartment you pay an amount equivalent to a mortgage for rent. That they will enter at any moment, even when you are not there, and go through your clothes, underwear, personal possessions, as if you are a criminal or a prisoner. What if this “inspector” steals? Who protects my property in this apartment from whomever comes in to “inspect”? I have NEVER been given the name and credentials of the inspectors who enter, and when I asked them at the door I was threatened with a fine.

I do not know who these people are that enter our apartments here in Island Drive claiming they are city inspectors. I have never been able to see a name or a badge. During one of these inspections I was told that I was given a ticket because my ethernet cable from the cable box to my laptop was on the floor (?!) and it was a “tripping hazard.” After checking with the city, Jeff and I discovered that no such “ticket” was ever registered and that there is no such thing as a “tripping hazard.” Also, it is of course, ridiculous. But that was also one of the inspections during which I asked too many questions of the “inspector” and stopped him from looking in my chest of drawers.

I am sending you all this so that you are aware that renters are not only abused by the companies that own the houses, but also by the City or, in the name of the City. I have very little confidence this issue with the water will be resolved through an inspection. City inspectors so far have only added to the abuse.

Apologies for the length but perhaps it is time someone in the City is aware of all this.

Best Regards,
Despina

Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you for sharing this, I have passed it on to the Police Chief. As your neighbor and City Council Representative I appreciate you looking out for our safety. I've lived on Pontiac Trail for over 20 years, and the traffic and speeding seems to be especially bad these last few years. We bought our house thinking it was a quiet tree-lined 25 mph residential street across from a school. We even had street parking back then. The removal of the street parking has led to a dramatic increase in speeds on Pontiac Trail; the expansion of the University Hospitals has dramatically increased the number of cars we see each day.

Many on City Council are, for the first time in many years, advocating for more police traffic enforcement especially in school zones. You can be sure that I agree with this need, and will continue to ask for police to target speeders in our neighborhood.

Please send Ms. Stowe and me the answer to the two questions below. For expediency, please just "reply all."

Thank you, Laura, for sending these, which are probably on several reader's minds. The city should consider updating all communications with the answers.

Dear Anne,

Thanks for sending this out. I'd like to send it to the Broadwayhood, but before I do, I have a 2 questions. If you have already been getting applications for absentee ballots because you are, ahem, elderly, will you have to sign up again? Will there be a way to sign up other than online?

City of Ann Arbor Update

Hello, city of Ann Arbor voter. Thank you for your interest in information regarding Elections for City of Ann Arbor, MI. Please note the following NEW online opportunity ...

Did you know with the passage of Proposal 3 in November, voters are no longer required to provide a reason for requesting an absentee ballot?

With this change to the Michigan Constitution, the City of Ann Arbor has simplified the process for enrolling in the City's Permanent Absentee Voter List. Voters on this list automatically receive an application for an absentee ballot in the mail approximately 60 days prior to each election. Once the Clerk's Office receives the completed absentee ballot application, a ballot is mailed out as soon as possible, generally about 30 days before the election and on a daily basis thereafter.

Enrollment in the permanent absentee voter list does not prevent you from voting in person, even if you receive an absentee ballot, as long as you have not returned your ballot. Voting by mail allows you to avoid standing in line on Election Day, vote at your convenience before Election Day, and allows more time to review the ballot.

If you are interested in signing up to be on the Permanent Absentee Voter List, an online request form is available on the City Clerk's Website. You are among the first to know about this convenient online form, and we hope — if you're interested in absentee voting — you will help us ensure it is user friendly before we spread the word. If you would like to add your name to the Permanent Absentee Voter List, please take a moment to sign up on the website before Monday, March 4, 2019, if possible, so we can better gauge the effectiveness of the new online form. You can request to be on the permanent Absentee Voter List year round; the deadline is only to allow for the gathering of information on the effectiveness of this exciting new program by the City Clerk's Office prior to a citywide expansion.

Please direct any questions about this process to the City Clerk's Office.

Thank you,

Ann Arbor City Clerk's Office

Mr. Lazarus + Mr. Cooper,

Can you please take a look at this and make the necessary corrections, if any? As Mr. Petainen points out, this survey is of a very short duration, I am hesitant to place too much value on whatever results we receive. To be frank, I cannot believe that Planning put ~$9 million in the CIP for this. Is providing the perception of comfort to a handful of new, mostly wealthy, downtown residents in any way a priority of the city? I have never heard a single complaint about train noise, and I have lived within earshot of the tracks for over 30 years.

Thank you,

Mayor and City Council,

I find it disturbing that the public is given only 2 weeks to respond to this survey for the Quiet Zone. And many in the public probably don't even know about it so the time frame will be less than 2 weeks.

I also find it disturbing that there is a major mistake in the survey. One of the survey options lists: "Scenario 2,3 or 4: Cost Effective and Safer, no closures"
That option is incorrect as the report lists: Scenario 3: Cost Effective with One Closure and Scenario 4: Cost Effective with Two Closures
The survey implies no closures whereas the report does.

Please, fix this and allow the public more time to respond.

I wanted to acknowledge receipt of this, and I will get back to you after I share this with our traffic planning and engineering staff, and fellow council members. We have similar concerns in the "Water Hill" neighborhood, and the renewed emphasis on pedestrian and bike safety should be enough to warrant a fresh look at these intersections.

Subject: Crosswalk concerns at Catherine and Ingalls

Hello Mr. Hayner,

My name is Gabe Linderman, I'm a life-long townie and a student (both of my residences happen to be in your ward). I know that crosswalk and pedestrian safety has been a concern of the council as of recently, especially since a student was hit at Huron and Ingalls. I wanted to bring an additional concern to your attention. The intersection of Catherine and Ingalls is one of the more terrifying ones, particularly for bikers. Its where Catherine goes up a sharp hill and suddenly flattens out and blows through Ingalls. Traffic on Ingalls has a stop sign, traffic coming up Catherine does not. I live on E. Kingsley so I go through this intersection at least once every single day and its been a harrowing experience more than a handful of times. The issue is that the steep hill precludes drivers and bikers from seeing each other. When traveling north on Ingalls, its a challenge to see down the street from a vehicle but impossible on a bike. It's always a scary intersection with cars flying up the hill and not being certain a smaller one isn't just below the crest of the hill.

This entire problem could be solved by implementing a four-way stop (or rather a two way stop because its two one-ways). Putting a stop sign on Catherine would make the intersection infinitely safer and would slow traffic as it enters a neighborhood dense with pedestrians (most of whom are students who can be less than aware and attentive).

This has been an issue for a while and a concern shared by many in the neighborhood. I'm hoping you will agree it should be a concern of the city council. I'm also looking for a bit of guidance on how I can make this happen. It seems like a very easy fix from my point of view but of course, the bureaucracy of city council and shifting traffic patterns is never straight forward.

I hope you agree that this is an issue worth taking up.
I'd love to continue this conversation if you need more information or more points of view.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Snow Removal on Sidewalks - Missing Exemption?

Dear Councilwoman Bannister and Councilman Hayner,

My name is Jerry Tarpley. I'm the President of the Traver Lakes Homeowners Association located in Ward 1 at Traver and Nixon Rds.

I'm seeking your counsel and help regarding a recent snow removal complaint from a resident and the response from the AAPD Police Service Specialist.

Background

The Traver Lakes Association is comprised of 88 townhomes, 151 single family homes and 210 apartments (449 constituents). The Association was established in 1971 and the governing documents require that the Association provide snow removal services on residential sidewalks and Common area walking paths. The Association has been performing this service for residents for over 45 years. Snow removal on sidewalks has always been performed using a small tractor with a brush or blade or a small ATV with a blade. The use of the small equipment has allowed the Association to comply with the City snow removal ordinance and control costs. It also allows the Association to control the quality of snow removal by maintaining consistently high quality standards.

Discussion

I recently received a complaint from a resident (see email below), who had contacted the police department regarding the use of ATVs on the sidewalks to remove snow. The response from Jamie Giordano / Sergeant Clock, AAPD Police Service Specialist, cited Section 10:90 of the Ann Arbor city code which prohibits vehicles being operated on the sidewalk without permission of the Chief of Police or Project Management Unit Manager.

Needless to say I was surprised, given a small ATV or a tractor has been used at Traver Lakes for many years without issue. Further, ATVs and tractors are currently used by many snow removal companies in Ann Arbor, and most importantly, by the City themselves to clear parks, schools and libraries. It made me wonder if there may be an error in what the City Council intended when passing the ordinance. For example, there is an exemption to the sound ordinance for snow removal equipment (see 9:366. - General exemptions). It appears that this exemption understood that snow equipment may be required to operate periodically outside the limits set forth in the sound ordinance. In my search of the A2 city code, I could not find a similar exemption for allowing small vehicles used for snow removal on sidewalks. I believe this may be an oversight; I hope I am correct.

Surely the City Council did not intend to limit the periodic use of small vehicle snow removal equipment on sidewalks when writing Section 10:90 to meet the requirements of Section 4.60, the snow removal ordinance. Without the ability to use small equipment to remove snow, we would be required to remove the snow by hand. The labor costs to remove snow by hand on all the sidewalks in the Traver Lakes subdivision would be astronomical and put an undue financial burden on the residents of the community.

I am reaching out to you for help and guidance before the Traver Lakes snow equipment operators are ticketed by the Ann Arbor police.

I noted that the City Ordinance Section 10:90 states The driver of a vehicle shall not drive upon or within any sidewalk area except at a driveway, unless he shall first obtain the written permission of the Chief of Police or the project management unit manager. I apologize in advance if the Association has neglected to comply with a permissions process. I could not find any information on the process for obtaining permission from the Chief of Police. I was unaware that snow removal contractors had to submit a request for permission (unclear if annually or permanent) to periodically use a small snow removal vehicle like a tractor or ATV on sidewalks. This seems to be a lot of work for the Chief of Police given the number of snow contractors working in Ann Arbor, but nonetheless we want to comply with all laws.

Assistance Required

I need your help in obtaining the written permission from the Chief of Police or the Project Management Unit Manager as stated in Section: 10:90 or some type of written waiver for the Traver Lakes Homeowners Association to periodically use a small vehicle such as an ATV or Tractor to remove snow from the sidewalks in the subdivision.

You might also want to review Sections 10:90, 4:60 and 9:366 and amend one of the sections to exempt the periodic use of small snow removal vehicles on sidewalks.

I am available most days to meet if you would like to further discuss this matter. You can contact me at [REDACTED] or by email at president@traverlakes.com.

Regards,
Jerry Tarpley

Please do not use vehicles on sidewalks for snow removal

I have been asked by AAPD Special Services Sergeant Clock to remind the community that vehicles (including ATV) should not be driven on sidewalks without permission of the Chief of Police or Project Management Unit Manager. The Ann Arbor Police Department received several complaints regarding individuals using vehicles to clear the snow from sidewalks so we wanted to inform every one of the city ordinance. Section 10:90 of the Ann Arbor city code prohibits vehicles being operated on the sidewalk without permission of the Chief of Police or Project Management Unit Manager. The ordinance does not apply to city vehicles, usually in operation about City Hall and the downtown area.

If a resident can give us the exact location and time they observed a plow, we can look up it's speed. With that said, plows have to travel at a certain speed to clear snow from the road and the heavier the snow/ice, sometimes the faster they have to operate.

Dear Ken,

I recognize the (overdue) need for a traffic study, especially since Planning Commission has turned a blind eye to the detrimental effects of dense development in our area. But I object to the large cost, first because it doesn't appear that the outcome will offer any solutions, and secondly because while the city will "own the data model" I am told we will have to pay an additional ongoing subscription fee to the consultant to actually use the model, which seems excessive considering it is a near $700K study.

In addition, the study results will not be available for 2 years. By that time, all the damage will be done. I will only support the study with the inclusion of a whereas clause restricting or prohibiting approval of new projects in the study area while the study is being carried out. IF it is worth $700K to understand the impact of additional development in our area, it is worth waiting for the results before approving new development.

Dear Ann Arbor City Council,

Thank you for your unanimous decision to reconsider the 80-acre farm owned by Thaddeus and Margaret Lepkowski for inclusion in the Ann Arbor Greenbelt. As citizen members of the Greenbelt Advisory Commission, we welcome this opportunity to address the merits of this property. We recommended the Lepkowski unanimously on the following grounds:

- The farm scored 85 of 153.5 possible points on the Greenbelt scoring criteria, placing it in the 59th percentile of all Greenbelt applications. Among other positive qualities, the farm has prime agricultural soils; has been identified by the Huron River Watershed Council as a medium-priority Bioreserve site; and contains wetlands that are vital for maintaining water quality in the Ann Arbor region.
- The farm's location is also of strategic importance to the Greenbelt. It is located within a Greenbelt "farmland complex," a designation within the Greenbelt strategic plan focused on building 1,000-acre blocks of protected agricultural land.
- Development pressures from the Brighton, Northville and Plymouth areas also enhance the property's strategic value as a greenspace buffer between Ann Arbor and other growing municipalities.
- The farm is fortuitously situated within a small portion of the Greenbelt that is eligible for a time-sensitive matching federal grant through the Huron River Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP). Within the limited pool of available Huron River RCPP candidates, the Lepkowski property is an excellent project to leverage the RCPP funding and advance the City's $1 million commitment in matching funds.

The Greenbelt Advisory Commission (GAC) takes seriously its charge to assess properties for consideration by City Council. While GAC has always employed an exhaustive scoring criteria to assess candidates, our decision-making incorporates other directives in the 2003 guiding resolution, including the property's "proximity to other protected land" and the "current or projected future use of adjacent property." The Lepkowski farm is located near other protected properties, including the 247-acre Maulbetsch and Geiger properties (1 mile away) and the 132-acre Boike property (1.5 miles away), as well as a 145-acre Legacy Land Conservation property (2 miles away). The Greenbelt Advisory Commission is currently reviewing two other Huron River RCPP-eligible properties in Northfield Township that would further build on the promising start represented by the Lepkowski farm.

While the Greenbelt Advisory Commission partners eagerly with surrounding townships, we believe the 2003 City Council's guiding resolution was appropriately drafted to encourage collaboration with townships rather than by establishing strict standards or a "pay to play" arrangement. After all, the ordinance does not address the relative responsibilities of surrounding townships, much less their benefits. Rather, the ordinance entertains as its sole objective the benefits of this program for the people of Ann Arbor. Based on the relative geographic proximity of Ann Arbor residents to the Lepkowski property, one would assume that those living in Wards 1 and 2 are the most primary beneficiaries of this potential acquisition.

We are pleased to offer our unanimous support for the Thaddeus and Margaret Lepkowski farm for inclusion in the Greenbelt. We also look forward to engaging with you proactively in fulfilling the expectations of Ann Arbor taxpayers who voted overwhelmingly in 2003 to create the Greenbelt. Each year, the Greenbelt Advisory Commission hosts a popular bus tour of Greenbelt properties, and we are close to finalizing the date and the list of properties. As in past years, we would like to extend a warm and open invitation to all city council members to join area residents and members of the commission as we tour the Greenbelt.

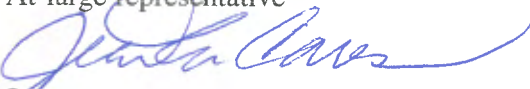

Sincerely,

Thanks to the HVALF for highlighting Elizabeth Ratzloff, and for having a Working Group on this important new Commission.

It's my understanding that the four liaisons are reviewing the list of applicants vetted by the Human Rights Commission (HRC), to narrow it down to a final list of recommendations. The liaison group consists of Councilmembers Ramlawi, Grand, Ackerman, and Lumm, and they may complete their work by the end of February. There were originally 62 applicants, listed here on the website:

Thanks again for your participation and feedback.

Subject: Police Oversight Commission

Dear Anne,

I'm reaching out to let you know that the Huron Valley Area Labor Federation (HVALF), AFL-CIO is supporting one of our Delegates, Elizabeth Ratzloff, as a candidate for one of the Police Oversight Commissioner positions.

I have known and worked with Elizabeth since she became a staff organizer for the UM graduate student union, GEO, AFT-MI, about two years ago. Elizabeth has been following the discussions / debates around the Policy Oversight Commission carefully from their inception, so she knows the issues well. She is a person who knows how to listen and works well with large groups of people who hold strong and sometimes divergent opinions, helping to identify and move the group toward common ground -- that's an important part of her job as a GEO organizer, and I've seen her play this kind of role in meetings very effectively. (My union, LEO, shares offices with GEO, so we often have a ring-side seat on each other's meetings.)

The HVALF believes that it is important that our regional labor movement be involved in efforts to ensure that every working person has equal access to opportunity and equal protection under the laws, including equal protection from potential police abuse. To that end, we created a Working Group six months ago charged with gathering information about the different visions of the Oversight Commission being advanced and how the AA police are viewed in various of our communities. Doing this work well takes time, and HVALF does not yet have a position on how the Commission ought to operate. But I can say that Elizabeth, a member of our Working Group from its inception, has played a very valuable role in helping to get the rest of us on the WG up to speed.

I think Elizabeth will be a real asset to the Commission and a bridge between our regional labor movement and the Commission's work. I very much hope you will support her candidacy. Please don't hesitate to reach out to me if you have any questions relating to her candidacy.

In solidarity,

Ian Robinson
President, HVALF, AFL-CIO

Jim, thank you for standing up and speaking out.

You mentioned an issue that I've long supported, but have not been able to get much traction on:

"It is an unreasonable expectation for City Council to require property owners to clear the sidewalks when the City's own employees are the ones putting the snow on the sidewalks. Are you going to fine people for not clearing the snow that the City deposits on the sidewalks because the plow drivers won't slow down? I guess that is one way to increase revenue."

I will continue to work on the snow plow and sidewalk snow removal issues on behalf of numerous Ward One residents who share this concern. Please continue to send your feedback, and consider speaking to Council for 3 minutes during Public Comment. These are the instructions to call the City Clerk at 8 am the morning of a Council meeting, to reserve a spot: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/city-council/Pages/CityCouncilMeetings.aspx>

The number is 734-794-6410. Our next meeting is Tuesday, Feb. 19.

Subject: Re: Snow plow speeds, again

Afternoon!

I want to thank everyone for their participation in addressing this problem. While I appreciate Ms. Harrison's response, I must address inaccuracies regarding the necessary speed of the plows with one question: When was the last time that an Ann Arbor Snow Plow got stuck on a residential street? I am sure that they are traveling under the posted speed of 30 MPH on Broadway where the pictures were taken. From my personal experiences plowing county roads in Massachusetts, the only reason great speed is necessary is if the plow operators are in a hurry. This approach can be dangerous.

The plows that were traveling on Broadway threw the snow/slush over 7 feet across the public sidewalks, hitting buildings in some cases. God forbid if there was a person standing there! This was not necessary to clear the streets. That same day I cleared my driveway with my little Craftsman lawn mower with a plow on it going less than 5 mph.

All I am saying is that they need to slow down. It's that simple.

I appreciate the offer that I should stand on the sidewalk waiting for a plow to pass to time stamp their passage, but I would be afraid of getting injured with the snow being thrown by their passage!

All I am asking is that they slow down. It really is that simple.

This also brings into question the snow removal requirement that City Council has put on their constituents. It is an unreasonable expectation for City Council to require property owners to clear the sidewalks when the City's own employees are the ones putting the snow on the sidewalks. Are you going to fine people for not clearing the snow that the City deposits on the sidewalks because the plow drivers won't slow down? I guess that is one way to increase revenue.

All I am asking is that the plow trucks slow down. The speed limit is just that; a limit. It is possible (and legal) to travel under that limit.

I am open to discussing this further. Next time it snows, come on down to Northside, coffee is on me and we can solve this problem and many more. Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you.

Councilmember Bannister,

We understand the frustration that is caused when plows push snow onto a driveway or sidewalk. Unfortunately, this is an unavoidable part of standard plowing operations.

In addition, our snow plows have devices which tell us where they are at any given time and at what speed they were travelling. If a resident can give us the exact location and time they observed a plow, we can look up it's speed. With that said, plows have to travel at a certain speed to clear snow from the road and the heavier the snow/ice, sometimes the faster they have to operate.

Dear Mr. Koli and Mr. Hupy,

Jim -- I'm sorry you've had to duplicate clearing of the sidewalk, and for your valuable suggestion for snow plows to adhere to the speed limit. Thanks for taking the time to send the useful pictures, too.

I've copied Councilmembers Jeff Hayner, Ward One, and Jack Eaton, Ward Four.

Mr. Hupy, I realize the snow plows have a dual purpose of clearing the roads as quickly as possible, and simultaneously to try hard not to speed and throw snow/slush onto the sidewalks. Is there anything that can be done to balance these two important priorities?

Thank you,

Anne

Afternoon!

The speed limit here is 30mph. When the snow plows come by at 40, they shoot the snow and slush on the side walks that your citizens have spent hours clearing. Last night some of it even hit the buildings.

I can not be held responsible for clearing the sidewalks when City personnel just toss the snow from the streets back on it.

There must be a better way! To begin with, slow down!

Let me know what can be done to fix this!

Thanks, Jeff, for getting back to me on this. A couple of followup questions, just so I have more information to pass on.

Will you be introducing an amendment to this resolution on Tuesday to effectively enact a moratorium on new projects in the study area while the study is being carried out? (I suspect there would be at least some support in our neighborhood for this.) Or might this be a separate resolution, as I believe Mayor Taylor suggested at the last Council meeting?

And, if so, if the amendment (or separate moratorium resolution) fails, would you vote Yes or No on the study contract?

I realize that you can't anticipate all contingencies, and that the meeting discussion (and public comment) may affect your decisions, as well as new information between now and then, but any leanings you may have would be good to know.

Dear Ken,

I recognize the (overdue) need for a traffic study, especially since Planning Commission has turned a blind eye to the detrimental effects of dense development in our area. But I object to the large cost, first because it doesn't appear that the outcome will offer any solutions, and secondly because while the city will "own the data model" I am told we will have to pay an additional ongoing subscription fee to the consultant to actually use the model, which seems excessive considering it is a near $700K study.

In addition, the study results will not be available for 2 years. By that time, all the damage will be done. I will only support the study with the inclusion of a whereas clause restricting or prohibiting approval of new projects in the study area while the study is being carried out. Hello Ms. Bannister,

My name is Gabe Linderman, I'm a townie and a student (both of my residences happen to be in your ward). We chatted on the phone for a bit about climate action awhile back on the phone and you were very interested and helpful with my concerns so I'm optimistic that you can help with this issue.

I know that crosswalk and pedestrian safety has been a concern of the council as of recently, especially since a student was hit at Huron and Ingalls. I wanted to bring an additional concern to your attention. The intersection of Catherine and Ingalls is one of the more terrifying ones, particularly for bikers. Its where Catherine goes up a sharp hill and suddenly flattens out and blows through Ingalls. Traffic on Ingalls has a stop sign, traffic coming up Catherine does not. I live on E. Kingsley so I go through this intersection at least once every single day and its been a harrowing experience more than a handful of times. The issue is that the steep hill precludes drivers and bikers from seeing each other. When traveling north on Ingalls, its a challenge to see down the street from a vehicle but impossible on a bike. It's always a scary intersection with cars flying up the hill and not being certain a smaller one isn't just below the crest of the hill.

This entire problem could be solved by implementing a four-way stop (or rather a two way stop because its two one-ways). Putting a stop sign on Catherine would make the intersection infinitely safer and would slow traffic as it enters a neighborhood dense with pedestrians (most of whom are students who can be less than aware and attentive).

This has been an issue for a while and a concern shared by many in the neighborhood. I'm hoping you will agree it should be a concern of the city council. I'm also looking for a bit of guidance on how I can make this happen. It seems like a very easy fix from my point of view but of course, the bureaucracy of city council and shifting traffic patterns is never straight forward.

I hope you agree that this is an issue worth taking up.
I'd love to continue this conversation if you need more information or more points of view.

Thank you for your time.

Councilmembers Hayner and Bannister,

It's February 13th, it snowed on the north side of town pretty much all day, and indeed the roads look as though (as shown in the plow map below), the plow trucks carefully avoided our part of town today. This is plow activity for the past eight hours, as of about 6pm.

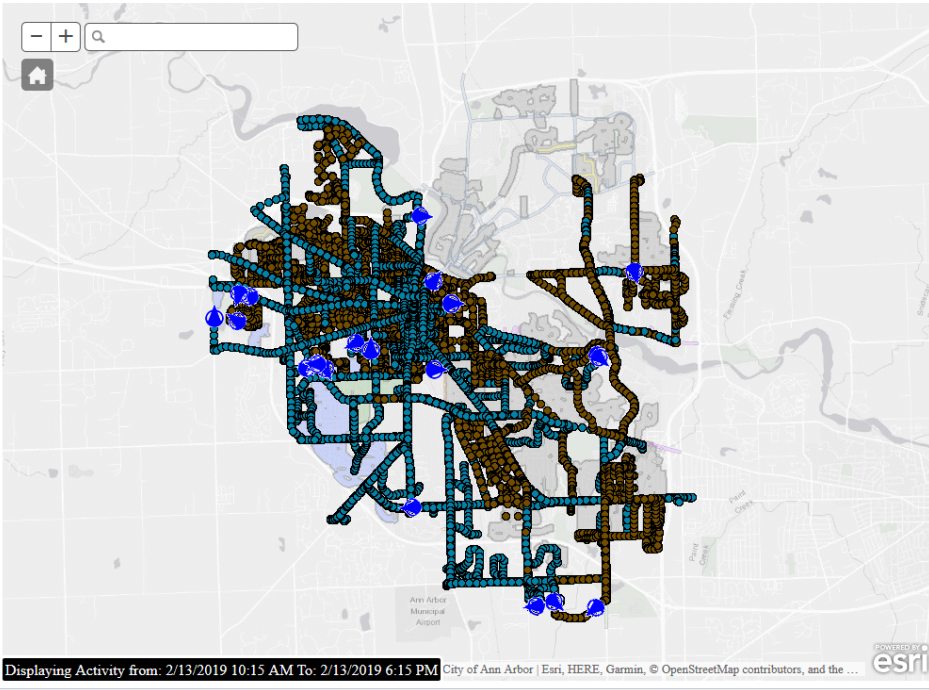

This plow tracking system is supposed to be GPS based. I don't think the satellites went down. They seem to be working in the rest of town. What went wrong today?

Note, I don't know if inline pictures go through the city's mail system. I'll keep a copy of this non-plow map if you want to see it later.

Thanks,

Ken Clark

(PS, Jodi and I biked to work today, and the level of harassment goes way up when the roads aren't touched like they seem today.)

Hello--

On Tuesday the City Council is set to vote to authorize the “Lower Town area mobility study.” This study, by a contracted consulting firm, would analyze all forms of transportation along the Pontiac Trail corridor (vehicular, bicyclist, pedestrian) and propose solutions for improving the current state of affairs. As part of the process, three public meetings would be held to get input from residents. The Lower Town and Northside school areas would be major foci of the effort, but the whole corridor would be looked at. In the end the consultant would generate a model of future transportation alternatives. The entire process would take 16 months, and the total cost to the city would be $649,478, which includes a $70,000 contingency fund. For all the detail, go to <http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3723822&GUID=EA4FE46D-84BE-44AE-B510-7534265528ED&Options=&Search=> . Approval requires 8 yes votes on our 11-member Council, because (I think) it's a budget amendment.

The vote has already been postponed twice. At the January 22 Council meeting, based on the discussion, there were only 7 likely yes votes—one councilmember was absent—so Council voted to postpone the vote until next week's meeting. Based on comments during the Council discussion, Kathy Griswold (Ward 2) and Jeff Hayner and Anne Bannister (both Ward One) were prepared to vote against the resolution to approve the study contract. Jeff was very strongly against it, Anne somewhat less so. The rest seemed ready to vote Yes.

So as long as all 11 councilmembers show up on Tuesday, and people vote the way they previously indicated, the resolution should pass—barely, by an 8-3 vote. But if you have an opinion on this, it might be wise to contact the mayor and council. They can be reached collectively at CityCouncil@a2gov.org Our First Ward reps can be reached at ABannister@a2gov.org and JHayner@a2gov.org .

If you wish to speak during the public comment portion of the meeting, call the city clerk at 734-794-6140 on the day of the meeting (Tuesday). You will be asked your name and the topic you will be speaking on.

I personally support Tuesday's resolution to authorize the mobility study. I contacted our First Ward reps Jeff and Anne, asking them to explain their negative position. What they wrote follows.

Dear Ann Arbor City Councilmembers,

I am writing to protest your proposed change to the membership of the Ann Arbor Police Oversight Commission. Your ordinance amendment (which would allow you to waive the prohibition on appointing city employees) is disrespectful to the Task Force members who spent months creating a foundation for the Commission that can be effective and, most importantly, credible to the community it is being created to serve.

As you should know if you are familiar with the Task Force, the decision to not allow city employees to hold formal (vs. advisory) memberships on the Commission was not unanimous. The Task Force wrestled with the pros and con's of this position, and ultimately decided to leave it in the hands of those representing the community - the Commission members themselves. To take that control away from the Commission (i.e. the community) implies you know better than they.

Whenever you propose an amendment that changes the core intent of the Task Force's proposal, you are being disrespectful to the Task Force members, and you are also demonstrating that you don't care about all of the residents of Ann Arbor (and the surrounding communities you were elected to serve). The mayor asked people whom he perceived to be knowledgeable, familiar with and dedicated to Ann Arbor, and anti-racist to put together a Commission that would have the best interests of ALL residents (i.e. the city's well being) at heart. It is the height of arrogance to ask them to do the work and then take actions that demonstrate your belief that you know better.

Another term that can be used to describe your actions is "white privilege", i.e. "Inherent advantages possessed by a white person (or a person who identifies as white) on the basis of their race in a society characterized by racial inequality and injustice."

White privilege is at work when, because I don't experience it, I don't see that Ann Arbor is a community characterized by racial inequality and injustice. I'm writing to you about this because it would benefit the community (and the county) if you could begin to demonstrate that you do see this.

The work that you are trying to do (and that you intend to do) would have a greater impact if you could proceed with humility. That is, if you would truly listen to, and learn from, people who do not have the same identities as you. Instead, you appear to many residents (especially those who do not share your identities of being white, economically advantaged, college educated and CIS gender) to be arrogant, to think you know more than you do, and to believe you are better human beings than those who do not share your identities.

I'm not trying to be disrespectful or mean-spirited here; I'm trying to share some truths that you seem to have a hard time recognizing. My taking the time to write and to share these perceptions is actually very respectful, because I'm showing I have faith in your willingness to listen. I hope you will honor the hope I have in you.

It is not too late for you to withdraw your amendment - with an explanation that you've re-thought it, you've listened, and YOU have faith that the new members of the Commission will have the skills, experience and insight to make changes they believe are necessary to make the Commission most effective and meaningful in the eyes of the community. Your statement would be a meaningful indication of support and of trust in community members who have historically not been represented by the City Council.

Another major step you could take to increase your effectiveness as representatives of a diverse community would be to make an effort to understand your own identity and how it impacts the lens through which you see the world. A good place to do this is the 20th Annual White Privilege Conference. The WPC, being held this year on March 20-23 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is a place I go annually (on my own dime) because of my commitment to understand the effects of my privileged identities and my intrinsic racism on my relationships, on my work, on my ability to live up to my goals to be a loving and compassionate human being. As elected representatives who have a great impact on peoples' daily lives and well being, I would think understanding these things would be important to you. I would also hope that the City of Ann Arbor would financially support your willingness to increase your effectiveness in this area. whiteprivilegeconference.com

I moved to Ann Arbor in 1976, raised a family and have begun my retirement years here. I am deeply committed to the well being of our community. You can make a huge leap towards showing our community you recognize you have blind spots by sending a representative group of city council members to the White Privilege Conference. For your information I've attached several documents that describe everything from the conference history, to registration fees, to samplings of activities. Don't hesitate to call me if you have any questions - this will be my sixth year of attendance.

I hope you will all (including the mayor and those council members I've cc'ed) give my observations, and the recommendations I have made in this letter, your most serious consideration.

Respectfully,

Sharman

Hi,

In my arguments, I plan to lean heavily on the staggered terms of commission members. This amendment is not about allowing poll workers, generally, it's about allowing poll workers for this FIRST year. If we make the decision to leave the ordinance alone until the commission exists and can offer its own opinion about changes, we are only actually excluding poll workers for the first year. The commission is established, six months from now we send them a proposal for a loophole that allows pollworkers and they can say a-okay. A year from now, one third of the commission appointments expire and we can allow the pollworkers. This is not a horrifying exclusion—seats open up a year from now.

Hi Jack and Elizabeth,
Thanks so much for taking the time to meet today. I really appreciate it and hope it was helpful to you two also.

After talking with some folks, I don't have any additional strategies to offer (fortunately or unfortunately). We definitely support you both in going forward as you have planned with the resolution and amendment. Though we'd rather it go untouched (mostly since we think there are other motives for the amendment), working at the polls is a valuable act of civil engagement and I actually wouldn't want someone left out for that. Narrowing the amendment to allow for poll workers using the terminology that applies to them seems like the best possible approach at this point. And yes, knowing and being transparent about who else could fall under that terminology would be essential.

Thanks to you both for all your work on this. We are spreading the word to get speakers and a good showing of support for tomorrow.

Hi Anne and Kathy,

I appreciate meeting with you today.

As I mentioned, ~ 18 months ago a joint Metrics Sub-committee of the Energy and Environmental Commissions was created. Six months later the output of the Sub-committee was presented to the two Commissions. Unfortunately, neither has used metrics in their meetings, at least in any structured way.

In light of that, I've documented an approach that I've verbally advocated with commissioners and staff, which would ensure metrics are reviewed in commission meetings on a regular basis. I plan to introduce the proposal in the 2/28 Environmental Commission meeting. As promised, I'm forwarding the proposal for your review as I believe a similar approach should be used in City Council meetings, just as corporate boards review key performance indicators in their meetings.

Addressing high-priority outcomes in Council Meeting according to my proposal or a similar scheme will help focus Council, the City Administration as well as residents in a transparent way. Yes, 20+% of residents and constituent groups won't be happy because their narrow interests won't be among the top priorities, at least not initially. But, as the City meets commitments, it can move down the list to address new issues in a rolling top-X approach, where the number X has to be determined by Council and the City; the top leadership of most entities don't focus on more than 10 things at a time. As it is now, the Council and the City are likely to drop a lot of balls because it's trying too hard to keep too many in the air at the same time. At the same time, it will keep Council and others from micro-managing the Council and the City. If targets are being met, both should be allowed to keep up their good work without 'meddling'; if targets aren't being met, then scrutiny and a deeper dive is warranted, including from residents.

I would like to point out that in high performance, outcome-oriented organizations lot of things are tracked and monitored; however, priorities are well defined and reflected in targets and resource allocations. That means indicators for high priority goals have aggressive targets and are provided more resources whereas indicators for lower priority goals have easier targets and less resources, perhaps even targets that simply maintain the status quo or allow a slight degradation in performance recognizing that resources are being focused and deployed on other areas. Organizations simply can't juggle too many balls, certainly not efficiently or effectively.

Good luck. Wish me luck as well with the Environmental and Energy Commissions!

The same question about coordinating with external partners and transparency also applies to the Northside STEAM SRTS project and the Quiet Zone for trains proposal.

Please provide the detail and meeting notes about who from City staff has met or spoke with which external counterparts, such as UM, the congressional delegation, MDOT, the FRA, etc., with regard to these projects?

For example, the notes from the June 5, 2018 meeting of the City and UM Policy Coordination Meeting, show that coordinating traffic analysis in the Glen-Fuller-Maiden Lane- Broadway vicinity was a discussion topic. Please provide an update on the substance of these conversations, as the Ann Arbor taxpayer is looking for city staff to coordinate with external partners on in-kind expertise and funding, etc.

When doing so, the snow also covers the sidewalk that this resident is responsible for clearing. Could you provide me advice on how this situation can be addressed? Evening;

I know we have a rule that requires citizens to shovel their sidewalks.

So as a good citizen We always shovel our sidewalk along south maple.

Over the years, I've dealt with city plow trucks shoveling South Maple and dumping street snow back on my sidewalk, it's frustrating, but I understand that so I try to time my shoveling.

But today, i became fed up.

Spent time shoveling sidewalk along south maple especially near bus stop for many folks use AATA.

Then the contractor who plows Country Village decided to dump the snow from their street right up on my sidewalk! 3-4 feet high after we had just shoveled. It's too high and heavy to shovel and why should I?

Please advise

Don't contractors have to follow certain rules where to dump their snow ?

Good afternoon Councilwoman Bannister -

I am reaching out to you, to facilitate a meeting regarding the Brightdawn Village Project (off-of Burton Road). You may already be familiar with this intergenerational, accessible, work force housing project as we have recently been before the planning commission, and there have been multiple stakeholder meetings to review the project

The owners of the property and project developers will be in town for the upcoming planning commission meeting (meeting on the 21st). As such, and if you are amenable, they would like to meet with you and review their project and goals. They have actually tried to contact you via email in the past but we suspect that being sent from overseas, their emails did not reach you. Haim and Iddo will happily meet you on your own or together with your fellow Council people that you chose to come along with.

Haim and Iddo Schwartz have availability on Friday February 22nd (all day) and Monday February 25th (morning). If you find it difficult to accommodate in this window please let us know and the Schwartzes will extend their stay by a couple of days.

Please advise if you would be amenable to meet over coffee or tea, at a location that would work best and be most convenient for you? We would offer our office as a meeting location if that his helpful?

Thank you for your consideration to meeting and reviewing our very interesting project as we move through the process.

Councilmember Bannister,

As of today your inquiry has been assigned to me, so I would like to provide a status update.

I completed a thorough review of Ms. Margomenous' concerns detailed in her email and determined the best course of action would be to facilitate a meeting with Ms. Margomenou and my Deputy Building Official, Marc Howell. There are several points in her email I feel need personal attention from the rental housing management staff to ease her mind about the inspection process and it's intent. A personal onsite visit from a Building Official will also afford the opportunity to investigate her concerns with the water pressure that was not detected on the routine inspection. I will personally contact Ms. Margomenou via email to ensure she is open to the ideal of a personal visit from our Building Official and schedule a time to meet when it is most convenient. Any of Marc Howell's finding will be immediately discussed with the property manager to determine the best plan of action.

Thank you for the communication and please let me know if you should have any further questions or concerns.

Dear Anne,

It was great to meet you last night. I am glad Jeff brought up the issue I face with hot water in Island Drive Apartments (Maiden Lane.) I thought about whether I should write to you at all, after last evening. The reason is that in my experience it will be futile to seek protection through city inspections: these only add to the abuse rather than solve anything. And being abused and intimidated once a year is enough. Then I thought perhaps someone should know about all this: both the issues with this building and the abusive practices of City inspectors. If these are really City inspectors, then someone should know that renters are very much aware of all the abuse and intimidation. If these are not City inspectors but people that management companies “outsource” these inspections to, then the City should know what is happening in your name.

I am an American citizen, who unfortunately has a foreign name. I have lived in Ann Arbor for 19 years both as a graduate student and now as a Lecturer at the University of Michigan. I have always been a renter. The inspection issues I describe below I have only experienced while a renter in Island Drive Apartments (since 2011.)

I live in building [REDACTED]. I am not the only one in the building facing these issues.

Issue:

The problem pertains to the building [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]) Specifically:

- a. Hot water pressure is intermittent both in the bathroom and in the kitchen.
- b. Kitchen sink/faucet: hot water pressure can drop radically in a matter of seconds.
- c. The problem is more serious with the shower. The hot water is so intermittent that there is no way to take a hot shower.

Mostly cold water comes out.

d. Shower make too much noise, and there is more air than any kind of water coming out of the faucets.

e. When another neighbor takes a shower at the same time, there simply is no hot water at all.

d. I also experience an odor of mold/mustiness in the apartment. This is very serious for reasons that I explain below.

History of the current problem:

The problem with intermittent or no hot water remains unresolved for months. I began complaining in April 2018 but was ignored. I have no record of this because the way the website is designed, when a renter puts in a maintenance request there is neither an electronic record for the renter nor a confirmation email that it was received.

On Jan 11, after talking to some of my neighbors who face the same issues, and since things have become worse, I visited the Leasing office to speak directly to the Manager (Jill Mitchell) with Jeff (Crockett.) Jeff can attest that the manager simply tried to distract the conversation to irrelevant issues, but promised to have it fixed. This is also the moment that I began creating a record since I could now email the manager with updates. I should say, they never communicate with me via email- only on the phone.

On Jan 25, maintenance entered my apartment [REDACTED] and they visited the apartment directly above mine [REDACTED] In my apartment they left a note, which says: "we are still working on the water pressure problem" (I have the note as well as a photo of it). I was not in the apartment when they visited but it was clear that they changed the handles of the faucet in the bathroom tub. This (of course) made no difference- the problem has nothing to do with the handles of the faucet. My upstairs neighbor attests the same: they did nothing of any substance, and there was no change.

On Jan 30, Ms. Mitchell called me to inform me that they cannot fix this issue so they have "outsourced" it to "real professionals" who were supposed to come on Wed. Feb 6 at 8:30am. No one has come. I emailed Ms. Mitchell informing her on Feb. 7 but I have not heard anything back. The problem remains unresolved.

Additional information that is pertinent and important:

The apartment I live in () experienced similar issues since the moment I moved in (2011.) The bathroom wall was cracked since I moved and there was a musty odor in the apartment. I complained but was ignored. Finally, in the summer of 2011, while I was abroad for a month, there was a flood from the apartment above () that destroyed a significant part of my bathroom, the corridor outside that bathroom, and even the laundry area in the basement of the building (it is directly below the bathroom.) I found the apartment reeking, walls, ceiling, and carpeting covered in mold. It took more than two months to make the place even livable and this only after hiring a lawyer and through the intervention of the City of Ann Arbor (one phone call from Sabra Briere!)

A second such event occurred in 2016, and only impacted my bathroom. It was solved faster but it was patchwork again.

I have detailed records of both incidents with photographs.

I should point out that currently my bathroom wall around the tub is cracked (I have photos) and this same thing happened right before both flooding incidents in 2011 and 2016 (I have photos of both with dates). The musty odor also preceded both flooding incidents.

About the so-called “City Inspections:”

This specific apartment is inspected every year. The city inspectors do not care about any of the issues with mold, cracked walls, and water, and ignore them when they are pointed out. I have been present in a number of these inspections, and they are shocking, invasive, and reek of discrimination. The only goal is to intimidate and abuse. The other goal is to find whether we hide “illegals,” (defined either as undocumented immigrants and/or people who are not included in the original contract.)

First, we are told the inspection will happen whether we are in the apartment or not. They give us a month (a month!) within which this is supposed to happen: someone we do not know, will enter our apartment at any time, whether we are in or not, so we’d better... be ready at any moment (I have photos of the posters that are placed outside our doors about this.) On the occasions that I was present during one of those inspections, they banged on the door in the same manner the police do in movies, and then, even before I could get to the door, they unlocked and pushed in shouting “City Inspection!” In other words, this is a raid or made to look like a raid- it is intimidating from the beginning.

The city inspector marched in, on all cases, with the attitude of a police officer. He was threatening. He cared little about all things a city inspector should care about: water issues, mold, fire-alarms. I know the list they should use- I have seen it online. The people who enter our apartments do not care about anything on that list. On one occasion the “inspector” could not tell one plug from another.

What these inspectors do however, is look under the bed (I have a bed; I do not live off a mattress or whatever the stereotype of “renters” is for the City), open closets, and look through clothes, and under the...couch in the living room. That couch by the way, has no “underneath” because it is solid and reaches to the floor- one of these people had the maintenance employee who followed him (and was also intimidated) lift the couch so that he could see if there was something hidden underneath! Another of these inspectors attempted to open the drawers where I keep my personal possessions (like jewelry) and underwear. This furniture is mine (all furniture is mine; perhaps the City will be surprised to know that “renters” own actual furniture?) so I asked him if he had a warrant. This was the only thing that stopped him from rummaging through my underwear the way he had rummaged through the two closets (I do not unfortunately own these closets- these are built-ins.) When I asked him what he was looking for, I was told that “it is none of my business and I should not provoke the City Inspector or I will be fined or given a ticket.” It was clear however that he was looking for “illegals.” He made comments about how I could be hiding mattresses under my bed and other furniture, and about how I own too many clothes for one person. I do. I love clothes. I own expensive designer dresses. I was not aware that I have to report to the City about how many dresses or shoes I buy or that there was some kind of limit to people’s wardrobes if they are “renters.” I am also not clear as to how this works: should I report to the City for instance if my cousin from Missouri or my brother from California visits me for a week? Are renters the equivalent of Gulag prisoners?

I would like you to place yourself in our position for a moment, and imagine what it is to know that someone can enter the apartment you pay an amount equivalent to a mortgage for rent. That they will enter at any moment, even when you are not there, and go through your clothes, underwear, personal possessions, as if you are a criminal or a prisoner. What if this “inspector” steals? Who protects my property in this apartment from whomever comes in to “inspect”? I have NEVER been given the name and credentials of the inspectors who enter, and when I asked them at the door I was threatened with a fine.

I do not know who these people are that enter our apartments here in Island Drive claiming they are city inspectors. I have never been able to see a name or a badge. During one of these inspections I was told that I was given a ticket because my ethernet cable from the cable box to my laptop was on the floor (?!) and it was a “tripping hazard.” After checking with the city, Jeff and I discovered that no such “ticket” was ever registered and that there is no such thing as a “tripping hazard.” Also, it is of course, ridiculous. But that was also one of the inspections during which I asked too many questions of the “inspector” and stopped him from looking in my chest of drawers.

I am sending you all this so that you are aware that renters are not only abused by the companies that own the houses, but also by the City or, in the name of the City. I have very little confidence this issue with the water will be resolved through an inspection. City inspectors so far have only added to the abuse.

Apologies for the length but perhaps it is time someone in the City is aware of all this.

Best Regards,

Despina

We are trying to start a series for the remainder of the semester in which we learn from women in each level of government, beginning with local. So, we were wondering if as a woman in local government you would be willing to come to campus and speak to our organization at a meeting (about 30 minutes to one hour at most) the week of March 18th. We would be interested in hearing how you got involved in local government, what the experience of joining was like, and what your experience now as a member of the city council is, as well as anything else you would be willing to share with us.

She is articulate, well educated, a social worker and would be a great asset to the commission. The other person is Janet Haynes. I know her from a choir we are both in. She is also very intelligent, articulate and her children are bi-racial which I think will help her see things in the widest perspective. Thank you. Cathy Keresztesi-Stevens, 1st Ward.

Can you explain this fellas comment ? What is this gag order he's talking about? I am particularly concerned because I spend a lot of time in and on the Huron River in the summer, but I have been drinking only reverse osmosis waterFrom those big filter machines at the grocery stores for about the last six months. Thanks for your time with this concern!

They cant speak openly about it like the hurley peds doctor did because a judge has put a gag order on all doctors to not expose their health care concerns to the public. Ms. Margomenou and Councilmember Bannister, Rental housing staff has been in contact with Island Drive management this afternoon to get in writing their plan to remedy the plumbing concerns for the entire property. Once we receive their feedback and confirm they have retained a licensed professional we will proceed with the necessary inspections. We expect to have a response from them as early as tomorrow afternoon. We will continue to keep you posted on scheduled inspections and findings as we move forward.

Despite my response last week, nothing has changed on this matter at all. I have cc-ed you on the email I sent to the Manager (Jill Mitchell) about the fact that no one has shown up and the water issues remain.

I am not certain what the next step is, but I would like you to know that no action has been taken from the building management and no contractor has shown up to even identify the problem.

Councilmember Bannister,

As of today your inquiry has been assigned to me, so I would like to provide a status update. I completed a thorough review of Ms. Margomenous' concerns detailed in her email and determined the best course of action would be to facilitate a meeting with Ms. Margomenou and my Deputy Building Official, Marc Howell. There are several points in her email I feel need personal attention from the rental housing management staff to ease her mind about the inspection process and it's intent. A personal onsite visit from a Building Official will also afford the opportunity to investigate her concerns with the water pressure that was not detected on the routine inspection. I will personally contact Ms. Margomenou via email to ensure she is open to the ideal of a personal visit from our Building Official and schedule a time to meet when it is most convenient. Any of Marc Howell's finding will be immediately discussed with the property manager to determine the best plan of action.

Thank you for the communication and please let me know if you should have any further questions or concerns.

When I asked him what he was looking for, I was told that “it is none of my business and I should not provoke the City Inspector or I will be fined or given a ticket.” It was clear however that he was looking for “illegals.” He made comments about how I could be hiding mattresses under my bed and other furniture, and about how I own too many clothes for one person. I do. I love clothes. I own expensive designer dresses. I was not aware that I have to report to the City about how many dresses or shoes I buy or that there was some kind of limit to people’s wardrobes if they are “renters.” I am also not clear as to how this works: should I report to the City for instance if my cousin from Missouri or my brother from California visits me for a week? Are renters the equivalent of Gulag prisoners?

I would like you to place yourself in our position for a moment, and imagine what it is to know that someone can enter the apartment you pay an amount equivalent to a mortgage for rent. That they will enter at any moment, even when you are not there, and go through your clothes, underwear, personal possessions, as if you are a criminal or a prisoner. What if this “inspector” steals? Who protects my property in this apartment from whomever comes in to “inspect”? I have NEVER been given the name and credentials of the inspectors who enter, and when I asked them at the door I was threatened with a fine.

I do not know who these people are that enter our apartments here in Island Drive claiming they are city inspectors. I have never been able to see a name or a badge. During one of these inspections I was told that I was given a ticket because my ethernet cable from the cable box to my laptop was on the floor (?!) and it was a “tripping hazard.” After checking with the city, Jeff and I discovered that no such “ticket” was ever registered and that there is no such thing as a “tripping hazard.” Also, it is of course, ridiculous. But that was also one of the inspections during which I asked too many questions of the “inspector” and stopped him from looking in my chest of drawers.

I am sending you all this so that you are aware that renters are not only abused by the companies that own the houses, but also by the City or, in the name of the City. I have very little confidence this issue with the water will be resolved through an inspection. City inspectors so far have only added to the abuse.

Apologies for the length but perhaps it is time someone in the City is aware of all this.

Best Regards,

Despina

Ms. Higgins,

Do you know who prepared the response to my question? I'd like to ask some follow-up questions, and given the tight timing, will have to do so during the Council meeting tonight.

In short, the answers given to me are incomplete:

Question: Please provide the detail and meeting notes about who from City staff has met or spoke with which external counterparts, such as UM, the congressional delegation, MDOT, the FRA, etc., with regard to these projects? (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: The minutes from WATS meetings and the notes from the UM Policy Coordination meetings provide the record of what was discussed at formal meetings such as these.

(Please send link to WATS notes that would show the who/what/when discussion of the LowerTown Mobility Study).

Question: For example, the notes from the June 5, 2018 meeting of the City and UM Policy Coordination Meeting, show that coordinating traffic analysis in the Glen-Fuller-Maiden Lane- Broadway vicinity was a discussion topic. Please provide an update on the substance of these conversations, as the Ann Arbor taxpayer is looking for city staff to coordinate with external partners on in-kind expertise and funding,

etc. (Councilmember Bannister)

Response: Resolution R-19-057 was approved by City Council on 2/4/19. The RFP for the Lower Town Study was conducted in summer of 2018 in response to direction provided by Council in January 2018. As such, the sequence of events and timing did not allow staff the opportunity to explore which in-kind expertise or funding could be applied to the Lower Town Study since there was an existing contract presented to Council back in November 2018 and again in January 2019.

If major capital projects come out of the Quiet Zone or Lower Town Study, City staff will monitor grant opportunities and pursue external funding to the extent possible. Regarding the Glenn/Fuller/Maiden Lane issue, the City continues to explore the feasibility of different alternatives in this area and is coordinating with the University on this issue. The discussions with the University are preliminary in nature and decisions about funding have not yet been made.

(This is putting the cart before the horse... I need to know what UM can do BEFORE committing the taxpayer dollars.)

Dear M. Dworkin,

Thank you for sharing your thoughts. I was unable to support CM Nelson's resolution simply because it seemed to be mirroring the original ordinance, but as I said last night I certainly do not fault her for bringing it forward; it exposed what we seem to agree is a clear bias towards gutting the independence of the ICPOC. I hope I made it clear in my remarks on C3 – the resolution to grant future councils the ability to waive employment restrictions – that I fully support autonomy for this body, and that I will continue to fight to see a truly independent commission seated. The final say over who is appointed rests with the entire body, I suspect that will be another contentious meeting.

I'll keep this brief: for those that voted to include city employees of any sort for service on ICPOC—you have showed a combination of bias, weakness, condescension, ignorance and disrespect towards non-white, non-wealthy citizens of Ann Arbor and the fundamental purpose of ICPOC. You shattered trust, and until you are replaced on ICPOC and HRC, there can be no hope of repair.

Taylor and Grand and Ramwali, I am disgusted with your denigration of CM Nelson, and will spread these things far and wide. I will work tirelessly to see you are exposed and brought to humility. This will not be forgiven.

The rest of you: I urge you to evaluate how you want to present yourself and vote re: city employee waiver. People are watching, and you are making distrust grow, which in turn makes the AAPD have to work that much harder in the field to rebuild it. SHAME.

Every single applicant (especially Chuck Warp) who applied is either too stupid or too arrogant to understand how any recent employment is an untenable conflict of interest.

Councilmember Bannister,
Thank you for forwarding Mr. Linderman's recommendation for a stop sign at Catherine and Ingalls. Staff will conduct a warrant analysis at this location and report back to you with the results.
Staff follows the guidelines set forth in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices to determine if a stop sign is warranted. Considerations for intersection control include transportation volumes; number and angle of approaches; approach speeds; sight distance; and reported crash history.
Thank you.

Subject: Crosswalk concerns at Catherine and Ingalls

Hello Ms. Bannister,

My name is Gabe Linderman, I'm a townie and a student (both of my residences happen to be in your ward). We chatted on the phone for a bit about climate action awhile back on the phone and you were very interested and helpful with my concerns so I'm optimistic that you can help with this issue.

I know that crosswalk and pedestrian safety has been a concern of the council as of recently, especially since a student was hit at Huron and Ingalls. I wanted to bring an additional concern to your attention. The intersection of Catherine and Ingalls is one of the more terrifying ones, particularly for bikers. Its where Catherine goes up a sharp hill and suddenly flattens out and blows through Ingalls. Traffic on Ingalls has a stop sign, traffic coming up Catherine does not. I live on E. Kingsley so I go through this intersection at least once every single day and its been a harrowing experience more than a handful of times. The issue is that the steep hill precludes drivers and bikers from seeing each other. When traveling north on Ingalls, its a challenge to see down the street from a vehicle but impossible on a bike. It's always a scary intersection with cars flying up the hill and not being certain a smaller one isn't just below the crest of the hill.

This entire problem could be solved by implementing a four-way stop (or rather a two way stop because its two one-ways). Putting a stop sign on Catherine would make the intersection infinitely safer and would slow traffic as it enters a neighborhood dense with pedestrians (most of whom are students who can be less than aware and attentive).

This has been an issue for a while and a concern shared by many in the neighborhood. I'm hoping you will agree it should be a concern of the city council. I'm also looking for a bit of guidance on how I can make this happen. It seems like a very easy fix from my point of view but of course, the bureaucracy of city council and shifting traffic patterns is never straight forward.

I hope you agree that this is an issue worth taking up.
I'd love to continue this conversation if you need more information or more points of view.

Thank you for your time.

Temporary Closure of Border-to-Border Trail Begins in February

ANN ARBOR, Michigan, Feb. 20, 2019 — The Riverside Park boardwalk portion of the Border-to-Border Trail, between Wall Street and Pontiac Trail, is in need of repair as part of ongoing maintenance. Work is scheduled to start on Tuesday, Feb. 26 and is expected to be complete in May, based on the weather. Signs and barricades will be installed to safely direct users away from the construction zone. The city asks that trail users follow the posted detour as they ride, walk, rollerblade and commute along this trail.

While the temporary closure is an inconvenience to users, the replacement of the boardwalk is intended to provide longer-term durability. A detour map (PDF) is available for an alternate route. Additionally, the city bike map is available at www.a2gov.org/bike to determine other alternate routes.

The Washtenaw County Parks System contributed some grant funding to the City of Ann Arbor for this project.

Any questions can be directed to Landscape Architect/Park Planner Hillary Hanzel at hhanzel@a2gov.org. The city thanks trail users in advance for their patience. Please see the map for further site details (PDF).

Thanks so much for your time and attention. We appreciate all that you do for our school.

Hello Mayor Taylor and Councilpersons Bannister and Hayner,

It was great seeing you all last week as city representatives for the generous donation towards our solar program. We are always appreciative of the time and attention given to us and our project-based programming from municipal offices.

I am reaching out today on behalf of our 2nd grade team. They are soon starting a project designing tiny houses for home-insecure individuals. One of the things that makes our projects authentic to the students is the authentic audiences we build around units of study. We were hoping to include 3 city officials in this project to hear proposals at our evening EXPO on Thursday, March 21, 2019. 2nd grade students present from 6:30-7:00pm, but you are welcome to attend the entirety of the event (5:00-7:00pm).

The 2nd grade students will give a formal presentation all together with city officials as guests of honor. Afterwards, smaller, team-based exhibits will be open to parents, community members, and city officials for feedback. We were hoping that city officials could take brief notes and send back a 90 second video explaining the real, authentic feedback to the students as to the viability of the projects and potential next steps.

We are also interested in hearing from you prior to EXPO. Perhaps a tweet or email directed to the 2nd grade students outlining essential considerations for the home-insecure population of Ann Arbor before they design.

Any ways in which you are willing to partner on this project would be highly valuable. Again, your continued support to our school signals care and cooperation from our bodies of governance; it matters to the kids. I appreciate your consideration, and look forward to your response.

There are a number of state governments and local municipalities considering similar action. We have an opportunity to adopt the best qualities of each and set the stage for Ann Arbor to be a leader in the nation for social use. Yes, CM Hayner and I voted YES for this last night. My original no vote at the previous meeting was because we did not also have a contribution from the county or the township, which was corrected during the two week postponement. I hope in the future that the Greenbelt Commission will make sure we have contributions from partners. With the Lepkowski farm, the City ends up paying 53% and the county/township combined will pay about 2.5%.

Both groups want to preserve the farmland that gives us respite and joy.

Subject: City Council legislative alert--Lower Town & Pontiac Trail mobility study vote on Tuesday

Hello--

On Tuesday the City Council is set to vote to authorize the "Lower Town area mobility study." This study, by a contracted consulting firm, would analyze all forms of transportation along the Pontiac Trail corridor (vehicular, bicyclist, pedestrian) and propose solutions for improving the current state of affairs. As part of the process, three public meetings would be held to get input from residents. The Lower Town and Northside school areas would be major foci of the effort, but the whole corridor would be looked at. In the end the consultant would generate a model of future transportation alternatives. The entire process would take 16 months, and the total cost to the city would be $649,478, which includes a $70,000 contingency fund. For all the detail, go to <http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3723822&GUID=EA4FE46D-84BE-44AE-B510-7534265528ED&Options=&Search=> . Approval requires 8 yes votes on our 11-member Council, because (I think) it's a budget amendment.

The vote has already been postponed twice. At the January 22 Council meeting, based on the discussion, there were only 7 likely yes votes—one councilmember was absent—so Council voted to postpone the vote until next week's meeting. Based on comments during the Council discussion, Kathy Griswold (Ward 2) and Jeff Hayner and Anne Bannister (both Ward One) were prepared to vote against the resolution to approve the study contract. Jeff was very strongly against it, Anne somewhat less so. The rest seemed ready to vote Yes.

So as long as all 11 councilmembers show up on Tuesday, and people vote the way they previously indicated, the resolution should pass—barely, by an 8-3 vote. But if you have an opinion on this, it might be wise to contact the mayor and council. They can be reached collectively at CityCouncil@a2gov.org Our First Ward reps can be reached at ABannister@a2gov.org and JHayner@a2gov.org .

If you wish to speak during the public comment portion of the meeting, call the city clerk at 734-794-6140 on the day of the meeting (Tuesday). You will be asked your name and the topic you will be speaking on.

I personally support Tuesday's resolution to authorize the mobility study. I contacted our First Ward reps Jeff and Anne, asking them to explain their negative position. What they wrote follows.

Best,
Ken Garber

Jeff:

Dear Ken,

I recognize the (overdue) need for a traffic study, especially since Planning Commission has turned a blind eye to the detrimental effects of dense development in our area. But I object to the large cost, first because it doesn't appear that the outcome will offer any solutions, and secondly because while the city will "own the data model" I am told we will have to pay an additional ongoing subscription fee to the consultant to actually use the model, which seems excessive considering it is a near $700K study.

In addition, the study results will not be available for 2 years. By that time, all the damage will be done. I will only support the study with the inclusion of a whereas clause restricting or prohibiting approval of new projects in the study area while the study is being carried out. IF it is worth $700K to understand the impact of additional development in our area, it is worth waiting for the results before approving new development.

Thanks for your interest,

Jeff Hayner
Ward 1 City Council

And Anne:

Thanks, Ken and Jeff, for sharing your input! I'm weighing all the information, and share some of the concerns Jeff mentioned.

I'm also interested in an amendment about restricting new development in the area while the study is being carried out. This might have many legal ramifications, but is part of the bigger question about what the City can do to better manage the transformation we seem to find ourselves in.

I have also not seen a report from staff about whether they were able to collaborate with UM on in-kind expertise or funding.

So there are many details to this mobility study that are yet to be resolved.

Thanks,
Anne

Dear Councilman Hayner and Councilwoman Bannister,
I'm following up with you regarding my previous email requesting help with the ATV snow removal question.

I reached out to the Associations' attorney regarding this issue and received his response below. It seems like a very circuitous route to get to the answer, something that I don't think the police or a resident would do. But it appears from his review of the various Michigan statutes and City ordinances, that ATV's are not prohibited from driving on the sidewalk. It might be advisable to inform from Jamie Giordano / Sergeant Clock, AAPD Police Service Specialist of this so they can be better informed of the law. I still think it might be advisable to amend one of the sections of the city code to make it clear to the police and the residents that ATV's and small tractors may be used to clear snow off sidewalks.

Jerry Tarpley
President
Traver Lakes Community Maintenance Association

Attorney Response

Jerry,

Thanks for your patience in receiving this response.

The sections of the code relied upon are being improperly conflated as applying to use of the sidewalks.

Section 6.602

Section 6.602 is found in Chapter 72 "Idling Reduction".

Section 6.602 reads, in relevant part, "For purposes of this chapter, the following words and phrases shall have the meanings described in this section:" This means that the definition of a "Motor Vehicle" found in Section 6.602 can only be applied to Chapter 72 for the purpose of "Idling Reduction". This definition cannot be applied elsewhere and for good reason. Under this definition, a self-propelled lawnmower or snow blower could not be "driven" on a sidewalk.

Section 10.90

Section 10:90 is found under Chapter 126 "Traffic".

Section 10:1a provides that, "the City of Ann Arbor adopts by reference the Michigan Vehicle Code...."

Section 10:1c provides definitions for the words found in Chapter 126. This section does not include a definition of "vehicle." We therefore look to the Michigan Vehicle Code.

MCL 257.19, being Section 79 of the Michigan Vehicle Code, defines a vehicle:

"Vehicle" means every device in, upon, or by which any person or property is or may be transported or drawn upon a highway, except devices exclusively moved by human power or used exclusively upon stationary rails or tracks and except, only for the purpose of titling and registration under this act, a mobile home as defined in section 2 of the mobile home commission act, Act No. 96 of the Public Acts of 1987, being section 125.2302 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

MCL 257.19, being section 20 of the Michigan Vehicle Code, defines a highway:

"Highway or street" means the entire width between the boundary lines of every way publicly maintained when any part thereof is open to the use of the public for purposes of vehicular travel.

The Michigan Vehicle Code does not define an ATV. We therefore look elsewhere for a definition. The Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Act provides a definition for an ATV:

"ATV" means a vehicle with 3 or more wheels that is designed for off-road use, has low-pressure tires, has a seat designed to be straddled by the rider, and is powered by a 50cc to 1,000cc gasoline engine or an engine of comparable size using other fuels.

MCL 324.81101(b).

An ATV may not transport people on a highway or road as it is designed for off-road use. Therefore an ATV is not prohibited from driving on a sidewalk, at least not under Section 10:90. ATV does not appear in the City Code.

I have my doubts that an officer of the law will take the time to consider these arguments if called to the scene of the snow removal. But it might not hurt to provide this explanation to the complaining owner and city council rep in anticipation of having a future dispute. If a citation is issued to the snow removal company under Section 10:90, there will be a valid defense against such a citation and it should be challenged.

Let me know if I can provide any additional guidance.

Ben

Dear Councilwoman Bannister and Councilman Hayner,

My name is Jerry Tarpley. I'm the President of the Traver Lakes Homeowners Association located in Ward 1 at Traver and Nixon Rds.

I'm seeking your counsel and help regarding a recent snow removal complaint from a resident and the response from the AAPD Police Service Specialist.

Background

The Traver Lakes Association is comprised of 88 townhomes, 151 single family homes and 210 apartments (449 constituents). The Association was established in 1971 and the governing documents require that the Association provide snow removal services on residential sidewalks and Common area walking paths. The Association has been performing this service for residents for over 45 years. Snow removal on sidewalks has always been performed using a small tractor with a brush or blade or a small ATV with a blade. The use of the small equipment has allowed the Association to comply with the City snow removal ordinance and control costs. It also allows the Association to control the quality of snow removal by maintaining consistently high quality standards.

Discussion

I recently received a complaint from a resident (see email below), who had contacted the police department regarding the use of ATVs on the sidewalks to remove snow. The response from Jamie Giordano / Sergeant Clock, AAPD Police Service Specialist, cited Section 10:90 of the Ann Arbor city code which prohibits vehicles being operated on the sidewalk without permission of the Chief of Police or Project Management Unit Manager.

Needless to say I was surprised, given a small ATV or a tractor has been used at Traver Lakes for many years without issue. Further, ATVs and tractors are currently used by many snow removal companies in Ann Arbor, and most importantly, by the City themselves to clear parks, schools and libraries. It made me wonder if there may be an error in what the City Council intended when passing the ordinance. For example, there is an exemption to the sound ordinance for snow removal equipment (see 9:366. - General exemptions). It appears that this exemption understood that snow equipment may be required to operate periodically outside the limits set forth in the sound ordinance. In my search of the A2 city code, I could not find a similar exemption for allowing small vehicles used for snow removal on sidewalks. I believe this may be an oversight; I hope I am correct.

Surely the City Council did not intend to limit the periodic use of small vehicle snow removal equipment on sidewalks when writing Section 10:90 to meet the requirements of Section 4.60, the snow removal ordinance. Without the ability to use small equipment to remove snow, we would be required to remove the snow by hand. The labor costs to remove snow by hand on all the sidewalks in the Traver Lakes subdivision would be astronomical and put an undue financial burden on the residents of the community.

I am reaching out to you for help and guidance before the Traver Lakes snow equipment operators are ticketed by the Ann Arbor police.

I noted that the City Ordinance Section 10:90 states The driver of a vehicle shall not drive upon or within any sidewalk area except at a driveway, unless he shall first obtain the written permission of the Chief of Police or the project management unit manager. I apologize in advance if the Association has neglected to comply with a permissions process. I could not find any information on the process for obtaining permission from the Chief of Police. I was unaware that snow removal contractors had to submit a request for permission (unclear if annually or permanent) to periodically use a small snow removal vehicle like a tractor or ATV on sidewalks. This seems to be a lot of work for the Chief of Police given the number of snow contractors working in Ann Arbor, but nonetheless we want to comply with all laws.

Assistance Required

I need your help in obtaining the written permission from the Chief of Police or the Project Management Unit Manager as stated in Section: 10:90 or some type of written waiver for the Traver Lakes Homeowners Association to periodically use a small vehicle such as an ATV or Tractor to remove snow from the sidewalks in the subdivision.

You might also want to review Sections 10:90, 4:60 and 9:366 and amend one of the sections to exempt the periodic use of small snow removal vehicles on sidewalks.

I am available most days to meet if you would like to further discuss this matter. You can contact me at [REDACTED] or by email at president@traverlakes.com.

Please do not use vehicles on sidewalks for snow removal

I have been asked by AAPD Special Services Sergeant Clock to remind the community that vehicles (including ATV) should not be driven on sidewalks without permission of the Chief of Police or Project Management Unit Manager. The Ann Arbor Police Department received several complaints regarding individuals using vehicles to clear the snow from sidewalks so we wanted to inform every one of the city ordinance. Section 10:90 of the Ann Arbor city code prohibits vehicles being operated on the sidewalk without permission of the Chief of Police or Project Management Unit Manager. The ordinance does not apply to city vehicles, usually in operation about City Hall and the downtown area.

Subject: Greenbelt Program

Dear Mayor Taylor and City Councilpersons,

I'm sending this letter on behalf of the following people:

- Laura Rubin, Executive Director, Huron River Watershed Council
- Jennifer Santi Hall
- Dan Ezekiel, Chair, Sierra Club, Huron Valley Group
- Catherine Riseng
- Michael Garfield, Director, Ecology Center

The five of us were leaders of the campaign to adopt the Ann Arbor Parks and Greenbelt millage in 2003, and we served as the first five Chairs of the Ann Arbor Greenbelt Advisory Commission, between 2004 and 2015. We're writing to set the record straight about the original intentions behind the program, with respect both to how the proposed millage was described to voters, and how the City Council formalized those intentions at the time.

In 2003, we considered it a very high priority that the City leverage matching funds for most transactions, and the program was structured in a way to do just that. We wanted City taxpayer money to protect as much Greenbelt land as possible. It appears, though, that in the recent discussion of the proposed Lepkowski transaction, there's been a misunderstanding about how the leverage was meant to be measured.

During the ballot campaign, we proposed that City dollars constitute roughly one-third of the total land value of the property to be protected, not one-third of the easement value.

That was an important distinction at the time. Before Ann Arbor, there had only been one other community in the Midwest that had used the purchase of development rights as a farmland preservation tool, so the concept was not widely understood. We wanted to highlight the fact that, by adopting a PDR program, our community could preserve more land than if we were simply buying the land outright.

In fact, before the millage election, City Council adopted a resolution (R-377-9-03) of intent to inform voters about how the program would be administered. That resolution is attached.

Please note paragraph #6, which states that "for transactions outside the city, purchases will be favored in which the City of Ann Arbor's share of the cost is no more than one-third of the land's appraised value." (Emphasis added.)

We were pleased to learn recently that, after 15 years of program administration, the City has hewed close to its original goal in this regard. According to City data, since program inception:

Acres protected: 5,345

Total FMV (fair market value) of all properties protected with Greenbelt funds: $64,188,393

Total Greenbelt funds spent on transactions: $22,904,601

City funds as percentage of total FMV: 35.6%

We share the perspective of City Councilmembers who want to make sure the City is not bearing an excessive burden of Greenbelt land preservation costs, but we urge you to avoid creating unreasonable expectations for the program. We also think it's entirely reasonable to reexamine program priorities and expectations, now that we're halfway into the millage term.

But we hope that you'd undertake that sort of study in a systematic way, and not at the expense of the proposed transaction, which was negotiated in good faith under the existing policies and procedures.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Dear Kittie and thanks for writing.

At last night's meeting, Councilmember Hayner and I voted against this study and Council as a whole declined to go forward with it. Instead, I'm urging residents to use the City's "See.Click.Fix" system to report ideas and suggestions: <https://www.a2gov.org/services/Pages/Report-a-Problem.aspx>

After thinking about the study long and hard, I think we're better off to spend our money on fixing some of the known problems, rather than spend money on another study, especially when the outcome was not to give us engineering designs, but rather to gather more citizen feedback and feasibility options.

I've also urged City staff to reach out to our external partners, like UM, to coordinate with their in-kind expertise and possible funding.

Thank you!

Subject: LOWER TOWN MOBILITY STUDY

Dear Councilmember Bannister,

I'm a homeowner and resident in the Lower Town area, and am writing you regarding the proposed Lower Town Mobility Study, which I understand is on the Ann Arbor City Council agenda for further discussion and voting this Tuesday February 19, 2019.

If I recall correctly, this study was proposed several years ago, and the vote has been postponed several times over the past year.

The gridlock of traffic in the Broadway/Plymouth/Maiden Lane/ Pontiac Trail/Fuller/ area is becoming increasingly challenging.

The "traffic studies", done over the past decade by private developers and the U-M, seem to be short-sighted,

glossing over the problems and providing minimal if any solutions.

The current mobility problems seriously affect accessibility, safety, air-quality, and more, for homeowners, pedestrians, cyclists, and automobile drivers,

1) I believe a comprehensive study is long overdue and needs to be done, and ask that you vote to support this study.

2) A comprehensive study would include fully identifying the problems, defining desired outcomes, and recommending detailed solutions for each of the problems.

3) For those council members who believe that $ 700,000 is too much to pay for a comprehensive mobility study, have you compared with other cities, etc. ?

I think the $ 700,000 would be well worth it if we contract with consultants with a proven track record of problem-solving.

4) It would be optimal if the results of the study would be available to the public.

5) I can understand having the study take one to one-and-one-half years to address seasonal changes.

Two years seems like a stretch (but perhaps there are valid reasons for that?).

Thank you for your consideration, and all you do to serve Ward One and our City of Ann Arbor.

Sincerely,

Kittie Berger Morelock

Please see the following information on the tree trimming process.

The excel sheets have the addresses in ARGO to be trimmed

The letter attached will be mailed to these addresses, as well as the phone calls that started today to address the need to trim back the trees in the area. The letter provides an overview of the process and work.

The door hanger is also attached for your information and is filled out by the crew attempting the work in the area. This will include the DTE Contact name and phone when left. It is blank on the back.

We make 2 attempts for signature on a needed removal and if unsigned, we will not remove the tree. We will proceed with trimming the tree in question away from the lines, but not removal.

As mentioned in the letter, customers can also file an inquiry concerning tree trimming through the DTE website at: <https://newlook.dteenergy.com/wps/wcm/connect/dte-web/home/service-request/common/system-improvements/tree-trimming>

Below is the info from the website on the process for your information

We are committed to communicating with you each step of the way through the tree trimming process.

Here's what to expect:

1. Before we begin trimming, we will send you a letter letting you know we will be in the area.
2. Shortly after, planners will assess your neighborhood and create a trimming plan.
3. If trimming is needed on your property, we will knock on your door and leave a door hanger describing the necessary trimming. Your planner will leave his or her contact information to answer any questions you may have regarding the work planned for your property.
4. If a tree poses a serious hazard to the power lines, and/or if trimming will damage the tree's health, it may need to be removed. These trees will be marked with two white dots. In this instance, our planners will make every effort to contact you to discuss the removal. After your tree removal permit is signed, planners will mark the tree with a white "X" indicating it is ready for removal.
5. Due to many varying factors, tree trimming schedules are sometimes changed or delayed. In this event, we will do our best to inform you of those changes

Dear Mr. Lazarus – Would it be possible to set up a way to collect feedback from residents about mobility issues like Ms. Tucker has sent in her email below?

Mobility is on residents' minds, and I'm referring them to:

But we also have “free form” feedback (and unresolved concerns), such as the email below.

With the time and $700K we're saving from not doing the Lower Town Mobility Study, I'd like to work with residents and staff to prioritize known problems in the community (and fix them), but first we have to gather and analyze the data.

Hi Anne,

Thanks very much.

Last time I was directed to A2 Fix It, it was ignored. Is Click Fix the same thing?

Other items on my list are:

1. Crosswalks still needing standardizing. When? My husband is partially disabled and does not drive. It is a special danger to him.
2. Broadway being used as free parking for UM Hospital employees, ok, except on trash/recycling day, when our driveway is blocked, carts moved or knocked over. Mayor, Kirk

Pennington, Greg, in trash, Cynthia in traffic, somebody at Recycle A2, all agreed to find a solution last July, but instead ignored it until I stopped following up. I have a chronology of phone conversations and dates. The poor service of City employees along with no leaf pick up, or snow removal, very poor maintenance of handicapped curb cuts, etc. makes me wonder what everybody at City Hall is doing. Not serving citizens.

3. Parking ticket given to me in error, since our handicapped tag has a free parking medallion on it. Appealed June 22, 2018 and never heard back.

4. Driving enforcement almost non existent. Right turn on red is more of a slow down. People turn left long after the light has turned red because no one stops them.

5. AAATA buses regularly break the same driving rules; on Fifth Ave near Blake they come flying out of the driveway and cut off drivers. It's outrageous, and they are much more interested in protecting their co workers when I report it to AAATA.

6. Why does the developer of 1140 Broadway get to decide where a roundabout goes? Where does it go? And why is he allowed to engage in deceptive advertising that the development is condos when it is mostly apartments?

(National Geographics did a comparison of the development practices of Athens and Berlin a couple years ago. I saw many parallels between Ann Arbor and Athens and, alas, not Berlin.)

Should all of these issues be in the Click Fix?

Thanks for looking at all of this.

Sincerely,
Barbara Tucker

I spoke with Mr. Lazarus today and he is open to gathering “snow complaints” and trying to do better in the future, but it’s going to require vigilance from the residents to make it all happen.

His ideas were along the lines of:

- Helping senior citizens, disabled and low-income people with their sidewalk snow removal
- Notifying neighborhoods of odd/even house number plowing on alternating sides of the street

Personally, I don’t think dismissal of your suggestion that the plows SLOW DOWN was appropriate. I’ve heard several residents complain about this problem and its unacceptable to me.

I’d also like to have data on WHERE bobcats put the snow? I appreciate the bobcats, but if some of them just dump snow into the street, or into another person’s property, then that’s subject to a fine (if caught by AAPD – Community Standards).

I’ll try and stop by on Monday around 2 p.m.... you would not believe the schedule that Councilmembers keep. We need all the help we can get from informed citizens such as yourself.

I guess the City's response to this is to not plow the parking/handicap spots in front of the restaurant. A plow truck did come by today at 2:08 pm, but by now all the snow has turned to ice and did not put a dent in the snow that is now ice. On the up side, no snow was pushed on to the nice, clean sidewalk.

Afternoon!

I want to thank everyone for their participation in addressing this problem. While I appreciate Ms. Harrison's response, I must address inaccuracies regarding the necessary speed of the plows with one question: When was the last time that an Ann Arbor Snow Plow got stuck on a residential street? I am sure that they are traveling under the posted speed of 30 MPH on Broadway where the pictures were taken. From my personal experiences plowing county roads in Massachusetts, the only reason great speed is necessary is if the plow operators are in a hurry. This approach can be dangerous.

The plows that were traveling on Broadway threw the snow/slush over 7 feet across the public sidewalks, hitting buildings in some cases. God forbid if there was a person standing there! This was not necessary to clear the streets. That same day I cleared my driveway with my little Craftsman lawn mower with a plow on it going less than 5 mph.

All I am saying is that they need to slow down. It's that simple.

I appreciate the offer that I should stand on the sidewalk waiting for a plow to pass to time stamp their passage, but I would be afraid of getting injured with the snow being thrown by their passage!

All I am asking is that they slow down. It really is that simple.

This also brings into question the snow removal requirement that City Council has put on their constituents. It is an unreasonable expectation for City Council to require property owners to clear the sidewalks when the City's own employees are the ones putting the snow on the sidewalks. Are you going to fine people for not clearing the snow that the City deposits on the sidewalks because the plow drivers won't slow down? I guess that is one way to increase revenue.

All I am asking is that the plow trucks slow down. The speed limit is just that; a limit. It is possible (and legal) to travel under that limit.

I am open to discussing this further. Next time it snows, come on down to Northside, coffee is on me and we can solve this problem and many more. Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you.

Councilmember Bannister,

We understand the frustration that is caused when plows push snow onto a driveway or sidewalk. Unfortunately, this is an unavoidable part of standard plowing operations.

In addition, our snow plows have devices which tell us where they are at any given time and at what speed they were travelling. If a resident can give us the exact location and time they observed a plow, we can look up it's speed. With that said, plows have to travel at a certain speed to clear snow from the road and the heavier the snow/ice, sometimes the faster they have to operate.

Dear Mr. Koli and Mr. Hupy,

Jim -- I'm sorry you've had to duplicate clearing of the sidewalk, and for your valuable suggestion for snow plows to adhere to the speed limit. Thanks for taking the time to send the useful pictures, too.

I've copied Councilmembers Jeff Hayner, Ward One, and Jack Eaton, Ward Four.

Mr. Hupy, I realize the snow plows have a dual purpose of clearing the roads as quickly as possible, and simultaneously to try hard not to speed and throw snow/slush onto the sidewalks. Is there anything that can be done to balance these two important priorities?

Thank you,

Afternoon!

The speed limit here is 30mph. When the snow plows come by at 40, they shoot the snow and slush on the side walks that your citizens have spent hours clearing. Last night some of it even hit the buildings. I can not be held responsible for clearing the sidewalks when City personnel just toss the snow from the streets back on it.

There must be a better way! To begin with, slow down!

Let me know what can be done to fix this!

Greetings all,

So, taking a walk to the 2 carts in question, they have the following stamped on the front of the containers: Z0437054 and A0268796. How this correspond to anything that the City has in their system is a mystery to me. I am checking with the tenants at 1002 Pontiac Trail, SIC Transit, to see if they are paying for any carts and if these are theirs.

The cart at 1006 Pontiac Trail should stay there, is one that I am paying for for the use of the tenants there. Please, do not remove this container.

This whole big mess was caused when the City of Ann Arbor decided that they wanted another revenue stream and wanted to charge for carts that they had previously provided for free. To make matters more complicated, the City decided that they would only charge for commercial carts, based on the buildings zoning, NOT it's use. Residential would be for free. Although most of the buildings that Koli Ent rents are residential (Just ask the building inspectors), they are all zoned commercial. So now we have problems.

There should be no (zero) carts for 1001, 1003, 1005, 1007, 1009, 1011, or 1013 Broadway. 1015 Broadway (Northside Grill) has a dumpster that is tipped twice a week that St Vincnet DePaul (1001-1003 Broadway) also uses.

I hope that this clears things up once and for all. If there is any way that I can be of any assistance, please let me know.

Thank you!

Hi there,

I am still waiting to hear the results from the site visit I requested. There was an account under Koli Enterprises that was closed on 08/25/2017 and the carts were removed on that same day as well. This account has not been billed since August 2017. The final bill for this solid waste account (#300002-150789) was paid in full in the amount of $51.15 on 05/05/2018. This account was for the service address 1001 Broadway.

I do show there is a commercial cart connection on 1003 Broadway St. (#509056-134828), that is being charged $51.75 quarterly, and has been on the account since 01/01/2013. This commercial cart connection has no relation to the trash carts that were billed to 1001 Broadway St. (#300002-150789). I requested to have the site visit done for the commercial cart being charged to 1003 Broadway St. (509056-134828).

1006 Pontiac (#510216-134828) is also getting charged for one commercial cart, and has been since 08/23/2017.

I hope this clears things up a bit. I will be out of the office Thursday and Friday, however, I will be happy to answer any questions when I return on Monday 02/25/19.

Vicky,

I talked to Kate about this yesterday. Do Not have the City pick up those waste and recycle containers that are by the fence until you talk to your neighbors, SIC Cycle. Those containers are theirs that they pay for and use. They may want and need them.

Also, I have 2 trash and 2 recycle containers for 1006 Pontiac trail that I pay for and my tenants use. These should not get taken away either.

The issues is that YOUR containers have been picked up by the City and therefore YOU should not be charged for them. Feel free to have the City contact me directly if they have any questions.

Thanks

Jim

This is great, Ken, and thanks for sending. As I mentioned on the phone, I'm optimistic and working toward the City and residents doubling down on known traffic problems on Pontiac Trail and elsewhere nearby, and fixing those with the time and money we're saving from not doing the Lower Town Mobility Study.

You might consider emailing your group that so far there are two main ways to give the City feedback on public safety issues (pedestrian, bike, motor vehicles):

- See Click Fix: <https://www.a2gov.org/services/Pages/Report-a-Problem.aspx>
- AAPD Traffic Complaints: <http://www.surveygizmo.com/s3/1463514/Ann-Arbor-Traffic-Complaint-Questionnaire>

There's also the updated Traffic Calming application process for neighborhoods:
<https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/traffic/Pages/Traffic-Calming.aspx>

I've asked Mr. Lazarus for his help coordinating all the options, in lieu of the $700K mobility study, and will send you updates when I have them.

All

Please note that I live at 1009 Broadway, in the Anson Brown Building, so I am familiar with the problem Jim is frustrated about. And since I live here, Jim shared this with me. I am also an active member of the CAC as a 'near neighbor'. As a member of the CAC who walks, and drives, and bikes along this stretch of Broadway all the time I can say, in no uncertain terms, that it is NOT just the snowplows who are driving too fast here.

At past CAC meetings I have brought up to Ray Detter and Susan Pollay (now added to this conversation) that Broadway & Beakes from Main to Moore / Maiden needs to be tamed; and maybe beyond to Plymouth too. I have many times noted drivers doing 45 mph and faster over the Broadway Bridge (both while walking and driving), which is limited to 30 mph. And I have been quickly passed on Beakes when doing the speed limit between the bridge and Fourth. This is a dangerous area of the city to walk, as well as to drive.

When going N to NE, once drivers get to the bottom of Division they speed up over the bridge and do not slow down unless there is a red light. It is quite usual for me to note drivers doing 40+ mph over the bridge when I am coming home. I have no choice BUT to note this as I have to turn left just north of Swift and typically have the driver behind me wanting to inspect my trunk. And going SW from Plymouth to Broadway, and then Beakes, drivers do not typically heed the speed limit changes that happened 2 miles before. The speed drops from 45 to 35 mph at Huron Parkway on Plymouth, but almost no one drives below that mark from Huron Parkway all the way to Moore / Maiden. Most are 10 to 15 mph above, which brings them into Broadway with a head of steam.

Just today, and with this weather, I paced a U of M bus doing 52 mph driving NE on Plymouth, east of Maiden (bus 3909 @ 10:25 am or so, if you want to check me on this). And then, I slowed down to 35 mph. What was his or her hurry? None that I can think of, they drive a bus. We have all just come to think / believe that this is how you drive through this area. Well this area is soon to have more residents and we need to look into how we can reel this in.

In writing the above I am no way trying to co-opt Jim's issue; I would like to simply add there may be underlying issues. In short, we have built a highway through, and out of, the oldest part of town, and we here suffer its affects. And this will only get worse once the Morningside project gets built and occupied, and the Edison site developed. It would be nice to have a plan for the roads that can be implemented in conjunction with these developments. As the oldest section of town, Lowertown needs to be treated carefully. Sightlines are limited and the roads are funny. And vehicle speeds should probably be tempered.

Last story. A few days ago during the snow and ice, I came out of the Northside parking lot onto Swift and waited for the signal to turn onto Broadway. While waiting I observed not one... or two... but three city vehicles make a right-turn-on-red onto the Broadway Bridge. For those of you who do not know, that intersection does NOT allow right-turns-on-red because sight lines are severely limited by the 1832 building that is built to the sidewalks on the corner. Maybe I am being picky, but aren't city vehicles subject to the same laws as the rest of us? I think this resonates with Jim's comments about the snowplow's speeds. I understand when ambulances and firetrucks do not following traffic laws when they are traveling lights-and-sirens, but these were work trucks; no emergency lights.

And I will put my time where my mouth is, and agree to volunteer to any committee formed to look into this stretch of road. I walk it, and drive it, many times, each and every week. I look forward to hearing what you think about this.

Respectfully
Chuck Bultman

I want to thank everyone for their participation in addressing this problem. While I appreciate Ms. Harrison's response, I must address inaccuracies regarding the necessary speed of the plows with one question: When was the last time that an Ann Arbor Snow Plow got stuck on a residential street? I am sure that they are traveling under the posted speed of 30 MPH on Broadway where the pictures were taken. From my personal experiences plowing county roads in Massachusetts, the only reason great speed is necessary is if the plow operators are in a hurry. This approach can be dangerous.

The plows that were traveling on Broadway threw the snow/slush over 7 feet across the public sidewalks, hitting buildings in some cases. God forbid if there was a person standing there! This was not necessary

Councilmember Bannister,

We understand the frustration that is caused when plows push snow onto a driveway or sidewalk. Unfortunately, this is an unavoidable part of standard plowing operations.

In addition, our snow plows have devices which tell us where they are at any given time and at what speed they were travelling. If a resident can give us the exact location and time they observed a plow, we can look up it's speed. With that said, plows have to travel at a certain speed to clear snow from the road and the heavier the snow/ice, sometimes the faster they have to operate.

Dear Mr. Koli and Mr. Hupy,

Jim -- I'm sorry you've had to duplicate clearing of the sidewalk, and for your valuable suggestion for snow plows to adhere to the speed limit. Thanks for taking the time to send the useful pictures, too.

I've copied Councilmembers Jeff Hayner, Ward One, and Jack Eaton, Ward Four.

Mr. Hupy, I realize the snow plows have a dual purpose of clearing the roads as quickly as possible, and simultaneously to try hard not to speed and throw snow/slush onto the sidewalks. Is there anything that can be done to balance these two important priorities?

Thank you,

Anne

Afternoon!

The speed limit here is 30mph. When the snow plows come by at 40, they shoot the snow and slush on the side walks that your citizens have spent hours clearing. Last night some of it even hit the buildings.

I can not be held responsible for clearing the sidewalks when City personnel just toss the snow from the streets back on it.

There must be a better way! To begin with, slow down!

Let me know what can be done to fix this!

Councilmember Bannister,

In snow events that are less than 4" once the snow stops and we've gotten major roads treated, we move into locals, starting with the next day's trash route. These areas have a Tuesday or Wednesday trash route so would have been the last areas to be plowed, which is why you don't see activity in the local roads on the day in question. We plowed some of the streets late on the 13th and finished on the 14th.

There was one plow truck treating all of the major roads in this section of town but the vehicle tracking device in that particular truck has not been working properly. That is why the map doesn't show any activity on major roads, even though we did plow them. We are working with our IT folks and the vendor to troubleshoot the problem.

Councilmembers Hayner and Bannister,

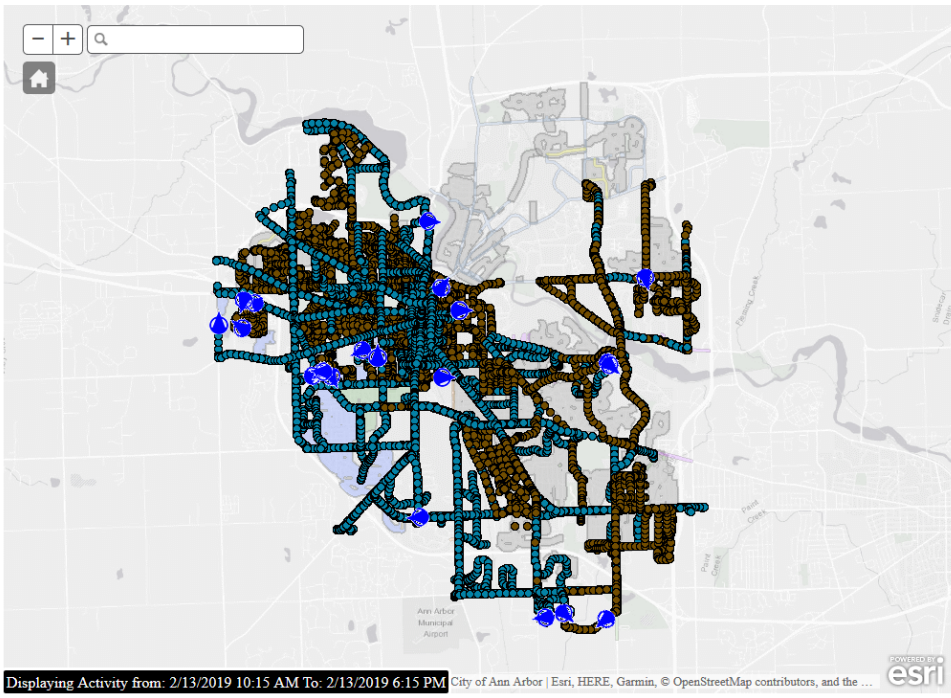

It's February 13th, it snowed on the north side of town pretty much all day, and indeed the roads look as though (as shown in the plow map below), the plow trucks carefully avoided our part of town today. This is plow activity for the past eight hours, as of about 6pm.

This plow tracking system is supposed to be GPS based. I don't think the satellites went down. They seem to be working in the rest of town. What went wrong today?

Note, I don't know if inline pictures go through the city's mail system. I'll keep a copy of this non-plow map if you want to see it later.

Thanks,
Ken Clark

(PS, Jodi and I biked to work today, and the level of harassment goes "way" up when the roads aren't touched like they seem today.)

Dear Mr. Delacourt,

Please look into a massive tree removal reported on Huron River Drive this week and let us know.

We see the B2B meeting scheduled for Feb 26 to talk about the tunnel between Barton and Bandemere.

Is this removal related to B2B?

Thanks for your help!!

By now it's likely too late to do anything, but I want to express concern about the large swath of trees being taken down for the B2B trail along Huron River Drive. That road is a lovely, tree-lined drive and it's being decimated. My husband and I moved to Dexter a year ago because we loved living in nature. I take HRD every day to and from work and it's just awful. It seems a path could co-exist with trees - is it really necessary to take every single tree down?

Hi Anne,

Thank you so much for getting back to me and agreeing to speak to our organization! Would Wednesday, March 20th at 6pm work for you? We can also look into Thursday the 21st if that works better for you. We would love to have anyone in public service/local government come speak that is interested and available!

Dear Ms. Bannister,

My name is Noelle Liston and I am a student at the University of Michigan. I am the treasurer for a student organization on campus called Leading Women of Tomorrow, an organization which focuses on encouraging more young women to consider careers in public service. We are trying to start a series for the remainder of the semester in which we learn from women in each level of government, beginning with local. So, we were wondering if as a woman in local government you would be willing to come to campus and speak to our organization at a meeting (about 30 minutes to one hour at most) the week of March 18th. We would be interested in hearing how you got involved in local government, what the experience of joining was like, and what your experience now as a member of the city council is, as well as anything else you would be willing to share with us.

If you would like to learn more about our organization, you can visit the national website at <https://www.leadingwomenoftomorrow.com/>

Thank you so much for your consideration, I hope to hear from you soon.

Good afternoon Councilwoman Bannister -

I am reaching out to you, to facilitate a meeting regarding the Brightdawn Village Project (off-of Burton Road). You may already be familiar with this intergenerational, accessible, work force housing project as we have recently been before the planning commission, and there have been multiple stakeholder meetings to review the project

The owners of the property and project developers will be in town for the upcoming planning commission meeting (meeting on the 21st). As such, and if you are amenable, they would like to meet with you and review their project and goals. They have actually tried to contact you via email in the past but we suspect that being sent from overseas, their emails did not reach you. Haim and Iddo will happily meet you on your own or together with your fellow Council people that you chose to come along with.

Haim and Iddo Schwartz have availability on Friday February 22nd (all day) and Monday February 25th (morning). If you find it difficult to accommodate in this window please let us know and the Schwartzes will extend their stay by a couple of days.

Please advise if you would be amenable to meet over coffee or tea, at a location that would work best and be most convenient for you? We would offer our office as a meeting location if that his helpful?

Thank you for your consideration to meeting and reviewing our very interesting project as we move through the process.

Hello Mayor Taylor and Councilpersons Bannister and Hayner,

It was great seeing you all last week as city representatives for the generous donation towards our solar program. We are always appreciative of the time and attention given to us and our project-based programming from municipal offices.

I am reaching out today on behalf of our 2nd grade team. They are soon starting a project designing tiny houses for home-insecure individuals. One of the things that makes our projects authentic to the students is the authentic audiences we build around units of study. We were hoping to include 3 city officials in this project to hear proposals at our evening EXPO on Thursday, March 21, 2019. 2nd grade students present from 6:30-7:00pm, but you are welcome to attend the entirety of the event (5:00-7:00pm).

The 2nd grade students will give a formal presentation all together with city officials as guests of honor. Afterwards, smaller, team-based exhibits will be open to parents, community members, and city officials for feedback. We were hoping that city officials could take brief notes and send back a 90 second video explaining the real, authentic feedback to the students as to the viability of the projects and potential next steps.

We are also interested in hearing from you prior to EXPO. Perhaps a tweet or email directed to the 2nd grade students outlining essential considerations for the home-insecure population of Ann Arbor before they design.

Any ways in which you are willing to partner on this project would be highly valuable. Again, your continued support to our school signals care and cooperation from our bodies of governance; it matters to the kids. I appreciate your consideration, and look forward to your response.

Thank you, Lester, for continuing to be a leader on trying to fix this ongoing problem. We are on resolution two of a four resolution process and obviously things are not going well at all.

It is a bad precedent to spend the large sum of $1M on a project that does not achieve adequate safety and mobility goals, and is so widely opposed by the residents.

Ann Arbor deserves better and I will continue to work with everyone to try and fix this epic fail in the making.

Hello Nancy, I am getting back to you after a very unsuccessful attempt at reaching out to our state SRTS coordinator, Bryan Armstrong.

I tried set up a meeting between some homeowners, city council members and Bryan to discuss our predicament him. He responded to my phone message by calling me back and flatly refusing to meet with us. I then ran through a list of reasons why this project as currently stands does not work for our neighborhood, he either did not understand me or did not care. We then met with State Senator Jeff Irwin for a couple of hours (this really should have been the meeting we wanted to have with our state SRTS coordinator), he seemed to understand our situation and agreed to talk to MDOT on our behalf. It seems to me that if the state SRTS coordinator won't do his job, he should be terminated.

I also want to point out two serious flaws with the SRTS process. The SRTS process takes place over some time to collect information and get involvement from the school kids, which is great. However, a plan is devised and drawn up, and the affected homeowners are not even brought into the process. We were not even notified of a plan to put in sidewalks on our street until 10 months after the original plan was conceived to do so. By that point, the SRTS people are so pleased that everyone is for this project, but when the homeowners object, the SRTS grant process is past the point when it was demonstrated that there was community support. The City also claimed that the process is too far along to change at that point, and also they may lose grant money if they try to do so. Thus, the process seems rigged to ram through projects when the affected community is against the project. We are not against the project simply for trivial reasons, but because the two sidewalk "requirement" would take away street parking when we rely on street parking that for getting through winter snows. Doesn't the SRTS grant process require community support? If the homeowners object, isn't that considered too? For this project, it clearly is not being considered. By the way, I am a parent of one of the very few number of students which this ill-conceived project is intended to help, so I know first hand about the need for a sidewalk on our street.

The other reason why the homeowners are against the project is because very high cost to to safety ratio. This clearly shows that benefit/cost is not considered when a SRTS project is conceived. Out of a school of 750 kids or so, this million dollar project will at most help a handful of them. This just seems dumb. Why isn't benefit/cost considered as part of a SRTS grant?

Finally, I spoke to someone at the Institute of Transportation Engineers who said that the National SRTS office must approve all grants before they can move forward for construction, is that correct? If our SRTS coordinator won't listen to us, maybe you will.

Thanks for your time.

I am a homeowner who lives in the City of Ann Arbor. Ann Arbor applied for, and is expecting to receive, a Safe Routes to School (SRTS) grant for the installation of sidewalks on our street and a couple of other streets near to the school. As it turns out, the SRTS committee identified our street as a priority for sidewalks on both sides of the street. However, our street is challenging for the installation of sidewalks because of the topography (the roadway is cut into a side of a hill), and the presence of a large number of very large trees and many more of smaller trees and bushes.

The City designed a plan for the installation of sidewalks on both sides of the street, risking the health of many of the trees and other foliage, particularly on one side of the street. The local homeowners forced a public meeting to discuss the need for sidewalks considering the likely impacts. The local homeowners pointed out some pretty compelling arguments against the proposal for two sidewalks:

It is a residential street with a minor amount of traffic <1000 cars/day

Very few school kids on the street use this route for getting to school (my kid and another kid from the other side of the street), and more kids are dropped off on one very end of the street to walk the rest of the way to the school, but the number of kids does not justify sidewalks the entire length of the road, disproving the conclusions made in the SRTS report, which made some very broad and disproven (by the homeowners) conclusions.

ITE guidelines do not require sidewalks on both sides of this street based on the amount of traffic, and the low house density on this street (1 - 4 houses per acre).

We argued against two sidewalks, and proposed a single sidewalk on one side of the street.

Yet, the SRTS director attended the meeting and stated that SRTS grants require sidewalks on both sides of the street.

So the meeting broke and the conflict continued until the City capitulated and sat down with a subgroup of homeowners to try to reach an agreement. We continued to maintain that two sidewalks are redundant given the low number of school kids and the impact on trees and other plants. Finally the City designed a plan to redesign the street, moving the curbs on both sides of the street inward, thus narrowing the road, so that the sidewalks could mostly be placed where the street used to be. While this proposal does address the concerns for tree removal, now it has turned into a fantastic project of restructuring the entire roadway. Now some of the homeowners are complaining that any street parking is now gone. My head is spinning....

Finally, my question. Is it really the intent or the design of the SRTS program that its directors dictate or control sidewalk and roadway designs? I thought that local transportation designers are supposed to design their own pedestrian safety measures, not SRTS directors.

I looked through the SRTS literature, and I found no requirement that sidewalks must be installed on both sides of the street to satisfy grant requirements. Can you help me to understand all this?

Council Members,

My name is Lisa Conine and I am the Community Outreach Coordinator for the Om of Medicine. I know the other night you spoke with Mark (cc'ed here) about advancing a sensible social use policy for the City of Ann Arbor.

Thank you for your eagerness to show a progressive stance on the social use of legal cannabis consumption in our great city.

There are a number of state governments and local municipalities considering similar action. We have an opportunity to adopt the best qualities of each and set the stage for Ann Arbor to be a leader in the nation for social use. Much like we have led the nation in sensible cannabis policy for 48 years, we have an opportunity to take the lead again.

We would love to have you three in for a meeting to discuss next steps. Please let us know when you are available.

Thank you!

Hello all and thank you for helping with my interview with WEMU's David Fair for Issues of the Environment, about nuclear emergency preparedness and the new KI resolution.

The second interview will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 26, and air on Wednesday, Feb. 27.

Per the attached audio of the first interview, these are Mr. Fair's follow-up questions that I'd like to request your input:

1. How do we prepare for a malfunction and radiation leaked into the environment?
2. What prompted this resolution at this point in time? (Why now?)
3. Isn't this a bandaid on the problem?
4. Is there an evacuation plan in place?
5. How does the city work in concert with the Washtenaw Emergency Mgmt. Office?
6. Are we lulled into a (false) sense of safety?
7. Has the City taken a formal position on the proposed Fermi 3 plant and what we'd like DTE to do?
8. When will we start stockpiling KI?
9. Is there no cost to the county and taxpayers?
10. Will there be more resolutions to address other nuclear and radiation concerns?
11. The resolution refers to utility companies; is that just DTE or are there others?

Thank you for any input you might provide on these issues.

Anne,

Here is the audio of our interview. As i mentioned in our conversation, my questions were largely extemporaneous. I had some fact sheets in front of me, and included part of that as info.

While we will follow the same general line of questioning in the re-do, they won't all be exactly the same. And, if your answers are different, it may bring to mind a new follow-up question.

Dear Anne,

We hope this email finds you doing well. We just wanted to reach out in order to connect in regards to your opposition of the Public Art Commissions resolution for CIP enhancement projects (CA12) at the recent City Council Meeting this past Tuesday. We would welcome the opportunity to sit down and better understand your position more thoroughly. Would you be open to sitting down for coffee with us sometime in the next week or so?

The Commission is really working hard to complete all the tasks included in our ordinance which includes these recommendations. Although we know that there is no guarantee any of these projects will come to fruition we are excited at the opportunity for inclusion of creative design solutions and looking forward to continuing to help shape the new process for such enhancements. We believe a visionary city is judged not just by its services and development strategies, but also in how its governance serves the cultural, social, and aspirational values of its community.

Also included in this past meeting's packet, was our recent report that lists all of the initiatives we are focusing on, including a working group to seek alternate funding methods such as grants, private investments or donations.

Please let me know when you'd like to meet so that we can gain a better perspective on your point of view. Looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Best,

Dear Mr. Lazarus,

Yesterday I received a text from a resident on Broadway who was having a power outage. They asked if this was due to the 1140 Broadway construction?

The weather report is that we are expecting 50 MPH winds and power outages this weekend. Is there a process for who residents should call or email in the event they have a power outage? Is this something we could post on the homepage of a2gov.org and the City's social media? Is there a list of what residents and the City could be doing to prepare?

I'd like to help share the information with residents through email and my social media accounts.

Question #4: Please provide information regarding Public Act 57, payments TIF capture, etc. (Councilmember Hayner)

Response: Public Act 57 of 2018 has taken effect that creates reporting requirements for tax increment finance authorities in Michigan. The legislation combines most tax increment finance authorities in the new Public Act, requires certain information be made available publicly and sets requirements for information that must be reported to the Michigan Department of Treasury. The seven original TIF statutes, as amended, which have been combined in Chapters 2-8 of PA 57 have all been repealed. The notable exception is Brownfield Redevelopment Finance Authorities (BRFAs), which continue to be subject to 1996 PA 381. PA 57 has no effect on BRFAs. New requirements include:

Public Reporting Requirements: In Section 910, the new act describes the requirement that an authority create a website or use a municipal website for the posting of the information listed in this section including budgets, audits, adopted plans, and other information.

Treasury Reporting Requirements: Section 911 of the new act describes annual reporting requirement to Treasury and the subsequent requirement that Treasury compile the information into a report that is to be submitted annually to the Michigan Legislature. Treasury is currently working on an electronic format for submission of the required information.

There was not any change that affected the City's ability to bond for DDA projects.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Mayor and City Council

FROM: Parks Advisory Commission

DATE: February 15, 2019

RE: Park Advisory Commission Communication Regarding Council Resolution 18-2178:
Resolution to Add “The Center of the City” to the list of Available Public Park Rental Facilities

The Parks Advisory Commission (PAC) discussed City Council’s resolution regarding “The Center of the City” public space and establishing a fee for its use at our most recent meeting, on January 29, 2019.

PAC heard from Jessica Black, Recreation Supervisor in charge of rentals and special events in the Parks and Susan Pollay, Executive Director of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) about the process the public uses to utilize parks, parking lots, and other public space in the DDA. It was explained to PAC that the DDA is presently under contract until 2033 with the City of Ann Arbor to manage and operate the parking facilities, which includes the top of the Library Lane garage which is known as the “Center of the City” location.

Previous requests to use the top of Library Lane for public events have been managed through the DDA in conjunction with the City’s Special Event review and application process. The DDA sets its parking lot use fees as equal to the number of parking spots that are bagged for the event. In this location there are 35 parking spaces which could be bagged at the current cost of $25.00 per bag per day, for a total daily fee of $875.00. The DDA regularly waives meter bag fees for non-profit organizations. In this location the DDA has had several requests from the “Civic Commons” group, and has waived fees in every instance. This is similar to how the DDA has managed special event requests for other surface lots, including Palio Lot. In the case of Library Lane, as part of its special event process, DDA staff contacts the Library to inform them of a request to ensure there isn’t a competing need for the parking spaces.

At this point, with the property under contract to the DDA, PAC recommends continuing the process in place for the rental of the public space known as “Center of the City”.

Hello Mr. Lazarus,

I've made hardcopies for CM Hayner and me of the hand-outs from the Agenda:

<http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3861450&GUID=88A8B3D1-2DA5-4D4E-A2FD-5E17F33442E9>

Most of the PDFs are called "two pagers," when they actually have straggling numbers on additional pages. For example, the Street Millage Fund is actually 13 pages, with pages 9 – 13 being out of alignment and without headers.

I'm not sure what needs to be done about this, if anything, but wanted to mention the challenges with printing and reviewing the data in this format.

Thanks,

Thank you for your support of the Greenbelt program and especially the support of the conservation easement for the Lepkowski property in Northfield Township.

I took note of your comments during Tuesday's meeting, and as Chair of the Greenbelt Advisory Commission we will work to address your concerns especially with regards to scoring methodology and land attributes.

I thought you'd be interested in a recent article by the Michigan Daily regarding the recently received RCPP grant.

Dear Mr. Lazarus,

Is there any particular reason that the handouts for Monday night are light on performance information?

There are pedestrian safety figures, but they aren't in the form of SMART goals for desired outcomes with targets, and performance against those targets.

Similarly, the previous budget workshops in December and February were light on performance information. There was only one pavement condition PASER data point and some Fire Dept. statistics.

Would it be possible to have the Expense, Capital and Personnel budgets tied to priorities, and performance against targets?

Using the classic Plan-Do-Check-Act/Adjust approach, SMART goals for high-priority desired outcomes should be aggressive, and sufficiently resourced. If targets aren't met, then resources, approach, leadership, training, and other items need to be addressed. How far are we from using a system more like that?

Thank you,
Anne

Still processing the amazing conference yesterday on affordable housing. What a goldmine of information and great ideas etc! It was great to see that Brett Lennart and Jennifer Hall were there. It was sad that no one else was there from the City. So many things that A2 should be doing to create adequate affordable housing!

There was a lengthy presentation on Community Benefit Ordinances and how they work and the things they have already learned about them and what they are going to change going forward. Key is having the developer start meeting with the community BEFORE PLANS ARE DRAWN UP FOR THE DEVELOPMENT! That means that community input is incorporated at the very earliest stages of the process. So many more things!

The whole thing was videotaped and as soon as I get the link I will send it along.

Best wishes for a relaxing weekend!

Dear Ms. Bannister,

I am reaching out to you to invite you to the 13th annual Take Back the Night Ann Arbor benefit and silent auction. It is on March 23, 2019 at Polo Fields Country Club in Ann Arbor. Tickets are $65 each and include dinner, dancing and access to bid on the silent auction items. Doors open at 5:30 pm with strolling appetizers and dinner is served at 6:30 pm. The silent auction runs all evening. 100% of the money raised from the auction is used to fund the annual Take Back the Night rally and march held on the campus of the University of Michigan. Tickets must be purchased in advance and are limited. For more information and to purchase tickets, go to www.stars-mi.org/benefit. If you are unable to attend, but would like to donate, you can go to <http://stars-mi.org/donate/>.

TBTN is a rally and march to raise awareness about sexual violence, give local organizations an opportunity to share information about their services, and above all else, give survivors a voice and let them know that they are not alone. It is also a celebration of surviving. This is the 41st anniversary of TBTN in Ann Arbor. It will be held on April 3 in the Michigan League. Go to www.tbtnann Arbor.org/rally for more information.

TBTN is put on by the student organization University Students Against Rape and the nonprofit organization, Standing Tough Against Rape Society (STARS). STARS is a registered 501c3 nonprofit.

Is this something we could post on the homepage of a2gov.org and the City's social media? Is there a list of what residents and the City could be doing to prepare?

The conference last Thursday evening and Friday 9-5 may have been introduced weeks ago and got lost in the influx of emails. The OFW can send long chains of emails which make it even more challenging to keep up. I will continue to make it a priority to copy you if you're not copied, which I'm assuming is just because people don't have you top of mind yet due to your relative newness???

I was unable to attend the conference due to other meetings. Evidently the Community Benefits Ordinance was compelling for Council to implement.

Hi Anne and Jeff,

As you've probably heard, the carbon fee and dividend proposal that the City Council resolved to support in 2017 now has been introduced to Congress: HR 763. Being that the council resolved to work towards the passage of this policy, a step in this direction would be to vote for an endorsement of HR 763.

Like all people who are concerned about climate and think hard about potential solutions, you probably have questions about carbon pricing and how it might work. I have been working on an op-ed, and have an idea that might kill two birds with one stone: would you care to read over my essay (below) and give me feedback as to whether it answers some of the questions you may be having?

I would love to hear your thoughts, by email, phone or in person-- whatever might be most convenient for you.

Thanks so much for your time and your careful consideration.

Let's talk about a carbon tax, now.

By Barbara Lucas

While most climate activists acknowledge that a carbon tax is the biggest tool in the toolbox, many are saying we should back-burner the idea, for now. I'd like to offer that now is, actually, a great time to get the conversation going.

The call for a price on carbon is gaining traction internationally. Canada—our crucially-important trading partner—is instituting a revenue-neutral carbon tax nationwide. Many countries around the world have been using carbon pricing for years, and more are considering it. The International Joint Commission on Climate Change says steep carbon pricing will be required to meet its emission targets.

Meanwhile, in the U.S., there finally is a bill in Congress, the Energy Innovation and Dividends Act. Although it's not getting much media attention, it is the first bipartisan carbon pricing legislation to be introduced in ten years, and is worth examining on those grounds alone.

Carbon pricing is also one of strategies proposed for inclusion in the Democrat's New Green Deal. There was a Republican bill introduced last session. And there's a plan proposed by Conservative elders, not yet introduced, which is backed by both business and environmental groups.

Obviously, it has potential to appeal across the political spectrum. Let's not close our minds to the possibilities. Carbon taxes can take many forms, and bills usually go through innumerable changes before passage. Now is the time to start discussing how we might craft a policy that maximizes effectiveness, fairness and political viability.

For instance, how rapidly can a carbon tax plan reduce emissions to the IPPC target? That all depends on how high the tax is set, and how quickly it ramps up. Addressing the urgency of the situation, while allowing the economy time to adjust, is a balancing act.

Should the methane in natural gas be taxed for its very significant global warming potential? The current bill in Congress does tax methane, while the Conservative proposal does not.

Can it be cost-effective? Forty-five of the world's most esteemed economists, including Nobel Laureates, Federal Reserve Chairs, and U.S. Treasury Secretaries, say: "A carbon tax offers the most cost-effective lever to reduce carbon emissions at the scale and speed that is necessary."

The rioting in France against gas taxes is one of the reasons some say we should forget a carbon tax. How can we make sure a price on carbon wouldn't hurt the poor and middle class?

There's something very important being left out of the discussion regarding the Yellow Vest protests: in France's plan, there was no dividend. There's a huge difference between a straight carbon tax and one that is rebated, dollar for dollar, to the citizenry.

The dividend changes everything. How so?

The esteemed economists above say an equal dividends system (each adult getting one share, and each child a half share) is progressive, not regressive. They say: "The majority of American families, including the most vulnerable, will benefit financially by receiving more in 'carbon dividends' than they pay in increased energy prices."

Data from a 2017 U.S. Treasury report illustrate this concept:

This is because the lower our income, the smaller our carbon footprint. Only twenty percent of a household's carbon impacts result from direct costs like gasoline and home heating. Rather, most of it results from actually producing the goods and products that we buy.

Some point out we could not get a price on carbon through Congress even when Democrats had big majorities. But remember, the policy proposed back then was cap and trade. There was no dividend.

Those who advocate dividends say it's all about the money coming back to the people. Without it, you get riots. With it, you get buy in, a tangible answer to the critical "what's in it for me?" question.

Witness the popularity of the Alaskan dividend, which pays royalties to Alaskan residents from the oil production revenues generated in the state. Mess with that, as the last governor did, and you don't get re-elected.

Are equal dividends the way to go, or should frontline communities (who bear the brunt of fossil fuel pollution), get higher shares than do other citizens?

Proponents of equal dividends point to Australia, where the fee collected was distributed unequally. They say this opened a Pandora's box, which may have contributed to Australia's cancelling its carbon tax in 2014 after just four years.

Some have a problem with dividends in the first place, fearing they'll make us complicit in the extraction of fossil fuels. Does taking tobacco money make us complicit in lung disease? Granted, the cigarette tax isn't the only reason smoking rates are plummeting, but it's certainly been a big part of it.

Can the public support a carbon fee with dividends plan, once they fully appreciate the potential size of the household rebate? We are talking about a large chunk of change, on the order of thousands of dollars a year for the average family. Potential dividend size is often left out of the questions in public opinion surveys, such as those by Yale and the National Surveys on Energy and Environment.

What about jobs? This study says with more money in people's pockets, the health care and service industries would get a big boost. (Importantly, it's an increase in service areas, vs. increased consumption and resource use, which would cause the rise in GNP.) A stimulus check that reduces carbon emissions to boot just may appeal to the public.

But what's the incentive to use less energy, if there's a nice fat dividend coming in? The answer lies in the power of the "price signal": if fossil fuel prices rise, the natural choice becomes the cheaper products—those created without fossil fuels.

What about personal freedoms? Advocates point out that when we let price signals guide behavior (vs. relying solely on command-and-control regulation), the changes individuals make to reduce their carbon footprints are their choice, based on their priorities.

The polarizing question of regulations definitely begs more dialogue. Oversimplified, the left wants them, the right doesn't. But perhaps we can find a sweet spot.

For instance, the Energy Innovation and Dividend Act in Congress regulates the global warming potential of greenhouse gases, including carbon dioxide, methane, and nitrous oxide (reducing emissions faster than the Clean Power Plan and the Paris Agreement).

But it does not touch mileage standards like CAFÉ, or building codes. Nor does it preclude protections against pollutants like NOx, sulfur, ozone, particulates, and mercury. And if targets aren't hit after 10 years, regulatory authority is restored.

Can one policy do it all, or should complementary policies work together? Most carbon pricing supporters acknowledge a tax on combustion of fossil fuels is not a silver bullet, and can be only part of the puzzle.

For instance, to meet minimum targets, we'll still need to tackle emissions from land use, such as forestry and agriculture, and industrial processes, like cement production.

And we'll still need to consider frontline communities that disproportionately suffer from fossil fuel pollution. The Energy Innovations bill in Congress regulates only the climate warming potential of emissions, allowing other legislation to be drafted to regulate their health impacts. This could be a significant avenue of assisting vulnerable populations.

When conversations get started, lines in the sand can fade. The growing realization of the urgency of the situation may force us to look for solutions that can bridge the divides. A carbon tax just might be worth discussing. Now.

Hello,

Thank you for sharing your concerns, and I agree. The way this ADU ordinance is proposed leaves it open to changes down the road that would basically create all sorts of problems as you describe. Some have described the ADU as potentially a backdoor to up-zoning the entire city. I favor allowing ADU's in their traditional form, inside the envelope of an owner-occupied house. This issue, and that of all short-term rental-, like Air Bnb - is very much on my radar, and I will do what I can to make sure that existing stable affordable housing is not taken off the market.

Hello,

Our North Buuns Park neighborhood president told us about the proposed change to remove the restriction that an ADU be rented for 30 days or more.

This is a huge mistake because it will create more football weekend party houses that we don't need. We already have an alumni party house on Cambridge now.

We urge the council to think of unintended consequences of ordinance changes. I am sure none of you would want a football party house in your neighbor's backyard.

These ADUs were sold to the public as "affordable housing" but that is not what happened, and if you remove the 30 day requirement, they will just become high priced vacation rentals and nuisances.

Thank you,

Thanks Emily!

Fellow Commissioners: Please note from this table how rapidly these limits are falling. In fact, proposals for total PFOA and PFOS exposures are now less than 1 ng/day, to protect in utero and young children. These numbers are based on evidence that exposure above these levels depresses development of the immune system and raises cholesterol levels, which are the easiest effects to measure. There are certainly others. I've attached the relevant documents.

Since these PFAS compounds have been around for decades, the damage has mostly already been done. Blood levels of PFOA and PFOS have been declining since their manufacture was phased out in the US. However, the main danger now is the PFAS compounds that have replaced them: GenX, PFBS, and some thousands of others. These are just as persistent in the environment, only less bio-accumulative in humans, but even harder to remove from drinking water. It will take decades to understand their potential health and ecological effects, unless we all demand more testing BEFORE they are mass-manufactured and released into the environment. To accomplish this will require reforming the Toxic Substances Control Act at the Federal level. Meanwhile, the only solution is to move upstream and upwind.

Assuming 1 Liter (Quart) of water ingested per day, these limits correspond to 1-2 ppt for PFOA and PFOS. I'm not aware of any technology that can reliably or cheaply attain these limits for treatment of drinking water.

Immunotoxicity of perfluorinated alkylates: calculation of benchmark doses based on serum concentrations in children

Philippe Grandjean^{1,2*} and Esben Budtz-Jørgensen³

Abstract

Background: Immune suppression may be a critical effect associated with exposure to perfluorinated compounds (PFCs), as indicated by recent data on vaccine antibody responses in children. Therefore, this information may be crucial when deciding on exposure limits.

Methods: Results obtained from follow-up of a Faroese birth cohort were used. Serum-PFC concentrations were measured at age 5 years, and serum antibody concentrations against tetanus and diphtheria toxoids were obtained at age 7 years. Benchmark dose results were calculated in terms of serum concentrations for 431 children with complete data using linear and logarithmic curves, and sensitivity analyses were included to explore the impact of the low-dose curve shape.

Results: Under different linear assumptions regarding dose-dependence of the effects, benchmark dose levels were about 1.3 ng/mL serum for perfluorooctane sulfonic acid and 0.3 ng/mL serum for perfluorooctanoic acid at a benchmark response of 5%. These results are below average serum concentrations reported in recent population studies. Even lower results were obtained using logarithmic dose-response curves. Assumption of no effect below the lowest observed dose resulted in higher benchmark dose results, as did a benchmark response of 10%.

Conclusions: The benchmark dose results obtained are in accordance with recent data on toxicity in experimental models. When the results are converted to approximate exposure limits for drinking water, current limits appear to be several hundred fold too high. Current drinking water limits therefore need to be reconsidered.

Background

Perfluorinated compounds (PFCs) have been in use for over 60 years in a wide array of applications. PFCs were first manufactured in the US from about 1947, with perfluorooctanoic acid (PFOA) and perfluorooctane sulfonic acid (PFOS) as primary products [1]. PFC was later found to contaminate ground and surface water, and PFOS was found to accumulate in freshwater fish [2]. These compounds possess a strong carbon-fluorine bond, which leads to persistence of the PFCs in the environment and the human body [2]. Thus, the high thermal, chemical and biological inertness that make the PFCs useful for many industrial purposes at the same time also generates an environmental hazard.

Serum-PFC analyses conducted by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) show that PFOS and PFOA are detectable in virtually all Americans [3], with children often showing higher serum concentrations than adults [4]. Analyses of paired samples of maternal serum and cord serum show that PFCs are transferred through the human placenta [5,6]. Due to global dissemination of PFCs, their serum concentrations in children and pregnant women even in the remote locations, such as the Faroe Islands [7], are similar to US levels. Exposures to some PFCs in the Faroes may occur primarily through marine diets [8]. Despite the extensive use of these compounds for many decades, and the persistence and cumulative properties of the PFCs, the toxicology data base is still incomplete and has allowed only preliminary risk assessments so far.

Using animal toxicity data, calculations of benchmark dose levels (BMDLs) have been carried out for a 10% deviation relative to control values (i.e., a Benchmark Response or BMR of 10%); they resulted in serum concentrations of 23 mg/L and 35 mg/L for PFOA and PFOS, respectively [9-11]. Toxicokinetic modeling and standard assumptions about water intake then allow derivation of acceptable drinking water levels [11,12]. So far, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has issued a draft risk assessment of PFOA in 2005, but no final version has yet been published, nor has a Reference Dose (RfD) been defined. However, the EPA has issued provisional health advisories of 0.4 µg/L (400 ng/L) for PFOA and 0.2 µg/L (200 ng/L) for PFOS in drinking water [13]. Similarly, the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry concluded in its draft toxicological profile in 2009 that there was insufficient evidence at the time to develop a minimal risk level [1]. For chronic exposure, state authorities have issued limits for PFC concentrations in drinking the water, e.g., in Minnesota [14], where the limit for both PFOS and PFOA is 0.3 µg/L (300 ng/L). The limits were based on PFOS effects on the liver and thyroid, and PFOA effects on the liver, fetal development, reduction in red blood cell numbers, and immune system changes in experimental studies [11]. A lower guidance limit of 0.04 µg/L (40 ng/L) has been determined for PFOA by the state of New Jersey [15]. Other agencies, such as the European Food Safety Authority [16] have recommended similar exposure limits that relied on the same toxicology data while using different default assumptions.

PFC toxicity in animal models at first suggested the liver as a main target organ, but so far chronic toxicity data only in the rat have been published [1,12,17,18]. However, recent evidence suggests that toxicology outcomes used in derivation of exposure limits may not represent the most sensitive endpoints. Thus, interference with mammary gland development in mice with developmental exposure seems to occur at low exposures; benchmark dose calculations using a variety of models showed that a 10% BMR corresponded to a serum-based BMDL for PFOA of 23–25 µg/L (or ng/mL) [12,17]. This BMDL differs by a factor of 1,000 from the previously mentioned BMDL based on liver toxicity (i.e., 23 mg/L or 23,000 µg/L). Thus, current limits for PFOA in drinking water based on the latter value may not be as protective as intended, despite the use of uncertainty factors.

Likewise, immunotoxicity of PFCs has been demonstrated in rodent models, avian models, reptilian models, and mammalian and nonmammalian wildlife [19]. For example, in a commonly used mouse model, PFOA effects include decreased spleen and thymus weights, decreased thymocyte and splenocyte counts, decreased immunoglobulin response, and changes in specific populations of lymphocytes in the spleen and thymus. Reduced survival after influenza infection has also been reported as an apparent effect of PFOS exposure in mice [20]. Another study found that the lowest observed effect level (LOEL) for males corresponded to an average serum-PFOS concentration of 92 ng/g (about 94 µg/L), though 7-fold higher in females [21]. The LOEL serum concentration in males is similar to typical levels found in serum samples from subjects exposed to contaminated drinking water [22].

Given the concern about immunotoxicity as a possible critical effect [19] and the possibility of developmental toxicity [23], studies in child populations have recently focused on antibody responses to childhood immunizations as a clinically relevant parameter that reflects major immune system functions [24]. The subjects have all received the same doses of vaccine antigens at the same ages and can then be examined at similar ages, i.e., similar intervals after the most recent vaccination [25]. Our studies focused on the fishing community of the Faroe Islands [8], and these prospective population data [7] seem appropriate for calculating benchmark doses as a contribution to future risk assessments.

While benchmark dose calculations from toxicology data are fairly straightforward, using epidemiological studies can be more complicated due to the need for covariate adjustments [26]. In addition, decisions on dose–response models may be crucial, as a null exposure group is usually not available, thus requiring extrapolations beyond the exposure interval observed.

Methods

A birth cohort in the Faroe Islands was recruited and consisted of 656 consecutive singleton births from late 1997 to early 2000. Prospective follow-up included 587 cohort members participated in one or both examinations at ages 5 and 7 years [7], of whom 460 participated on both examinations, and complete data with serum analyses were obtained for 431. As exposure indicator, we used the PFC concentrations in the child's serum obtained at the clinical examination at age 5 years. The outcomes were the specific antibody concentrations against tetanus and diphtheria toxoids in serum at age 7 years. Of the PFCs, PFOS and PFOA showed the highest concentrations (Table 1), similar to levels reported from the US [3]. We also measured maternal pregnancy serum PFC concentrations, which showed strong negative correlations with antibody concentrations at age 5 years. However, we chose to focus on the PFCs in the child's serum at age 5 and their uniformly negative associations with antibody levels at age 7, as these data apparently represented the greatest sensitivity to PFC exposure so far documented and were not confounded by exposures to other environmental chemicals. The dependence of the antibody concentrations on PFC exposures was determined by generalized additive models [27]. Written maternal consent was obtained, and the protocol was approved by the ethical review committee at the Faroe Islands and by the review board at the US institution.

Benchmark calculations

The data were analyzed as continuous variables in SAS version 9.2. Although a clinical cut-off level exists for antibody concentrations that represent long-term protection, this limit is somewhat arbitrary, and transformation of the continuous data to a dichotomous variable results in a loss of information.

Benchmark calculations were therefore based on regression models with antibody concentrations as dependent variables while PFC-concentrations were included as independent variables along with potential confounders sex, age and booster type at age 5 [7]. To achieve normally distributed residuals, antibody concentrations were log-transformed. Thus, we based models on the formula where d is the PFC concentration (PFOS or PFOA) measured at 5 years and f is the dose-response function satisfying $f(0) = 0$. We modeled the PFC-effect using a linear-dose response function [$f(d) = \beta \times d$], a logarithmic model [$f(d) = \beta \times \log(d + 1)$] and the so-called K-power model [$f(d) = \beta \times d^K$, $K > 1$]. As the dose-response relationship at low doses may differ from the one at higher doses, we also used a piecewise linear model, which allowed for a difference in slopes at the median exposure. Calculations were carried out for PFOS and PFOA separately. Given their close correlations, it was not possible to include mutual adjustment in the models.

$$\log(\text{antibody}) = \alpha_0 + \alpha_1 \times \text{sex} + \alpha_2 \times \text{age} + \alpha_3 \times \text{booster type} + f(d) + \epsilon,$$

The BMD is the dose which reduces the outcome by a certain percentage (BMR) compared to unexposed controls [28,29]. Several different BMR values have been used in the past, and lower BMR levels are known to result in decreased BMD results, in part because the uncertainty increases [26]. By convention, a 10% BMR is often used for experimental toxicology data [28,29]. On the other hand, a decreased antibody response to vaccinations must be regarded as an important adverse effect, thus supporting the selection of a lower BMR. Thus, in human studies, a BMR of 5% is often chosen [29]. We therefore calculated BMD results for BMR values of 5% and 10%. An advantage of a log-transformed response is that BMD can be estimated independently of the confounders as the dose where the dose-response function is equal to $\log(1 - \text{BMR})$, i.e., the BMD, will satisfy the equation $f(\text{BMD}) = \log(1 - \text{BMR})$.

As the main result of the calculations, the benchmark dose level (BMDL) is defined as the lower one-sided 95%-confidence limit of the BMD. In the dose-response models with linear parameters (linear, log and piecewise linear models), the derivation of closed form expressions for the BMDL is straight forward [30]. Based on the estimated uncertainty in the parameter estimates, the lower confidence limit of the dose-effect function [$f(d)$] can be determined. The BMDL is given as the dose where this confidence limit is equal to $\log(1 - \text{BMR})$. For non-linear models, the BMDL was calculated using the (iterative) profile likelihood method. The fit of the models was based on minus two times the log-maximum likelihood function ($-2 \log(L)$), where a smaller value indicates a better fit. The low dose fit was measured by calculating $-2\log(L)$ based on children with exposures in the lowest quartile.

As a consequence of the relatively steep dose-response relationships, the BMDs were sometimes lower than the minimum observed exposure, and some results therefore depended on a part of the dose-response curve, for which the data does not hold any information. As a sensitivity analysis, we therefore developed a low-dose threshold version of each of the dose-response models used. Each of these models was identical to the original dose-response model within the observed dose range, but with a flat dose-response slope below the lowest dose observed (Figure 1).

Results

Descriptive results are shown in Table 1. Children who participated in one clinical examination, but not the other, did not seem to differ in terms of exposure levels and antibody concentrations from those cohort subjects who participated in both examinations.

Generally, the log model yielded lower BMDs, but only for the PFOS did these results provide a (marginally) better fit than the linear slope (Table 2). The model-dependence was similar for tetanus and diphtheria antibody concentrations as outcome variables. When using the linear slope and a BMR of 5%, the BMDL was about 1.3 ng/mL and

Figure 1 Estimated dose–response functions for the relationship between PFOS and the diphtheria-antibody concentration. Curve A is estimated as a generalized additive model. Curve B is the log-function, C is piecewise linear, and D is linear. The low-dose threshold models (see Table 3) assume a flat curve below the lowest observed dose indicated by the dotted vertical line, i.e., that a threshold exists at the lowest serum-PFOS concentration observed. The bars on the horizontal scale indicate the serum-PFOS concentration of each participating cohort member.

0.3 ng/mL for PFOS and PFOA, respectively. The piecewise linear curve showed BMDL results about half the level of the linear dose–response curve, while the logarithmic curve showed even lower results. In the K-power model, the power parameter was estimated to one, and this model was therefore identical to the linear model. As expected, results were higher at a BMR of 10%.

All dose–response models had normally distributed residuals with a homogeneous scatter. The piecewise linear generally had the closest fit, but it was not significantly better than the alternative models. For the association between PFOS and the diphtheria antibody concentration, Figure 1 illustrates the agreement between the different models within the observed data range. The linear function is less steep at the low doses, which explains why this model yields higher benchmark results.

Using the low-dose threshold models with a flat dose–response below the lowest observed exposure levels, the BMDL results for the linear curve were about 5-fold higher than for the non-threshold curve (Table 3). The low-dose threshold results for both the piecewise and the logarithmic curves approximated those obtained using a linear slope.

Discussion

The present report presents the first benchmark dose results for human PFC exposure. It relies on serum-PFC measurements at age 5, and serum concentrations of specific antibodies two years later as clinically relevant measures of immune functions. The size and homogeneity of the study population and the high participation rate are major strengths [7]. The associations that appeared the strongest were selected for BMD calculations. Although this selection was not based on an a priori hypothesis and therefore could result in bias, structural equation model analyses suggest that the overall effects of PFCs on antibodies were stronger than most individual effects [7]. Concomitant exposure to PCBs did not cause any important confounding. We included age and sex as covariates, but they affected the results to a negligible degree only.

However, a weakness is the close correlation between PFOA and PFOS, which makes mutual PFC adjustment difficult. Structural equation models suggest that the joint effects of major PFCs were stronger than those that could be ascribed to single compounds [7], and it is therefore possible that each of the major PFCs contribute to the effects. Given the strong experimental support for immunotoxicity of both PFOA and PFOS [19], the BMD levels would seem to provide approximate levels of concern for human exposures.

The choice of dose–response models is known to result in different BMD results from epidemiological studies, where unexposed controls are often missing [26]. In the absence of prior knowledge regarding the shape of the curve, we used two common curve shapes (linear and logarithmic) to explore the dependence of the data on these two assumptions. The two curves fit the data equally well, and no statistical justification is therefore available for choosing one set of results above the others. The linear curve is often used as a default, and we therefore further examined a model with a piecewise linear shape and one with a flat slope below the lowest observed level of exposure. For each of the two PFCs, these sensitivity analyses showed that the BMDL results remained low. As anticipated, the 5% BMR results in BMDL values somewhat below those for 10%, but differences between the curve shapes were not smaller at an increased BMR.

The vaccine-specific antibody concentrations used in our recent study [7] are thought to represent sensitive immunotoxicity parameters. Other clinical outcome measures may be less sensitive. For example, hospitalization of 363 children up to an average age of 8 years for infectious diseases (such as middle ear infection, pneumonia, and appendicitis) was not associated with PFOS and PFOA concentrations in serum from pregnant women from the Danish National Birth Cohort [31]. Multiple social, demographic and other factors may have affected these results, and hospitalization does not seem to be a sensitive or appropriate test of the presence of immune system dysfunction. In adults exposed to PFOA through contaminated drinking water, the serum-PFOA concentration was associated with lower serum concentrations of total IgA, IgE (in females only), though not IgG [32]. Although confirmation from other human studies is therefore lacking so far, experimental studies offer support that specific immunoglobulin concentrations may be sensitive indicators of immune system dysfunctions [19].

Interaction with peroxisome proliferator-activated receptors (PPARs) may be involved in the immunotoxic mechanisms [1,19]. While human PPAR α expression is significantly less than that of rodents, current evidence suggests that both PPAR α -dependent and -independent pathways may be relevant to PFC immunotoxicity [33]. In human white blood cells in vitro, mechanistic studies of PFC-induced suppression of cytokine secretion demonstrated that PPAR α activation was involved in the PFOA-induced immunotoxicity, while other pathways appeared responsible in regard to the effects of PFOS [34]. White blood cells from human volunteers showed effects at PFOS concentrations in the medium of 0.1 μ g/mL (100 ng/mL), which was the lowest concentration tested [35]. This level is similar to concentrations seen both in affected male mice [21] and in subjects exposed to contaminated drinking water [22].

Based on both experimental and human studies, an approximate BMDL of 1 μ g/L would seem to be an appropriate order of magnitude for calculation of exposure limits for the PFCs. As the BMDL assumes equal sensitivity within the population studied, current guidelines [28,29] require that the BMDL be divided by an uncertainty factor of 10 to take into account the existence of subjects with increased vulnerability. A concentration of about 0.1 ng/mL could then be used as the serum-based RfD for the PFCs (somewhat higher for PFOS and lower for PFOA).

Using mammary gland development as a sensitive outcome in experimental studies [17], a BMDL of about 23 ng/mL serum was calculated for PFOA [12]. Taking into account interspecies differences in vulnerability and using a total uncertainty factor of 30, an RfD of 0.8 ng/mL serum would be derived from this BMDL. Thus, although referring to a different endpoint, this calculation is in good accordance with the one estimated from our epidemiological data.

A serum-based RfD less than 1 ng/mL for PFOS and PFOA would be below most concentrations reported in recent studies [3,7,31]. Importantly, estimated RfD values below 1 ng/mL are at least 100-fold below those used for calculation of current water contamination limits. PFOA concentrations in drinking water are known to correlate with the serum concentrations of long-term residents in Ohio and West Virginia at an approximate ratio of about 1:100 [12,15,36]. Thus, from these data, a serum-based RfD of 0.1 ng/mL can be translated to a water concentration of 1 ng/L, or 0.001 µg/L (assuming that no other sources contributed to the PFOA exposure). The current EPA limit for this PFC is 300-fold higher. Thus, the recent evidence on PFC immunotoxicity in humans and toxicity in animal models suggests that current limits for drinking water contamination are too permissive and must be decreased substantially.

Conclusions

BMDL results were about 1.3 ng/mL serum for PFOS and 0.3 ng/mL serum for PFOA at a benchmark response of 5%. Lower values were obtained with the logarithmic curve, and higher results with a larger benchmark response. The BMDL results are in accordance with recent data on toxicity in experimental models. When converted to approximate exposure limits for drinking water, current limits appear to be several hundred fold too high. Current drinking water limits therefore need to be reconsidered in the light of the observed immunotoxicity associated with PFC exposure.

Councilmember Bannister,

The City cannot explain this post nor are we aware of a gag order. It appears that this social media post is referring to the water in Flint, not Ann Arbor, and that it is possible that the medical professionals are not sharing requested information. However, we can provide information about the City's drinking water quality, <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/water-treatment/quality/Pages/default.aspx>, and answer any questions that they may have about the City's water treatment processes, finished water quality, and/or proactive steps that we have taken to address the detection of PFAS in our source water. The following link, <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/water-treatment/Pages/PFAS-Information.aspx#health%20risks>, provides information on risks associated with dermal contact associated with recreation on the Huron River as well as the fish advisory.

Can you explain this fellas comment ? What is this gag order he's talking about? I am particularly concerned because I spend a lot of time in and on the Huron River in the summer, but I have been drinking only reverse osmosis waterFrom those big filter machines at the grocery stores for about the last six months. Thanks for your time with this concern!

Thank you again Councilmember Bannister for getting back to us and sending your availability. We definitely want to take you up on one of those dates, except we understand there is a city council meeting next Monday that could involve some actions that have consequences for Ann Arbor's climate action. Is there any way we could meet this week, before next Monday? We are willing to come to you or jump on the phone if an in-person meeting is not possible.

Thanks in advance.

Hello Councilmember Bannister,

I hope you are well. I'm a Ward 1 constituent and we have chatted on the phone before, but now I'm reaching out officially on behalf of Michigan League of Conservation Voters (I work there). I'd like to request a meeting to discuss environment and conservation issues relevant to the city of Ann Arbor, specifically in relation to the city's climate action plan and related funding decisions before the council.

Do you have some time in the coming week or two to meet? Depending on your availability, our Executive Director Lisa Wozniak or another team member might also join.

Thanks in advance for your willingness to meet and I will be in touch.

Hello Councilmember Bannister,

I hope you are well. I'm a Ward 1 constituent and we have chatted on the phone before, but now I'm reaching out officially on behalf of Michigan League of Conservation Voters (I work there). I'd like to request a meeting to discuss environment and conservation issues relevant to the city of Ann Arbor, specifically in relation to the city's climate action plan and related funding decisions before the council.

Do you have some time in the coming week or two to meet? Depending on your availability, our Executive Director Lisa Wozniak or another team member might also join.

Thanks in advance for your willingness to meet and I will be in touch.

Mr. Lazarus,

I am forwarding the email below from a Ward 4 resident about the condition of Greenview Drive. This is one of many streets in the Ward that are in terrible condition. I wonder if you could have staff explain the process for prioritizing street projects. As the City struggles to catch up on street paving, it would be helpful for residents to know what goes into the decision making process for determine the order in which streets are improved.

Thank you,

Hello Council Members Eaton and Nelson:

I am a 4th ward resident residing on Greenview between Scio and 7th and I am contacting you in regards to the recently announced plans for road improvements throughout the city. I understand that a significant number of our roads need to be addressed, but my concern is the condition of our stretch of road in particular which is not on the list.

If you haven't had a reason to recently drive this little stretch please do so. It was not in the best condition prior to the closure of the 7th and Scio intersection for an extended period of time and now it is horrible condition. The increased traffic during that time, its frequent use as an access point/drop-off point for Lawton Elementary, and the continued freeze/thaw conditions of this year's winter require it to be addressed. Add to this that the 7th and Scio intersection will be closing again shortly to finish that project, and the ensuing increased use during that closure, will leave our road in desperate need of being addressed.

My request is that you each take a moment out of your day to drive that short stretch to see its condition for yourself. As an avid runner I can confidently say it is in the bottom quarter of our city's road quality.

I am hoping that my email will begin a conversation with the road team within city hall and possibly lead to it being addressed this year due to its condition, its location adjacent to one of our elementary schools, and its frequent/increased use due to the road construction projects in our area.

I look forward to hearing from one or both of you.

Thank you,
Mike

Mr.Bahr,

I have forwarded your email to staff to share your concerns. I also asked for an explanation of how staff determines the priority of street projects. As you note, Greenview isn't the only terrible street in town. I am sure there is some rational method for determining which street gets attention first. Hopefully e will learn about that process and perhaps the panned day for improving Greenview.

Best wishes,
Jack

Hi,

I know exactly what you're talking about, from the perspective of a cyclist. I biked your street a lot this summer and it's atrocious (it was only slightly better than Seventh, which was also terrifying in terms of road surface).

I appreciate you reaching out—I am new to Council so I suspect CM Eaton might have a clearer idea than me about how we advocate for specific streets in the capital improvement plans. I don't know how opaque or transparent the process is, but CM Eaton might have a better idea about that.

Hi there. I think there was some miscommunication amongst my group, in part because we have a neighbor named Jack - sorry for the confusion.

The meeting today at 3 p.m. is primarily to honor our neighbor Dick Fortune, who died Wednesday, a victim of homicide. We (our group) were also thinking we'd touch on the Brightdawn proposal as an ancillary matter, which is why I figured that asking everyone at that time about meeting with you and Anne might be a good opportunity.

But - to cut to the chase - I think next weekend will be an excellent time to meet, and I'll ask about that specifically. If it's okay with the Bogdans ([REDACTED] whom I've copied on this email, maybe we could meet at their house. I'll get back to you very soon. And, THANKS SO MUCH! Again.

Dear Aaron Rosenbaum,

I'm sorry to hear of your 3 bent wheels and 2 blown tires due to the road conditions.

The City posts the 2019 maintenance projects here:

<https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Pages/Construction-Projects.aspx>

If you know of any particularly dangerous locations, I encourage you to report it to the City via this webpage:

<https://www.a2gov.org/services/Pages/Report-a-Problem.aspx>

City staff are tracking resident concerns and prioritizing repairs and maintenance accordingly.

You may also tell Council your concerns in-person, by signing up for Public Commentary at Council meetings.

More details are here and our next meeting is Monday, March 4: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/city-council/Pages/CityCouncilMeetings.aspx>

Thanks for sending your feedback.

Councilwoman Bannister,

My name is Aaron Rosenblum and I live in Ward 1 in Ann Arbor. I am writing you with concern over the state of the roads in the Ann Arbor area. Many local roads are in extremely poor shape with large potholes, uneven surfaces, exposed manholes, and crumbling pavement. In some cases these roads are unsafe to drive on at posted speeds without risk of impact damage to cars, and people are swerving all over the road to avoid hitting potholes which is dangerous as well. Is there anything being done to fix this ongoing issue? Anything to change how roads are maintained here so maybe they don't get this bad to begin with?

Over the past two years I have bent 3 wheels and blown two tires due to potholes and poorly paved surfaces driving around town. This cost over $1000 to fix. I don't drive a fancy car that is particularly prone to these problems.

thanks

Aaron

Dear Mr. Lazarus and Mr. Fournier and Ms. Allen,

Thanks for sending the attached draft resolution.

While I would like to proceed with a resolution to ask Council to waive special assessments for priority sidewalk gaps, the draft does not fit with what I had in mind.

Please explain how it would require 250 staff hours and/or third party consultants? Plus, would the due date of Sept. 2019 be too late to waive the special assessments for Traver and Brookside?

An involuntary special assessment runs contrary to Council's numerous discussions and written statements about a strong desire to protect affordability for residents.

Involuntary special assessments can have a big impact on a personal household budget, and a relatively small impact on the City budget as a whole.

Do we have a staff member who could pull together some ballpark figures on our citywide priority sidewalk gaps, and estimate a range of costs for waiving the special assessments?

These are some related webpages that might help them get started:

- <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Pages/Street-and-Sidewalk-Millage.aspx>
- <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Pages/New-Sidewalks-FAQ.aspx>

Please also send us an update on the project as a whole as it currently stands, and update the designated webpage: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Pages/Northside-STEAM-Sidewalk-Gap-Project.aspx>

From the neighborhood perspective, they still have an almost unanimous opposition to the project plan as it was last reported. Would that lack of public support trigger an 8-vote requirement for the third and fourth resolutions? If those resolutions were to fail, what would that mean for the City's relationship with MDOT and the grant program going forward?

As Council went through the budget working session last night, it was duly noted that $1M goes much further toward improving public safety and safe routes to school when it is spent on priority locations and lighting, rather than over-spending on sidewalks for the limited area of Brookside and the 1600 block of Traver. Please see these itemized expenses to understand how costly it is to taxpayers to cut into hillsides and remove trees, etc: <https://www.a2gov.org/departments/engineering/Documents/Estimate.pdf>

A quick summary of Mr. Lazarus' email below:

- The first paragraph says Council has the ability to extend the period of time for taxpayers to pay for the sidewalks.
- The second paragraph is about the draft resolution to ask Council to authorize staff time to research other ways to pay for sidewalks. I remain committed to taxpayers not having to pay for sidewalk gaps; it's a small cost for the City and a big impact on the affordability for households, etc...

Councilmember Bannister:

I am writing to follow-up on our discussions about cost allocations for special assessment districts for sidewalks. Both Public Services staff and the City Attorney's Office have provided feedback to you that informs you under City code that Council has the ability to set the payment terms for these assessments, and to divide the costs in an "equitable manner," specifically in cases when a "100% of the costs of the improvements will be borne by the owners of properties specially benefitting from them, does not accurately reflect the benefit to the city at large and the private benefit. (Chapter 12, Section 1:274(3) of the City Code of Ordinances)." As a matter of precedent, Council has not waived from the 100% allocation in the past, and the circumstances on Traver Street do not differ from past instances Council has considered. Notwithstanding, you may choose to offer an amendment to the special assessment resolution (Resolution No. 4) when it is presented to Council.

We have also discussed your desire to have staff research other options to fund sidewalk gaps. Doing appropriate research will require an investment of staff time, so I have indicated to you I would like direction from Council as a whole to pursue this path. I've attached a draft resolution for you to consider per our conversation. Kindly review and let me know if you would like to sponsor it for the February 19th Council meeting.

As always, please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of further assistance.

_____.”

TITLE

Resolution Directing the City Administrator to Develop Options for Financing New Sidewalk Construction.

MEMORANDUM

The City of Ann Arbor has adopted the strategic goals of being a warm, welcoming, and safe community and providing sustainable infrastructure. Consistent with these goals is providing an accessible and connected sidewalk network. However, many gaps exist in this network and the primary means of filling in the gaps under City Code relies on the creation of special assessment districts under which property owners must pay for new sidewalks on their properties. While City staff has done an exceptional job of finding grants and funding opportunities to lessen the cost to homeowners, special assessments may introduce significant financial burdens. This resolution requests that the City Administrator research how peer cities fund new sidewalk construction and provide recommendations to City Council.

BUDGET IMPACT: This resolution requires the dedication of approximately 250 staff hours or the equivalent effort through third party consultants.

APPROVED AND SPONSORED BY: Councilmember Anne Bannister

BODY

Whereas the City of Ann Arbor has adopted the strategic goals of being a warm, welcoming, and safe city and providing sustainable infrastructure

Whereas providing a connected and accessible pedestrian facilities is critical to this goal, and

Whereas the City has numerous gaps in the sidewalk network.

Whereas the current City code requires that new sidewalk construction be funded through special assessment districts that may impose difficult financial burdens on homeowners.

RESOLVED, That the City Council directs the City Administrator to research the means by which peer cities provide financial resources for the construction of new sidewalks and present alternatives and recommendations to Council on or before September 15, 2019.

This response from vharrison@a2gov.org still does not answer any of my questions. I knew the city of Ann Arbor was wrong from the beginning. Trespassing and then lying about it. I called that out the second you stepped on my private property and started digging holes. I and my neighbors new that vharrison with your sad formulated response that only

My questions are why did Ann at the civil engineers office tell me the city had the right to use my land freely, then when I confronted her and said she was completely wrong and she was clearly lying for someone she stopped talking. I asked to speak with a supervisor and she said no, she wouldn't transfer me. This issue is the first that needs to be dealt with. I shouldn't have to call the mayors office bitching to get a response and answer from a professional at the civil engineer office who's only goal was to deny and block my efforts in getting that answer, which in the end was said to be an error on paperwork. That office was lying and trying to keep it a secret. Sad sons a bitches to say the least!

Second we have the issue of intimidation the construction workers brought to my door when they tried to lie and deny me any answers yet again. Telling me their contact at the civil engineering office was also a cop! How the hell does someone's moonlighting job have a God damn thing to do with the trespass and illegal work going on at my house and in the city of Ann Arbor?

That would be the 4th try at this point to get an answer from the people who are supposed to know that answer and not lie to the public when questioned.

If I get another bullshit response form any of those assholes listed in this email thread or no response at all for any of the questions i asked I will just be adding that silence to the posts I will be making public soon enough with everyone names and offices listed and their neglect to the people of Ann Arbor they serve.

Remember Ann Arbor, you've already committed trespass on all kinds of people in the city thus far. We will most certainly be discussing it and then taking legal action against the city and everyone involved with this coverup.

You need to stop bullshitting people and acting like you have some authority to do so. YOU ARE NOT ABOVE THE LAW!!! Your ego is about to be checked real hard!

Answer the god damn questions I've asked.

Anne Bannister of ward 1 is the only person to respond and help so this message does not apply to her in anyway. Just so we are clear.

I'm not playing. My ass will be at the next city hall public meeting asking the same questions to all of your faces so the public can see on tv. You will most certainly have to answer then.

Next door/ Facebook townies politics / mlive, and many more will be getting copies of what has transpired so far.

Ann Arbor city council and city admin, you are a bunch of failures

After speaking with Mr. Risinger, staff confirmed that the plans submitted by ADC.net, a telecommunications company, incorrectly depicted the Edgewood right-of-way as 66' (a typical width) instead of the actual 50' right-of-way. The contractor performing the work was told by our inspector to cease construction and that ACD.net must submit plans depicting the correct right-of-way. The city inspector and city Engineer also spoke with Mr. Risinger. Any private use of public land requires an easement or other agreement.

Subject: City of Ann Arbor committing illegal activities in local government offices

City council members and city administration office,

I am writing today to ask a few questions I have regarding my recent experience with the city of Ann Arbor civil engineering office and the construction company currently laying fiber optics on private property in the city of Ann Arbor.

A third party construction company hired by an unknown "telecommunications company" has trespassed onto my private property as well as other citizens in Ann Arbor. This construction company is laying fiber optic lines outside of "the right of way" on private property here in the city of Ann Arbor.

This all started when I contacted the civil engineers office to get an answer as to why my private property was being used for this fiber optic installation. The office initially claimed there is this new "grey area" in legislature that allows a city to use 6-12" of anyones private property without asking them first. Could any one of you please produce something that states the city of Ann Arbor has the right to use 6-12" of my private property without asking me or any of my neighbors?

This comes down to an Eminent Domain issue. If this telecommunications company or the city of Ann Arbor needed to use private property, said parties should have approached the rightful owners of those private properties directly with some proposal, a solution and/or mutual agreement with due compensation paid. Allowing this fiber optic line to lay on private property ultimately compromises that private property. Home owners who pay taxes in this city should be not compromised in such a way. Who would ever think this was OK, legally and/or morally?

Why did the city go to such efforts to keep me from getting a simple answer? I asked to speak with a supervisor at the civil engineers office and was told No. The woman on the phone, Ann, said she OK's the permits and there was no one else I could speak with. Are supervisors not available to answer the public's questions?

I was then met with contradictions from the civil engineers office after I said my neighbors and I would sue the city over this. All of a sudden, the engineers office claims the paper work was wrong the whole time. So what is it? The 6-12" they were so sure of before the mention of a law suit or the paper work mistake after the mention of a law suit. I most certainly want to see that explanation for that one.

I am directly on the watershed. Mallets creek is directly behind my house and a watershed drain is directly in front of my house. This installation requires the construction company to inject some blue solution into the ground to either feed the fiber optics through the ground or to drill the hole the cable will be fed through. I'd like to see the permit that says this solution is safe.

Did the city parks also allow this telecommunications company to use their property which is clearly being used right now?

Thank you for the time city council, I look forward to hearing your responses and hope you can provide some answers for me as well as my neighbors and anyone else who's had this construction work done on their property so far.

Steve Sliver named as MPART executive director

LANSING, Mich -The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) today announced that Steve Sliver has been named as executive director of the Michigan PFAS Action Response Team (MPART).

A 32-year veteran of state government, Sliver is the former assistant director of MDEQ's Waste Management and Radiological Protection Division. Sliver was assigned to MPART in April 2018 where he served as MDEQ's senior representative within the organization. In that role, Sliver led several major MPART initiatives, including the recently completed sampling of public water systems and schools throughout the state for PFAS.

MDEQ Director Liesl Clark commented: "Steve will continue to bring his strong technical background and collaborative approach to the table as he takes on the added leadership responsibilities as the head of MPART. I have every confidence he will continue our shared mission of protecting the public from excessive PFAS exposures and establishing Michigan as a national leader in responding to these contaminants."

Sliver takes over from former MPART executive director Carol Isaacs who retired at the end of 2018.

MPART was the first-of-its-kind PFAS taskforce in the nation when it was launched in 2017 through an Executive Directive by then-Governor Rick Snyder. MPART was reestablished by Governor Gretchen Whitmer in 2019 through Executive Order 2019-3 which made MPART a permanent advisory body within MDEQ.

PFAS compounds are a group of emerging and potentially harmful contaminants used in thousands of applications globally including firefighting foam, food packaging, and many other consumer products. These compounds also are used by industries such as tanneries, metal platers, and clothing manufacturers

For more information on PFAS and Michigan's public water system testing program visit the MPART web site at: Michigan.gov/PFASresponse.

I monitor the DEQ emails for our office and have been passing along some of the PFAS and Gelman ones. There's so much info from them about PFAS and Gelman though that I'm not sure about passing along every one. I'd encourage folks to sign up at the DEQ webpage to be sure to get everything. Or if it is the will of the Commission to get all PFAS and Gelman DEQ emails, I'm happy to forward them along.

Hi there. I think there was some miscommunication amongst my group, in part because we have a neighbor named Jack - sorry for the confusion.

The meeting today at 3 p.m. is primarily to honor our neighbor Dick Fortune, who died Wednesday, a victim of homicide. We (our group) were also thinking we'd touch on the Brightdawn proposal as an ancillary matter, which is why I figured that asking everyone at that time about meeting with you and Anne might be a good opportunity.

But - to cut to the chase - I think next weekend will be an excellent time to meet, and I'll ask about that specifically. If it's okay with the Bogdans ([REDACTED]) whom I've copied on this email, maybe we could meet at their house. I'll get back to you very soon. And, THANKS SO MUCH! Again. Juliet

Hi Anne, Elizabeth and Jeff,

I'd be glad to meet again any time! I learned a lot from the discussion and was glad to have a chance to share some of the insights from the research and interviewing I've been doing for my job, for what they are worth.

I forgot to emphasize that an important way the council can fulfill their resolution to support carbon fee and dividend is for the members to each fill out an endorsement form for community influencers (as you are). Here is the link. It gives various options to tailor it. If you decide to do it, can you please let me know?

Would you like me to forward the study we put together on the impact of a federal price on carbon on the A2 CAP?

Attached is a different version of what I previously sent Jeff and Anne, going over the basics and common questions.

Regarding our conversation about a "Smile and Wave" campaign, which I'd love to help you publicize if you do implement it!, here is the radio show I produced that discusses it:

<https://www.wemu.org/post/green-room-crosswalk-confusion-ann-arbor>

If you are reading the transcript, the topic runs from about halfway down to the end. It starts during the interview with Dr. Ron Van Houten, who did the crosswalk study in Ann Arbor.

Thanks for your hard work to make the world a better place,
Barbara

Hello Anne Bannister,

Thank you for signing an endorsement with Citizens' Climate Lobby. Below is the information we received for this endorsement:

Comments:

Below is the text of the Carbon Fee & Dividend endorsement that you signed.

The costs of climate change including destabilized weather patterns, rising sea levels, extreme weather events, and other serious impacts now pose a substantial threat to the health, prosperity and security of Americans. The costs are real, they are growing, and they are already burdening businesses, taxpayers, municipal budgets and families. Our economy, infrastructure, public safety and health are directly at risk.

Prudent action now will be far less costly than the consequences of delayed response and will create a more stable business environment for our nation.

Climate Action

I/We urge Congress to sponsor and/or support measures that will:

- Acknowledge the serious threat posed by climate change.
- Reduce greenhouse gas emissions in a clear, transparent and effective way.

Carbon Fee and Dividend

I/We urge Congress to support Carbon Fee & Dividend as a key element in reducing the risks of climate change. Carbon Fee & Dividend will significantly reduce carbon emissions, create jobs, grow the economy, save lives and protect households from higher energy prices.

Carbon Fee & Dividend will place a steadily increasing fee on fossil fuels at their source (the well, mine, or port of entry), beginning at $15 per ton of CO₂ emitted, and increasing each year by $10. All revenues will be returned in equal shares to American households as a monthly dividend.

Additionally:

- A predictably increasing price on carbon will send a clear market signal that will unleash entrepreneurs and investors in a new clean-energy economy.
- With all of the revenue returned to households on an equal basis, two-thirds of households will break even or receive more in dividends than they would pay in higher living expenses.
- A border adjustment will discourage domestic businesses from relocating where they can emit more CO₂ and encourage other nations to adopt an equivalent price on carbon.

Thank you so much for your support,
CCL Endorser Team

Thank you so much for your support,
CCL Endorser Team

We will need to fight climate change via many different methods. There will be no silver bullet. As citizens, we need to understand and discuss all our options so we know what to tell our legislators we want. But whatever it is, I'm sure we all can agree we need solutions that are:

1. Effective (rapidly reducing emissions)
2. Fair (to those most impacted)
3. Politically-viable (to withstand changes in administration)

One such strategy is to put a price on carbon which discourages use of fossil-fuel intensive products. One of the advantages of carbon pricing is it has potential appeal across the political spectrum. It is being considered for inclusion in the Green New Deal, there was a carbon pricing bill introduced in Congress by a Republican in 2018, and there's also a plan proposed by Conservatives, not yet introduced.

Here are the components of a fee and dividend approach (with brief explanation of each):

5. Fee
6. Dividend
7. Border adjustment

Each adult gets one share, and each child a half share. Note that the dividends add up to hundreds of dollars a month, thousands a year to the average household. The Yellow Vest rioting in France against gas taxes was concerning, but in France's plan, there was no dividend. Dividends are enormously popular with the public, once they start receiving the money. Witness the staying power of the Alaska dividend, which was started 43 years ago. When it comes to climate, staying power is an advantage, so it won't be overturned by new administrations.

The plan is backed by a growing number of business and environmental groups. It is backed by economists as well: Their support statement appeared in the Wall Street Journal in January, and the number of signatories is now up to 3,419 economists, including 27 Nobel Laureates. This includes thirty-four University of Michigan economists. It is also backed by the Students for Carbon Dividends, which includes two UM groups (the College Democratic Club and the Student Sustainability Initiative).

Unbeknownst to many, there is a fee and dividend bill in the U.S. Congress, the Energy Innovation and Dividends Act (which was introduced in the last session by the Senate as well). Although it's not getting much media attention, it is the first bipartisan carbon pricing legislation to be introduced in ten years, and is worth looking at on those grounds alone.

It's not a new or fringe idea. Canada is instituting a revenue-neutral carbon tax nationwide, with fee and dividend being adopted by four provinces. Ireland is considering a fee and dividend plan too. The World Bank says carbon pricing initiatives have been implemented or are scheduled for implementation in fifty-two countries around the world. The International Joint Commission on Climate Change says steep carbon pricing will be required to meet its emission targets.

Some say because the current U.S. administration would likely veto a carbon pricing bill, we shouldn't consider it. Note that most every bill takes years to gain supporters in Congress. Carbon taxes can take many forms, and bills usually go through innumerable changes before passage. There is a lot to consider when designing such a policy, and I will touch on ten concerns commonly expressed:

1. What's the incentive to use less energy, if there's a substantial dividend coming in? The answer lies in the power of the "price signal": if fossil fuel prices rise, the natural choice becomes the cheaper products—those created without fossil fuels.
2. What about regulations? The Energy Innovation and Dividend Act in Congress reduces emissions faster than the Clean Power Plan, and reduced reliance on that helps with bipartisan appeal. But it does not touch regulations such as CAFÉ, building codes, protections against pollutants like NO_x, sulfur, ozone, particulates, and mercury. And if targets aren't hit after 10 years, regulatory authority is restored.
3. How can an equal dividends system be progressive, not regressive? In the economists' endorsement mentioned above, they say: "The majority of American families, including the most vulnerable, will benefit financially by receiving more in 'carbon dividends' than they pay in increased energy prices." This is because the lower the income, the smaller the carbon footprint. Only twenty percent of a household's carbon impacts result from direct costs like gasoline and home heating. Rather, most of it results from actually producing the goods and products that we buy.
4. How can a carbon tax with equal dividends help frontline communities? Supporters say a tax on fossil fuels can be only part of the puzzle. For instance, the Energy Innovations bill in Congress regulates only the climate warming potential of emissions, allowing other legislation to be drafted to regulate their health impacts. This could be a significant avenue of assisting vulnerable populations.
5. Why not just give more of the dividends to frontline communities (who bear the brunt of fossil fuel pollution)? Proponents of equal dividends say equality, simplicity and transparency spell political viability. They point to Australia, where the fee collected was distributed unequally. They say this opened a Pandora's box, which may have contributed to Australia's cancelling its carbon tax in 2014 after just four years.
6. How rapidly can it reduce emissions to the IPCC target? That all depends on how high the tax is set, and how quickly it ramps up. Addressing the urgency of the situation, while allowing the economy time to adjust, is a balancing act. Note that regardless of rate, the system is designed to phase out!
7. Should the methane in natural gas be taxed for its very significant global warming potential? The current bill in Congress does tax methane. The Conservative proposal does not.

8. Should a proposal grant fossil fuel companies immunity from further climate-related lawsuits? The Conservative proposal does protect them from this kind of liability, while the current bill in Congress does not.
9. What about jobs? This study says with more money in people's pockets, the health care and service industries would get a big boost. (Importantly, it's an increase in service areas, vs. increased consumption and resource use, which would cause the rise in GNP.) A stimulus check that reduces carbon emissions to boot just may appeal to the public.
10. How would it impact Ann Arbor and UM? An analysis of A2's Climate Action Plan drafted in 2012 and found that about $\frac{3}{4}$ of the 88 action items (of which only a few have been accomplished so far) would be greatly facilitated by a price on carbon. For instance: Around $\frac{1}{4}$ are mandates and incentives that would become unnecessary. (An example in this category is a Residential Energy Conservation Ordinance with required upgrades.) Close to half of the City's action items are voluntary behaviors or policies that would become the natural choice when fossil fuel prices rise. (For example, energy efficient lighting technologies.) This would leave only about 25 action items, a much more manageable amount the city could really focus on. A similar analysis could be done for UM's climate goals. All local climate initiatives would be facilitated by a national price on carbon. The reason we are having such a hard time weaning away from fossil fuels is because they are so cheap in our country.

Hi there. I think there was some miscommunication amongst my group, in part because we have a neighbor named Jack - sorry for the confusion.

The meeting today at 3 p.m. is primarily to honor our neighbor Dick Fortune, who died Wednesday, a victim of homicide.

We (our group) were also thinking we'd touch on the Brightdawn proposal as an ancillary matter, which is why I figured that asking everyone at that time about meeting with you and Anne might be a good opportunity.

But - to cut to the chase - I think next weekend will be an excellent time to meet, and I'll ask about that specifically. If it's okay with the Bogdans [REDACTED] whom I've copied on this email, maybe we could meet at their house. I'll get back to you very soon. And, THANKS SO MUCH! Again. Juliet

Mr. Lazarus,

I am blind copying the full Council to avoid inadvertent deliberations among a quorum of Council that could occur if anyone hits "reply all". Council Members should not reply to the full Council.

At Council's February 25 Work Session, staff mentioned that the March 4 Council agenda will include a resolution to approve the City's participation in a multi-community solid waste authority (CA-9 Resolution to Approve Execution of Articles of Incorporation for, and Becoming a Constituent Member of, the Washtenaw Regional Resource Management Authority (WRRMA))" Council Member Lumm and I raised concerns about adopting this resolution without first engaging in deliberations on the policy behind joining this authority.

The resolution and supporting documents can be found here:

<http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3866598&GUID=7D5329C5-9B1B-40F1-884D-52EB036A38A2&Options=Advanced&Search=&FullText=1>

I have the following concerns about adopting this resolution and joining the multi-community solid waste authority and hope that you will have staff provide responses for these concerns.

1. On April 16, 2018, the City Council approved a $250,000 contract to hire a consultant to make recommendations for a solid waste master plan. The recommendations are expected in June or July 2019. Adopting the Articles of Incorporation and joining the multi-community authority before the consultant makes recommendations, seems premature.

Why is the Council being asked to pursue a particular course of action before receiving the consultant's recommendations?

<http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3468753&GUID=137B1B78-5DE7-4BD0-AF9F-C1D5F3617B63&Options=&Search=>

https://www.mlive.com/news/ann-arbor/index.ssf/2018/04/ann_arbor_officials_express_re.html

2. Council passed a resolution on May 21, 2018 directing the City Administrator not to pursue contracting of solid waste services. This effort seems to contradict that resolution. The new authority would have the power to contract for solid waste services for all of the participating communities, including trash pick-up, recycle pick-up, MRF sorting and material sales, and organic waste collection and processing (composting).

Why is staff recommending an action that contradicts the direction from Council in the May 21 resolution?

<http://a2gov.legistar.com/LegislationDetail.aspx?ID=3504800&GUID=B186B70D-ED25-4EDE-94E5-0BD624FD4253&Options=&Search=&FullText=1>

https://www.mlive.com/news/ann-arbor/index.ssf/2018/05/ann_arbor_council_shuts_down_t.html

3. The Articles of incorporation for the authority provide each participating unit of government the same representation and vote. The Articles of incorporation allow amendment only by unanimous consent. Ann Arbor has the biggest population, generates the most solid waste, and would pay the most for these services but would have the same single vote as Dexter or other small communities. If Ann Arbor adopts the current version of the Articles of Incorporation, it would need the consent of every other participating community to amend the Articles of Incorporation. The City's only alternative would be to completely withdraw from the authority, which seems extreme.

Why is the Council being asked to agree to conditions in the articles of incorporation that disadvantage the City and would be so difficult to amend?

The Environmental Commission heard a presentation about the proposed regional authority at its January 24 meeting. That presentation starts at 1:25:00 on this video:

Resolution Requesting the City of Ann Arbor Adopt a Solar Access Ordinance

January 9, 2019 Update

WHEREAS neither the State of Michigan, Washtenaw County, or City of Ann Arbor have adopted an ordinance restricting new construction, including real property, signs, and landscaping/vegetation and other property improvements, from blocking solar access¹ to adjacent properties and landowners; and,

WHEREAS in December, 2012 the Ann Arbor City Council passed the Climate Action Plan (CAP) and committed to an ambitious multi-strategy vision to address climate change by reducing its community-wide greenhouse emissions and encouraging use of renewable energy sources; and,

WHEREAS the Energy Commission's CAP-supporting Solar Goals were unanimously endorsed by the Ann Arbor City Council in their June, 2016 Resolution Authorizing a Commitment to Making the City of Ann Arbor a Solar Ready Community and to advance use of renewable solar energy by its citizens, businesses, industry, and other owners, and the City itself;

WHEREAS landowner investment in solar energy systems (SESs) is significant and may be obviated by shading from new construction or other improvements on adjacent properties;

RESOLVED that the Energy Commission recommends that the City Council direct the City Administrator and City Planning Manager to work with the City Attorney, Office of Sustainability and Innovations, and Energy and Planning Commissions in 2019 to: (1) develop a "solar access ordinance" to ensure landowners who already have an SES on their rooftops or property or who may desire to add such in the future, and (2) introduce said ordinance requirements to the Washtenaw County Clerk/Register of Deeds for possible adoption at a County level given the benefits of preserving solar access. This ordinance language will either be specifically included in the Code of Ordinances as new or added via amendment to an existing ordinance (e.g., Chapter 55, Unified Development Code) and will consider the following best practices:

- Specific quantification of solar access "boundaries". As an example, the City of Boulder, CO sets limits on the amount of permitted shading by any new construction as defined by either a 12-foot or 25-foot hypothetical "solar fence" on the existing property lines or adjacent building perimeters (tied to a specific calendar year metric).
- Formalization of a "solar easement" that can be registered with the Washtenaw County Clerk by a landowner to preserve solar access boundaries and enable SES construction into perpetuity;
- Formalization of a "solar permit" that can be secured by a landowner from the City Building Department for SES construction with defined solar access boundaries and valid time period;
- Inclusion of minimum requirements for solar access in the City Master Plan and other relevant documents (e.g., Sustainability Framework, Unified Development Code if language is adopted as its own ordinance, Capital Improvement Plan, and others);
- Standard for vegetation trimming on adjacent properties that reduce or prevent SES production
- Setback requirements in current zoning ordinance that appropriately address solar access.

¹ "Solar access" is defined as the direct access to the sun's rays without shading by a land owner desiring to install equipment used for collecting, transferring, converting, storing, or using incident solar energy for water heating, space heating, cooling, generating electricity, or other applications (SES) that would otherwise require the use of a conventional source of energy such as petroleum products, natural gas, manufactured gas, or electricity produced from a nonrenewable resource.

Preparation of ordinance language needs to consider that future City development may involve taller building heights particularly in the Downtown Development Area, impacts on greenhouse gas emission, means of preserving solar access on adjacent properties, and lessons learned from similar ordinances adopted at other locales (see “References”).

Subject: conversation recap--
Date: Wednesday, February 27, 2019 7:37:00 AM

Hi,

I just wanted to create a record of our conversation yesterday and summarize what I told you yesterday, re: conversations I witnessed between CM Griswold and J.B.

- 1) I clearly remember the conversation, as I was a part of it. Many details of the conversation were not terribly memorable, simply because nothing remarkable was said.
- 2) I clearly remember the tone of the conversation as light-hearted, casual, and thoroughly pleasant. A remark (very early in the conversation) referencing planners was followed by laughter because it was in jest. There was NO reference to unions.
- 3) The most memorable part of the conversation was the topic of camping in the Porcupine mountains. This represented the bulk of the middle and end of the conversation. J.B. told us about his experiences there, camping in pouring rain. CM Griswold shared that as a child she had done a lot of camping because her family was poor. (CM Griswold shared that her family once camped in NYC)
- 4) I have no memory of (and I would have noticed) any remarks that were threatening, abusive, insulting, or otherwise demeaning towards anyone.

I hope this helps clarify my experience of that conversation as both an active participant and an alert witness.

Hi Elizabeth and Jack,

I'm curious if you are aware of this. Below is a rejection letter, received by Janet Haynes, a member of the task force, written by Julie Grand informing her she did not get selected for the ICPOC. I heard they also rejected Dick Soble, a lawyer and the only other Task Force member who applied. I was completely shocked that they are already rejecting people as I had thought the city council vote would come before such final decision making. I know, Jack, you seemed to be expecting to have influence on who is considered via that vote, so these emails seem to fly in the face of that. It made me wonder if the two of you are aware this is happening.

I am so deeply dismayed they rejected such solid and relatively moderate Task Force members. It seems, if their goal is to erase the history of this work, they are doing that quite well. Am anxious to hear your thoughts. Thanks so much.

Dear Janet,

We are profoundly grateful for your application to the Independent Police Community Oversight Committee (ICPOC). With almost 6 times more applicants than available spots on the commission, we were faced with the difficult task of nominating a group of only 11. While we are unable to offer you a place on the ICPOC at this time, we strongly encourage you to apply as spots open in the years ahead.

As a nominating committee, we were struck by the willingness of every single applicant to serve as a resource for the ICPOC. The work involved in creating a successful police oversight commission will not be accomplished by the commissioners alone. We strongly encourage you to join subcommittees, participate in public forums, or provide skills and expertise as you are able.

The experience of reviewing the applications to the ICPOC has been both humbling and inspiring. Thank you for sharing your insight, life experiences, and passion for improving our community. Because of community members like you, we are confident that we can work towards making Ann Arbor more equitable, inclusive, and welcoming for everyone.

With gratitude,
Zach Ackerman, Julie Grand, Jane Lumm, and Ali Ramlawi

Thank you all for voting in support of the Lepkowski conservation easement purchase in Northfield Township last week.

One way that the city can reduce its percentage in future projects would be to extend the Greenbelt boundary further west in Scio and Webster, and further north in Webster. The current millages in those townships each run through 2024 (Ann Arbor Township is completely within the Greenbelt boundary); several projects are set to close in the coming months where city shares are one-third or less of the appraised value of the easements. Boundaries were extended some time ago to reward townships that passed millages; the potential for expansion would be incentive for Northfield and possibly others to pursue new millages.

Is this something you would consider?

Resolution Requesting the City of Ann Arbor Adopt a Solar Access Ordinance

January 9, 2019 Update

WHEREAS neither the State of Michigan, Washtenaw County, or City of Ann Arbor have adopted an ordinance restricting new construction, including real property, signs, and landscaping/vegetation and other property improvements, from blocking solar access¹ to adjacent properties and landowners; and,

WHEREAS in December, 2012 the Ann Arbor City Council passed the Climate Action Plan (CAP) and committed to an ambitious multi-strategy vision to address climate change by reducing its community-wide greenhouse emissions and encouraging use of renewable energy sources; and,

WHEREAS the Energy Commission's CAP-supporting Solar Goals were unanimously endorsed by the Ann Arbor City Council in their June, 2016 Resolution Authorizing a Commitment to Making the City of Ann Arbor a Solar Ready Community and to advance use of renewable solar energy by its citizens, businesses, industry, and other owners, and the City itself;

WHEREAS landowner investment in solar energy systems (SESs) is significant and may be obviated by shading from new construction or other improvements on adjacent properties;

RESOLVED that the Energy Commission recommends that the City Council direct the City Administrator and City Planning Manager to work with the City Attorney, Office of Sustainability and Innovations, and Energy and Planning Commissions in 2019 to: (1) develop a "solar access ordinance" to ensure landowners who already have an SES on their rooftops or property or who may desire to add such in the future, and (2) introduce said ordinance requirements to the Washtenaw County Clerk/Register of Deeds for possible adoption at a County level given the benefits of preserving solar access. This ordinance language will either be specifically included in the Code of Ordinances as new or added via amendment to an existing ordinance (e.g., Chapter 55, Unified Development Code) and will consider the following best practices:

- Specific quantification of solar access "boundaries". As an example, the City of Boulder, CO sets limits on the amount of permitted shading by any new construction as defined by either a 12-foot or 25-foot hypothetical "solar fence" on the existing property lines or adjacent building perimeters (tied to a specific calendar year metric).
- Formalization of a "solar easement" that can be registered with the Washtenaw County Clerk by a landowner to preserve solar access boundaries and enable SES construction into perpetuity;
- Formalization of a "solar permit" that can be secured by a landowner from the City Building Department for SES construction with defined solar access boundaries and valid time period;
- Inclusion of minimum requirements for solar access in the City Master Plan and other relevant documents (e.g., Sustainability Framework, Unified Development Code if language is adopted as its own ordinance, Capital Improvement Plan, and others);
- Standard for vegetation trimming on adjacent properties that reduce or prevent SES production
- Setback requirements in current zoning ordinance that appropriately address solar access.

¹ "Solar access" is defined as the direct access to the sun's rays without shading by a land owner desiring to install equipment used for collecting, transferring, converting, storing, or using incident solar energy for water heating, space heating, cooling, generating electricity, or other applications (SES) that would otherwise require the use of a conventional source of energy such as petroleum products, natural gas, manufactured gas, or electricity produced from a nonrenewable resource.

Preparation of ordinance language needs to consider that future City development may involve taller building heights particularly in the Downtown Development Area, impacts on greenhouse gas emission, means of preserving solar access on adjacent properties, and lessons learned from similar ordinances adopted at other locales (see “References”).

Anne –

Bring me up to speed on this I lost track of the thread – Am I reading this right, this is the entire thread? A utility contractor operated improperly on private property, due to a poor survey or engineering drawing, but has the city has not issued a stop order? I'm certain there is a process for his seeking redress or repair of his property if necessary, let him know that and I will too.

I will certainly reach out to this person before the meeting but I need to have read all the correspondence. Thank you for doing such a great job responding to everyone you really are in it "for the people".

This response from vharrison@a2gov.org still does not answer any of my questions. I knew the city of Ann Arbor was wrong from the beginning. Trespassing and then lying about it. I called that out the second you stepped on my private property and started digging holes. I and my neighbors new that vharrison with your sad formulated response that only

My questions are why did Ann at the civil engineers office tell me the city had the right to use my land freely, then when I confronted her and said she was completely wrong and she was clearly lying for someone she stopped talking. I asked to speak with a supervisor and she said no, she wouldn't transfer me. This issue is the first that needs to be dealt with. I shouldn't have to call the mayors office bitching to get a response and answer from a professional at the civil engineer office who's only goal was to deny and block my efforts in getting that answer, which in the end was said to be an error on paperwork. That office was lying and trying to keep it a secret. Sad sons a bitches to say the least!

Second we have the issue of intimidation the construction workers brought to my door when they tried to lie and deny me any answers yet again. Telling me their contact at the civil engineering office was also a cop! How the hell does someone's moonlighting job have a God damn thing to do with the trespass and illegal work going on at my house and in the city of Ann Arbor?

That would be the 4th try at this point to get an answer from the people who are supposed to know that answer and not lie to the public when questioned.

If I get another bullshit response form any of those assholes listed in this email thread or no response at all for any of the questions i asked I will just be adding that silence to the posts I will be making public soon enough with everyone names and offices listed and their neglect to the people of Ann Arbor they serve.

Remember Ann Arbor, you've already committed trespass on all kinds of people in the city thus far. We will most certainly be discussing it and then taking legal action against the city and everyone involved with this coverup.

You need to stop bullshitting people and acting like you have some authority to do so. YOU ARE NOT ABOVE THR LAW!!! Your ego is about to be checked real hard!

Answer the god damn questions I've asked.

Anne Banister of ward 1 is the only person to respond and help so this message does not apply to her in anyway. Just so we are clear.

I'm not playing. My ass will be at the next city hall public meeting asking the same questions to all of your faces so the public can see on tv. You will most certainly have to answer then.

Next door/ Facebook townies politics / mlive, and many more will be getting copies of what has transpired so far.

Ann Arbor city council and city admin, you are a bunch of failures

Jeff Risinger.

After speaking with Mr. Risinger, staff confirmed that the plans submitted by ADC.net, a telecommunications company, incorrectly depicted the Edgewood right-of-way as 66' (a typical width) instead of the actual 50' right-of-way. The contractor performing the work was told by our inspector to cease construction and that ACD.net must submit plans depicting the correct right-of-way. The city inspector and city Engineer also spoke with Mr. Risinger. Any private use of public land requires an easement or other agreement.

Subject: City of Ann Arbor committing illegal activities in local government offices

City council members and city administration office,

I am writing today to ask a few questions I have regarding my recent experience with the city of Ann Arbor civil engineering office and the construction company currently laying fiber optics on private property in the city of Ann Arbor.

A third party construction company hired by an unknown "telecommunications company" has trespassed onto my private property as well as other citizens in Ann Arbor. This construction company is laying fiber optic lines outside of "the right of way" on private property here in the city of Ann Arbor.

This all started when I contacted the civil engineers office to get an answer as to why my private property was being used for this fiber optic installation. The office initially claimed there is this new "grey area" in legislature that allows a city to use 6-12" of anyones private property without asking them first. Could any one of you please produce something that states the city of Ann Arbor has the right to use 6-12" of my private property without asking me or any of my neighbors?

This comes down to an Eminent Domain issue. If this telecommunications company or the city of Ann Arbor needed to use private property, said parties should have approached the rightful owners of those private properties directly with some proposal, a solution and/or mutual agreement with due compensation paid. Allowing this fiber optic line to lay on private property ultimately compromises that private property. Home owners who pay taxes in this city should be not compromised in such a way. Who would ever think this was OK, legally and/or morally?

Why did the city go to such efforts to keep me from getting a simple answer? I asked to speak with a supervisor at the civil engineers office and was told No. The woman on the phone, Ann, said she OK's the permits and there was no one else I could speak with. Are supervisors not available to answer the public's questions?

I was then met with contradictions from the civil engineers office after I said my neighbors and I would sue the city over this. All of a sudden, the engineers office claims the paper work was wrong the whole time. So what is it? The 6-12" they were so sure of before the mention of a law suit or the paper work mistake after the mention of a law suit. I most certainly want to see that explanation for that one.

I am directly on the watershed. Mallets creek is directly behind my house and a watershed drain is directly in front of my house. This installation requires the construction company to inject some blue solution into the ground to either feed the fiber optics through the ground or to drill the hole the cable will be fed through. I'd like to see the permit that says this solution is safe.

Did the city parks also allow this telecommunications company to use their property which is clearly being used right now?

Thank you for the time city council, I look forward to hearing your responses and hope you can provide some answers for me as well as my neighbors and anyone else who's had this construction work done on their property so far.

Councilmember Bannister,
On behalf of Mr. Lazarus, please see the response below.

Thank you for providing Ms. Tucker's concerns. We have provided a response through you to each of the six items she has identified.

A2 Fix It is the localized application of SeeClickFix, and is the entry point for assigning citizen concerns within the City's work order system (CityWorks). However, many of matters identified through A2 Fix It require longer term solutions. Assistant City Administrator Fournier is leading an internal initiative to improve the reporting back to community members in cases where the response will be deferred. We will continue to keep Council informed as to the progress of this initiative.

Staff responds to concerns from the community as they are received: through A2 Fix It, by direct e-mail, through RFI's forwarded from Councilmembers, and as identified by other means. Your inquiry indicates you would like to collaborate with City staff to provide more integrated reporting on issues of concern to residents, and we welcome this opportunity to work with you to enhance our responsiveness.

Thank you,
Sara Higgins, Strategic Planning Coordinator

Subject: RE: Proposed Mobility Study in Lower Town

Dear Mr. Lazarus – Would it be possible to set up a way to collect feedback from residents about mobility issues like Ms. Tucker has sent in her email below?

Mobility is on residents' minds, and I'm referring them to:

- Traffic Complaint Questionnaire: <http://www.surveygizmo.com/s3/1463514/Ann-Arbor-Traffic-Complaint-Questionnaire>
- See Click Fix: <https://www.a2gov.org/services/Pages/Report-a-Problem.aspx>

But we also have “free form” feedback (and unresolved concerns), such as the email below.

With the time and $700K we're saving from not doing the Lower Town Mobility Study, I'd like to work with residents and staff to prioritize known problems in the community (and fix them), but first we have to gather and analyze the data.

Thanks,
Anne

Hi Anne,

Thanks very much.

Last time I was directed to A2 Fix It, it was ignored. Is Click Fix the same thing?

Other items on my list are:

1. Crosswalks still needing standardizing. When? My husband is partially disabled and does not drive. It is a special danger to him.
2. Broadway being used as free parking for UM Hospital employees, ok, except on trash/recycling day, when our driveway is blocked, carts moved or knocked over. Mayor, Kirk Pennington, Greg, in trash, Cynthia in traffic, somebody at Recycle A2, all agreed to find a solution last July, but instead ignored it until I stopped following up. I have a chronology of phone conversations and dates. The poor service of City employees along with no leaf pick up, or snow removal, very poor maintenance of handicapped curb cuts, etc. makes me wonder what everybody at City Hall is doing. Not serving citizens.
3. Parking ticket given to me in error, since our handicapped tag has a free parking medallion on it. Appealed June 22, 2018 and never heard back.
4. Driving enforcement almost non existent. Right turn on red is more of a slow down. People turn left long after the light has turned red because no one stops them.
5. AAATA buses regularly break the same driving rules; on Fifth Ave near Blake they come flying out of the driveway and cut off drivers. It's outrageous, and they are much more interested in protecting their co workers when I report it to AAATA.
6. Why does the developer of 1140 Broadway get to decide where a roundabout goes? Where does it go? And why is he allowed to engage in deceptive advertising that the development is condos when it is mostly apartments?
(National Geographics did a comparison of the development practices of Athens and Berlin a couple years ago. I saw many parallels between Ann Arbor and Athens and, alas, not Berlin.)

Should all of these issues be in the Click Fix?

Thanks for looking at all of this.

Sincerely,
Barbara Tucker

I agree with Anne and Jeff in the First Ward about not getting our money's worth from the firm proposing to do the Lower Town study. I wholeheartedly agree we should not be approving any developments pending the results of the study. This could nicely reverse the trend in Ann Arbor of leaping at developments, and scratching our heads later about the unfortunate consequences.

Additionally, I would be interested if this or another study will be made prior to proposing roundabouts at the Plymouth Road/Broadway intersection.

Anne –

Bring me up to speed on this I lost track of the thread – Am I reading this right, this is the entire thread? A utility contractor operated improperly on private property, due to a poor survey or engineering drawing, but has the city has not issued a stop order? I'm certain there is a process for his seeking redress or repair of his property if necessary, let him know that and I will too.

I will certainly reach out to this person before the meeting but I need to have read all the correspondence. Thank you for doing such a great job responding to everyone you really are in it "for the people".

This response from vharrison@a2gov.org still does not answer any of my questions. I knew the city of Ann Arbor was wrong from the beginning. Trespassing and then lying about it. I called that out the second you stepped on my private property and started digging holes. I and my neighbors new that vharrison with your sad formulated response that only

My questions are why did Ann at the civil engineers office tell me the city had the right to use my land freely, then when I confronted her and said she was completely wrong and she was clearly lying for someone she stopped talking. I asked to speak with a supervisor and she said no, she wouldn't transfer me. This issue is the first that needs to be dealt with. I shouldn't have to call the mayors office bitching to get a response and answer from a professional at the civil engineer office who's only goal was to deny and block my efforts in getting that answer, which in the end was said to be an error on paperwork. That office was lying and trying to keep it a secret. Sad sons a bitches to say the least!

Second we have the issue of intimidation the construction workers brought to my door when they tried to lie and deny me any answers yet again. Telling me their contact at the civil engineering office was also a cop! How the hell does someone's moonlighting job have a God damn thing to do with the trespass and illegal work going on at my house and in the city of Ann Arbor?

That would be the 4th try at this point to get an answer from the people who are supposed to know that answer and not lie to the public when questioned.

If I get another bullshit response form any of those assholes listed in this email thread or no response at all for any of the questions i asked I will just be adding that silence to the posts I will be making public soon enough with everyone names and offices listed and their neglect to the people of Ann Arbor they serve.

Remember Ann Arbor, you've already committed trespass on all kinds of people in the city thus far. We will most certainly be discussing it and then taking legal action against the city and everyone involved with this coverup.

You need to stop bullshitting people and acting like you have some authority to do so. YOU ARE NOT ABOVE THR LAW!!! Your ego is about to be checked real hard!

Answer the god damn questions I've asked.

Anne Banister of ward 1 is the only person to respond and help so this message does not apply to her in anyway. Just so we are clear.

I'm not playing. My ass will be at the next city hall public meeting asking the same questions to all of your faces so the public can see on tv. You will most certainly have to answer then.

Next door/ Facebook townies politics / mlive, and many more will be getting copies of what has transpired so far.

Subject: City of Ann Arbor committing illegal activities in local government offices

City council members and city administration office,

I am writing today to ask a few questions I have regarding my recent experience with the city of Ann Arbor civil engineering office and the construction company currently laying fiber optics on private property in the city of Ann Arbor.

A third party construction company hired by an unknown "telecommunications company" has trespassed onto my private property as well as other citizens in Ann Arbor. This construction company is laying fiber optic lines outside of "the right of way" on private property here in the city of Ann Arbor.

This all started when I contacted the civil engineers office to get an answer as to why my private property was being used for this fiber optic installation. The office initially claimed there is this new "grey area" in legislature that allows a city to use 6-12" of anyones private property without asking them first. Could any one of you please produce something that states the city of Ann Arbor has the right to use 6-12" of my private property without asking me or any of my neighbors?

This comes down to an Eminent Domain issue. If this telecommunications company or the city of Ann Arbor needed to use private property, said parties should have approached the rightful owners of those private properties directly with some proposal, a solution and/or mutual agreement with due compensation paid. Allowing this fiber optic line to lay on private property ultimately compromises that private property. Home owners who pay taxes in this city should be not compromised in such a way. Who would ever think this was OK, legally and/or morally?

Why did the city go to such efforts to keep me from getting a simple answer? I asked to speak with a supervisor at the civil engineers office and was told No. The woman on the phone, Ann, said she OK's the permits and there was no one else I could speak with. Are supervisors not available to answer the public's questions?

I was then met with contradictions from the civil engineers office after I said my neighbors and I would sue the city over this. All of a sudden, the engineers office claims the paper work was wrong the whole time. So what is it? The 6-12" they were so sure of before the mention of a law suit or the paper work mistake after the mention of a law suit. I most certainly want to see that explanation for that one.

I am directly on the watershed. Mallets creek is directly behind my house and a watershed drain is directly in front of my house. This installation requires the construction company to inject some blue solution into the ground to either feed the fiber optics through the ground or to drill the hole the cable will be fed through. I'd like to see the permit that says this solution is safe.

Did the city parks also allow this telecommunications company to use their property which is clearly being used right now?

Thank you for the time city council, I look forward to hearing your responses and hope you can provide some answers for me as well as my neighbors and anyone else who's had this construction work done on their property so far.

Hello Anne,

The Ann Arbor Track Club and the Dexter-Ann Arbor Run (46th Annual) are proposing to move our 5K Run on Sunday, June 2nd from our existing course on the Eastside of the Huron River in the Argo Park area to the North Area Neighborhood, West off N. Main Street. The reason for the request is to streamline our clubs ability to coordinate our 5K with our other two races (1/2 Marathon and 10K) being run at the same time on Huron River Dr. and N. Main St.

The proposed 5K Run is an out and back course, starting and finishing downtown in front of the County Building on Main St. The special event permit calls for a maximum of one hour neighborhood shut down, with the race starting at 8am and being completely done by 9am.

Please find attached the proposed 5K course submitted to the City of Ann Arbor earlier this month for their approval.

A question I didn't answer fully on Monday regarded exemptions for military and agriculture, which I'm sure were added to improve the bill's political viability (a bill that can pass is better than no bill at all!). I looked it up and here is a bit more detail:

This policy provides an exemption for any diesel or gasoline used for agricultural purposes. Emissions from biological agricultural processes are not covered by this bill, as it applies only to fossil fuel emissions.

The bill also provides a refund of carbon fee costs in covered fuels used by the military, including gasoline, diesel, or other fuels used for ships, planes, and ground transport, plus coal, oil, or natural gas used to generate electricity on military bases and in field operations. The U.S. military has been actively pursuing alternative sources of energy for strategic and environmental reasons, and so will benefit from new developments in renewable and low-carbon energy technologies that will allow further emissions reductions.

Thanks for having so many good questions,
Barbara

Hi,

Thanks for the response. I frequently use the A2fixit app. The problem is, many of the roads are way beyond being able to be fixed by patching them. And often times items I have submitted to that app are closed without being fixed at all.

I looked at the map of proposed fixes for 2019. Most notable omissions are Plymouth Rd, near US-23 and near Barton Dr. Willard St between S Forest and East University. S State St between the Yost Arena area and E Huron. E Huron between Zina Pitcher and Division.

Many local roads are in extremely poor shape with large potholes, uneven surfaces, exposed manholes, and crumbling pavement. In some cases these roads are unsafe to drive on at posted speeds without risk of impact damage to cars, and people are swerving all over the road to avoid hitting potholes which is dangerous as well. This is certainly a major document in our studies of the implications and impacts of SRTS! (Thanks, Les!) I have only scanned it, mainly to see if the sentence stating that "No local match permitted....the Federal share....shall be 100%" (in section titled "Program Funding Framework") means what it appears to mean. Later on, under "Utilizing Related Funding Sources," there's a discussion of "federal, state, and local funding sources available to complement the Federal Safe Routes to School Resources." [my emphasis] This second statement appears to assume that complementary funding from local and state sources is OK--and this is obviously the assumption of the City and the State. I hate to question the idea that the Fed is supposed to fund the whole project but does the first statement mean something different?

There are other sections that are really relevant and appear to have been overlooked by the City. See, e.g., the section titled "Eligible Infrastructure Projects." These include "traffic calming and speed reduction improvements" [!], and "traffic diversion improvements in the vicinity of schools." [!]

It appears that the City did not read beyond the parts discussing funding of sidewalks....

One other remarkable section: "Evaluation of Safety Benefits." We might want to help the City do this...

Cheers,
Susan

I found SRTS guidance on FHWA webpage. Note that it says that federal funds should fund 100% of a project and that the local community shall not be burdened by this project. The guidance also states that there should be some level of community input, but does not state that it is required.

The guidance also says that the number of kids helped by the project should be considered.

The rest of the guidance is also interesting.

INTRODUCTION

Background

The Federal-aid Safe Routes to School Program (hereinafter referred to as SRTS Program) was created by Section 1404 of the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, Efficient Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users Act (SAFETEA-LU), signed into Public Law (P.L. 109-59) on August 10, 2005. The SRTS Program is funded at $612 million and provides Federal-aid highway funds to State Departments of Transportation (DOTs) over five Federal fiscal years (FY2005-2009), in accordance with a formula specified in the legislation. These funds are available for infrastructure and noninfrastructure projects, and to administer State Safe Routes to School programs that benefit elementary and middle school children in grades K-8. The Federal-aid SRTS Program is administered by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) Office of Safety.

This document provides SRTS Program Guidance for State DOTs and other stakeholders involved in implementation and administration of SRTS programs. Guidance is provided to enable the states to move quickly and confidently in creating SRTS programs and spending program funds. This Program Guidance provides information to implement the legislation, and where it is presented, text from the legislation is in bold, italic font. While this Guidance addresses most aspects of the SRTS Program, it may not answer every question that has been, or is likely to be raised. Additional guidance will be provided throughout the first few years of the SRTS Program as questions are asked, clarifications are needed, experience is gained, and various approaches are tried and evaluated.

SRTS Program Purpose

Section 1404(b) of the legislation describes the purposes for which the SRTS Program was created:

(b) PURPOSES.--The purposes of the program shall be-

- 1. (1) to enable and encourage children, including those with disabilities, to walk and bicycle to school;
- 2. (2) to make bicycling and walking to school a safer and more appealing transportation alternative, thereby encouraging a healthy and active lifestyle from an early age; and
- 3. (3) to facilitate the planning, development, and implementation of projects and activities that will improve safety and reduce traffic, fuel consumption, and air pollution in the vicinity of schools.

These stated purposes describe the overall intent of the SRTS Program. Different locations are likely to develop different initiatives and projects that address one or more of the purposes, but the overall SRTS Program within a State must meet all of these stated purposes. FHWA expects that States will develop many different approaches within the framework of the legislation and this guidance to serve these purposes.

SRTS Program Outcomes

Safe Routes to School is a cross cutting program. There are many possible outcomes as a result of successfully implementing projects and activities at the State and local level. These desired outcomes help clarify the broad purposes stated in the legislation and can assist implementation, including overall development and administration of State programs. They can be used to help evaluate potential projects, as well as understand the factors that affect the success of different activities, projects, and programs.

Desired outcomes of the Safe Routes to School Program include:

- Increased bicycle, pedestrian, and traffic safety
- More children walking and bicycling to and from schools
- Decreased traffic congestion
- Improved childhood health
- Reduced childhood obesity
- Encouragement of healthy and active lifestyles
- Improved air quality
- Improved community safety

- Reduced fuel consumption
- Increased community security
- Enhanced community accessibility
- Increased community involvement
- Improvements to the physical environment that increase the ability to walk and bicycle to and from schools
- Improved partnerships among schools, local municipalities, parents, and other community groups, including non-profit organizations
- Increased interest in bicycle and pedestrian accommodations throughout a community

Comprehensive Nature of SRTS Activities - The “5 E’s”

FHWA recommends that SRTS efforts in the United States incorporate – directly or indirectly – five components, often referred to as the “5 E’s”. The 5 E’s are:

- a. Engineering – Creating operational and physical improvements to the infrastructure surrounding schools that reduce speeds and potential conflicts with motor vehicle traffic, and establish safer and fully accessible crossings, walkways, trails and bikeways.
- b. Education – Teaching children about the broad range of transportation choices, instructing them in important lifelong bicycling and walking safety skills, and launching driver safety campaigns in the vicinity of schools.
- c. Enforcement – Partnering with local law enforcement to ensure traffic laws are obeyed in the vicinity of schools (this includes enforcement of speeds, yielding to pedestrians in crossings , and proper walking and bicycling behaviors), and initiating community enforcement such as crossing guard programs.
- d. Encouragement – Using events and activities to promote walking and bicycling.
- e. Evaluation – Monitoring and documenting outcomes and trends through the collection of data, including the collection of data before and after the intervention(s).

Funding Levels

The SRTS Program is funded at $612 million and provides Federal-aid highway funds to State DOTs over five Federal fiscal years (FY2005-2009), in accordance with a formula specified in the legislation. FHWA will apportion SRTS funding annually to each State, in conjunction with regular Federal-aid highway apportionments.

SRTS Annual Funding Levels
Fiscal Year	Funding
2005	$54 million
2006	$100 million
2007	$125 million
2008	$150 million
2009	$183 million

Funding Level by State

FHWA has developed a State-by-State breakdown of apportionments for FY 2005 – FY 2009. Future apportionments for FY 2007 – FY 2009 were projected using FY 2006 factors. FY 2007 – FY 2009 apportionments are provided for planning purposes only. The actual apportionments for FY 2007 through FY 2009 will be based on the latest available data; consequently, apportionments in those years may differ from the estimates presented here.

Program Funding Framework

The legislation established a number of parameters related to program funding which address the following items:

- Apportionment Formula--Funds are provided to each State and the District of Columbia by formula based on the State's percentage of the national total of school-aged children in grades K – 8. As described above, apportionments will be updated by FHWA as new national enrollment data becomes available.
- Minimum Allocation--No State shall receive less than $1 million in any fiscal year.

- Infrastructure and Noninfrastructure Funds—Funds are made available for two different types of projects (infrastructure and noninfrastructure), with not less than 10 percent and not more than 30 percent of each State’s apportionment required to be spent on noninfrastructure activities.

- Duration of Availability—Funds shall be available for obligation in the same manner as if such funds were apportioned under chapter 1 of title 23, USC; except that such funds shall not be transferable and shall remain available until expended.

- No Local Match Permitted—the Federal share of the cost of a project or activity shall be 100 percent.

- Set-Aside for Administrative Expenses --Prior to distributing funding to the States, FHWA may deduct up to $3 million each year for administrative expenses to carry out the SRTS Program.

Reimbursement Program

The SRTS Program is a reimbursement program for cost incurred. It is not a “cash-up front” program. Costs incurred prior to FHWA project approval are not eligible for reimbursement.

Supplements Existing Programs

The SRTS legislation supplements, rather than replaces, current funding streams that support walking and bicycling transportation. States may find that they have more applicants than they can fund through the Federal-aid SRTS Program. Maintaining existing funding sources will help alleviate gaps between funding requests and available SRTS Program funds.

Existing state and local SRTS programs should therefore be sustained and coordinated with the Federal-aid SRTS Program. Existing programs and policies that will use SRTS Program funds should be brought into alignment with the overall purposes, desired outcomes and objectives of the SRTS Program, as well as the technical requirements of Section 1404.

II. STATE PROGRAM STRUCTURE AND ADMINISTRATION

DOT Program Administration Overview

The legislation includes a number of provisions that directly address how the SRTS Program is to be administered by the States:

Administered by State DOTs

Consistent with other federal aid highway programs, SRTS funding is to be administered by the State Department of Transportation.

- (d) ADMINISTRATION OF AMOUNTS.--Amounts apportioned to a State under this section shall be administered by the State's department of transportation.

Coordinator Requirement

The legislation requires a full-time position for State programs, and provides resources to fund these positions.

- (3) SAFE ROUTES TO SCHOOL COORDINATOR.--Each State receiving an apportionment under this section for a fiscal year shall use a sufficient amount of the apportionment to fund a full-time position of coordinator of the State's safe routes to school program.

As stated in the Explanatory Statement accompanying SAFETEA-LU, the State SRTS Coordinator position in each State is to be funded from the infrastructure portion of a State's SRTS Program apportionment. [FHWA memo of September 26, 2005 provides guidance relating to the Coordinator position.] In addition to the salary and fringe benefits of the Coordinator, other costs that are necessary and reasonable for the efficient performance of the Coordinator's duties (e.g. travel, training, etc.) that are allowable under OMB Circular A-87 may be charged to SRTS funds. Indirect/administrative costs incurred by a State Transportation Department for other aspects of administering the SRTS Program also may be allowed if the State has an indirect cost rate established and approved in accordance with OMB Circular A-87. (OMB Circular A-87)

Specifies Eligible Recipients

The SRTS legislation identifies eligible funding recipients, which may include nontraditional partners of State DOTs. Many projects may be grassroots driven and project sponsors may be school or community based groups.

- (e) ELIGIBLE RECIPIENTS.--Amounts apportioned to a State under this section shall be used by the State to provide financial assistance to State, local, and regional agencies, including nonprofit organizations, that demonstrate an ability to meet the requirements of this section.

SRTS Program Development

FHWA recognizes that no single approach to program administration is superior or appropriate for all State DOTs; States vary greatly in size and potential numbers of schools to be served, and SRTS funding varies in a corresponding manner. The approach of combining funding for infrastructure projects and noninfrastructure activities into one program is somewhat unique in transportation and may not be easily accommodated by the existing administrative and program structures in many State DOTs.

FHWA encourages State DOTs to develop creative approaches to program structure and project implementation procedures, with the goal of best meeting the objectives described below. As the legislation requires the FHWA to report to Congress on the progress of this program, and also requires the FHWA to establish a Task Force to study effective strategies, FHWA anticipates that the SRTS Task Force will review State programs in the future to identify how the objectives are being met.

Objectives of SRTS Programs

The following four objectives should be considered in structuring programs at the State level:

- Objective 1: Enable Participation on a Variety of Levels

State programs should be accessible to a wide variety of project sponsors and partners (including those that are non-traditional recipients of transportation funding, such as parent-teacher organizations and other nonprofit organizations).

SRTS programs can be implemented at different levels – at a single school, a cluster of schools, on school system or region-wide basis, or in some cases on a statewide level. There are some activities that are more effective when implemented on a region-wide or school district basis, such as incorporating pedestrian and bicycle safety into school curricula, and media outreach efforts. State programs should therefore consider a structure that enables project applications to be submitted by a single school, or by applicants that represent multiple schools.

- Objective #2: Make the Program Accessible to Diverse Participants

State programs should be easily accessible to schools and communities in rural, suburban and urban settings, especially those with fewer local resources and limited ability to afford new initiatives. This is particularly important, as school zones in low income areas often have higher than average child pedestrian crash rates, and have the greatest need for a SRTS program, yet may have limited resources to access these funds. In addition, there are many States with a high percentage of rural schools that should be given the opportunity to participate in this program in an appropriate way.

States are encouraged to review and analyze bike and pedestrian crash data and consider setting aside some funds to provide assistance to schools in areas with higher than average child crash rates. Targeted outreach and technical assistance efforts may be required to ensure that low income communities in urban or rural settings can fairly compete for SRTS funds. Assistance may be needed with technical assessment, preparation of grant applications, or capacity development. Careful development of project selection criteria will also help reinforce the importance of addressing equity issues in SRTS programs.

- Objective #3: Promote Comprehensive SRTS Programs and Activities

State programs should foster projects that combine engineering improvements along with education, encouragement, enforcement, and evaluation activities at the same schools. This may be accomplished by including funding for activities that address the five components (“5 E’s”) in most or all funding awards, or requiring local applicants to demonstrate how components that are not included in the application are already being addressed in the school or within the school’s immediate community.

- Objective #4: Maximize Impact of the Funds

State programs should maximize use of the most effective physical treatments and designs to improve bicycle and pedestrian safety and use; as well as the most effective approaches in the areas of safety education, encouragement, and, enforcement. In addition, the program structure should encourage timely and expeditious implementation and cost-effective expenditure of funds. It also can be valuable to have SRTS funds leverage additional funds from other sources, and that materials produced be easily adaptable for use by other communities. (Note that no funding “match” is permitted. See section on “Project Selection Criteria” for additional information about leveraging and see section “Utilizing Related Funding Sources” for information about other funding sources.)

Additional information is given for several of the objectives identified above within the text of this Guidance.

Statewide Multidisciplinary Coordination

FHWA encourages State DOTs to collaborate with other agencies and interested organizations within their State to create and implement a plan for how to best accomplish the purposes of the SRTS Program described in Section 1404. Integrating the State SRTS Program with multiple State agencies, such as bicycle and pedestrian programs, highway and traffic safety groups, environment and planning groups, law enforcement, public health officials, and boards of education, etc., will make the program outcomes more comprehensive and more effective in increasing safety and numbers of children walking and bicycling to school. Based on experiences of SRTS programs already operating in some States, FHWA also encourages State DOTs to involve experts and professionals representing SRTS stakeholders from the fields of public health, education, child safety, bicycling and walking and others as appropriate to assist with development and implementation of the program.

SRTS Program Administration

Minimum Infrastructure and Noninfrastructure Spending

FHWA anticipates that State DOTs need guidance on how to address both noninfrastructure and infrastructure activities in their program administration process. The legislation specifies that 10 to 30 percent of each State's funding is to be spent on noninfrastructure activities:

- (B) ALLOCATION.--Not less than 10 percent and not more than 30 percent of the amount apportioned to a State under this section for a fiscal year shall be used for noninfrastructure-related activities under this subparagraph. (Sec 1404(2) (B))

The intent of this language is to ensure that education, encouragement, enforcement and evaluation activities are included as a significant part of SRTS activities. States and communities should combine these activities with engineering modifications to encourage an approach to SRTS that both results in safer walking and bicycling environments and encourages more walking and bicycling to school.

Program Administration Models

With the requirement that both infrastructure and noninfrastructure activities be funded by the SRTS Program, States will need to develop administrative procedures that can accomplish this task. FHWA encourages State DOTs to develop administrative procedures that effectively accommodate both infrastructure and noninfrastructure activities. The following are examples of program administration models: (this list is not intended to be comprehensive)

- 1. One Agency/One Application: Program is administered by one single agency through one single application process. A State may decide that each application must consist of both infrastructure and noninfrastructure activities (or require evidence that both types of activities will be undertaken even if one is not part of the SRTS funding request) in order to ensure a comprehensive and integrated project at each location. States that use this approach should strongly consider development of a multi-disciplinary and multi-agency committee to evaluate project applications and recommend projects for funding. Additionally, States should consider using a separate rating system for the two different components within a single application and make grant selections based on the cumulative total. If a State decides that they will consider applications for infrastructure only and noninfrastructure only activities, the administration of SRTS should enable both types of projects to be evaluated fairly.
- 2. One Agency/ Multiple Applications: Program is administered by one single agency through more than one type of grant application process. The State DOT could run distinct competitive grant application processes for both the infrastructure and noninfrastructure portions of funding. In this scenario, applicants should be required to show that their programs are comprehensive, i.e. infrastructure projects should be part of a larger effort that includes the five components of SRTS activities (“5 E’s”).
- 3. Multiple Agencies (Split Program): Program funds are separated into infrastructure and noninfrastructure categories and administered by different divisions of DOT, different State agencies, or a nonprofit organization. The State DOT could provide funding to another state-level department or a nonprofit organization (e.g. health department, office of traffic safety, a bicycle and pedestrian safety department within the DOT, a University, or a non-governmental organization) to administer the grant applications and evaluation components for the noninfrastructure requirements. This entity would then report to the State DOT who remains responsible for the administration and stewardship of the SRTS Program, regardless of whether a different entity is administering parts of the Program.
- 4. Phased Program: Program funds are given in “stages:” 1) initial grants are given to provide technical assistance, assessment and project/activity planning support, 2) follow up funds for execution of infrastructure and noninfrastructure projects. The State DOT could provide a portion of the noninfrastructure funding to a service provider (i.e. through a competitive bid process) with demonstrated success in conducting community-based SRTS training, assessment and technical assistance. This third party would be responsible for training schools regarding the development of SRTS plans, and in providing technical assistance where needed. Schools would then be eligible for a “second stage” of funding once their SRTS plans are completed. This option may be desirable in States where there is a need to target low income and/or rural areas.

Regardless of how each State structures its SRTS Program and project application process, FHWA strongly recommends that infrastructure and noninfrastructure activities be coordinated in order to achieve successful outcomes.

Recommended Evaluation of SRTS Programs

Ongoing review and evaluation activities associated with SRTS programs are vital for the continual improvement of each program (and for the study and development of a strategy for advancing SRTS programs nationwide, as called for in Section 1404). FHWA is required to report to Congress on the progress of the SRTS Program, and therefore requests that States gather and provide the following information with respect to the expenditure of these funds:

Evaluation of Safety Benefits

Understanding safety outcomes provides information about how SRTS activities reduce fatalities and injuries, as well as reduce risk associated with walking and bicycling to school. FHWA acknowledges some challenges in evaluating crash data with respect to the success of SRTS programs. Crash reporting systems generally do not distinguish if pedestrian and bicycle crashes occur during the trip to/from school. Also, to measure program effectiveness in terms of crashes, it is appropriate to review accident data 3 years prior and 3 years following the implementation of a comprehensive SRTS program. Funding cycles are likely to be considerably shorter than this timeframe.

For this reason, FHWA will accept other methods of evaluating the safety benefits of the program, such as changes in public perception of safety, the effect on safety behaviors among participants of SRTS programs, or increased awareness of safe walking and bicycling practices.

Evaluation of Behavioral Changes

Understanding the effect of the program on the number of students who walk and bicycle, versus arrive/depart from school via other modes of transportation provides information about how SRTS activities affect the behavior of students and motorists. States are asked to measure this change by collecting information prior to the start of SRTS programs, and then after such programs have been established in participating schools. Care should be taken to compare outcomes based on similar conditions (i.e. weather, regular day or contest day, etc.). FHWA recognizes that where programs are being implemented specifically to reduce hazards for children already walking and bicycling to school, this would not necessarily be an appropriate evaluation measure.

Evaluation of Other Potential Benefits

In addition to the two categories listed above, States may choose to evaluate their programs in terms of:

Lauren,

Following up on our concerns about the police oversight commission appointment process.

Please note that the Coity Council meeting on March 4 includes a public hearing on the changes to the oversight ordinance. This public hearing is for the change in the ordinance that allows current and former City employees who were temporary and received fewer than 7 paychecks in any year to be appointed to the Commission. It provides an opportunity for the public to speak about the appointments. Public hearings give anyone the opportunity to speak without need to sign up in advance. As usual, each speaker gets three minutes. Public hearings happen rather early in the meeting, after the general comment opportunity, the vote on the consent agenda and comments from the mayor and council, but before most other business on the agenda.

I know, Jack, you seemed to be expecting to have influence on who is considered via that vote, so these emails seem to fly in the face of that. It made me wonder if the two of you are aware this is happening.

I am so deeply dismayed they rejected such solid and relatively moderate Task Force members. It seems, if their goal is to erase the history of this work, they are doing that quite well. Am anxious to hear your thoughts. Thanks so much.

Dear Janet,

We are profoundly grateful for your application to the Independent Police Community Oversight Committee (ICPOC). With almost 6 times more applicants than available spots on the commission, we were faced with the difficult task of nominating a group of only 11. While we are unable to offer you a place on the ICPOC at this time, we strongly encourage you to apply as spots open in the years ahead.

As a nominating committee, we were struck by the willingness of every single applicant to serve as a resource for the ICPOC. The work involved in creating a successful police oversight commission will not be accomplished by the commissioners alone. We strongly encourage you to join subcommittees, participate in public forums, or provide skills and expertise as you are able.

The experience of reviewing the applications to the ICPOC has been both humbling and inspiring. Thank you for sharing your insight, life experiences, and passion for improving our community. Because of community members like you, we are confident that we can work towards making Ann Arbor more equitable, inclusive, and welcoming for everyone.

With gratitude,
Zach Ackerman, Julie Grand, Jane Lumm, and Ali Ramlawi

I will discuss it with colleagues and see if there's support for this amendment. Have you shared it with other Councilmembers, and if so, please let me know what they say.

Also, Council is having office hours on Sunday, March 3 from 7 - 9 pm in City Hall, second floor. Everyone's invited!

Subject: ICPOC amendment

Hi. I see that the ICPOC amendment is up for second reading at the next council meeting 2019-03-04.

I think Eaton's amendment at the last meeting mostly strengthened it, by saying that the only city employees that could be waived onto the commission were temp employees.

But one thing that was lost from the original version of the amendment was the stipulation that the people not be police officers. This is probably moot because I don't think we really hire temporary part-time police officers. However, other civilians might work for the police department on a temporary, part-time basis. Crossing guards, for example. Such people, working closely with police, might have the kind of biased perspective that would make them bad overseers.

So perhaps we could amend it further:

The requirements in the preceding sentence may be waived by a resolution approved by at least 7 members of City Council for current and former employees who are or were classified as temporary employees and who received fewer than seven pay checks in any year from the City, and did not work in the police department.

You could use that trick that Ali used that one time: Announce at the beginning of the meeting that you'd like to make this amendment, and then it doesn't have to get kicked back to first reading.

Now, even this is not going to be strong enough for the task force members and activists, who would like people to be permanently disqualified for ever having worked in law enforcement. I agree with that position, and I'm sure you'll hear this argument expressed plenty at the public hearing.

But that would be a pretty major change to this law. We should probably consider that in the future. But it looks like this ordinance is at the "tweak" stage, not the "overhaul" stage, so I wanted to offer a tweak.

Thanks.

Thanks Ryan. One of the key issues why Council is not pleased with this situation is that we don't fully understand it's impact on the dioxane plume.

Also, the developer is asking for a zoning change, which further goes against the master plan, and sets a risky precedent for declining future requests for zoning changes and variances.

Oh, also: Please approve that lockwood development!

With so many units of 99-year-guaranteed affordable housing, it is offering such significant public benefit that we are not going to get a better deal there.

Some people will not be satisfied unless we can stop all of anything being developed there, but we just can't do that under state law. In this economic climate, the landowner will develop something there. The question is just getting the maximum public benefit for the city.

A PUD that offers a bunch of units of 99-year affordable housing: That's a pretty good deal.

Some of the people arguing against this development were saying "right project, wrong place." But we just don't have the ability to move projects around like that. These things come from private property owners. They could have come to us with a by-right development of a bunch of expensive single-family homes that offer little public benefit. Instead, they offered senior housing and affordable housing, both of which we are in dire need of.

Take the deal!

Thanks.

Dear Mr. Crawford and Mr. Loucks,

Thanks to you both for exchanging information on this complicated issue.

I also wanted to share the attached presentation from the consultants (Stantec -- March 2018), and have extracted slide #2, which contains these questions:

- How should users be categorized?
- How should we structure rates?
- Understand national trends

Questions like these remind me that we should continue to consider more than one way to fund the water system and set rates.

Mr. Crawford,

Thank you for taking the time to answer the issues raised by my request. Several of the issues you raised were issues I was well aware of when I asked for the consultants to include a property tax method when devising recommendations for a funding mechanism of the water system. First, on the issue of not all water customers paying property taxes to the city of Ann Arbor, the city delivers water to addresses and so the city knows which addresses are on the tax roles or not. There is no suggestion that the city must provide water to non-property tax customers at the same rate as tax paying customers with a major case in point being the University of Michigan. For UM, they are currently paying a rate that must have been the result of many years worth of negotiations and the obvious fix for this case would be to simply continue the same billing structure that exists now. For township properties, a mechanism similar to the one currently in place would make the most sense. Secondly, your point about shifting the cost of the capital expense from low valued properties to high valued properties is precisely the point. Many of our public services are currently funded this way with roads being a case in point; why should water be any different when water is essential to life itself? Water should be recognized as the unique commodity it is because it is a dire necessity that should be funded in a politically progressive way. The whole point of revisiting the billing rate study was to come up with robust options for the Council to consider. The decision of who pays how much is exactly the type of decision our Council members were elected to decide. If it is true that the bonds could be purchased at a lower rate of interest if property tax revenues were used to pay them, then this should be information the Council should know about. Mr. Crawford, I will respectfully ask you to be mindful of your role as a servant of the residents of Ann Arbor and ask that you not attempt to steer our Council members towards a preordained outcome of the water rate study by limiting policy options presented to Council.

Sincerely,

Charles Loucks

CM Bannister & Mr. Loucks,

I may be able to answer this question without engaging the consultants performing the water rate analysis. When financing drinking water improvements there are a number of financing tools that can be utilized. Some of them have subsidized interest rates (like 2%) plus forgiveness on a portion of the principal. These alternatives vary in funding and eligibility requirements and may be more beneficial than other financing alternatives.

When considering a capital improvement debt service millage, there are complicating factors. One issue is that the water system provides services to non-residents (people living outside of the City limits). If a millage styled financing solution is used, it would need to address this non-resident issue from an equity standpoint. Additionally, a debt service millage would shift debt repayment from the water customers (which have a correlation to water usage) to a property value based system. High valued properties would pay more than low valued properties, irrespective of their water usage. Entities exempt from property taxes (e.g. University of Michigan, companies with tax abatements, etc.) may also not contribute to the repayment of debt. Consequently, for an entity like the water fund, it's much less likely a debt service millage would be the best solution for financing improvements.

Thanks,

Tom Crawford

Council Members,

Please ask the consultants doing the water billing proposals to look at using a property tax millage to fund the capital purchases of our water system. In particular, ask what savings, if any, could be realized from a reduced interest rate on the bonds used to fund the water system if a millage is used to fund the water system.

Affordability Analysis

Legal framework:

Can customer charges be use to fund programs to address affordability challenges?

- 🌱 Charges must be associated with the cost to serve. Funding for programs to provide assistance to customers with affordability challenges must be funded through not-rate revenue.

What was done during the study:

- 💧 Identify neighborhoods and customers with affordability challenges
- 💧 Understand their key customer characteristics
 - 💧 Water Demand profile
 - 💧 Account types
- 💧 Incorporated that understanding into cost of service and rate design

Affordability Recommendations

- 💧 Implement the new multi-family rate which will indirectly impact families with affordability challenges
- 💧 Continue to work with community to meet the needs of those with affordability challenges through:
 - 💧 Proactive communications through Customer Service
 - 💧 Partnership with the Community Partners (Barrier Busters/County) to avert crisis needs
 - 💧 Quantify those who face affordability challenges to seek funding from non-rate revenue

Water & Sewer Forecasted Revenue Requirements

Typical Residential Utility Bill Comparison

2018 Typical Residential Bill
Water	$59.17
Sewer	$93.69
Storm water	$42.53
Subtotal:	$195.39
Early Payment Discount	($19.54)
Average Quarterly Bill	$175.85

2019 Typical Residential Bill
Water	$59.64
Sewer	$106.51
Storm water	$47.93
Subtotal:	$214.08
Early Payment Discount	($21.41)
Average Quarterly Bill	$192.67

Quarterly Increase	$16.82
Effective Percentage	9.56%

The typical residential bill is based on 18 CCF per quarter and falls in Tier 2 of the Stormwater Rate Structure

Study Implementation

- If approved, re-classify multi-family accounts
 - Estimated 2,500 accounts will be reclassified
- Communication to all residents about rate structure changes

MDEQ dramatically increases funding and extends deadline for recycling grants

LANSING, MICH. The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) today announced that it will dramatically increase available funding for Recycling Infrastructure Grants from $500,000 to $3.7 million and the extend the deadline for grant applications to May 1, 2019.

The MDEQ originally announced this grant opportunity on November 21, 2018 in support of the statewide recycling goals of increasing the recycling rate and ensuring convenient recycling access by supporting investment in recycling infrastructure.

Given the increase in funding, MDEQ is extending the application period through to May 1, 2019. The Recycling Infrastructure Grant is part of the MDEQ's Fiscal Year 2019 Sustainability Grants, which also includes Scrap Tire Cleanup Grants and Scrap Tire Market Development Grants. The increased funding has been made available by the recently established Renew Michigan Fund.

Eligible entities include cities, villages, townships, charter townships, counties, tribal governments, municipal solid waste or resource recovery authorities, non-profit organizations, school districts, health departments, colleges or universities, and regional planning agencies. Funding or program partners may be for-profit organizations, but such entities are not eligible to receive grants. The maximum request amount per grant is $1 million.

Requests for funding must be received by close of business May 1, 2019.

To view the Request for Proposals and for more information about the grants program, visit www.michigan.gov/mirecycles.

Thanks for sharing your thoughts about PUD being the best kind of zoning change. While you make good points, I remain cautious that zoning changes are a risky precedent.

The mitigation of dioxane issue is also uncertain.

While I will continue to work with everyone on the affordable housing issue, I'm also working on affordability in general. There's a lot to balance between existing residents and people who'd like to live here. You've probably seen my struggles with special assessments for sidewalks, etc.

Please also remember that the then Council majority gave up nearly $10M of affordable housing when they approved the 1140 Broadway development for Morningside in 2017. I voted no on that rezoning from PUD to C1A/R (campus business district), and still deeply regret that it passed Council anyway.

Hope to see you on Sunday for office hours!

Thanks again,
Anne

Oh yes, dioxane. I thought there was a mitigation component attached to this, like they were going to install some dioxane mitigation wells. It seems like that would have a better impact than doing nothing.

As far as zoning changes, the PUD is the best kind of zoning change - the standard to which all other zoning changes should and are compared, because the PUD guarantees public benefits. That's why, in Eaton's campaign, his main proposal for affordable housing was to tighten zoning laws and require most things to be negotiated as PUDs instead. Well, this is what that looks like.

The master plan can be a good guideline, but it was made in the past with incomplete information. The creators of the master plan didn't know about the Lockwood development. This is the very reason that the city council has the authority to make zoning changes -- because they can consider new cases. Using this authority is not going to make zoning laws go away in general. The next case will come up, and you'll be able to consider the change on its merits, articulate an argument, and vote one way or another. Nothing will change about that simply because you have done so in this case.

In fact, it seems like it would actually be an abdication of the council's authority, rather than an assertion of it, to insist that the council must slavishly adhere to the master plan.

So, is there a particular reason that you think that THIS zoning change is imprudent? Because there's plenty of reason to think that this change IS prudent in this case, with all that affordable housing.

Thanks.

Interesting, thanks for sending! You might like to know that for a radio show I'm producing, I've found out that while the assumption is that NSF certified water filters do the best job of taking out the PFAS, NFS certifies them only down to 70 ppt, which is more PFAS than is in A2 water. So people who are installing NSF-certified filters might be wasting their money if PFAS is their only concern. Culligan (and perhaps other companies, I need to check) sell a "Total Defense" filter that was tested by Dr. Detlef Knappe of North Carolina State University, Department of Civil, Construction, and Environmental Engineering, and he found it removes PFAS to <10 ppt. See attached for one of his tests.

Thanks much,
Barbara

Thanks Emily!

Fellow Commissioners: Please note from this table how rapidly these limits are falling. In fact, proposals for total PFOA and PFOS exposures are now less than 1 ng/day, to protect in utero and young children. These numbers are based on evidence that exposure above these levels depresses development of the immune system and raises cholesterol levels, which are the easiest effects to measure. There are certainly others. I've attached the relevant documents.

Since these PFAS compounds have been around for decades, the damage has mostly already been done. Blood levels of PFOA and PFOS have been declining since their manufacture was phased out in the US. However, the main danger now is the PFAS compounds that have replaced them: GenX, PFBS, and some thousands of others. These are just as persistent in the environment, only less bio-accumulative in humans, but even harder to remove from drinking water. It will take decades to understand their potential health and ecological effects, unless we all demand more testing BEFORE they are mass-manufactured and released into the environment. To accomplish this will require reforming the Toxic Substances Control Act at the Federal level. Meanwhile, the only solution is to move upstream and upwind.

EFSA advisory: <https://chemsec.org/scientists-just-cut-the-tolerable-intake-of-pfas-by-999/>

Assuming 1 Liter (Quart) of water ingested per day, these limits correspond to 1-2 ppt for PFOA and PFOS. I'm not aware of any technology that can reliably or cheaply attain these limits for treatment of drinking water.

The attached paper is the best epidemiological study for PFOA/PFOS effects on children:

Steve

Case Narrative:

On August 4, 2017 two water samples were taken from an undisclosed residence in Leland, NC, including (1) a sample treated by a Culligan Aqua-Clear RO30 reverse osmosis (RO) water treatment system and (2) a sample of untreated tap water. The samples were analyzed for fluorochemicals by liquid chromatography tandem mass spectrometry (LC-MS/MS). Fluorochemicals detected by LC-MS/MS are listed in Table 1. The limit of quantification (LOQ) for this method was 10 ppt (parts-per-trillion); therefore, any concentration below this limit cannot be determined.

As shown in Table 2 and in Figure 1, GenX was measured in the tap water sample at a concentration of 40 ppt; the GenX concentration was below the LOQ (<10 ppt) in the RO-treated water sample. Therefore, the GenX removal efficiency of the tested RO system was >75%. The sum concentration of all fluorochemicals, for which analytical standards are available, was 116 ppt in the tap water sample, and each fluorochemical, for which analytical standards are available, was below the LOQ (<10 ppt) in the RO-treated water sample. As shown in Table 2 and in Figure 2, the summed peak area counts for all targeted fluorochemicals in the tap water sample was 24,758, with the dominant fluorochemicals in the sample being perfluoro-2-methoxyacetic acid (PFMOAA) and Nafion byproduct 2. The summed peak area counts for all targeted fluorochemicals in the RO-treated water sample was 1,215. Therefore, the overall fluorochemical removal efficiency of the tested RO system was 95%. Generally, a larger chromatographic peak area count is associated with a higher concentration.

Good evening friends,

It's been brought to my attention that there appears to be an increased police presence at Pioneer High school lately. They do not seem to be responding to a specific incident. They appear to be using office space.

I have been told by a few people have been told that they are working on a community initiative. Will you pls clarify what is this 'community initiative'?

Subject: ICPOC amendment

Hi. I see that the ICPOC amendment is up for second reading at the next council meeting 2019-03-04.

I think Eaton's amendment at the last meeting mostly strengthened it, by saying that the only city employees that could be waived onto the commission were temp employees.

But one thing that was lost from the original version of the amendment was the stipulation that the people not be police officers. This is probably moot because I don't think we really hire temporary part-time police officers. However, other civilians might work for the police department on a temporary, part-time basis. Crossing guards, for example. Such people, working closely with police, might have the kind of biased perspective that would make them bad overseers.

So perhaps we could amend it further:

The requirements in the preceding sentence may be waived by a resolution approved by at least 7 members of City Council for current and former employees who are or were classified as temporary employees and who received fewer than seven pay checks in any year from the City, and did not work in the police department.

You could use that trick that Ali used that one time: Announce at the beginning of the meeting that you'd like to make this amendment, and then it doesn't have to get kicked back to first reading.

Now, even this is not going to be strong enough for the task force members and activists, who would like people to be permanently disqualified for ever having worked in law enforcement. I agree with that position, and I'm sure you'll hear this argument expressed plenty at the public hearing.

But that would be a pretty major change to this law. We should probably consider that in the future. But it looks like this ordinance is at the "tweak" stage, not the "overhaul" stage, so I wanted to offer a tweak.

Thanks.

Hope you both have been doing well. We wanted to reach out in case you guys missed the update that Broadway Park will be going before Planning Commission for our PUD re-zone request in next Tuesday's meeting (3/5). We've appreciated your feedback and time thus far as our Ward 1 representatives, so I just wanted to keep you guys in the loop as we continue through entitlements. We would love to see you guys there if you're available!

Welcome to Ward One and congratulations on your upcoming move. I've copied CM Jeff Hayner, my colleague representing the ward.

While I agree the Lockwood affordable senior housing project is needed, one of the concerns with it is that it's in part on top of the dioxane plume, and the potential impact on the direction of the plume is uncertain.

I look forward to discussing this project at the Council meeting on March 18, starting at 7 pm.

Please let us know when you have further questions or comments.

Thanks!

I'm not one of your constituents yet, but I will be this summer when my wife and I move into our condo currently under construction in the First Ward.

But before I miss the chance, I would like to urge you to support the PUD Zoning and Site Plan for the Lockwood of Ann Arbor development. I am in favor of this project, especially because of the developers pledge to include 38 units for low income seniors. Perhaps all future real estate developments in Ann Arbor can have similar requirements to provide affordable housing, the lack of which is certainly a problem in the city.

Thanks for taking the time to listen to a future constituent.

Councilmember Bannister,

It depends on the position, whether it is union or not, whether it is executive level or not, what department it is in, etc. You will recall that the city recently conducted a salary study to help answer many of these questions. In addition, when a position is created HR advises on what an appropriate salary level is, and when raises are requested HR is involved as well. I have never worked for a government, either at the state or local level, that conducted annual employee evaluations—it is perhaps not as common as some think.

I would also advise some caution as you engage in this topic. One of the primary features of the Council-Manager form of government is to keep the political leadership of the city as far away from hiring and personnel decisions as possible, so as to eliminate even the impression of political influence in hiring. I am happy to provide very high level information about our HR functions, but I will have to insist that we avoid anything beyond that.

Thanks,

Anne, Elizabeth, and Jeff -

I hope you will not be supporting this resolution on Monday night.

You've all made it abundantly clear to me that you strongly believe in the urgency of the climate crisis, and that the City of Ann Arbor should be funding climate action work.

As I've told you, I've been deeply involved in efforts by the City (and the State of Michigan and the federal government) to take meaningful action on climate and energy issues for over 25 years. The City has a great climate plan, terrific staff, and community support for innovative climate work. All that had been missing are adequate financial resources to move forward.

I know that the 40/40/20 county rebate is controversial, but it is the only source of significant funding that anyone has identified for climate action. If there were another 8-year-long, $880,000/year source of funding for this work, I'd be happy to use it instead of the county rebate.

But please, please, please — don't nullify the directive to use the rebate without first finding a replacement for the climate money.

Thanks for listening!

Mike

I'll probably be sending a more formal message along these lines to all of Council before

Monday night, but I wanted to reach out to each of you since we've spoken personally about this important issue, and it was clear to me that we share values about it.

Thanks for writing. I've copied Councilmember Jeff Hayner, too, my Ward One colleague.

I'm working on specifying an alternative... I strongly support all three goals (affordable housing, climate action and pedestrian safety). The problem is that the ballot only spoke about mental health and public safety. Residents tell me they're very concerned when a local government does something else with the millage funds than what was stated on the ballot.

Please stay in touch and keep the two-way communication going.

Dear Mayor Taylor and City Council,

Climate change is the most important issue of our time, and we owe it to future generations to do everything we can to address it.

I'm proud that Ann Arbor has been taking bold action to address the climate crisis – through its Climate Action Plan, 100% Renewable Energy Commitment, new Office of Sustainability, and the funding created through the 2017 County millage rebate.

The proposed resolution to nullify the 40/40/20 allocation of rebate money, however, goes in absolutely the wrong direction. Please do not nullify this source of funding for climate action (and affordable housing and pedestrian safety) without specifying an alternative.

This would be a terrible step backward for our community. Please vote NO on the resolution.

Sincerely,

Ms. Michelle Barnett

Subject: NO Left turn from Pioneer onto Stadium

It is acknowledged that there is a continuing danger from drivers coming out of Pioneer High School and turning left [or continuing straight!] onto Stadium Blvd.

We have first hand knowledge as our 6 month old minivan was totaled by a driver trying to such a manuever! Email pleas from Pioneer administrators do nothing to improve the safety of the intersection.

See the picture below, I took this week from the driver's seat: You can't see the 'NO LEFT TURN' sign as it is completely obscured by the stop sign! It is no wonder that so many drivers approaching the intersection fail to perceive the sign in the first place. What a shoddy [pardon my language] half-assed job someone did in posting the sign! Can we overstate the danger to students walking to school and the cars driving on stadium? check with the police department for the relevant statistics.

2 Obvious suggestions:

- * MOVE the sign so it is visible and readable; Put another sign where a driver in the left lane will get the message.
- * Have school custodians or other staff put an orange barrel / barricade in the left lane during the critical times called out on the sign.

This has been active topic of conversation since, at least, September. Why has not constructive action been taken as yet ?

Mayor Taylor and Council Members Grand and Ackerman:

This email regards the Monday Council Resolution on the agenda addressing the use of the millage rebate for Climate Action funding.

I am writing to ask that the commitment be maintained. However, if the Monday resolution is passed to rescind the 2017 resolution, that it be amended to reflect the priority this Council places on Climate Action, and that the rebate establishes a minimal baseline General Fund commitment to Climate Action.

Yes, there are many worthy competing uses for this rebate, if it is to be re-evaluated. For example, there could be Ann Arbor funding for mental-health professionals to travel with Ann Arbor police on crisis calls. This is a critical need, and is not presently funded, to my knowledge. On this basis, an A2 City-based program could be funded that reflects the County's allocation of the millage covering four broad areas of mental health services: (1) crisis funding; (2) stabilization funding; (3) prevention funding; and (4) jail services for inmates with mental health issues.

Realize, however, that the Climate Action Community in Ann Arbor is asking once again, for the umpteenth time, for the City to fund Climate Action programs and projects, on a prolonged and substantial basis.

The real question is, what more can be added to the budget, across all City Departments to accelerate climate action above this budgetary baseline?

I understand the point of view from the current Council expressed in Monday's resolution. They don't want their hands tied by a previous Council resolution. It's the principal.

Also, it may be that individual CMs don't believe Climate Action should take priority over other budget demands, although it's only been implied, which is maybe why they wanted the survey for political cover. Climate Action just isn't enough of a compelling priority for some, I believe.

My position is that Council needs to fund Climate Action on a sustained and substantial basis, regardless of the millage rebate. Please use the rebate amount as a minimal baseline, and go up from there.

If the commitment is rescinded, it should not mean that Climate Action funding from the General Fund gets reduced below the rebate level.

The rebate is a base-line, and as such, should be exceeded.

Thank you for your consideration.

Still, nobody has mentioned why the following ordinances are not being followed

Nat. features ordinance 5.23.7 for steep slopes states that "drainage should be directed to inlet structures and NOT permitted to flow down steep slopes during and after construction" and that "no new drainage may be directed over areas of a disturbed slope"

A2 Wetlands preservation ordinances 5.204. (3) states that to construct , operate, or maintain any use or development in a wetland, INCLUDING draining or directing water from an upland activity into a wetland" why is this OK?

please help me to understand. thank you for thinking of the Master plan and Zoning.....Zoning is the law. if we don't like it then we can take the processes to change it.

After 2 years, we residents are wearing down, beaten down and these special interest groups are now in charge of our fate? this is wrong. Councilmember Bannister,

A final staff response for your review.

The speed of the plows along with a screenshot showing the date and time is attached. At no time were the trucks exceeding the speed limit of 30 mph.

Dear Mr. Hupy,

Is there a way that Mr. Koli and I could receive a confirmation of the speed of the snow plow trucks on Broadway at 8:29 a.m. yesterday?

Thanks for writing,

I am convinced of the link between housing stability and mental health, and I support Housing First initiatives and funding of the Ann Arbor Housing Commission and affordable housing efforts as best we can. State revenue sharing reductions have lowered our local level of support, and I plan on making up for that in this year's budget, possibly by using funding from the Mental Health millage, which is General Fund dollars and therefore able to be used for just such a purpose.

Sincerely,

Subject: Bannister Agenda Questions
Date: Monday, March 4, 2019 10:01:02 AM

Dear Ms. Higgins,

Please accept these questions:

1. AC - Communications from City Administrator -- Please provide in the oral and written comments:
 1. 19-0378 -- Center of the City -- Please provide a historical range of costs that even nonprofits might need to incur related to mobile toilets (port-a-johns) and insurance.
 2. 18-1749 -- SRTS -- Please provide a range of costs for the 250 hours of staff time and third party consultants that were referenced in Mr. Lazarus' email of 3/2/19, including a ballpark estimate for the specific priority sidewalk gaps in the city. Also include the reason why research of how peer cities fund sidewalk is worthy of such a large expenditure of taxpayer funds; does the City customarily use a similar level of funding and staff time to research peer cities for other projects?
 3. 19-0383 -- Quiet Zone -- Please provide how the millions of dollars in the report compare to other similarly priced urgent priorities in the City. Also, a resident commented during the March 3 public commentary at the Council caucus, that Cook County, Illinois, and Fargo, North Dakota have Quiet Zones. Please verify whether this is accurate and further detail about how they do it.
2. CC-1 Appointments
 1. Please provide a list of all BOC appointments expiring in 2019, especially for Planning Commission and Environmental Commission.
3. CA - 6, 19-0206 -- Tree Planting for $400K
 1. Is it possible to include this in the Climate Action funding category? Residents have asked if this money would be better send rebuilding our Forestry Department? Residents have asked about the quality of the trees and reported that the new trees they are receiving are of low quality. What oversight does the City provide that the trees are of high quality and worthy of the expenditure? Has the City reached out to DTE and other sources of funding for the new trees?
4. CA- 8, 19-0226 -- WRRMA
 1. Why has UM and EMU not be included in the regional authority, and shouldn't they be, as large potential partners for this project? How could they be included going forward?
 2. Please provide an update on the progress and timeline for the $250K consultant APTIM (resolution 18-0457). Are they preparing a Solid Waste Master Plan for release in July 2019? How does this fit with the current 19-0226 resolution?
 3. How does WRRMA fit with the 18-2058 Resolution passed by Council? Isn't 19-0226 on direct conflict/contradictory to 18-2058?
5. DC-2, 19-0389 -- LowerTown Mobility Study
 1. How does this resolution fit with 18-1331 Resolution which was defeated by Council? Please respond to resident complaints that this an unfair work around from 8 votes to 6 votes.
 2. What conversations and emails have occurred to ask UM to help with in-kind expertise and funding? Please refer to City-UM Policy Coordination Meeting notes from 6/5/18 and 9/11/18 and the upcoming 3/5/19 meeting? Can this topic be addressed at the 3/5/19 meeting, and a report given to Council and residents?
 3. How much would it cost to alternatively spend this money on a professional pedestrian safety engineer to oversee urgent needs in the community?
 4. Does the Communications department have plans to educate residents on how to use See Click Fix and the AAPD traffic complain questionnaire and the Traffic Calming Program to gather and track citizen input on priority dangerous cross walk and public/pedestrian safety concern areas? Shouldn't these known hot spots be prioritized over spending more money on consultants, whose reports won't be available until 2023?

5. Please provide transparency for Council and residents a list of possible outcomes of the study, such as safety improvements and roundabouts. Residents have asked for staff members to share their insights on what the "wish list" of possible solutions might entail.
 6. Residents have asked whether another could RFP be launched for $150K or $250K? They would like transparency on why $649K is needed?
 7. What other consultants beside OHM responded to the RFP and why was OHM preferred? How many contracts have we had with OHM and their dollar amounts?
6. DC-3, 19-0395 -- Mental Health and Public Safety Millage
1. Please provide ballpark estimates of what's already being spent and accomplished for Climate Action, Pedestrian Safety, and Affordable Housing, including across all departments, including OSI, Communications, the B2B tunnel projects (and others), Treeline, stormwater management, Solid Waste, community solar, air and water quality, and transportation.
 2. Please specify a range of funding alternatives to using the mental health millage.
 3. Please answer these questions with regard to metrics:
 1. What is the goal / desired outcome?
 - What is the associated indicator / metric?
 - What is the current status?
 - What are the targets, short-, medium- and long-term?
 - What actions are necessary to achieve the targets?
 - What resources are necessary?
 - Finally, and perhaps most importantly, is all of the above realistic, individually and collectively (i.e. for every issue we want to tackle)? This has to be evaluated in the context of the city's overall situation, including that of the Environmental Commission. We need to ask ourselves if we have the money, time, energy and focus to achieve them. If not, we're just trying to juggle 20 balls at the same time.

I'll use just two examples from the first item in Steve's list, "Parks, Open, Spaces, and Natural Features", to illustrate my point:

- "Plant more trees": What is the objective / what is really wanted in terms of a desired outcome? Plant 1000 more trees? Plant 10,000 more? Toward what end? Increasing A2 tree cover from X to Y by date Z? If not that, what?
- "Support deer management": Again, what is desired? A goal / outcome? A resolution of support? Cull targets?

Thanks,
Anne

Once we receive their feedback and confirm they have retained a licensed professional we will proceed with the necessary inspections. We expect to have a response from them as early as tomorrow afternoon. We will continue to keep you posted on scheduled inspections and findings as we move forward.

Despite my response last week, nothing has changed on this matter at all. I have cc-ed you on the email I sent to the Manager (Jill Mitchell) about the fact that no one has shown up and the water issues remain.

I am not certain what the next step is, but I would like you to know that no action has been taken from the building management and no contractor has shown up to even identify the problem.

Councilmember Bannister,

As of today your inquiry has been assigned to me, so I would like to provide a status update.

I completed a thorough review of Ms. Margomenous' concerns detailed in her email and determined the best course of action would be to facilitate a meeting with Ms. Margomenou and my Deputy Building Official, Marc Howell. There are several points in her email I feel need personal attention from the rental housing management staff to ease her mind about the inspection process and it's intent. A personal onsite visit from a Building Official will also afford the opportunity to investigate her concerns with the water pressure that was not detected on the routine inspection. I will personally contact Ms. Margomenou via email to ensure she is open to the ideal of a personal visit from our Building Official and schedule a time to meet when it is most convenient. Any of Marc Howell's finding will be immediately discussed with the property manager to determine the best plan of action.

Thank you for the communication and please let me know if you should have any further questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

Lisha Turner-Tolbert

Subject: Re: the water issues in Island Drive Apartments.

Dear Anne,

It was great to meet you last night. I am glad Jeff brought up the issue I face with hot water in Island Drive Apartments (Maiden Lane.) I thought about whether I should write to you at all, after last evening. The reason is that in my experience it will be futile to seek protection through city inspections: these only add to the abuse rather than solve anything. And being abused and intimidated once a year is enough. Then I thought perhaps someone should know about all this: both the issues with this building and the abusive practices of City inspectors. If these are really City inspectors, then someone should know that renters are very much aware of all the abuse and intimidation. If these are not City inspectors but people that management companies "outsource" these inspections to, then the City should know what is happening in your name.

I am an American citizen, who unfortunately has a foreign name. I have lived in Ann Arbor for 19 years both as a graduate student and now as a Lecturer at the University of Michigan. I have always been a renter. The inspection issues I describe below I have only experienced while a renter in Island Drive Apartments (since 2011.)

I live in building [REDACTED] apartment [REDACTED]. I am not the only one in the building facing these issues.

Issue:

The problem pertains to the building # [REDACTED]

Specifically:

a. Hot water pressure is intermittent both in the bathroom and in the kitchen.

b. Kitchen sink/faucet: hot water pressure can drop radically in a matter of seconds.

c. The problem is more serious with the shower. The hot water is so intermittent that there is no way to take a hot shower. Mostly cold water comes out.

d. Shower make too much noise, and there is more air than any kind of water coming out of the faucets.

e. When another neighbor takes a shower at the same time, there simply is no hot water at all.

d. I also experience an odor of mold/mustiness in the apartment. This is very serious for reasons that I explain below.

History of the current problem:

The problem with intermittent or no hot water remains unresolved for months. I began complaining in April 2018 but was ignored. I have no record of this because the way the website is designed, when a renter puts in a maintenance request there is neither an electronic record for the renter nor a confirmation email that it was received.

On Jan 11, after talking to some of my neighbors who face the same issues, and since things have become worse, I visited the Leasing office to speak directly to the Manager (Jill Mitchell) with Jeff (Crockett.) Jeff can attest that the manager simply tried to distract the conversation to irrelevant issues, but promised to have it fixed. This is also the moment that I began creating a record since I could now email the manager with updates. I should say, they never communicate with me via email- only on the phone.

On Jan 25, maintenance entered my apartment ([REDACTED]) and they visited the apartment directly above mine ([REDACTED]) In my apartment they left a note, which says: "we are still working on the water pressure problem" (I have the note as well as a photo of it). I was not in the apartment when they visited but it was clear that they changed the handles of the faucet in the bathroom tub. This (of course) made no difference- the problem has nothing to do with the handles of the faucet. My upstairs neighbor attests the same: they did nothing of any substance, and there was no change.

On Jan 30, Ms. Mitchell called me to inform me that they cannot fix this issue so they have "outsourced" it to "real professionals" who were supposed to come on Wed. Feb 6 at 8:30am. No one has come. I emailed Ms. Mitchell informing her on Feb. 7 but I have not heard anything back. The problem remains unresolved.

Additional information that is pertinent and important:

The apartment I live in (Building [REDACTED]) experienced similar issues since the moment I moved in (2011.) The bathroom wall was cracked since I moved and there was a musty odor in the apartment. I complained but was ignored. Finally, in the summer of 2011, while I was abroad for a month, there was a flood from the apartment above ([REDACTED]) that destroyed a significant part of my bathroom, the corridor outside that bathroom, and even the laundry area in the basement of the building (it is directly below the bathroom.) I found the apartment reeking, walls, ceiling, and carpeting covered in mold. It took more than two months to make the place even livable and this only after hiring a lawyer and through the intervention of the City of Ann Arbor (one phone call from Sabra Briere!)

A second such event occurred in 2016, and only impacted my bathroom. It was solved faster but it was patchwork again.

I have detailed records of both incidents with photographs.

I should point out that currently my bathroom wall around the tub is cracked (I have photos) and this same thing happened right before both flooding incidents in 2011 and 2016 (I have photos of both with dates). The musty odor also preceded both flooding incidents.

About the so-called “City Inspections:”

This specific apartment is inspected every year. The city inspectors do not care about any of the issues with mold, cracked walls, and water, and ignore them when they are pointed out. I have been present in a number of these inspections, and they are shocking, invasive, and reek of discrimination. The only goal is to intimidate and abuse. The other goal is to find whether we hide “illegals,” (defined either as undocumented immigrants and/or people who are not included in the original contract.)

First, we are told the inspection will happen whether we are in the apartment or not. They give us a month (a month!) within which this is supposed to happen: someone we do not know, will enter our apartment at any time, whether we are in or not, so we’d better... be ready at any moment (I have photos of the posters that are placed outside our doors about this.) On the occasions that I was present during one of those inspections, they banged on the door in the same manner the police do in movies, and then, even before I could get to the door, they unlocked and pushed in shouting “City Inspection!” In other words, this is a raid or made to look like a raid- it is intimidating from the beginning.

The city inspector marched in, on all cases, with the attitude of a police officer. He was threatening. He cared little about all things a city inspector should care about: water issues, mold, fire-alarms. I know the list they should use- I have seen it online. The people who enter our apartments do not care about anything on that list. On one occasion the “inspector” could not tell one plug from another.

What these inspectors do however, is look under the bed (I have a bed; I do not live off a mattress or whatever the stereotype of “renters” is for the City), open closets, and look through clothes, and under the...couch in the living room. That couch by the way, has no “underneath” because it is solid and reaches to the floor- one of these people had the maintenance employee who followed him (and was also intimidated) lift the couch so that he could see if there was something hidden underneath! Another of these inspectors attempted to open the drawers where I keep my personal possessions (like jewelry) and underwear. This furniture is mine (all furniture is mine; perhaps the City will be surprised to know that “renters” own actual furniture?) so I asked him if he had a warrant. This was the only thing that stopped him from rummaging through my underwear the way he had rummaged through the two closets (I do not unfortunately own these closets- these are built-ins.) When I asked him what he was looking for, I was told that “it is none of my business and I should not provoke the City Inspector or I will be fined or given a ticket.” It was clear however that he was looking for “illegals.” He made comments about how I could be hiding mattresses under my bed and other furniture, and about how I own too many clothes for one person. I do. I love clothes. I own expensive designer dresses. I was not aware that I have to report to the City about how many dresses or shoes I buy or that there was some kind of limit to people’s wardrobes if they are “renters.” I am also not clear as to how this works: should I report to the City for instance if my cousin from Missouri or my brother from California visits me for a week? Are renters the equivalent of Gulag prisoners?

I would like you to place yourself in our position for a moment, and imagine what it is to know that someone can enter the apartment you pay an amount equivalent to a mortgage for rent. That they will enter at any moment, even when you are not there, and go through your clothes, underwear, personal possessions, as if you are a criminal or a prisoner. What if this “inspector” steals? Who protects my property in this apartment from whomever comes in to “inspect”? I have NEVER been given the name and credentials of the inspectors who enter, and when I asked them at the door I was threatened with a fine.

I do not know who these people are that enter our apartments here in Island Drive claiming they are city inspectors. I have never been able to see a name or a badge. During one of these inspections I was told that I was given a ticket because my ethernet cable from the cable box to my laptop was on the floor (?!) and it was a “tripping hazard.” After checking with the city, Jeff and I discovered that no such “ticket” was ever registered and that there is no such thing as a “tripping hazard.” Also, it is of course, ridiculous. But that was also one of the inspections during which I asked too many questions of the “inspector” and stopped him from looking in my chest of drawers.

I am sending you all this so that you are aware that renters are not only abused by the companies that own the houses, but also by the City or, in the name of the City. I have very little confidence this issue with the water will be resolved through an inspection. City inspectors so far have only added to the abuse.

Apologies for the length but perhaps it is time someone in the City is aware of all this.

Best Regards,

Despina

Subject: a few quick questions and comments about dioxane

Dear Council,

Yesterday I was chatting with Kathy Griswold and she mentioned that the dioxane situation will be addressed in today's caucus. As you may know, in 2016 I produced a 25-part series on dioxane which is posted on WEMU.org. You can find the information we presented outlined for quick access at dioxane.org. From what I learned by doing that series, I have a few comments/questions:

1. Regarding the question of where the dioxane in A2's drinking water may be coming from, of course it could be the plume has reached Barton Pond, but in the May 20th, 2016 segment of our series, I noted: Many aren't happy that [Gelman's] treated water is sent down Honey Creek, considering a daily maximum of 22 ppb dioxane can be left in the discharge water. My question is, does all of Honey Creek's dioxane that empties into Barton Pond leave, to travel downstream? Or could some of it be building up there, and that could be contributing to the fact that it is no longer non-detectable in our water? Should Gelman be doing something else with the discharge?
2. In my first segment I noted: Danaher has owned TrojanUV since 2004. Danaher, the same 60-billion dollar Canadian company that last year bought Pall Corporation. So, while Danaher's subsidiary in Ann Arbor is letting its plume spread, its company in Tucson has proven it can remove dioxane to nearly non-detectable levels. Should Danaher be held to a greater level of accountability? I know that Gelman is technically the legally responsible party, but considering the Danaher connection, I am wondering what the status is of their willingness to assist the - city in building a similar treatment plant, like they have in Tucson?

3. A lot of residents want the EPA to come in and save us, and it might help them to know EPA their funding is currently minimal, if there is a Responsible Party identified (as there is in the Gelman case), then the EPA doesn't take over for them, and applying for Superfund designation can delay action. The only positive thing that those I interviewed who have applied for EPA help had to say is that doing so elevated political awareness about the problem.
 4. Lest A2 residents rush to buy bottled water, as I noted in the 14th segment of the series, bottled water isn't tested for dioxane. The exception to this is Arbor Springs, which (at least back in 2016) was being tested for dioxane. I'm not sure if they still do that, nor how often. And of course residents need to know that home filters can't remove dioxane.

You know all this, but I thought I'd send it along, especially in case you can answer my questions in #1 and #2.

Thanks for all you do—I know you have your hands full!

Subject: Bannister Agenda Questions

Dear Ms. Higgins,

Please accept these questions:

1. AC - Communications from City Administrator -- Please provide in the oral and written comments:
 1. 19-0378 -- Center of the City -- Please provide a historical range of costs that even nonprofits might need to incur related to mobile toilets (port-a-johns) and insurance.
 2. 18-1749 -- SRTS -- Please provide a range of costs for the 250 hours of staff time and third party consultants that were referenced in Mr. Lazarus' email of 3/2/19, including a ballpark estimate for the specific priority sidewalk gaps in the city. Also include the reason why research of how peer cities fund sidewalk is worthy of such a large expenditure of taxpayer funds; does the City customarily use a similar level of funding and staff time to research peer cities for other projects?
 3. 19-0383 -- Quiet Zone -- Please provide how the millions of dollars in the report compare to other similarly priced urgent priorities in the City. Also, a resident commented during the March 3 public commentary at the Council caucus, that Cook County, Illinois, and Fargo, North Dakota have Quiet Zones. Please verify whether this is accurate and further detail about how they do it.
2. CC-1 Appointments
 1. Please provide a list of all BOC appointments expiring in 2019, especially for Planning Commission and Environmental Commission.
3. CA - 6, 19-0206 -- Tree Planting for $400K
 1. Is it possible to include this in the Climate Action funding category? Residents have asked if this money would be better send rebuilding our Forestry Department? Residents have asked about the quality of the trees and reported that the new trees they are receiving are of low quality. What oversight does the City provide that the trees are of high quality and worthy of the expenditure? Has the City reached out to DTE and other sources of funding for the new trees?
4. CA- 8, 19-0226 -- WRRMA
 1. Why has UM and EMU not be included in the regional authority, and shouldn't they be, as large potential partners for this project? How could they be included going forward?
 2. Please provide an update on the progress and timeline for the $250K consultant APTIM (resolution 18-0457). Are they preparing a Solid Waste Master Plan for release in July

- 2019? How does this fit with the current 19-0226 resolution?
3. How does WRRMA fit with the 18-2058 Resolution passed by Council? Isn't 19-0226 on direct conflict/contradictory to 18-2058?
5. DC-2, 19-0389 -- LowerTown Mobility Study
1. How does this resolution fit with 18-1331 Resolution which was defeated by Council? Please respond to resident complaints that this an unfair work around from 8 votes to 6 votes.
 2. What conversations and emails have occurred to ask UM to help with in-kind expertise and funding? Please refer to City-UM Policy Coordination Meeting notes from 6/5/18 and 9/11/18 and the upcoming 3/5/19 meeting? Can this topic be addressed at the 3/5/19 meeting, and a report given to Council and residents?
 3. How much would it cost to alternatively spend this money on a professional pedestrian safety engineer to oversee urgent needs in the community?
 4. Does the Communications department have plans to educate residents on how to use See Click Fix and the AAPD traffic complain questionnaire and the Traffic Calming Program to gather and track citizen input on priority dangerous cross walk and public/pedestrian safety concern areas? Shouldn't these known hot spots be prioritized over spending more money on consultants, whose reports won't be available until 2023?
 5. Please provide transparency for Council and residents a list of possible outcomes of the study, such as safety improvements and roundabouts. Residents have asked for staff members to share their insights on what the "wish list" of possible solutions might entail.
 6. Residents have asked whether another could RFP be launched for $150K or $250K? They would like transparency on why $649K is needed?
 7. What other consultants beside OHM responded to the RFP and why was OHM preferred? How many contracts have we had with OHM and their dollar amounts?
6. DC-3, 19-0395 -- Mental Health and Public Safety Millage
1. Please provide ballpark estimates of what's already being spent and accomplished for Climate Action, Pedestrian Safety, and Affordable Housing, including across all departments, including OSI, Communications, the B2B tunnel projects (and others), Treeline, stormwater management, Solid Waste, community solar, air and water quality, and transportation.
 2. Please specify a range of funding alternatives to using the mental health millage.
 3. Please answer these questions with regard to metrics:
 1. What is the goal / desired outcome?
 - What is the associated indicator / metric?
 - What is the current status?
 - What are the targets, short-, medium- and long-term?
 - What actions are necessary to achieve the targets?
 - What resources are necessary?
 - Finally, and perhaps most importantly, is all of the above realistic, individually and collectively (i.e. for every issue we want to tackle)? This has to be evaluated in the context of the city's overall situation, including that of the Environmental Commission. We need to ask ourselves if we have the money, time, energy and focus to achieve them. If not, we're just trying to juggle 20 balls at the same time.

I'll use just two examples from the first item in Steve's list, "Parks, Open, Spaces, and Natural Features", to illustrate my point:

- "Plant more trees": What is the objective / what is really wanted in terms of a desired outcome? Plant 1000 more trees? Plant 10,000 more? Toward what end? Increasing A2 tree cover from X to Y by date Z? If not that, what?

- "Support deer management": Again, what is desired? A goal / outcome? A resolution of support? Cull targets?

Thanks,
Anne

Dear Mr. Goodman,

Thanks for writing. I am answering your email out of the many dozens I have received on this topic this morning alone, because yours appears to not be a form letter, and I appreciate that. I also appreciate that you are an informed voter.

I actually support removing this “prior guidance” because that “promise” keeps us from using the funds in %’s that change to reflect the results of our investments over the life of the millage. I already support funding the uses described, esp. climate action and affordable housing (in this case to make up the much-needed AAHC supportive services budget shortfalls) but this 40/40/20 “promise” is not good budget practice. We need the flexibility to use general fund dollars - the only dollars that provide such flexibility - to invest in the things that have the best, most impactful outcomes, and to make those investments whenever necessary. By committing us to a 40/40/20 structure the previous council has tied our hands. For example, the state budget is due this week, under the current, new administration we are hopeful that state revenue sharing for affordable housing will be returned to prior levels and we may well be freed to spend 100% of the millage “rebate” on Climate action, for example.

It’s a nuanced issue, and this is my first budget cycle, but I have already supported actionable steps to move towards our climate and carbon goals, like approving the purchase of electric vehicles for our green fleets and solar panels on AAHC properties – from my perspective and experience the will is there to make actionable, measureable commitments to all three of these needs. Doing that at the politically-derived 40/40/20 ratio is not the best practice from my perspective, and I don’t believe it will lead to the best outcomes.

Thank you for your consideration,

Sincerely,

Good morning.

As a resident of the City of Ann Arbor, I am deeply concerned about the proposed resolution on tonight's agenda to rescind prior guidance on spending priorities for proceeds from the county mental health millage. When I voted in favor of the millage, I was aware of the Council resolution specifying that 40% be used for affordable housing, 40% for climate action programs, and 20% for pedestrian safety; these priorities were key to my ultimate decision to support the millage.

Significantly altering the specified uses of these funds at this point, long after the election, would be a betrayal of the voters' trust.

City Council Amendment / Resolution on Climate Action

Draft

March 3, 2019

Offered by Brian Chambers, Ward 3

Whereas there is urgency for Climate Action by all levels of government, including local city governments;

Whereas Climate Action necessitates meaningful budget actions across all City Departments;

Whereas the City of Ann Arbor government holdings and operations only contribute a small portion of greenhouse gas impacts across the City;

Whereas the University of Michigan's Ann Arbor campus, student, staffing and capital projects have a significant effect on Ann Arbor's overall carbon footprint, through its resulting housing, transportation, parking and related infrastructure requirements;

Deleted: climate impacts and energy use

Whereas the University of Michigan, as an internationally renowned public research university, with interdisciplinary expertise across science and technology; health, law and public policy; the arts and humanities; and a wide range of other disciplines, having just established a Carbon Neutrality Commission, could potentially collaborate directly with the City of Ann Arbor on its Climate Action needs and initiatives;

RESOLVED, the City Council of Ann Arbor hereby reaffirms its intent to significantly fund local investment and actions that address climate change, on an immediate and ongoing basis;

RESOLVED, the City Administrator is requested to provide a breakdown of General Fund budget allocations proposed for the 2019 budget year that address reductions in overall greenhouse gas emissions and programmatic efforts related to climate action, including but not limited to Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) projects, and projects addressing building energy efficiency, urban land use, urban forestry and gardening, transportation initiatives, and community engagement;

RESOLVED, the initial General Fund baseline should be substantial when totaled across all City Departments, beginning with $1,760,000 in funding for the Sustainability and Innovations Office and Housing Commission energy efficiency and conservation programs;

RESOLVED, this initial Climate Action funding totaled across all City Departments constitutes a baseline for sustaining and growing the investment across subsequent years;

RESOLVED, that metrics of resulting climate impact reductions are to be maintained and reported quarterly across all City Departments to determine their progress toward meeting the goals and targets established by Ann Arbor's Climate Action Plan;

RESOLVED, the City Administrator is requested to foster a Cooperative Agreement with the University of Michigan to address Ann Arbor area climate, housing, transportation and land-use impacts. This partnership should seek to engage the University's College's and School's faculty research and student programs, as well as Facilities and Operations plans and projects, in coordination with senior Administration and the Board of Regents.

Bruce,

Thank you for taking my phone call and discussing your concerns and recommendations regarding the council caucus. I am preparing for tonight's council meeting but will reply in writing on Tuesday. As we discussed, the primary reason for the caucus is to have an open, informal dialog with our constituents without the time constraints and limits (10 speakers) at the council meeting.

I will ask our city attorney about the process for approving the minutes and include that in my more detailed response.

Thanks again,
Kathy

Dear Mayor and Council Members

On Sunday, someone posted on the NextDoor forum a reminder regarding the City Council caucus of that night. I posted the following response:

My question is "why?" Why are there Sunday night caucuses? In the distant past, Ann Arbor Council caucuses were political strategy sessions of the parties serving on the Council. They were private meetings held in the homes of the Council members. Then the Open Meetings Act was adopted. Meetings of a quorum of Council members had to comply with Open Meeting Act requirements: notice, minutes, public place, audience participation. Meetings of members of the minority could still be held in secret. There haven't been opposing political parties on the City Council for ages, but the caucuses continue like half baked Council meetings.

At a caucus, Council members can do everything of a full meeting, except vote on issues requiring a Council vote. A matter can be debated until a consensus is reached. The vote at the real Council meeting may only be a formality. A person with business before the Council would make a mistake to only attend the regular meeting. Why not do the business of the City at a real Council meeting with the administrative staff present to assist the members? Don't City Council members already have enough meetings to attend?

The only response I received was a thank-you. Perhaps one of you can tell me why there are Sunday caucuses.

I know of one case when a resident was completely blindsided because a matter regarding his property was resolved with all but a vote at a Sunday caucus. I assume the City has the good sense to ensure that the requirements of the Open Meetings Act are met. But I could not find online any of the minutes required for public meetings. Nor could I find indications that those minutes were approved.

How about adopting a resolution saying that deliberations concerning matters requiring Council approval shall only occur at meetings called in accordance with the Charter?

Dear Jim,

Lot divisions are, I believe, subject to approval beyond administrative approval, and so this project should at some point appear in the planning pipeline and proper notice will be required. This parcel is currently zoned R1C Single-family. I have copied my response to who I think is the right staff person to answer this question for us, when I get more information I will let you know,

Hi Jeff,

I'm one of your constituents on Upland Drive and recently heard that one of our neighbors is subdividing his one acre lot into four separate parcels. The property in question is 1918 Upland Drive. I understand that this is legal but no notice has been given to any neighbors. It is my understanding that notice must be given to surrounding property owners when a change in property boundaries are proposed. Could you please advise on the status of this property and the reason no notice has been given? Thank you!

Best regards,
Jim

Hello –

As you can imagine I have been almost overwhelmed with emails on this topic. I am not a fan of this 40/40/20 “promise” for a variety of reasons, none of which have to do with the intent of the spending. I fully support spending on climate action goals and affordable housing, and to a lesser extent pedestrian safety, but being bound to this 40/40/20 ratio for 8 years is just a bad budget practice in my opinion. Our needs change, and our investments in these areas may prove fruitful or fall short; to not be allowed to adjust and spend more or less as needed is inflexible and unnecessary. I don’t see a lack of support on Council for these causes, what I do see is a dangerous politicizing of the budget process, that is not in the best interest of the residents. I doubt this resolution will pass, but if it does, you can be sure that the same amount or greater of general fund dollars will be allocated to these legitimate needs.

As for the survey, I am interested in what it says, but only as one of many guideposts for my budget decisions. The more interesting survey was the one conducted showing a majority of voters were not aware of these commitments, especially as there was no mention of them in the ballot language. Be that as it may, we are going to have these general fund dollars, and to the best of my ability they will be directed towards actionable, measureable ways to support our climate action goals, our affordable housing and supportive service needs, and other public safety issues.

Hi Jeff,

I’m a constituent in your ward - I think we actually met briefly when you were going door to door campaigning last year. My wife and I live in the condos at the intersection of Longshore Drive and Wright St.

Anyways - just wanted to voice that I hope the millage that passed in the election in 2017 gets used the way we were told it would get used and not via the survey distributed by the city. I’m not even sure if it’s constitutional to go against what voters voted for and change how the allocations will be. My understanding is that it would 40% affordable housing, 40% climate action and mental health, and 20% pedestrian and vision zero focused.

I hope that these priorities stay the same, since that's what we voted for in support of the millage.

Thank you!

Dear Scott,

Until our federal government sets new and proper standards for automobile front-end design, we cannot expect the kinds of results the rest of the world has with reducing pedestrian/cyclist injuries and fatalities in automobile collisions. This has nothing to do with will, and everything to do with physics. You may be interested in a recent analysis of our city's pedestrian improvements I was just shown, it appears that our streets are getting relatively more dangerous with each passing year of Vision Zero improvements. Greetings Mayor Taylor and City Council,

As a resident who (mostly) gets around without a car, I have been particularly heartened by our emerging commitment as a city to Vision Zero and ending entirely preventable deaths and injuries in crashes on our streets. Other cities around the world have made incredible progress. This is entirely achievable if we muster the will to follow their lead.

We've already made some good progress but we all know there is still a lot to do. What we need to do is going to cost money. We have a source of money via the public safety millage rebate. Street safety is public safety. This shouldn't be complicated. Let's use it and save some lives and limbs. We've lost too many neighbors already.

We can't fix every problem. The federal & state governments could do a lot to help us address many of the problems we face. But where we have the ability to make significant improvements as a City we should not abdicate that responsibility. There are literally lives at stake.

Climate change is the most important issue of our time, and we owe it to future generations to do everything we can to address it.

I'm proud that Ann Arbor has been taking bold action to address the climate crisis – through its Climate Action Plan, 100% Renewable Energy Commitment, new Office of Sustainability, and the funding created through the 2017 County millage rebate.

The proposed resolution to nullify the 40/40/20 allocation of rebate money, however, goes in absolutely the wrong direction. Please do not nullify this source of funding for climate action (and affordable housing and pedestrian safety) without specifying an alternative.

This would be a terrible step backward for our community. Please vote NO on the resolution.

Good Afternoon,

Attached please find letters from residents and merchants in the Kerrytown area near our proposed project at 325 E Summit. We have reached out to our neighbors and store owners to talk about our development and to hear whether they have any questions or concerns we could address.

So far, we have had only positive reactions and good conversations. We have been asked a lot of questions and feel comfortable with the product we will be providing. This will be an excellent addition to the neighborhood and I am excited to be part of this project!

I have owned a building company in Ann Arbor since 1998 and worked for years before that in the industry. I started my career working at the small real estate business my mom owned on this site. I am proud to be part of a team who will build the landmark building named after her, The Garnet.

Two weeks from today, the Chamber is putting on its first ever Workforce Pipeline Summit on Monday, March 18th, at Washtenaw Community College. This event will be unlike anything else we've ever done, and we want you there as our guest.

The mission of the Workforce Pipeline Summit is: to strengthen our local workforce and community through alleviating the short- and long-term pipeline shortage. We are committed to identifying, investing in, training, and shining a light on the available and willing hidden talent pool in our community. By promoting locally owned businesses and employing people from wide swaths of the community, we can realize sustained community growth for the benefit of all.

This will be a great event, but it will be better with you there. We need policy makers to be a part of this important discussion, and more importantly, a part of the work that comes from it. More details on the program can be found here.

Please join us at the Workforce Pipeline Summit on Monday, March 18, 2019 at the Morris Lawrence Building at Washtenaw Community College. To RSVP please just reply to this email.

I recommend more education for the Councilmembers before their next vote on this, by going to their coffee hours and/or asking for an in-person meeting. They may just need to be further convinced how the $1M sidewalks are a waste of taxpayer money that should be used on more urgent priorities.

Also, you're invited to speak at the new Caucus meetings, with the next one being Sunday, March 17 at 7 pm at City Hall, second floor. Last Sunday we had 30-40 residents there and lots of great 3 min speeches.

The SRTS language that federal funding must pay 100% of SRTS projects may not be such a slam dunk in our favor as I originally thought. FHwy seems to be parsing words in the guidance, that only the original SRTS appropriations (1404 funds) are limited, not new federal funds. Apparently, the original federal funding for SRTS has expired and most likely new funding is being used. The original intent of that language may be to prevent disadvantaged communities from not being awarded funds because they don't have access to matching funding, not to protect homeowners by excessive assessments.

I called and left a message with Kurt Zackary of FHwy-Michigan to get clarification, and to inform him about the issues we face as homeowners.

This is certainly a major document in our studies of the implications and impacts of SRTS! (Thanks, Les!) I have only scanned it, mainly to see if the sentence stating that "No local match permitted....the Federal share....shall be 100%" (in section titled "Program Funding Framework") means what it appears to mean. Later on, under "Utilizing Related Funding Sources," there's a discussion of "federal, state, and local funding sources available to complement the Federal Safe Routes to School Resources." [my emphasis] This second statement appears to assume that complementary funding from local and state sources is OK--and this is obviously the assumption of the City and the State. I hate to question the idea that the Fed is supposed to fund the whole project but does the first statement mean something different?

There are other sections that are really relevant and appear to have been overlooked by the City. See, e.g., the section titled "Eligible Infrastructure Projects." These include "traffic calming and speed reduction improvements" [!], and "traffic diversion improvements in the vicinity of schools." [!]

It appears that the City did not read beyond the parts discussing funding of sidewalks....

One other remarkable section: "Evaluation of Safety Benefits." We might want to help the City do this...

Cheers,
Susan

Of course, the project as currently devised will require that affected homeowners will pay the highest special assessments of any sidewalk project in recent years in Ann Arbor.

The guidance also states that there should be some level of community input, but does not state that it is required.

The guidance also says that the number of kids helped by the project should be considered.

The rest of the guidance is also interesting.
